Lutheran GIRL OF THE MONTH

PAULINE STOLZ, our Lutheran Girl for the Month of May, was voted the most popular, as well as the prettiest girl of her school before she graduated last January from the Milwaukee, Wis., West Division High School.

Now a student at the University of Wisconsin, she is majoring in speech and preparing for work in radio-television.

According to "The Comet," her high school paper, Pauline's activities in school were "unlimited." She was feature editor of the paper, vice president of the FTA, a member of both band and orchestra, and a student announcer over the P.A. system, and the senior prom queen.

In a contest sponsored by the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra, Pauline was named Teen Queen of 1961. She was secretary of the Milwaukee Symphony Teenage Board of Directors, and also a member of "The Other 98," a youth group that presents programs on WISN-TV demonstrating the serious interests of teen-agers.

A member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, of which her father, the Rev. E. Helmuth Stolz, is pastor, Pauline has served as Luther League president and member of the choir.

TAKE A QUIZ ON YOUR CHURCH MANNERS

IN OUR WEEKLY ATTENDANCE in the house of the Lord it often is discovered that our church manners become forgotten.

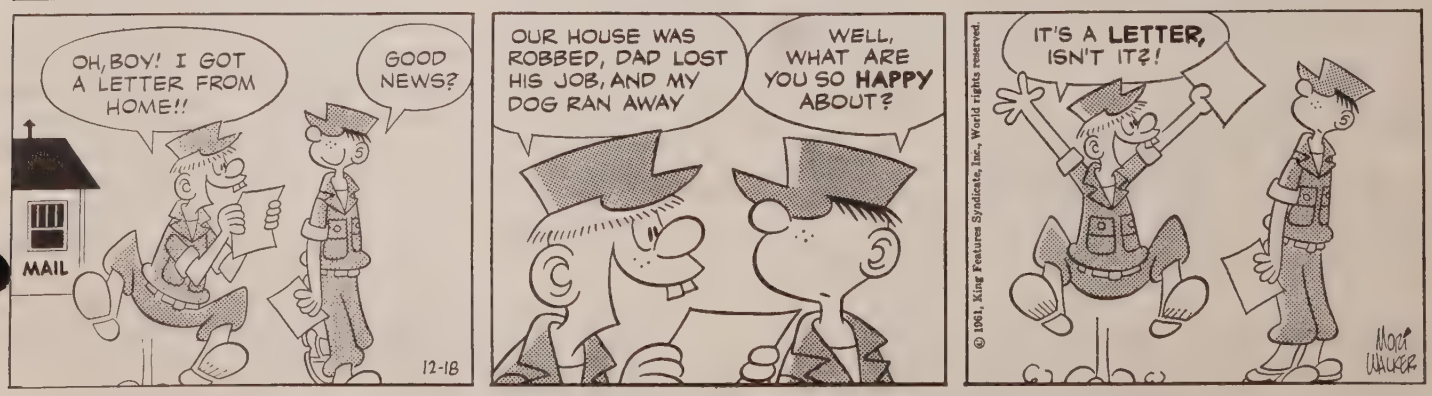
To help us evaluate these courtesies, take the following quiz and see what the outcome will be:

1. As you enter the church, do you forget your worldly cares and give a little prayer of thanksgiving?

2. What do you do with your time between your arrival at church and the beginning of the service? Is this interim period spent reviewing your actions of the week past? Do you perhaps take the time to read a prayer found at the beginning of your hymnal, or a Psalm which may help you with your personal problems? OR—Do you take this time to see who is in church, to chat with your neighbor in the pew?

3. Any type of food, candy or gum is out of order in the house of the Lord. Surely, for one hour of the week we can let our lips relax, except for the songs we sing and the prayers we say.

4. Do you join in the hymns as they are being sung? No one has an outstanding voice, perhaps, but every song is a praise—a prayer to the Lord—and every lip should join in this tribute to Him. The Lord does not distinguish between good voices and bad voices.



5. In partaking of the Lord's Supper, do you prepare yourself externally, as well as internally? The ladies should use a light make-up and the lipstick should be removed, so as not to mar the chalice. Gentlemen ought to choose clothing appropriate to a worship service, comfortable, but neat.

6. At the conclusion of the service, do you go out of your way to be cordial to new persons? Remember what a warm feeling you had when someone greeted you the first few times you came to our church. Here is an excellent opportunity for all of us to do some personal act of Christian fellowship and stewardship.

The quiz has been taken. The answers are your own secret. There is no prize to be given —except perhaps one—our own inner satisfaction in knowing that we have contributed to a worshipful attitude at our church services.

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

Second Glance

Protestant leaders in West Germany denounced a Communist announcement in East Germany that the famous Wartburg Castle will be the site of atheistic youth dedication ceremonies. The Wartburg Castle is noted as the retreat in which Martin Luther found refuge during the Reformation and where he translated the New Testament into colloquial German. According to the Communists, the youth rites, a counter-part of Christian Confirmation, will serve to accept "solemnly" the young people "into the community of men working for socialism's victory."

A prominent Lutheran layman was honored in Tiffin, Ohio, by his church and the entire community as he observed his 100th birthday. Charles A. Krout, retired superintendent of city schools, was honored by First English Lutheran church for an extraordinary career of service, which included 40 years as Sunday School superintendent and 55 years as a member of the church council. His son, Dr. John Krout, is vice president of Columbia University.

In the new African nation Cameroun, Protestants have inaugurated the first united theological seminary in the world to be founded with the support and participation of American and Norwegian Lutherans and the Lutheran World Federation. In the undertaking, Lutherans are joining their resources with those of Methodists, Reformed, Evangelicals and Presbyterians of America, Europe and Africa. The Lutheran Church of Cameroun, which was constituted as an autonomous body in late 1960, is a charter member of the new institution.

Lutheran Church Men of America, an organization of lay representatives of several major Lutheran bodies, officially changed its name to "Council of Lutheran Church Men." Main activities of the group will continue to be sponsorship of the National Lutheran Committee on Scouting and preparation of uniform discussion topics for local brotherhood meetings. Robert A. Alexander of Sioux City, Iowa, president of the Brotherhood of the American Lutheran Church, was named president of the Council.

Finland has issued a new postage stamp, featuring the Cathedral of Helsinki. The Cathedral, better known to Finns as "the Great Church," will be the site in 1963 of the Lutheran World Federation's Assembly in Helsinki. The 30-mark gray commemorative stamp marks the 150th anniversary of the establishment of the Board of Architecture, the Finnish state agency which sees that plans for new buildings or renovations contribute to the city's beauty.

LEAPIN' DEACON, Chaplain (Capt.) Richard L. Combs won his nickname while serving with the 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, N.C. A Master Parachutist with 81 jumps to his credit, the chaplain recently was assigned to a more earth-bound group—the Army's 4th Cavalry Division in Seoul, Korea. Chaplain Combs, a graduate of Lutheran Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minn., would like to be reassigned to an airborne unit after his tour of duty in Korea. His home is in San Marino, Cal.

Miss Illinois of 1959 Says:

'I Would Rather Serve God Than Anything the World Offers'

By CHARLOTTE ODMAN, Assistant Editor, The Lutheran Companion

THE YEAR 1959 was a wonderful year for Suzanne Johnson. That was the year she was crowned Miss Illinois only 36 hours before graduating summa cum laude from Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill. That was the year she opened the Illinois State Fair and the Waukegan Centennial, spoke at luncheons and banquets, was among the first ten in the Miss America contest, traveled as soloist from coast to coast with Fred Waring's Orchestra and sang at a command performance at the White House when President and Mrs. Eisenhower entertained Premier Khrushchev and his family. It was a wonderful year because everything pointed to a career in show business.

Three years later she is not in show business. She is happily married to a fellow alumnus of Augie, J. Richard Peterson. She still speaks at luncheons and banquets and sings solos, but they are either at church or civic functions, and everything points to a wonderful career in homemaking, and a singer of sacred songs.

"I sang with Fred Waring for four months," said Suzanne, "starting in New York and ending in California, presenting concerts in 26 states. I could have continued with him, but it's a hard life and somewhat superficial, and I didn't want any more of it.

"Singing in a night club in the Catskill Mountains finished off any ideas I might have had for show business. And I believe God led me there to show me the faults of that kind of work and the questionable associations," said Suzanne.

SUZANNE, now married, is still singing, but only sacred music.

"I had won the Harvest-Moon contest sponsored by a Chicago newspaper in which 800 singers had participated. The prize was a two-week engagement singing in a New York resort hotel. I really had no idea what it entailed until I got there, and I was obligated to fulfill the engagement. But I object to that kind of musical entertainment." And her objections have caused her to turn down many lucrative offers.

Suzanne Johnson, as she is known professionally, wanted to continue her singing, but in her own way. And the opportunities have opened up far more than she ever anticipated. She has been sacred vocal artist on the "Music for America" programs at the Wisconsin, Colorado and Kansas state fairs and devotes much of her time and talent to the nationwide "Youth for Christ" and YMCA activities. Members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Chicago, she and Dick travel almost every week end to take part in some "Youth for Christ" rally or convention where she is in demand for her gospel singing. Last June she sang at the "Splendor of Sacred Song" presented at the McCormack Place in Chicago to an audience of 5,000 and recently for the annual meeting of the Chicago YMCA. For the second time she has been asked to sing next summer at the Mt. Hermon Bible Conference in California and at one of the Sunday evening services in the huge Neighborhood Church of Oakland. This service is attended by more than 2,000.

Last year Suzanne gave 29 sacred concerts during the Christmas, Lenten, as well as the other seasons of the church year in Chicago area and Rockford churches. Besides presenting hymns, Bach chorales and selections from great oratorios, she gives the background of the music and the composers.

And she is especially pleased at the reception the churches have given her. "I want you to know," writes the Rev J. Gordon Swanson, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church of Aurora, Ill., "how much I appreciate your great contribution to our Lenten devotions at Grace Church. So many people have commented on your singing and personality. I think everyone was deeply moved by your sincere communication of the real message of the Passion and Easter."

Last November Suzanne had her first opportunity to sing in an orchestra setting at the Pops concert of the Nordic Philharmonic Society of Chicago. And she is looking forward to Oratorio work for which several conductors have already given her auditions.

1959 WAS A GREAT YEAR for Suzanne Johnson. She was crowned Miss Illinois.

There is a possibility she will cut an album of sacred records.

"Sacred concert work is a perfect career for family life," says Suzanne. "It usually takes only a few evenings or afternoons a week, and the rest of the time I can be home. My husband is a gem. He accompanies me on my weekend engagements and is my best critic. He's not a bit musical, but he does appreciate it, and I feel if he likes my singing, others will too." He also encourages her to continue her studying at the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago.

Suzanne and Richard lived only four blocks apart in Chicago, but they didn't meet until they were students at Augie. They were married in June of 1961, having had to postpone their wedding for a year due to her being selected "Miss Illinois."

Do-it-yourselvers, they have painted, papered and varnished, built closets and furnished their new home most attractively.

"The talents and opportunity I have received are a responsibility," states Suzanne, "and I want to do anything that will lead someone on the right way. I would rather be serving God than anything else the world offers. There is no greater satisfaction than to have people tell me after hearing me sing, 'What a blessing you have given me,' or 'That meant more to me than I can say.' "

Sharing Your Experience:

FORMOSAN GIRL SAID: "WASH!"

By L/Cpl. W. T. Erdman

WE MARINES WENT TO FORMOSA on a field exercise that lasted three months, making our camp fifty miles away from the nearest town. Our arrival brought curious spectators who watched us morning and night.

Although the Chinese marines stationed with us acted as interpreters, the Formosan civilians still seemed strange. Like most of my American buddies, I was fascinated by their living and working conditions.

They lived in simple clay-like houses where the cooking was done in the center of a single room. Some of the youngest children were not even clothed, while the older ones were usually dressed in white. Girls between 14 and 17, who worked in the rice fields, always wore veils over their faces.

Traveling was done mostly on foot, though there were a few bicycles, oxcarts, and strangely enough, a few motorcycles.

We found that our "C" rations were very popular. They didn't particularly like the crackers, especially when they could get beans, ham, or any other solid foods, but our little military can openers fascinated them.

The language barrier made things difficult. One day, in particular, I will always remember. I was in the Motor Transport Division and was sitting by my vehicle when a Formosan girl, about 16, came up to me and said, "Wash!"

When she saw that I was puzzled, she said the word again, rubbed her hands together, and pointed to my clothes. She then went to my truck, pointing first to me and then the "C" rations.

I gathered up my laundry and gave it to her, along with some soap, which was a real luxury to her. After she had gone, I started wondering whether or not she would return. I must admit I had my doubts.

Five hours later, she was back with my laundry as spotlessly clean as if it had been machine washed. Needless to say, I gave her the "C" rations and thanked her.

Through this incident, I learned that these poor people possess a spirit that is quite remarkable, for they know how to make use of the bare necessities of life.

Corporal Erdman will be the recipient of the May $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

Divided German Church Claims Unity in Faith

ALLEGIANCE TO CHURCH UNITY and freedom despite Communist oppression was stressed at the synod of the Church of Berlin-Brandenburg which took place in East Berlin.

Though the Red blockade of Berlin has cut this Church in two halves, the synod emphasized that the division "can only be outward because we are united in faith." It also declared that the Church must guard itself "against being included into political fronts."

THIS GIRL ON FORMOSA, a refugee from Red China, was one of some 350,000 people on the island who last year received food from Lutheran World Relief, joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Missouri Synod. LWR also supplied some 60,000 needy people on Formosa with clothing.

Formosa (officially Taiwan) has been the last stronghold of the Nationalist Government of China for the past 15 years. Since 1949, nearly two million people have come there from the Communist-ruled mainland. Land reform and other programs undertaken in recent years have improved the economy, but still at least 1,723,000 people are so poor they need supplementary food from American voluntary agencies. Supplies sent by Lutheran World Relief and Church World Service are distributed through the Taiwan Christian Service.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

SHARON SOMPPI, our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for April, hails from San Francisco, Calif.

She lives with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. James Somppi, at Naha Air Force Base where she is an assistant Sunday school teacher participating in the base's chapel program.

A Girl Scout for the past ten years, Sharon has often assisted with younger scout groups. She is now a Senior at Kubasaki High School, a member of the National Honor Society there and news editor of the school paper.

Because of frequent moving, Sharon and her parents retain membership at Good Shepherd Church, Conneaut, Ohio, where she was confirmed. The Rev. Richard G. Eisemann, Air Force Chaplain who nominated her for this honor, considers her family "among the most faithful participants at our local denominational service," and describes Sharon as a "most worthy young woman."

Chapel Chuckles

REQUIRED CHAPEL ATTENDANCE IS ATTACKED AND DEFENDED

CADETS at the U.S. Air Force Academy have protested the school's mandatory chapel attendance requirement.

Controversy arose following publication of a National Lutheran Council report that mandatory chapel attendance at U.S. service academies had intensified church-state tensions.

A news story published in the Denver Post quoted an academy spokesman as saying that there had been no complaints about chapel requirements.

Cadets, writing to the paper, said "cadets have emphatically complained about forced chapel," and claimed the Cadet Religious Council would be able to furnish a viewpoint "closer to the truth."

Academy officials immediately clamped down on further discussion of the issue.

Maj. Gen. Robert Taylor, Air Force chief of chaplains, has said practices at the Air Force Academy are "more liberal" than at West Point or Annapolis. He said fourth classmen (freshmen) may for the first time attend the Church of their choice in town (nearby Colorado Springs). Seniors do not have to attend services anywhere.

Cadet letter-writers held that cadets, before attending services in town, must first attend a mandatory service at the academy. Schedules, they said, often conflict, therefore depriving them of the chance to attend services of their own denomination.

Cadets Speak Out

One cadet wrote that the chapel program, "as it now exists at the Air Force Academy, is so perfunctory that I find atheism more attractive than trying to put God in my life in such a vain, hollow way."

"If the consequences of this great injustice to the religious freedom of cadets were simply to tear cadets away from their previous denominations, yet keep them close to the Lord, the problem would not be real severe," said another. "But mandatory chapel has had a predominant influence in alienating cadets from religion altogether."

Gen. Taylor pointed out that the academy is not a voluntary community. "It is a military installation training young men to become officers and gentlemen. Formations to religious services are a part of their professional training."

He noted that the cadets come right from high school and are still minors. They and their parents know what the academy program is before they come, he said. "All we are trying to do is fill the vacuum created when they are lifted out of their normal environment and taken away from their own local Churches."

Academy officials work with clergymen in the Colorado Springs area on transportation of cadets to town for Sunday morning worship. Denominational leaders also may take part in chapel services at the academy.

Lutheran Views Vary

Discussion of service academy worship requirements was originally sparked by a reference in the annual report of the National Lutheran Council's Division of Service to Military Personnel. At the NLC annual meeting, held in Charlotte, N.C., Feb. 4-6, debate on the issue was spirited. One speaker, Rear Admiral J. Floyd Dreith, chief of Navy chaplains, strongly defended required chapel attendance in the military.

The council tabled a resolution which would have authorized efforts to bring about changes in the policy of "required attendance at religious services" at the academies. Instead the NLC took action to instruct its staff to continue study of the chapel attendance policies in force at West Point, Annapolis and Colorado Springs.

Lutheran objections to academy policies are centered around the right of Lutherans to attend services which express their own faith, and the belief that attendance at worship for adults should be a personal decision in any case.

Religious sidelights on recent news events and other items of interest

STRIKING CARTOON symbolizing the plight of the 70 million Americans who smoke cigarettes was the work of Harold Maples, whose daily cartoon appears in the Fort Worth (Tex.) Star-Telegram. The cry for "Help!" in breaking the cigarette habit, in response to government reports linking it to lung cancer and other ills, received quick answer in New York City. There a 5-day clinic conducted under Seventh-Day Adventist auspices produced these results: 300 persons felt they had conquered the smoking urge, and upward of 900 reported they had reduced their cigarette consumption as much as 75 percent. Discussion of the moral implications of smoking was heard in most religious bodies—some condemning it as a sin, and others insisting it is a matter of personal decision.

LENTEN SERMONS on the subject, "The Highway of Holiness," were vividly illustrated with familiar traffic signs at St. Mark's Church, Davenport, Iowa. Pastor of the Congregation is the Rev. Herbert C. Peterson. (RNS Photo)

HONOR FLIGHT and Commandant's Award are presented to Chief Master Sergeant Seymour D. Hix of Hamilton AFB, Calif., by Brig. Gen. Grover C. Brown, commander, Seattle Air Defense Sector, as Lt. Col. Robert L. Steward looks on. The ceremony took place at graduation exercises marking the 18th class to complete the Air Defense Command's NCO Academy. CMSgt Hix and his family are Lutherans, active in the religious program of the base.

AN OUTSTANDING MOTION PICTURE with a religious theme is "Lilies of the Field," which has won acclaim in the U.S. and abroad. It tells the story of a Negro Baptist ex-GI who helps a group of German Roman Catholic nuns build a chapel in the Arizona desert. The comedy-drama stars Sidney Poitier as the former sergeant and Lilia Skala as the mother superior. At right, they compare Bible references in a scene from the picture. (RNS Photo)

Second Glance

¶ Lutheran Churches and missions in Tanganyika did not suffer any harm during the recent military disturbance in that country, according to word received at Lutheran World Federation headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

Bishop Stefano R. Moshi, head of the 400,000-member Evangelical Lutheran Church in Tanganyika reported that the Church and its workers had not been adversely affected by the protest threat of the armed forces. Sixteen Lutheran missionary agencies from eight countries are working with the Tanganyika Church.

¶ Competing athletes and spectators at the Ninth Winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, did not have to look very far to find a Church. Standing midway between the Olympic village and the stadium is the newly-completed Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Resurrection, seating 400. During the games it was staffed by an Austrian, Swedish, English, Hungarian and three German pastors. They provided worship, counseling and other ministerial services for Olympic participants and visitors.

¶ Martin Luther's will, one of the most precious historical documents owned by the Hungarian Lutheran Church, will be kept in the state archives in Budapest from now on. Executed in 1542, four years before the Reformer's death, the testament is written in a neat legible hand. It has been kept in the archives of the Church since 1815, when it was received from a Roman Catholic collector "as a token of interconfessional good will."

¶ More than 100 mission workers were endangered by a wave of anti-government terrorism which swept through Kwilu province in the Congo in January. At least three Belgian Roman Catholic priests and one U.S. Baptist woman missionary were killed during the disorders. Many mission workers found it necessary to hide out in the jungle from arrow and knife-wielding guerillas, and many had to be evacuated from their mission stations by UN helicopters.

¶ The drafting of Roman Catholic seminarians by the Communist regime in Poland has backfired, a top Polish army indoctrination official has admitted. General Bednarz, deputy chief for political education in the Polish army reported at a conference at Communist Party headquarters in Warsaw that a recent survey showed only three of several hundred seminarians had rejected the religious life on completion of services in the armed forces. What's more, his report indicated, the seminarians exerted a "demoralizing" influence in the units they served as soldiers. Reportedly, an "alarming" increase in religious sentiments and attendance at worship has been noted in the army, inspired by the presence of the seminarians.

Springtime: New Life—and a Question

WITH the coming of spring, it is appropriate for us to express new appreciation for the beauty and intricacy of nature. The annual reawakening of life in plant and animal, nurtured by balmy breezes and refreshing rains, strikes a responsive chord in all but the most unperceptive and cynical of human beings.

HARBINGERS OF SPRING

Biblical writers too exulted in the springtime. "The flowers appear on the earth, the time of singing has come, and the voice of the turtledove is heard in our land" (Song of Solomon 2:12). "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they neither toil nor spin; yet I tell you even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these," Jesus remarked in the Sermon on the Mount (Matt. 6:28,29).

The bounty and beauty of nature have always been understood by Christians as a sign of the providence of God—his care for all his creatures, and especially for men, whom He made little lower than the angels. "If God so clothes the grass of the field. . . . will he not much more clothe you, O men of little faith?" Jesus asked (Matt. 6:30).

The keen student of this real world in which we live will note, however, that nature does not present an unchanging picture of "sweetness and light." Isaiah made it clear long ago: "All flesh is grass, and all its beauty is like the flower of the field. The grass withers, the flower fades, when the breath of the Lord blows upon it; surely the people is grass" (Is. 40:6,7). The world of plant and animal life, as well as the geological and celestial forces that surround us, has much in it that is tragic. Unrelenting warfare between species and individuals, destruction and decay of even the most beautiful and beneficial forms of nature, not to speak of the power of sin and death in human experience, underscore this fact.

That is why a "natural religion"—based on what we can observe in the world around us—is not adequate. The goodness of God which we may infer from the richness of springtime is matched by the stern realities of dissolution mirrored in the brown earth and leaden skies of November. Nature leaves us finally with questions: What is God really like? What is His will for us?

Such questions can be answered only through revelation—God's special way of making Himself known through the Bible, and supremely in the life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Here God makes clear his judgment on the sinful world, but also the fact that his final word is not destruction, decay and death —rather it is restoration, growth, life.

Christ's victory over death which we celebrate every Sunday, but especially in the weeks of Easter, is God's triumph over the tragedy which otherwise appears to dominate in the world of man and nature alike. Christ was "raised for our justification" (Rom. 4:25). In Christ, "all the fulness of God was pleased to dwell, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven, making peace by the blood of his cross" (Col. 1:19, 20).

With such knowledge in our hearts, we have every right to respond with joy to the beauty of a new spring—because it too is part of the world for which our Lord died and rose.

¶ "Lutheran Council in the United States of America" is the name chosen for a new agency to coordinate the work of four U.S. Lutheran bodies, including over 95% of the Lutherans in America. The new council will function in the areas of theological studies, education, missions, welfare, public relations, service to military personnel, as well as special activities. If its constitution is approved by the participating church bodies, it will succeed the present National Lutheran Council on Jan. 1, 1967.

"SWINGING" PASTORS SEEK TO REACH YOUNG PEOPLE

WHILE clergymen have never confined their ministries exclusively to sanctuary and pulpit, recent years have seen an increasing number of young pastors putting a new emphasis on contacts and activities far beyond the traditional religious scene.

Such a man is the Rev. William Patton, former assistant pastor at Trinity Church (Lutheran), St. Petersburg, Fla., where he combined his parish-pulpit duties with an active ministry in the gymnasium. An award winning gymnast himself (many first-place honors in Florida meets, high placement at the National Gymnastic Clinic), Pastor Patton coached young acrobats of the local Police Athletic League. This, he says, is "one of the most important things I do—counseling with the younger people."

He maintains that the athletic avocation opens the door to contacts and conversations with young people which would be impossible in clerical collar alone. Now a chaplain at Duke University, Durham, N.C., the pastor continues his swinging trapeze ministry.

Another kind of "swinging pastor" is the Rev. Ian Douglas Mitchell, vicar of St. Ann's Protestant Episcopal Church in Chicago. Equipped with guitar, he presents public programs of religious music in folk song style. An "American Folk Song Mass" which he composed has received an enthusiastic response from youth groups and adults.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He comands, obey. When He guides, follow.

Christ Is Risen!

WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES IT MAKE?

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

"WHAT DIFFERENCE does it make if Christ rose from the dead?"

The Apostle Paul has the answer. "If Christ has not been raised your faith is futile and you are still in your sins" (I Cor. 15:7). He goes on to say, "If in this life we who are in Christ have only hope, we are of all men most to be pitied." Ever since the days of Christ there have been the skeptics who have tried to explain away or deny the fact of the resurrection of our Lord.

After Jesus had risen from the dead some of the guards told the chief priests all that had taken place and when they had assembled together they took counsel and gave a sum of money to the soldiers and said, "Tell people, 'His disciples came by night and stole Him away while we were asleep.' And if this comes to the governor's ears, we will satisfy him and keep you out of trouble." These men took the money and did as they had been asked and the story was spread abroad. (Matt. 28:11-15).

But lies could not explain away the resurrection of Christ. He not only rose again from the dead. He also revealed Himself to the disciples time and time again before he ascended into heaven. Let no one be mistaken, Christ has risen and his resurrection has special significance for all of us.

In the first place it means that an unbeliever cannot find comfort in death. There are those who think that when they die they'll get away from it all, won't have to worry about their sins and shortcomings or their past. The resurrection of Christ signifies there's a day of reckoning ahead. God is not One to be treated lightly. Those about you in the barracks or in the wardroom may be doing things which seem very smart. They are "getting by," at least so they think. And it's true that for the time being, they are "getting by." But there's a day of reckoning ahead.

In the second place, the resurrection of Christ signifies that for the believer there is hope for the future. Paul was in great distress. Time and time again he and his fellow workers were in prison, and many of them experienced bitter persecution. As far as Paul was concerned, if there were no resurrection then he and his fellow Christians were just plain "fools." They were "of all men" most to be pitied.

But, in fact, Christ has been raised from the dead. Therefore, we too shall rise and live forever. "For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive" (I Cor. 15:22).

In the third place, the resurrection of Christ makes the difference in the believer's life because he can now experience a power which he never had before. Available to him is a power to deny sin and to live a forceful and meaningful life. There are those who say, " 'Let us eat and drink for tomorrow we die.' Do not be deceived: 'Bad company ruins good morals.' Come to your right mind, and sin no more. For some have no knowledge of God. I say this to your shame" (I Cor. 15:32-34).

You know as well as I that this philosophy is prevalent about us in the world today, both within and outside of the services. Paul fortunately had to say that these people had no knowledge of God which was to the shame of the Corinthian Christians. Apparently, they had not witnessed as they should.

How does one witness to the resurrection of Christ? By attitude. By word. By deed. Don't be a "holier than thou." Yet don't participate in their sin. Don't be a goody-goody. Be a man's man who has the power to say "no" to sin and "yes" to good works. Don't be silent because of the fear of men. But witness in a positive, constructive way as to what Christ means to you in your daily life. It does make a difference if Christ rose from the dead and you and I have the honor to spread the Word —the Good News.

FLORAL SYMBOLS of Our Lord's passion and resurrection are the dogwood (left) and lily (right). The flowering dogwood sometimes has markings and colorations reminiscent of a bloodstained cross and the five wounds of Christ. The Easter lily has for centuries been associated with the hope and newness of life embodied in the resurrection of Christ. (RNS Photos)

Religious sidelights on recent news events and other items of interest

CHRISTIAN HISTORY was made in the Holy Land as Ecumenical Patriarch Athenagoras of the Eastern Orthodox Church, and Pope Paul VI of the Roman Catholic Church, met in Jerusalem in January. It was the first meeting between a Pope and a supreme leader of Orthodoxy in 525 years, and a high point of Paul's three-day Palestine pilgrimage. The prelates held personal talks and prayed together for Christian unity. (RNS Photo)

THE "QUEEN'S TROPHY" for the best use of flowers in the 1964 Tournament of Roses parade at Pasadena, Calif., was awarded to the float of the Lutheran Hour, worldwide radio program sponsored by the Lutheran Laymen's League. The float depicts an open Bible with the words of St. John 8:32, "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." The Rose Bowl parade's theme this year was "Symbols of Freedom." Second Glance

¶ Among the staff President Johnson brought with him to the White House is a young clergyman named William (Bill) Moyers. Holding a Bachelor of Divinity degree from Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, Moyers was ordained a Baptist minister shortly after his graduation.

Originally he had planned to enter the religious education field as a teacher, but discovered that "God's will" for his life was in the field of journalism, public relations and politics. "Every man has to find the will of God for his life, and I believe I have found it," said the Oklahoma-born presidential aide.

Moyers entered politics as a special assistant to Johnson when the latter was Senate Democratic leader. Later he took an executive post with the Peace Corps. Of his present status, he says, "I don't have an official title. I'm just helping out a friend. I want to help him—and will help him as long as he needs me."

¶ Evangelist Billy Graham predicted ultimate peace for the world and foresaw immediate peace for individuals at the annual Christmas service in the Pentagon Building concourse. Addressing an audience of 2000, Dr. Graham predicted that God's Kingdom will "ultimately prevail." "There is a day coming," he went on, "when governments of this world will bow at the feet of Jesus Christ, the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords."

Dr. Graham spoke of a meeting with Germany's former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. The statesman told him: "The most important thing in the world is the resurrection of Jesus Christ." Mr. Adenauer added that he plans to spend his days of retirement gathering the evidence that Christ is alive, remarking, "If Christ is alive, then history has hope."

THE CHURCH BACK HOME

"WE KNOW THAT UNDER MOST CIRCUMSTANCES YOU WOULDN'T ALLOW A POSTER ON THE PULPIT. HOWEVER, FOR OUR CAR WASH..."

¶ Evidence that Abraham Lincoln had planned to become a church member on Easter Sunday, 1865, two days after he was assassinated, has been cited in an article by Ronald D. Rietveld, clergyman and historian, in Decision magazine. The article traces the gradual ripening of Lincoln's religious faith through the years of personal and national tragedy.

Lincoln frequently attended services in the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church in Washington. Its pastor, Dr. Phineas D. Gurley, conducted the funeral of the president and later wrote that Mr. Lincoln told him after Gettysburg that "he had lost confidence in everything but God, and that he now believed that his heart was changed and that he loved the Savior." An affidavit by a congregation member of that period, Sidney I. Lauck, testifies to the president's intentions to unite with the membership upon confession of faith.

¶ The Lutheran World Federation will open its new Foundation for Inter-Confessional Research in Strasbourg, Alsace, France, it has been announced. It will engage in study of the beliefs of other Christian groups. The Rt. Rev. Herman Dietzfelbinger, bishop of the Lutheran Church of Bavaria and chairman of the Foundation's Board of Trustees, described its work as a "service for the whole ecumenical movement." He pointed out that Lutherans believe not only that dialogue is necessary among the Christian Churches, but also that "a clear theological orientation" is essential to such dialogue. It was noted that Strasbourg, one of the few Lutheran centers in France, is also the home of strong Roman Catholic and Reformed Churches and theological faculties.

¶ The first Lutheran college choir to sing in the new Philharmonic Hall in New York City is that of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. On a 1964 concert tour during February, the 69-member choir performed in some of the top-ranked concert halls in the East. A pioneering group in the field of a capella singing for more than 50 years, the St. Olaf Choir is directed by Dr. Olaf Christiansen, whose father, Dr. Melius Christiansen, was its founder.

¶ Lutheran seminaries, colleges and high schools in the U.S. and Canada have a total enrollment of 82,973 students, it was reported to the National Lutheran Educational Conference. This represents an increase of 4,843 students over last year. The students attend 19 seminaries, 37 colleges, 18 junior colleges and 43 high schools, affiliated with the various Lutheran bodies.

¶ Three of the 10 largest Protestant church bodies in America are Lutheran. On the basis of membership in the United States, according to the 1964 edition of the Yearbook of American Churches, the Lutheran Church in America ranks sixth in size, with 3,080,272 members; the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod is eighth with 2,522,095, and the American Lutheran Church ninth with 2,338,959.

Largest single Protestant denomination is the Southern Baptist Convention, followed closely by the Methodist Church. Other large groups include the National Baptist Convention, the Protestant Episcopal Church and the United Presbyterian Church.

The yearbook records that 117,946,002 Americans are members of Churches, Synagogues, or other places of worship, including 64,929,941 Protestants; 43,847,938 Roman Catholics; 5,509,000 Jews; 3,001,751 Eastern Orthodox; 597,372 Old Catholics, and 60,000 Buddhists.

VIRGINIA KELLER of Des Moines, Iowa, earns special mention as our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for March, due to her unique accomplishment.

"Ginny," enlisting the aid of two teenage girl friends, decided to convert the basement of her home into—no, not the usual recreation room—but a teen-age chapel, complete with altar, lectern, communion rail and kneeling bench. She wanted "to bring high school girls closer to Christ," by using the chapel for private worship, meditation and discussion of their Christian faith.

She and her friends tackled the project with enthusiasm and ingenuity, using a piano crate, a ping pong table, lumber scraps and lots of paint to complete the task. During the project the participants had increased to five. Then a sixth member (a non-Christian) joined the group and, through prayer and discussion, decided to be baptized and confirmed at St. John's Church.

News of the teen-age chapel received a picture-article write-up in the Des Moines Tribune. Mr. Robert L. Yeiser, director of youth at St. John's, who nominated "Ginny" for this honor, says, "We are proud of 'Ginny' and these young people. They have formed the nucleus of a strong Luther League group and are seriously concerned about the Good News reaching all people."

Of "Ginny" herself, he says, "She is a sincere Christian girl with a charming smile and a warm personality, a teen-ager of whom it can readily be said, 'It is a pleasure to know her.'"

Newscaster Calls Kennedy Death Top Religious Story

A LUTHERAN RADIO newscaster selected the impact of President John F. Kennedy's death as the most significant religious news story of 1963.

"There is no doubt that the deepest religious impact was made in the death of President Kennedy," Richard T. Sutcliffe reported on his news program, "Church World News," broadcast weekly over nearly 250 radio stations in the United States, Canada and the Caribbean.

"In the terrifying silence that followed those three shots in Dallas," he continued, "most Americans suddenly and painfully became aware of a number of things—the degree and depth of hate, bitterness and discord in what —on the surface, at least—appeared to be a 'peaceful' nation."

Sutcliffe, associate director of the Lutheran Church in America's Commission on Press, Radio and Television, praised the television industry for its four-day coverage of the events following the assassination.

"Almost every single American citizen shared simultaneously the sense of personal and national loss of leadership, the awfulness of a young and virile life being snuffed out even before its prime, the stark naked look of death that refused to go away, the heroic example of religious faith and human dignity offered silently by the President's widow and the shameful and embarrassed realization that not one of us could consciously absolve himself of guilt for what had happened.

"The fact that churches were jammed—some even tighter than on Christmas and Easter, that clergymen of all faiths reported a rash of shaken appeals for personal counseling, and the subtle changes in the climate of public opinion against 'life as usual' were surface indications of the deep religious experience the United States had gone through," the newscaster said.

1. Death of President Kennedy.
2. Death of Pope John XXIII.
3. Supreme Court's "No" to public school Bible reading and prayer.
4. Freedom March on Washington.
5. Second Vatican Council.
6. Cardinal Montini becomes Paul VI.
7. Buddhist revolt in South Vietnam.
8. Papal decision to make pilgrimage to Holy Land.
9. Birmingham hate bomb kills three in Sunday school.
10. Ecumenical dialogue deepens.

Commenting on his second choice—the death of Pope John—Sutcliffe told his audience:

"The compassionate, affectionate, gentle and generous John had succeeded in lighting sparks of agape, or spiritual kinship and love, where suspicion, bitterness, resentment, and even doubt had smouldered before.

"John's warmth—there was no doubt about it—had created an ecclesiastical thaw unmatched in 500 years. Roman Catholic intellectuals suddenly found they could say provocative things and suggest new ideas and get response instead of rebuffs.

"Protestants," Sutcliffe went on, "discovered all of a sudden that the Roman Catholic priest down on the corner was quite human, and understanding . . . and even friendly."

Summing up his choice of stories, Sutcliffe told his listeners that American religious leaders hope that in 1964 "further violence can be prevented, perhaps be transformed into energy for faster and smoother progress."

GIRL OF THE MONTH

GLORIA PHILLIPS, of Minneapolis, Minn., is "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for February.

Born and raised in Chicago, where she was an active member of Community Lutheran Church, she participated in Luther League work, sang in the choir and taught Sunday School classes.

In 1961 Gloria graduated from Lutheran Bible Institute, Minneapolis, and is now receptionist for the Youth Department of the American Lutheran Church headquartered there. She also has responsibility for processing over 7,000 material orders received annually in the youth office. The Rev. David Brown, executive director of the department, nominated her for this honor.

In her spare time Gloria finds satisfaction in such past-times as sewing, baking and reading. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Calvin of Chicago.

At Gettysburg Centennial—

CHRISTIANS ARE CHALLENGED TO LEAD QUEST FOR FREEDOM

A LUTHERAN church leader has asserted that the "new birth of freedom" to which Abraham Lincoln summoned the nation in his Gettysburg Address a century ago can be experienced "only as Christ makes men free."

"This is accomplished not by blind acceptance of a doctrinal position, nor by rigid enforcement of a new set of laws, but by yielding to His Lordship so as to overcome man's greatest enemy, his own self," said the Rev. Dr. Paul C. Empie of New York, executive director of the National Lutheran Council.

And man will change, he added, "only when he finds in the Lordship of Christ the release from his spiritual bondage to pride and selfishness, and begins to live as God intended, in joyful and loving service of his fellowmen."

"Our nation's 'new birth of freedom' can only follow, not precede, this new birth in the lives of a preponderant number of its citizens," Dr. Empie said in a sermon at Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa. He spoke at a chapel service that opened a three-day observance of the centennial of Lincoln's immortal address.

Dr. Empie said that "all this has been thundered from pulpits countless times, while the world stifles its yawns and ho-hums. What else can we expect, when most Christians themselves fall short of the freedom which transforms them into servants of all!"

Christians, he stressed, "must have a burning concern for human welfare and justice which leads them to plunge into the struggle for freedom with all the strength and fervor they possess." They must be, he said, "in the front line of those Americans who dedicate themselves to the unfinished work of those who died on the Gettysburg battlefield."

Today's world, the Lutheran churchman pointed out, is still "cursed by ignorance, poverty, political intrigues, and tyranny, all of which stifle human freedom," while America itself "is plagued by pockets of economic peonage, unemployment and abridgements of civil rights."

Involved in a new birth of freedom he said, are "such expensive and complicated matters" as foreign aid and technical assistance programs, peaceful world cooperation through the United Nations, the achievement of just civil rights, non-discriminatory immigration laws, and equitable adjustments in labor and industry to offset the unemployment caused by automation. Dr. Empie called for "intelligent support of legislation which will further freedom in our land and among the nations" and emphasized that this "demands of us a great price in time and effort."

He said the facts must be discussed and communicated at the local level, public opinion developed, letters written, responsibility for follow-up accepted. "It's no good to search for a dramatic short cut which will bypass these prosaic and time-consuming processes," he added. "The new birth of freedom is based inescapably upon daily sacrificial personal involvement in the affairs of one's fellow men."

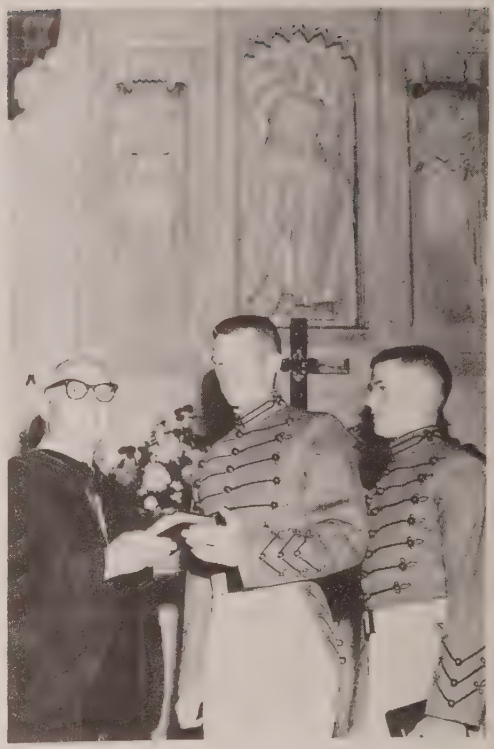
THE LAMB AWARD, highest honor bestowed by the National Lutheran Committee on Scouting, is presented to King Gustaf VI Adolph of Sweden (right, above) at a ceremony in Halsingborg. Making the presentation is the Rev. Frans A. Victorson, pastor of Saron Church, St. Joseph, Mich., and president of the Southwest Michigan Council of the Boy Scouts of America. At left is Pastor Victorson's son, Eagle Scout Frans Lowell Victorson. Similar Lutheran scouting awards were bestowed on the heads of state of Finland, Norway and Denmark.



AN EARLIER SWEDISH KING, Gustaf II Adolph, is pictured below as portrayed in a pageant presented by Chicago Lutherans in November. Entitled "The Midnight Lion," the play dramatized the role of Sweden's hero-king in the preservation of the freedom of the Gospel in Europe during the post-Reformation years of the seventeenth century.

WEST POINT CADETS Terry Ketler and William Richards accept specially bound Bibles presented to 546 Fourth Classmen by the American Tract Society. Bible presentation to incoming class of cadets, a 94-year tradition at the U.S. Military Academy, was made in Cadet Chapel on St. Michael's Day, Sept. 29. Carving above altar depicts St. Michael, the Archangel.

IN BERLIN—Janet Harris, American college student working in the divided city under the International Exchange Program of the Lutheran World Federation, meditates at an impromptu memorial to President Kennedy. Set up by grieving Berliners the day after his assassination, the little "Denkmal" is near a similar memorial to slain East Berlin escapee Peter Fechter. The late president's "Ich bin ein Berliner" speech had deeply stirred Berlin residents last June. In background of picture is the Berlin Wall.

TV FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL—Chaplain Conway Lanford, religious education supervisor at Maxwell AFB, Montgomery, Ala., is shown at left as he delivered a Sunday school message for children of base personnel. The talk was taped and piped via closed-circuit television into the Air Command and Staff College building used for church school classes. The Air University Television Department cooperated in the program, believed to be the first use of closed-circuit TV in a U.S. Sunday School. (RNS Photo)

Second Glance

¶ Christmas observances in New York Public Schools were ruled legal by the State Education Department—if held as historical, not religious, exercises. Nativity plays, Christmas trees and carols in the schools do not violate recent Supreme Court decisions if teachers draw no religious connotations from them, according to chief legal counsel for the department, Charles A. Brind. "It has always been my view," he said, "that there is no violation of either the federal or state constitutions in presenting factual material relating to the birth of Christ in public schools."

¶ There are still about 7,500 Christian clergymen active in Communist East Germany, it was reported by Dr. Gerhard Lotz, official of the Lutheran Church in Thuringia. Most of these are Lutherans, the largest Christian body in the East German sector. Christian denominations operate 500 homes for the aged, 100 rest homes and 94 hospitals in the Soviet Zone, Dr. Lotz said.

¶ The position of leadership in the fight for racial equality has passed from labor unions to the Churches, a Negro newspaper publisher told Minnesota Protestant church executives. Cecil E. Newman, publisher of the Minneapolis Spokesman said that religious motivation characterizes the Negro movement, and major faiths "have been willing to stand up and be counted." As evidence he cited the fact that "we have not had more violence."

¶ Exorcism rites were conducted by Anglican Bishop Robert Mortimer to rid a house in South Devon, England, of a "ghostly presence." The bishop was called in by the Rev. Gordon Langford, vicar of Abbotskerswell, after "lengthy investigations" had satisfied him that there was such a "presence" in a house in his parish. Major interest centered on one of three apartments in the building, occupied by a couple who had complained of furniture being moved and the radio being switched on in their absence. They had also reported seeing a "white form" passing through the apartment.

Exorcism is a traditional church rite for the driving out of demons. The vicar reported that since the bishop's visit all has been quiet in the previously "haunted" apartment.

¶ The first overseas missionary sent out by the Japan Lutheran Church has been assigned to work in Brazil among people of Japanese origin. The Rev. Hiroshi Fujii, a convert to Christianity, studied in Japan and the U.S., and was ordained in 1962. He and his family are settling in Sao Paulo early this year.

¶ The Rev. Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, president of the American Lutheran Church and of the Lutheran World Federation, has donated an athletic award to Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind. Named after the donor, the award will be presented annually to the freshman football player who "best exemplifies in gridiron conduct all that which Valparaiso University typifies." In offering the award, Dr. Schiotz stated: "I have always enjoyed the sports that claim the interest of most American boys . . . I participated in basketball and baseball in high school and played on the St. Olaf (college) varsity baseball team.

"The strong competitive spirit that must be part of all organized athletic endeavor requires discipline if the interests of the team are to be served. And I know of no form of youth activity that provides in miniature the whole gamut of test situations which post-school life imposes as do American sports. Therefore, what better form of activity in which to 'learn obedience' to the Lord to whom we were dedicated in Holy Baptism."

On the Lenten road—

POWER FOR LIVING

by the Rev. James D. Ford
Assistant Chaplain, U.S. Military Academy

EYES ON THE CROSS—U.S. servicemen on duty at the First Cavalry Division's Eighth Engineer Compound in Korea are silhouetted against a clear sky as a 16-foot cross reminds them of the message of Lent. The season of preparation for Easter begins on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 12, 1964. (RNS Photo)

THE SYMBOLS of a Balcony and a Road describe two ways of looking at our Christian faith. A balcony, as one might see in a Spanish village, overlooks the street. It is a place where people come after a busy day, sit and watch the parade of life go by.

The Road is the arena where life is lived, where there is action, pressure and power. It is the place of decision, commitment, concern.

Lent dramatizes more than any other season the necessity of every single Christian making his choice as to where he is to live the Christian life—on the Balcony or in the Road. Commitment, of course, must be affirmed each day, but the beginning of the Lenten season offers particular occasion for renewed dedication to living the Christian life in the Road.

There are too many of us who, as spectators, watch the stream of life go by; we observe from the Balcony. There are plenty of us who have been baptized and confirmed, but who keep our faith to ourselves (an impossibility for vital faith!) and continue to live what we think are "good" lives. Faith never grows strong unless it is tested daily in the battle of life! Faith does not grow on the Balcony.

I have forgotten most of the math that I ever learned because I no longer use it. My present knowledge might be termed at "check book" level. I work this math each month to balance the check book, and the reason I can make it work is because I use it. As the faith of the fathers is "used" each day through worship and witness, we began to see the implications of our faith.

The new plebes at West Point face the toughest training anvone can imagine during their first eleven months. I can read all the training memoranda, observe all the formations, but I still can't know exactly what it's like to get through that first year. What differentiates the cadets from me is first-hand experience.

What differentiates the religion of the Balcony from the faith of the Road is experience. When the Bible with its dynamic eternal truths touches the newspaper with its present day opportunities—then BANG!—you have a vital faith. Or take the two lines of the Cross, the central fact of Lent. When the vertical line representing the love of God toward man meets the horizontal line symbolic of man's relation to his fellow man, you have the faith of the Road. One without the other is heresy!

Is not this what happened at Christmas, and happens now during Lent? His love expresses itself in power for living. Let us Lutherans not be afraid of that word—the power to transform, by His grace, the terrible uncertainty of the present time into the glorious hope of Resurrection!

¶ A 100-seat chapel has been added to the Lutheran Service Center in Seoul, Korea. Facing two highways, the chapel makes a silent Christian witness through the large white granite cross mounted on its outside wall. The chapel is attached to the east wing of the L-shaped service center completed in 1962. The center includes overnight accommodations for servicemen, service pastor's house, snack bar, game area and lounge. Another feature is a 10-foot free-standing concrete bell tower contributed by Capt. and Mrs. Donald E. Sabol of Oakland, Calif., prior to their rotation back to the States. Both had been teachers in the center's Sunday school. Service Pastor Ernest W. Karsten is in charge of the Korean center.

FIND U.S. RETAINS SUNDAY TRADITIONS

HAS THE PRESSURE of modern American society, the creeping tide of secularism, changed the traditional concept of Sunday as a day for Church, rest and family get-togethers?

According to a report on a research project sponsored by This Week magazine, public opinion specialist Elmo Roper says the answer is "no." He reported that religion, relaxation and relatives are still the key words of the day.

Fifty-six percent of today's people look forward to Sunday more than any other day of the week, Mr. Roper said. And for about half of the people, the day is most popular because of its religious significance.

"I think we can still describe ourselves as a church-going nation," he said, pointing out that the survey showed that slightly more than half of America's adults will be found in Church on an average Sunday. Two-thirds of the population attends Church at least once a month.

Other findings:

More women attend Church than men (72 to 63 percent); elderly people are no more devout than the young (65 percent of people over 50 are churchgoers, to 67 percent under 35); more Southerners (73 percent) are churchgoers than those in the Northeast (68 percent), Middle West (65 percent) or Far West (58 percent).

The researcher said it also was found that Roman Catholics lead Protestants in the percentage of regular churchgoers, 85 to 65 percent, and that 35 percent of the Jewish population attends services at least once a monh.

The researcher balanced the findings of church attendance with a conclusion that "almost tied in importance with religion" is anticipation of Sunday as a day for "rest and relaxation." And of high importance is recognition of the day as a time for being together with families and friends, he said.

In step with the Church—

FORTIFY YOUR FAITH THROUGH DAILY BIBLE READING

EACH WEEK, every Lutheran Church concentrates its thoughts and prayers on a group of Bible readings called "Propers." There is a set of these Scripture selections for every Sunday and Holy Day of the church year. They include the Introit and Gradual (usually from the Psalms), the Old Testament Lesson, Epistle and Gospel. In addition there is a Prayer for the Week, called the "Collect."

Daily Bible reading suggestions in A MIGHTY FORTRESS during 1964 are chosen to help you keep in step with the church year, as it is being observed in your home congregation and many other churches throughout the world. They are based on the "Propers" for the Sunday which begins the week. In some cases, where an important day falls in the middle of the week (like Ash Wednesday), Scripture lessons from that day will also be used.

Normally, the Sunday reading is based on the Introit, Monday on the Gospel, Tuesday on the Epistle, Wednesday on the Old Testament Lesson, and Thursday on the Gradual. For Friday and Saturday, two additional Bible readings are suggested, which also pertain to the theme of the preceding Sunday.

Many of the suggestions in this series are based on the daily devotional guide, The Uniting Word, published by the youth offices of the Lutheran church bodies. If you would like a copy of this 32-page booklet, write your pastor, or: Youth Department, The American Lutheran Church, 422 S. ROSEMARIE SEENE, of North East, Pa., is Lutheran Girl of the Month for January. She was nominated for this honor by her pastor, the Rev. William G. Steiner, who is particularly impressed by the loyalty she shows to her Church.

"Her pleasing personality and vitality have won her many friends in the Church and community," he states. He commends her for her willingness to give church affairs top priority, observing that "this is a spirit which sets a good example for other young people."

Rosemarie graduated from high school last spring and is now in training as a beautician. Her church-related activities have included being a Luther League officer and a member of the choir. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Seene, active members of St. Peter's Church, North East.

As new year begins—

All Christians Asked to Pray for Unity in Truth and Love

CHRISTIANS around the world will pray together during the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, Jan. 18-25. Purpose of the observance which was begun in 1908 is to pray that God will give us "the unity for which Christ asked God, unity in truth and love, unity for witness and service." It is based on our Lord's prayer, recorded in John 17, "that they may all be one."

The Commission on Faith and Order of the World Council of Churches sponsors the international observance. The Association Unité Chretienne in Lyon, France, promotes the observance among Roman Catholics. The same prayers, meditations and intercessions are used by both groups.

A leaflet suggesting an order of service, Scripture readings and prayers for the week is distributed by the Commission on Faith and Order. The leaflet, which has been translated into dozens of languages, has as its theme for 1964 the words of Hebrews 13:20: "The great Shepherd of the sheep." Leaflets distributed for the annual observance last year topped the two million mark.

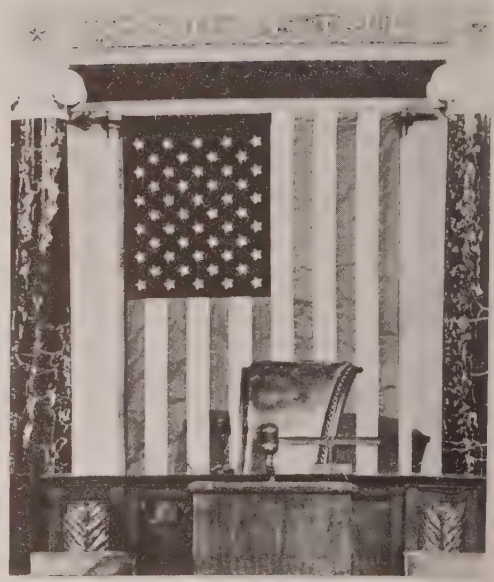
The introduction to the leaflet points out that Christians "do not live together as one flock. We all invoke the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. We are his people, a single people, and yet still unable to glorify him and to praise him in unity. We are called to share one hope, and we often talk about it, but we are unable to live together in it.

"Surely this contradiction must weigh upon us," the Week of Prayer material continues. "Does it not lead us all to seek again communion with God? Many differences separate us but the suffering which this state of affairs makes us feel is recognized by all with one accord."

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity is observed in many different ways in different parts of the world. It has become the occasion for interchurch endeavors such as prayer vigils, Bible study, retreats and conferences aimed at better mutual understanding. One feature in recent years has been the taking of collections on behalf of the needy of another denomination.

Readers of A MIGHTY FORTRESS are invited to join in the spirit of this Week of Prayer by including the following or a similar prayer in their daily devotions between Jan. 18 and 25:

Almighty and everlasting God, we thank Thee that Thou hast raised from the dead our Saviour and Lord, and hast also called us through thy Word into thy fellowship, that Christ might give us life and full sufficiency. We pray Thee, give us thy Holy Spirit that we may gladly hear the voice of the Good Shepherd and follow Him truly in faith and obedience. Watch over us with thy faithfulness, that neither Satan nor the world nor death may snatch us from his hand until that great day when there will be one Shepherd and one flock. Amen.



CALL TO PRAYER—The bell ringing in the new year is a call to prayer by millions of Christians for the unity of the Church for which Christ prayed in his high-priestly prayer (John 17). (RNS Photo)

THE FIRST FAMILY is shown at left as President and Mrs. Johnson and their daughter Lucy arrive at St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Washington, to attend a memorial service for the late President Kennedy. The new president is a Disciples of Christ layman, Mrs. Johnson a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Churches of all denominations held special services in memory of the slain president on the national Day of Mourning, Nov. 25, proclaimed by the new chief executive. (RNS Photo)

AS CONGRESS OPENS its new session, members of the House of Representatives will face the motto "In God We Trust," inscribed above the Speaker's chair. Replacing 15 ornamental stars, the religious motto was installed a little more than a year ago when the House passed a resolution initiated by Rep. Fred Marshall of Michigan. Mr. Marshall said: "During these times when our country is facing great crises, it is well that we remind ourselves of our reliance upon God and reaffirm our faith in Him. (RNS Photo)

"FAMILY OF MAN" award was presented to President John F. Kennedy by the Protestant Council of the City of New York at an award dinner held only two weeks before his assassination. Attended by 3800 persons of all denominations, the event was called "an historic breakthrough" in inter-church relations. The president, who was a Roman Catholic, is pictured at right with the Rev. Dr. Ralph Sockman, minister emeritus of Christ Church (Methodist) in New York. In a speech delivered at the dinner, the late President lashed out at critics of the U.S. foreign aid program and declared that "the rich must help the poor" of the world. The Family of Man award is intended to stimulate an inter-religious approach to physical and spiritual needs. (RNS Photo)

SPIRITUAL COMFORT administered by Lutheran Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover (left) and Roman Catholic Bishop Heinrich Maria Janssen of Hildesheim, aids relatives of workers trapped in a flooded mine at Lengede, Germany. The noted churchmen led intercession services for the miners, 11 of whom were later rescued. Forty others could not be saved. Throughout West Germany, Evangelical and Roman Catholic Churches held intercession services for the trapped miners. (RNS Photo)

CHIEF JUSTICE EARL WARREN, at his home in Washington, accepts the 20th anniversary poster of the annual Worldwide Bible Reading Program, sponsored by the American Bible Society. Mrs. Warren looks on as Everett Smith of Scarsdale, N.Y. makes the presentation. Mr. Warren in endorsing the program said that it is "good to know that the Bible is still the world's best selling book and it should be the best read." Millions of persons in scores of countries observe the program by reading the same selection from the Bible each day.

Second Glance

¶ Church leaders reported "encouraging progress" in talks toward the possible formation of a new cooperative agency that would unite American Lutherans in common theological study and Christian service. During a two-day meeting in Chicago, the Inter-Lutheran Consultation considered reports on specific areas of cooperation which may be included in a new agency to supplant the present National Lutheran Council. Such areas of possible common action are: theological studies, welfare services, public relations, education services, mission services, and miscellaneous services.

Four Lutheran bodies, representing over 95% of Lutherans in America, are participating in the Consultation.

¶ A manual for chaplains has been issued jointly by the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod's Armed Services Commission. It discusses the chaplain's relationship to the Church, his general responsibilities while serving in the U.S. and overseas, and his responsibilities specifically relating to Lutherans in service.

The manual stresses that "the chaplain's only religious authority is that given him by his Church." This authority "cannot be removed or changed by military command or military necessity. The chaplain does not have a moral right to perform a religious function which his Church does not authorize him to perform, or in the performance of any function to transgress the religious authority imparted by his Church."

¶ An Urban Training Center for Christian Mission has been established in Chicago. As an interdenominational project in which Lutherans cooperate, the center will train and equip ministers and laymen in meeting today's challenges in the cities of America. Many Christians recognize the growing metropolitan areas of our nation as the most important mission field for the Church in this generation.

¶ The cornerstone for the Protestant and Orthodox Center at the New York World's Fair was laid in October. The $1,500,000 center will feature the theme, "Jesus Christ — the Light of the World." Lutherans have invested almost $100,000 to lease and equip a portion of the center's Exhibition Hall. The Lutheran exhibit will include an information center with a pastor on duty to answer questions regarding the faith.

¶ The Second Vatican Council concluded its second session in early December. Among topics debated by the 2300 bishops of the Roman Catholic Church were: the Christian attitude toward the Jews, the relative power of bishops and Pope in the Church, ways to achieve Christian unity, revival of the order of deacons to assist priests in their duties, allowing the celebration of sacraments and other ceremonies in the vernacular (language of the people). A third session of the Council is anticipated in 1964.

On the offensive—

Christianity Challenges the World

by Chaplain Carlton H. Mall, USA

THE UNIFORM we wear is a symbol of both sin and righteousness. A symbol reminds us of or represents something.

First of all our uniform represents not only the dramatic history of our nation but also the moral values upon which our nation was founded and the rich blessings God has showered on us as a people.

On the other hand it also reminds us of sin. We have the largest peacetime military establishment in our nation's history. Why? Unrighteousness of men and nations threatens human freedom. The military is necessary as a defense against the totalitarian threat facing us today. We are a part of the military. It is a divine mission we have—let's not forget it.

During these critical days of opposing ideologies we need more than lip service to our God and our country. As you serve, maintain the offensive and keep the faith. After 20 centuries of Christian preaching, we may view the world scene and feel that the Church and Christianity has missed its mark—that she must defend herself against the contemporary evils pitted against the faith. Don't believe it. Christianity is not on the defensive but on the offensive. Our faith is not challenged but it challenges. In St. John 16:33 Christ tells us: "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world!"

THE FEAST OF THE EPIPHANY—Jan. 6—is brought to mind by this detail of a reproduction of "The Journey of the Magi," the famed masterpiece of the fifteenth century Italian artist Benozzo Gozzoli. Elaborately depicting the journey of the Wise Men, the original measures 50 feet in length and 15 feet in height. The Epiphany, celebrated 12 days after Christmas, commemorates the coming of the Wise Men to visit Jesus as a young child—the first manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles. (RNS Photo)

It's important for us to know what Christ meant by this astounding statement and how we ought to live in this triumphant spirit.

First of all, Christianity challenges the world with its message for which it claims an intellectual validity and a practical vitality. Man has not made God after his image or opinion, but God creates and preserves man. The actualities of history, the concrete events of the contemporary scene are a record of the life giving power of the love of God and the death-bringing consequences of man's denial of that love. Christianity challenges every deviation from the law of love as it poses a threat to the well-being of mankind today.

Secondly, Christianity challenges the world with the most significant world-wide movement, the Christian Church. The Church is the only institution that by its very nature transcends all nations, races and physical limitations of man. It is the visible representation of Christ on earth. Since we are the Church, we must realize God's eternal purpose in His challenge to the world. Others should be able to see in us God's love and grace.

Thirdly, Christianity challenges the world with the only method that produces changes which are lasting. Consider all the methods and formulas which have been proposed to cure the world's ills, whether they be social, political or economic problems. To all these cure-alls which lie dormant on the shelves of social pharmacy, Christianity offers this challenge: "You have left out God who overcomes the world through Jesus Christ." This method of Jesus is not only the realistic one, but it is the only permanently effective one, as those who oppose it must to their sorrow eventually discover for themselves.

So surely as the world perishes by its hate, its lies and its violence, so surely does the spirit of Christ, of sacrificial love, offer a constant and certain hope.

Christianity continues to challenge the world with its message, its world-wide movement—the Church, and its method. Maintain an effective relationship with your Christ and your Church. Wear your uniform with the pride and dignity of a Christian soldier. Consistent with your confirmation vows, commune and worship regularly. Make certain that you share the "triumphant spirit" of our Christian faith as soldier, airman, marine or sailor serving your Lord and your nation. Our Lord is with you always.

Sharing Your Experience:

THE VICTOR OR THE VANQUISHED?

by A/1c John C. Hipke

WHILE attending an Air Force school at Lackland Air Force Base, outside San Antonio, Texas, a Korean veteran sat down at his desk and sketched a picture of a battle-weary soldier sipping coffee from a metal mess cup. In the foreground was a clip of rifle bullets, which caught the faint glimmer of light from a candle placed atop a skeleton's head. I was very impressed with the thought behind the picture and asked the artist if I could have it.

"DIDN'T GOD, in the form of Jesus Christ, allow Himself to be vanquished on the Cross of Calvary?" Yet on Easter, "He conquered the powers of sin and proclaimed the joyful news of salvation."—Above, T/Sgt. and S/Sgt. (Mrs.) Fred Gebers admire a "Reigning Christ" crucifix which they presented to Our Saviour's Church, Jacksonville, N.C., as Pastor T. C. Plexico looks on. This crucifix symbolizes both the suffering of Christ and his victory over death.

A few weeks ago while cleaning out some old papers, I came across this picture again and remembered the name the artist had given it: "The Victor or the Vanquished?"

Looking at the picture this question entered my mind. "Just who is the victor and who is the vanquished?" I thought, could the skeleton be the victor, since he never again would have to face the tortures of combat, and the soldier the vanquished, because he was still on the front lines and must face death in the next battle? Then again I thought it could be the other way around, with the soldier the victor, because he will live again, and the skeleton the vanquished, because he has lost his life.

Sitting at my desk, I realized these thoughts were parallel to my own relationship with God. I asked myself, "Is God the victor or the vanquished?" I mulled this over in my mind. Didn't God, in the form of Jesus Christ, allow Himself to be vanquished on the Cross of Calvary? Hasn't God gone out of his way to guide our lives and continually show us the way to salvation? Doesn't He always offer his forgiveness, no matter what we do? Finally, doesn't He promise us eternal salvation, if we believe in Him? Yes, in all these ways God is the vanquished and we are the victors.

Thinking further, I realize that God's true role is that of the victor and we are the vanquished under Him—yet by being vanquished we will in the end be victors. God showed us this on Easter when He conquered the powers of sin and proclaimed the joyful news of salvation. It was this display of power that vanquished us to follow Him and devote our lives to His service.

I would like to propose a modern day beatitude: "Blessed are those who in Christ's name shall be vanquished here on earth, for they truly will be the victors in heaven."

Fortify your faith through DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

"THE MADONNA OF JOY" is the title of the painting reproduced above. The artist, Muthiah Sivanesan, is a native of Madras, India, where he designs fabrics in a textile mill and studies at the School of Arts and Crafts. Mr. Sivanesan's painting was one of two winners in the World Christian Art Christmas Card Competition, sponsored by the Committee on World Literacy and Christian Literature of the National Council of Churches.

The artist, who became a Christian at the age of eight, sought to portray the joy of Christmas through Indian eyes. The Virgin Mary is dressed in the beautiful clothes Indian women wear to celebrate Christmas, and wears the tassels that express an Indian woman's pride in her family. In the background are the Wise Men, who came from the East—perhaps from India; an Indian cow, symbolic of the milk of a mother's love, and an Indian rooster, announcing the coming of a new day.

GOOD NEWS OF GREAT JOY!

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

MANY OF YOU have stood watch on the top deck or the bridge as your ship cruised through the silent waters of the sea. Above you in the stillness of the night was the canopy of stars piercing through the black sky, bringing their rays of light into your line of vision. Or perhaps you have walked a patrol on land with darkness about you but the beautiful array of God's created stars and planets over your head.

Next time you are in such a situation think of what it must have meant to the shepherds who were also "out there" keeping watch over their flocks by night. "An angel of the Lord appeared to them, and the glory of the Lord shone around" (Luke 2). What would your reaction have been? I am sure mine at least would have been similar to that of the shepherds—"they were filled with fear."

Throughout Scripture we are told of the reaction of man when God makes Himself known in His majesty, as He shows forth His glory and might. Man reacts with fear.

The temptation can come to us to think of God as sort of a "palsy-walsy" person, a glorified Santa Claus or an innocuous, nebular creature in some distant "never-never land," whom nobody really knows or has ever seen. On the contrary, the God of creation is one to be feared. The Nazis as well as the Communists have brazenly declared their unbelief in the Lord as revealed in the Scriptures. We Americans can be tempted to think and act in the same way, perhaps not so brazenly, but in a subtle way as we put God "second" on the list when it comes to making a choice of one kind or another.

You recall the concluding section of the Ten Commandments in Luther's Catechism: "I the Lord your God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of those who hate me." Luther comments: "God warns that He will punish all who break these commandments. Therefore we are to fear His wrath and not disobey Him."

God is a God to be feared—let's not forget it. God will punish sins, whether they be individual or national.

However, though the shepherds were filled with fear they were soon to hear some wonderful good news. The angel said to them, "Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all the people." And then he went on to say, "For to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. And this will be a sign for you; you will find a babe wrapped in swaddling clothes" (Luke 2).

Then, as a mighty accent or crescendo, "Suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, 'Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased!' "

What an experience! How powerful, how overwhelming this must have been. God has crashed into history. The Lord has broken into the lives of shepherd folk. Good news of a great joy! Man, that's tremendous! In all of Scripture, gospel always follows law, grace always follows sin, forgiveness always follows judgment. This is God's plan. He wants man in his complacency and self-sufficiency to see his need of God—one who is truly to be feared. But God also wants us to see the Savior who alone can meet our need. How thankful we can be that He has not left us alone in our darkness and fear, in our judgment and misery. He comes to us with "good news of great joy."

The shepherds responded to the magnificent revelation and the message of God's love through Christ by agreeing among themselves that they will hasten to the manger to see what has taken place. After having seen first-hand the Christ-child, they respond to this good news of great joy by going out to tell others of God's love to them and to all men.

We too must respond to this love of God. Men about us, aboard ship and in the barracks, are without the Saviour. Pray for God's love to fill your heart so that the men around you may see that the "good news of great joy" has filled your heart through faith.

A blessed Christmas to each one of you.

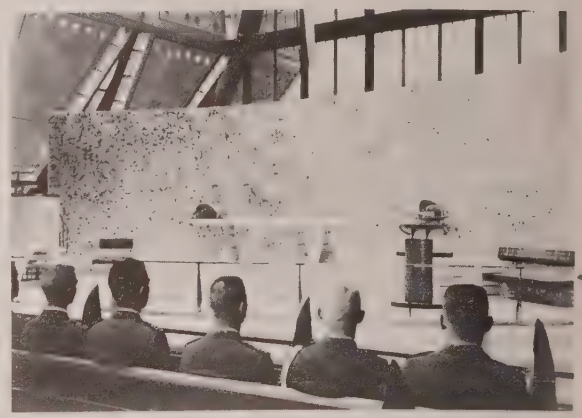
GIRL OF THE MONTH



SYLVIA THORSON, of Anchorage, Alaska, is our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for December.

In addition to journalistic activities in high school, where she was editor of the school paper, Sylvia's talents extend to oratory and music. She was one of three winners of the American Legion oratorical contest, and for three consecutive years won local piano scholarships. She also played both flute and piccolo in the school band.

At Central Church, in Anchorage, Sylvia served as organist, choir singer and vacation Bible school teacher. She was named Alaskan representative at the National Constituting Convention of the Luther League of the ALC in 1960.

Awarded a youth leadership scholarship from the Lutheran Brotherhood upon entrance to Pacific Lutheran University, she is now a sophomore majoring in sociology.

Sylvia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Thorson, was nominated by her pastor, the Rev. A. L. Abrahamson.

AIR FORCE CHAPEL DEDICATED—Religious, military and civic leaders attended the dedication in September of the USAF Academy Chapel, near Colorado Springs, Colo. Built at a cost of over $3,400,000, the building is divided into Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish areas. Pictured at right is the altar in the Protestant chapel, which seats 1000 persons. A large cross is suspended above. (RNS Photo)

DIALOGUE VIA TELSTAR—Four noted Christian leaders participated in an international telecast in mid-October, originating in Rome, London and Princeton, N.J., and using the communications satellite, Telstar II. The program carried "live" comments on the possibilities and problems of Christian reunion. Participants (pictured at left) were: Laurian Cardinal Rugambwa, Roman Catholic bishop of Bukoba, Tanganyika, (upper left), speaking from Rome; the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the Lutheran Church in America, (upper right), from Princeton; Bishop Lesslie Newbigin, associate general secretary of the World Council of Churches, (lower left), from London; and the Rev. Hans Kueng, Roman Catholic theologian, from Rome. (RNS Photo)

'LUTHER' COMES TO BROADWAY—A dramatization of the life and personal trials of Martin Luther opened on Broadway in September and appeared destined to have a long run. Critics generally hailed the play, by England's John Osborne, as a thoughtful and provocative study of the Reformer. At left, Albert Finney, in the role of Luther (right) argues with John Moffatt as Cardinal Cajetan, who attempts to persuade him to retract his teachings. (RNS Photo)

TEEN SENDS MILLIONTH LETTER—Kazuo Yamada, 17, of Kanohara, Japan, sent the one millionth letter received by the Japanese Lutheran Hour since its first broadcast in 1951. Below, a Bible and Hymnal are presented to him by Missionary Ralph Phipps. The Lutheran program is broadcast on 105 stations in Japan, with an estimated 10 million listeners.

Thousands heed the call—

"COME YE TO BETHLEHEM"

by Chaplain Theodore J. Kleinhans, USAF

"O COME, all ye faithful," run the words of the carol, "come ye to Bethlehem." Each year thousands do come to Bethlehem, not just in spirit but as real pilgrims, to seek the place where Christ was born.

Anyone who sets foot on the dusty limestone paving blocks outside the Church of the Nativity stands in the long shadows of history. Likely as not, despite the hallowed soil, he may first be disturbed, rather than inspired, by what he sees.

Ever since we first heard what happened that Christmas Eve, our minds began to play tricks on us. What Luke wrote about a lowly cave in Bethlehem we somehow changed to a more familiar setting.

As Americans we may have heard the word "manger" and thought in terms of a vast barn, warm and snug in the Minnesota snows. Had we been Germans, we might have imagined a setting of fir trees and a fair-haired, blue-eyed Infant lying in a cradle. Had we been Lapps, we might have imagined the scene as a tundra of frozen muskeg, with the Christ Child swaddled in a blanket of reindeer hair.

Actually Luke was describing a simple wayside house. Perhaps the vineyards were sunparched, the soil poor, and the owner took in guests to help pay the taxes. Below, a cavern or grotto gave shelter to the cows and sheep. Above, there were quarters for the family and a few guests. Little as it may be, Bethlehem still boasts a dozen ancient dwellings of this sort.

The site of the real inn is buried by a mountain of tradition. Of the cave there is nothing left but a limestone floor. A fourteen-pointed silver star, with a hole to show the stone beneath, marks the historic spot. The simple Latin legend reads: "Here Jesus Christ was born of the Virgin Mary."

The Church of the Nativity is nowhere as simple as the old inn must have been. The present basilica dates from the 530's, and stands on the site of an earlier church built by Helena, the mother of Emperor Constantine, in the fourth century.

One of the largest churches of Christendom, it has experienced many an ebb and flow of history. In 614, the Persians considered destroying it, when they overran Palestine. They did destroy almost every other church and shrine. Instead they looked high on the walls and found a mozaic of the Wise Men—dressed in Persian garb. This, legend goes, saved the church.

The building is basically Christian, but many an Arab still stops to pray to Allah in the transept, just as Caliph Omar set the pattern in 634. Nowadays the squabbles are between the three large groups who share a continuing claim to the church—the Greek Orthodox, the Roman Catholics, and the Armenian Orthodox.

Who gets to sweep the floor, who gets to provide the olive oil for a sanctuary lamp, who gets to hang an ikon on which nail, who gets to wash the linen paraments on the various altars—these are all issues the Jordan government has tried to settle—with a seventy page booklet as complicated as the rules of football.

The old entryways of the church are nearly walled up, with just a squat opening. Even a six year old has to stoop. Tradition says this was to keep the Arab tribesmen from riding pellmell into the nave and desecrating the sanctuary.

The interior is almost as austere and severe as the outside. The lack of pews makes the building seem even larger than it is. Only the red Corinthian columns at the aisles give a touch of stone grandeur, together with the Byzantine altar and mozaics.

Historically the most interesting area of the church is the crypt, reached from the front by two narrow stairwells. Here, in polished marble scarcely a tenth as big as the basilica, is the site of the inn. Here also are shrines to the Holy Innocents, slaughtered by Herod, and to Joseph, presumably where the angel warned him to flee to Egypt.

For all its history, the Church of the Nativity leaves a few pilgrims cold. The squabbles of the Copts and the Abyssinians, of the Syrians and the Armenians, the Roman Catholics and the Greek Orthodox, takes away some of the charm.

But Bethlehem Ephratah is not just the Church of the Nativity. It is the spot where God chose to take on human flesh. The double name means simply "House of Bread" and "Fruitful"—as the groves of vines and olives, pomegranate and barley (rich for that part of Judea) still prove.

Not far off is the tomb of Rachel, the Well of the Wise Men, and the fields of Ruth and Boaz. A little farther lies the rolling pastureland where the shepherds tended their sheep, that night the angels sang Gloria in excelsis deo.

All this, of course, makes the Gospel come alive—even little details like the brown lizards soaking up the sun, the winter hills beginning to turn green, the white stone walls, the distant crescent of the Dead Sea, the purple peaks of the mountains of Moab.

Much of the Christmas Eve pageantry in Bethlehem is confusing. Depending which calendar one uses, there are three celebrations—the Western Christmas, the Greek Christmas, and the Armenian Christmas. These fall on December 25, January 7, and January 17th.

If you are fortunate enough to spend a Christmas in Bethlehem, the various events may first seem disconcerting—even something as simple as a carol sing. In Bethlehem, a fifteen minute drive from Jerusalem, there are apt to be a dozen of them. They take place at various monasteries and convents, and for that matter, even at three different "Shepherds' Fields."

Despite all the hawkers and stands, Bethlehem's Manger Square sets a good mood for Christmas, even if it be a Middle East kind of Christmas. When the bells call forth their good tidings, when the crowd lights up its tapers, when the hillsides all around burst aflame, there's a kind of contagious enthusiasm.

This may not be real faith, in the strictest sense, but it is at least a start. Later, in the quiet of one's own chamber, the honest pilgrim can't help reflect on the birth of his Savior and the worship of the shepherds.

Even the street urchins know something of Christmas. Out in the square, like the rest of the milling crowd, I once stopped for a cake and a mutton sandwich. It was perhaps one in the morning. A dirty-faced youngster who could scarcely have been four begged for baksheesh.

Even on Christmas Eve I tried to ignore him. Once the tourist weakens and dispenses even one coin, a whole army of little beggars comes on the run. But tonight the teen-ager who was selling sandwiches interrupted.

"Give him a few fils, Mister," he urged. "It's worth it. Watch!"

I did. The little beggar beamed, fingered the coins, trotted across the square. I heard them clink in the poor box outside the church. He ran back, bowing low and chattering excitedly in Arabic.

"He wishes you a Blessed Christmas, the teen-ager translated. "That he's a Wise Man and you're a Wise Man, and you've both just brought a gift to the Christ Child."

THE CHURCH OF THE NATIVITY in Bethlehem is built over a grotto which marks the traditional site where Christ was born. On the floor of the grotto the exact spot of the Nativity is believed to be marked by a silver star. (RNS Photo)

Second Glance

¶ The prairie town of Brookings, So. Dak., was the location of a unique experiment in religion in September. A four day "Faith in Life" project enlisted the cooperation of several denominations in the predominantly Lutheran town in an attempt to infuse the Christian faith into the "workaday life of the average American." A leading participant was Bishop Hanns Lilje, a prime mover of similar successful projects in his native Germany. The project included mass rallies, assemblies, seminars, plays, movies, folk singing, breakfasts, lunches, dinners and services.

¶ A noted church musician has advocated a return to handbells, brass and other instruments to add excitement to church services. Dr. William Lemonds told a Church Music Workshop at the University of Michigan that for a period of 175 years Churches utilized instruments and whole orchestras to accompany the choir and for solo performances. He criticized the idea that the organ is the only suitable instrument for worship. The most exciting service he could imagine, Dr. Lemonds declared, would be to have Stan Kenton or the Modern Jazz Quartet compose and play new music for the worship of God.

¶ Over the past 20 years, Lutheran Churches and institutions have received at little or no cost federal surplus property for which the U.S. Government paid $756,589, it was reported in Washington, D. C. During the same period property which originally cost over $47 million was transferred to all denominational sponsored organizations, under a federal law which allows such transfers to non-profit health and educational institutions.

¶ Lutheran World Relief has made another shipment of relief goods to Algeria, including 10,000 new blankets and 200 tons of used clothing. Distribution will be concentrated in the uplands where winter is most severe. Last year a similar shipment of blankets and 80 tons of clothing was made.

¶ The Lutheran World Federation has reappointed the Rev. Dr. Kurt Schmidt-Clausen, a German churchman, as its general secretary. He will be aided by the Rev. Carl Mau, an American, in the newly created post of assistant general secretary. They are charged with guiding the work of the federation until its next assembly six years hence. LWF headquarters are located in Geneva, Switzerland.

¶ The Roman Catholic Church's Second Vatican Council entered its second session in September, with over 2,000 bishops gathered in Rome. Discussion and voting centered on changes in the Church's worship and on the teaching about the nature of the Church and its ministry.

¶ Christian social responsibility was discussed at the 1963 Lutheran Health and Welfare Forum, in Chicago, Nov. 4-6. Leaders in social welfare and charitable work of the Church participated in talks on how the health and welfare services of Lutheran Churches in the U.S. may be improved and promoted.

¶ The Lutheran Church in America's Board of College Education adopted a statement that says the Church's 21 church-related colleges in the U.S. and Canada "shall be open to people of all races." This action reflects the denomination's official position affirmed in its Executive Council's statement on racial justice. In a related action, the board approved $15,000 to assist in the education of "Negro and other disadvantaged youths."

DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

SUSAN E. HARTMAN, of Catawissa, Pa., is our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for November.

Susan is a member of St. John's Church, Catawissa, where she serves as Sunday school pianist and is a member of the post-high school class. She also sings alto in the chancel choir which is directed by her father, Mr. Gerald C. Hartman.

Now a senior at Bloomsburg State College, Pa., she is artistically inclined and especially adept at sewing and knitting.

Susan was nominated by Mrs. George E. Widger, who has known her for thirteen years and teaches the church school class to which Susan belongs. She admires her for her "ready smile and kind, thoughtful nature" and says she has "watched her grow into a fine example of young Lutheran womanhood."

MILITARY EXPERIENCE HELD AID TO CHURCH VOCATIONS

RETIRED military personnel were urged to consider church vocations during the semi-annual meetings in Washington of the Lutheran Service Commission and the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel.

A report on the use of persons with armed forces experience in the direction of Lutheran service centers was made to the LSC by the Rev. William H. Marwede, who supervises LSC activities in the eastern U.S.

Pastor Marwede said that four of the five Lutheran service centers on the east coast are directed by lay persons who have had extended military service.

"We have come to the conclusion," he noted, "that having had military experience is a valuable asset for those who direct our centers" and "we are encouraging retired military personnel interested in directing service center activities to get in touch with us."

Interested individuals should be dedicated, mature and have an outgoing personality, he added.

He said that currently the first woman to enter the Women's Air Force (WAF), Miss Ray Ross, directs the Jacksonville, Fla., service center and men with Army and Navy backgrounds are in charge of activities in Charleston, S.C., Washington, D.C., and Jacksonville, N.C.

The LSC, an agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, generally utilizes clergymen in the direction of overseas service centers and lay people as directors of stateside service centers.

At the Bureau of Service to Military Personnel meeting, the Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive secretary, reported that a "great amount of interest has been voiced in the utilization of the services of retiring military personnel for lay vocational placement in church-related work."

Chaplain Midboe said that a follow-up of the Brent Conference, held in Washington, D.C., in January, 1961, is being considered in order to up-date the findings of this consultation.

The Brent Conference brought together church and military officials to investigate possibilities of making use of retired servicemen and women in full-time church-related vocations.

Large numbers of armed forces personnel who entered the military during World War II, are now completing their careers after 20 or more years of service and still have many active years if they are inclined to dedicate their efforts to the Church, and the Church has need for their talents, Chaplain Midboe stated.

MISS RAY ROSS, director of the Jacksonville, Fla., Lutheran Service Center, is shown at right presenting awards to the Ping Pong tourney champ and runnersup at the center. Miss Ross, the first woman to enter the WAF, is one of many service personnel who have gone into full-time church work after completing a service career.

A BOOKMARK that provides a vehicle for silent prayer by youngsters at school has been suggested as one solution to the problem posed by Supreme Court rulings forbidding devotions in public schools. Issued by the American Lutheran Publicity Bureau, the bookmark was the idea of the Rev. Edward H. Stammel, pastor of Trinity Church, Hicksville, N.Y. More than 250,000 of the prayer cards have already been distributed. Shown in center of page is the front of the bookmark, with symbols of the Holy Trinity, the words of invocation and a prayer appropriate to school children. COLLECTOR COMMENTS ON HEAD OF CHRIST STAMP ISSUED BY FINLAND

A LUTHERAN EXPERT in philately said recently that a stamp issued to commemorate the Lutheran World Federation's Fourth Assembly at Helsinki, Finland, this summer was not the first to show a head-and-shoulders picture of Christ.

"Actually, there have been quite a few," declared Waller A. Sager of Los Angeles, who is president of "Collectors of Religion on Stamps" (Coros), organized in 1943 by philatelists interested in religion subjects.

Probably the first such stamp, according to Mr. Sager, a member of the Lutheran Church —Missouri Synod, was issued in 1923 by Italy in a 4-stamp set which pictured Christ giving the Great Commission, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations . . ."

Spain has had at least three and Guatemala two, he said, and Bolivia's "Sacred Heart" stamp of 1948 was another. Also, East Germany's "Tribute Money" stamp of a few years ago depicted Christ and the Pharisee, and Vatican City had two sets during World War II showing Christ and inscribed, "I have compassion on the multitudes."

The General Direction of Posts and Telegraphs of Finland issued two stamps last July in recognition of the LWF's Assembly in Helsinki, July 30-August 11. One, a 30-Finnish penniä (cents) stamp, carried the likeness of the head of Christ, while the other, a 10-penniä value, featured a crown of thorns with a medieval consecration cross in the center. Both bore the assembly's motto, "Christ Today," in Finnish and Swedish.

At the time, stamp collectors expressed the belief that it marked the first issue of a stamp picturing Christ, a view set aright by Mr. Sager, who has several similar stamps in his own collection.

Both Finnish stamps were created by Olavi Vepsalainen, stamp designer in the Bank of Finland's printing office, which prints all the country's stamps. Finnish post offices did a brisk business on the first day the commemorative stamps were placed on sale.

Mr. Sager described the Finnish design as "one of the best philatelic portrayals" of Christ. Mr. Vepsalainen, he said, "captured the mood of the Crucifixion scene and the eyes particularly seem to say, 'Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.' This interpretation becomes even more dramatic when combined with the motto 'Christ Today' on the stamps."

The crown of thorns, used on the ten-cent stamp, has also appeared frequently, on stamps issued by Guatemala, Austria, Belgium, Spain and other countries, but Mr. Sager said he had never seen it used with the medieval cross.

STAMPS issued by Finland to commemorate LWF Assembly of last summer are pictured below.

THANK GOD!—FOR WHAT?

By Chaplain Charles T. Goetz, USAF

TWO PEOPLE can find themselves in identical circumstances. One will look at what he has and say: "Thank God!"; the other will look at what he hasn't got and will say: "For what?"

Aren't we too often inclined to be like the latter? In this time of Thanksgiving we are moved by the habit of the season to say: "Thank God," but often we'd like to add: "For what?"

I get the feeling that the very bounty of God's continued blessings is so overwhelming that we become insensitive to it. We become like spoiled children always demanding and expecting more and more without really appreciating what we already have.

Carlyle said we ought to put ourselves at zero and count everything we have more than zero as an occasion for giving thanks. Someone else has suggested that each child ought to be blindfolded for a day so he could really appreciate the gift of sight; to have his ears stopped for a day to appreciate the gift of hearing; to be bound for a day to appreciate the movement of arms and legs.

Perhaps we ought to pause and "count our blessings one by one" and be "surprised by what the Lord has done." Too often we think only in terms of large things as reason for giving thanks and forget that all those things, the so-called little things, that we have more than zero, are real occasions for Thanksgiving.

Martin Luther, in his explanation to the first Article of the Apostles' Creed, counts all the things God bestows—life and its preservation, food, clothing, home, family, work, loving protection—and he then sums it all up by saying, "Therefore I surely ought to thank and praise, serve and obey him. This is most certainly true!"

We also have a tendency to count only blessings of material value as worth thanksgiving. Yet God's greatest gift to us was his gift of Love, his Son. In our Lord Jesus we have been given the life abundant. The gift of life that extends beyond this brief span of time all the way into eternity. And in this pilgrimage toward eternal life we have the gift of the Church with the healing comfort of its Word and Sacraments.

All around us we are surrounded by God's kindness. Thank God for what? For what don't we need to thank God?

THANKSGIVING, 1963—The pumpkin, large, colorful, and bursting with the fruit of the land, is a symbol of Thanksgiving. It reminds Americans of the great harvest, a gift of God, and stirs them to prayers of gratitude. (RNS Photo)

FIVE GRAINS OF CORN—When the Pilgrims at Plymouth sat down to their first Thanksgiving feast, they found five kernels of parched corn on each plate. This served as a reminder of the hardships they had endured during the previous year when rations had been reduced to five kernels of corn for each person. (RNS Photo)

Lutheran Youth Warned—

IT'S TOUGH TO BE A CHRISTIAN

LUTHERAN YOUTHS from across the United States and Canada were told recently that Christianity was not "designed to win friends and influence people."

In fact, the Rev. Carl L. Manfred, executive secretary of the Luther League of the LCA, told 400 delegates and visitors to the youth organization's first annual convention at Selinsgrove, Pa., "there are some troubles with being a Christian."

Pastor Manfred spoke at the closing session of the league's five-day convention at Susquehanna University, late in August.

"As a matter of fact," the youth leader asserted, "when a person becomes a Christian he finds that many of his conflicts are resolved; certain troubles which have plagued his life do disappear. But he also finds—sometimes to his great surprise, and even to his great dismay—that a whole new set of conflicts and problems and troubles confront him."

To support his premise, he told the leaguers that "St. Paul didn't know what real trouble was until he became a Christian. All of a sudden he found himself up to his neck in it," and Pastor Manfred enumerated the trials and dangers Paul faced.

The Lutheran youths were told to distinguish between the ills that befall human beings and the phrase "to bear the cross." The youth director declared that infirmities and death are not exclusively the province of Christians.

"These trials and difficulties are not crosses—in the same sense in which our Lord speaks of bearing the cross! This does not mean they are not grievous to bear," he said.

But, he continued, "to bear the cross is to endure the sorrow, the suffering, the denial, the pain which has come to us because of our relationship to Jesus Christ!"

"A lot of the experiences we have alluded to this morning are visited upon us not because we are Christians but simply because we are humans—and all men, saints and sinners, are subject to them. Accidents, illnesses, tragedies—pagans know as much about these experiences as Christians do. They are common to all men. And they have nothing to do with cross-bearing."

Pastor Manfred described three types of people and the types of lives they lead. "There are those who live artificially, there are those who live superficially, and there are those who live sacrificially.

"The artificial life is empty because it is phony. It is not grounded on the bedrock of truth. And the truth has an uncomfortable way of asserting itself," he pointed out. "You can't fool a honey bee with artificial flowers.

"There is also a superficial life," delegates were told. "It is a veneer—something covered over—much like some of our furniture. It's a substitute which claims to be as good as the real thing—but it never is. The superficial life will not stand the test of the years."

And then, Pastor Manfred said, there is the sacrificial life. "It is not popular, but it is powerful. It has a strength to it—a lasting, staying quality—the stuff of which eternity is made is built into it."

The youth leader referred to the Washington civil rights march. "I am confident that many of us would have been there, not as spectators but as participants, if the timing for this demonstration had not happened to conflict with the days of this convention," he said.

"I am convinced that demonstrations of this nature can, under God, serve a noble purpose. But I would also remind you that we don't have to travel to Washington, nor join 200,000 fellow Americans in a demonstration of this nature to show the world where we stand as Christians in the matter of our concern for our brother.

"God wants us, individually, to be living demonstrations of what happens to a person when he loves God above all things and his neighbor as himself! How would it be if each of us carried on a one-man demonstration of Christianity lived sacrificially?

"Is there someone in your circle of friends—someone in your school—someone in your neighborhood—who needs this kind of a lift, the assurance that you care; that it makes a difference to you what happens to him—what his lot in life is to be? Can we love people at that level—in imitation of God?" he concluded.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

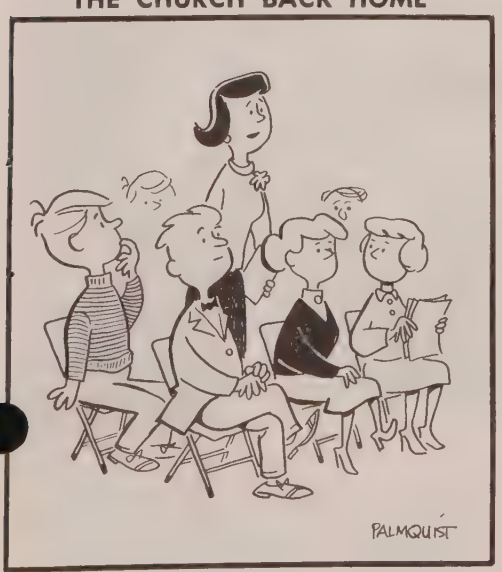
MARILYN KRUEGER, of Gillett, Wisconsin, is our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for October.

As a member of St. John Lutheran Church, Marilyn is extremely active in church work. She teaches Sunday school, sings in the choir, has held several offices in the Young People's Organization, and has taught at Vacation Bible School for the past two years.



She was recently elected by high school faculty members and classmates to receive the annual DAR award, on the basis of her patriotism, leadership and service.

Her school activities include vice-president of the Senior Class, annual editor, and president of the National Honor Society.

The Rev. R. C. Stubenvoll, the pastor who nominated her, says, "She is truly a fine young Christian girl . . . attractive with a very pleasing personality."

Marilyn is now a freshman at Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, where she will study either medical technology or teaching.

LWF ASSEMBLY ISSUES MESSAGE TO THE WORLD

IN A MESSAGE to its member Churches, the Lutheran World Federation at the final plenary session of its 12-day Fourth Assembly in Helsinki, Finland, expressed the conviction that "God calls us today to be witnesses to His love, in the midst of this world threatened by terrifying possibilities."

Accepting "in all seriousness the challenge of the world in which we live today," the Assembly declared:

"Nothing can save us from the judgment of God, neither the best of achievements nor the most elaborate ideologies and programs. Our salvation lies in Christ alone who shed His blood for us, and gives meaning to our life, so that God's good and gracious will may be done—on earth as it is in heaven."

While "we are living in a generation which is filled with hope and at the same time tormented by fear," the message said that "in the age of atomic power, jet aircraft and space flight, the final victory over poverty and hunger, sickness and war is thought by many to be approaching."

However, it added, "men are living more than ever before in the midst of suspicion, prejudice and hatred, and above all in fear of an atomic war which would bring total annihilation."

And it noted that "a deep division is that existing between the older and younger generations," that "what young people welcome as a sign of the future is looked upon by older people with suspicion and alarm, and what the older people once held to be essential and valuable has become in the eyes of young people unimportant and outmoded. . . ."

"Nevertheless, God's love which seeks out man, and which in Jesus Christ overcomes human isolation, fear and meaninglessness, is unceasingly at work," the message said.

"Even today He is at work seeking to draw men into fellowship with Himself."

The message further stated that the phrase "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, today and forever" does not mean that "we are curators of a museum of ecclesiastical antiquities," but that "we bear witness to the presence of God through Christ in our midst today."

Ovation Given Dr. Schiotz On Election as LWF Leader

Prolonged applause greeted announcement of the election of American church leader, the Rev. Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, as fourth president of the Lutheran World Federation.

The overflow crowd in the "Aula" or main hall of the University of Helsinki gave the 62-year-old incoming president a rising welcome as he left his seat in the delegates' section and walked to the front of the auditorium following his election at the final plenary session of the Federation's Fourth Assembly.

He was elected to the post with 219 votes out of a total of 243 cast and 11 abstentions.

In his first speech as president of the world confessional body, Dr. Schiotz told the Assembly that he accepted the post with "some hesitancy" because he doubted whether another American should be president (the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry of New York had previously served as Federation president for six years) and because of his "lively awareness of the stature of my three predecessors" (Dr. Fry, Bishop Hanns Lilje of Germany, and Bishop Anders Nygren of Sweden.)

"But if I would allow this hesitancy to dictate my action it would belie the theme of this Assembly ('Christ Today')," he said. He accepted the post trusting that God would supply the strength and wisdom required, and confident of "the support of your prayers."

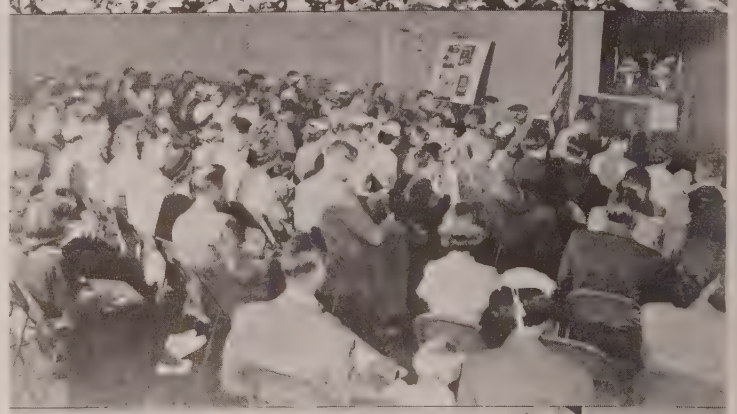
Dr. Schiotz will serve as LWF president for a six year term.

A Church Is Born

OUR EXPANDING MISSION field provides a graphic example of the Church's efforts to keep pace with a changing world. Since the end of World War II, there has been a trend to transform agricultural plots into sites for new homes. Hundreds of new congregations have been established by the Church to reach the many suburbanites living in these areas. Photos on this page depict the birth of a new mission Church.

Typical site for building a new church is this soy bean field (photo at top, right) chosen as plot for House of Prayer Lutheran Church, Richfield, Minn. Church officials purchased the land after carefully assessing the need for a parish in the rural area. (Incidentally, the congregation now numbers 3,600, is self-supporting.)

Assigning a pastor to ring doorbells and meet with interested future parishioners was task of the American Missions board. With initial steps taken, the pastor and his nucleus congregation made temporary use of a school auditorium for worship and a classroom for Sunday school (second photo).



Signing of the charter roll marked formal organization of the congregation (third photo). The pastor and new church leaders then met with architects and builders to plan and design the new mission church building. Financial aid came from individual pledges, mission funds and established "mother" Churches in the center-city.

With the new congregation assuming mortgage payments, groundbreaking ceremonies and the start of actual construction were a happy occasion for these churchmembers (fourth photo). First church unit provided auditorium space for services and Sunday school rooms, was designed to become an integral part of the completed structure.

Committees were then formed to explore future needs and, after much exploration and revision, arrived at a full-scale building plan. As debts dwindled and the congregation increased, fund-raising methods were formulated. Church leaders were visibly pleased with the small-scale replica of their congregation's future home (bottom, right).

Completion of the first church unit marked an historic day in the life of the starting congregation, but they know their goal is still in the future. They look forward to the building of the complete church with its steeple and parish education facilities—but meanwhile they rejoice that a Church has been born.

CLERGYMAN DEMONSTRATOR, the Rev. David Andrews, wearing an "Uncle Sam" outfit, was among some 380 persons arrested for taking part in an anti-segregation demonstration at Gwynn Oak Amusement Park, Baltimore, Md. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen were involved in a series of integration efforts centering around the privately-owned amusement park. All were promptly arrested on trespassing charges. The Rev. Mr. Andrews is assistant chaplain at Morgan State College in Baltimore.

ANOTHER RELIGIOUS MINORITY group found haven in America as 225 "Old Believers," members of a Russian Orthodox sect left one of two jets which brought them from the Lake Manyas area in Turkey to the U.S. for a new life. They are descendants of a group who split from the Russian Orthodox Church during the 17th century and migrated to Turkey. Bitterly persecuted by the Czarist regime, other "Old Believers" went to Siberia, China and Romania. They dress in old-fashioned clothing, observe strict religious rules, and their services are conducted by deacons, since they have no ordained priests.

Our basic belief—

Salvation through Christ Alone

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

IN THESE DAYS of ecumenical councils when men of various faiths are sharing with one another what they believe, it is well for us as Lutherans to review the convictions which are ours. With all respect to those who are sincerely trying through dialogue to come to a point of meeting, we in the Lutheran Church do have some basic, important beliefs, which are meaningful and necessary, and which constitute what we consider to be the true faith.

A cornerstone of this faith is the truth which Martin Luther rediscovered in Romans 1:17, "The righteous shall live by faith." A hymnwriter has put it in the words of a familiar line, "Nothing in my hands I bring, simply to thy cross I cling."

On October 31, which is Reformation Day, we recall this turning point in the history of mankind. The world was never to be the same after Luther nailed the 95 Theses on the door in Wittenberg. If you have seen that wonderful film, "Martin Luther," I am sure you have thrilled, even as I have, to the courage and tenacity of Luther—the way in which God used this man of faith.

Believing that "he who through faith is righteous shall live," makes all the difference in the world to our whole outlook on life. There is no need to try to be good enough, to pray enough, to read the Bible enough, to speak to others about Christ enough, to give enough, to be enough. All of these are sometimes attempted by men seemingly to try to placate or appease a "vengeful" God, toward whom we act as though He hated us.

Of course we want to please Him. We want to speak frequently to Him in prayer. We want to read his Word, to witness for Him, to be good stewards of our time and talents, to give our all to Him and his cause. But not as an attempt to earn merits or to appease an angry God. Whatever we do for Him must be out of gratefulness and love which He has already planted in us. This love in our hearts comes from a loving Father, of whom it is said, "For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life." (John 3:16)

Having had the opportunity to do a great deal of counseling both within and outside of the military services, I realize that many problems that men have are deep seated and complex. I would be the last person in the world to try to oversimplify difficult problems, especially those of long standing. However, having said that, I do know, from first hand experience, that many times men's problems cannot be resolved at all until there has been a coming to the cross in full surrender. We must take our sins, our shortcomings, our burdens and our frustrations, our guilt and all of our needs to the foot of the cross and leave them there.

Open up your New Testament. If you don't have one, go into the chapel and get one. Or, if you have no easy access to a chaplain, write to the editor of A Mighty Fortress and request one. Open your New Testament to Paul's Letter to the Romans. His experience was very similar to that of Martin Luther. Luther soon discovered this as he let the Word speak to his heart and need. This experience has, in one way or another, been duplicated again and again in the lives of our servicemen. Men have come to the end of depending upon themselves and instead have come to trust in Jesus Christ for their only way out—for their salvation.

Norman had been having a terrific struggle. He just couldn't get it through his head that he was to "let go and let God." It was toward evening as he came up the path that led to the chaplain's office. Now he was beaming. The cloud had been lifted from his face.

"It worked, chaplain, it worked. I've given in—I have surrendered myself to Jesus Christ. I'm trusting in his promises. Now I know what it means, 'the righteous shall live by faith!' "

The word of God says, "For no human being will be justified in his sight by works of the law, since through the law comes knowledge of sin. But now the righteousness of God has been manifested apart from the law, although the law and the prophets bear witness to it, the righteousness of God through faith in Jesus Christ for all who believe." (Romans 3:20-22)

Trust this promise. Open your Bible. Underline these passages. Commit them to memory. And pray that men everywhere in all the Churches will come to trust in this promise of Christ and his work for us through his life, death and resurrection.

Sharing Your Experience:

AN ADVENTURE IN ACCEPTANCE

by Merland D. Tollefson, Jr.

THINGS can be dull for a soldier on overseas duty in almost any part of the world. Language, customs, and strange patterns of social behavior all combine to form a barrier between the GIs and the local populace. This was the situation when I arrived in Panama in 1960.

In order to create a diversion and while away the time, a couple of my buddies suggested that we attend one of the Panamanian Churches rather than the American chapel on post. I agreed, with tongue-in-cheek, willing to go along "for laughs" or so I thought. However, later I began to have serious misgivings. What if they don't accept us? What if we do the wrong thing during the service? Maybe they'll think we're making a mockery of their service. These and other doubts filled me with foreboding.

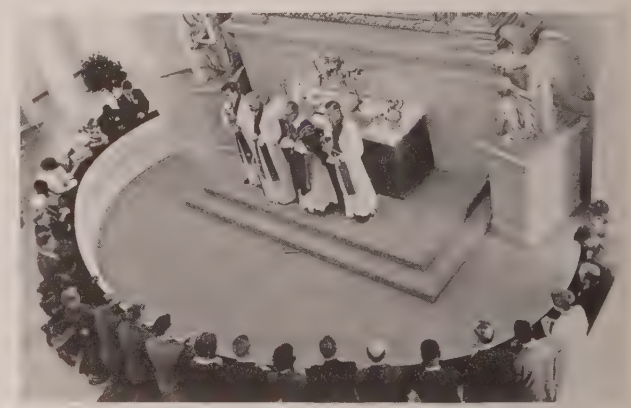
On the appointed day we set out with somewhat varied outlooks: the others in high spirits, while I was rather silent and noncommittal, going forth with a resigned attitude.

On arriving at the church, a converted grocery store, we pushed through a few kibitzers and entered the building. To my surprise, an elderly man arose from his seat and, after introducing himself, we shook hands all around and he ushered us to our seats.

The service was conducted in Spanish, of which we understood not a word. When the congregation bowed their heads we followed suit—but mumbled prayers to our Lord in English. I couldn't help noticing the surreptitious glances in our direction now and then and as the service drew to a close we prepared to make a hasty exit.

Once more the old gentleman blocked our way. "How did you like the service? Will you come again? Would you like to meet my family?"

Before we knew what was happening we were sitting down to a sumptuous dinner served by his wife and pretty dark-haired daughter, Rebecca.



Later, upon reflection, I was forced to admit that the bonds that tie Christians together are strong enough to cross over all barriers between races, cultures, or ideologies.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He comands, obey. When He guides, follow.

RUTH WESTHEIM, of Minneapolis, Minn., is September's "Lutheran Girl of the Month."

Singing has played a large role in her church-related activities. At Lutheran Bible Institute, Ruth was a member of the mixed quartet which sang for the "Psalm of Life" radio program. Each Sunday her soprano voice joins in the Senior Choir of First Church, Minneapolis, where she is also active in Sunday School and Luther League work.

After graduation from L.B.I., Ruth served as a parish worker. More recently she was named secretary to the Rev. Calvin Storley, youth director of the ALC Upper Midwest region. She has been a member of the national Luther League executive committee.

Ruth says, "The joy of Christian life is found in service in and through Christ." She was nominated by the student pastor of her Church, Roger Ose.

Supreme Court Bans Bible Reading, Lord's Prayer in Public Schools

PUBLIC SCHOOLS will open in America this month without officially authorized devotional exercises, such as Bible reading and recitation of the Lord's Prayer. A 8-1 decision of the United States Supreme Court on June 17 ruled such religious practices unconstitutional in state-supported schools.

The court held that public school devotions violate the first amendment of the Constitution, which prohibits an "establishment of religion." Those who favor such practices have interpreted the constitutional statement to refer only to favoritism toward a specific church group.

Justice Potter Stewart dissented from the majority opinion. He had also disagreed with his fellow justices in the outlawing of the New York "Regents' Prayer" in 1962.

Reaction to the decision was mixed. In general, Roman Catholic spokesmen deplored the ruling, claiming that it aids the growth of secularism in our country. Jewish leaders, on the other hand, generally applauded the court as a defender of freedom of conscience. Protestant comments ranged from warm support to vigorous condemnation of the momentous decision.

Lutheran response reflected the view that there were both gains and losses in the new rule which prohibits religious devotion in public schools. Summing up much Lutheran opinion is the statement by Lutheran Church in American president Franklin Clark Fry:

"I do not believe that much has been lost in terms of the specific points covered by this decision. If the court had permitted the Lord's Prayer to be recited in school rooms only for the sake of the moral and ethical atmosphere it creates, it would have been worth nothing to me as a Christian. The Lord's Prayer is the supreme act of adoration and petition or it is debased. Reading the Bible without comment, too, has been of dubious value as either an educational or religious experience.

"The more we attempt as Christians or Americans to insist on common denominator religious exercises or instruction in the public schools, the greater risk we run of diluting our faith and contributing to a vague religiosity which identifies religion with patriotism and becomes a national folk religion.

SCENES like that depicted above, in which a public school teacher reads from the Bible to her class, will become less common this fall as states respond to the Supreme Court decision outlawing religious devotions in schools supported by public funds. Involved in the high court's 8-1 decision were Maryland and Pennsylvania cases in which instances of the use of Bible reading and the Lord's Prayer in public school opening exercises were cited.

"At the same time, in candor, this decision must be seen as a watershed. It opens an era in which Christianity is kept separate from the state in a way that was foreign and would have been repugnant to the minds of our ancestors at the time when the Constitution was written and ever since. It signalizes the fact that the United States of America, like many other nations, is past the place where underlying Christian culture and beliefs are assumed in its life.

"This event intensifies the task of the Church. It heightens the need of the Church for strength to stand alone, lofty and unshaken, in American society. It calls for greater depth of conviction in all Christian men and women."

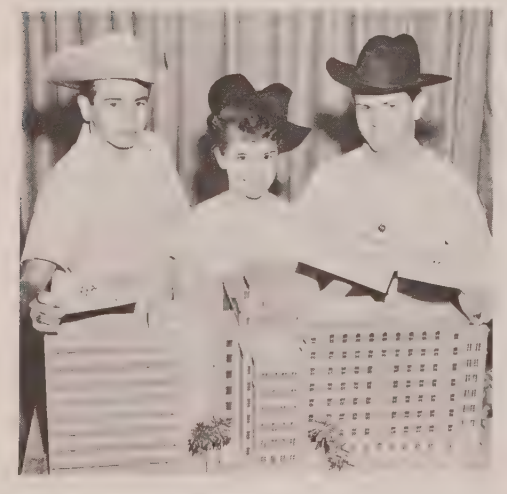
Religious sidelights on recent news events and other items of interest

MORE THAN 7800 Lutherans gathered in the upper deck of Memorial Stadium, Baltimore, Md., for the first annual Lutheran Family Night. They witnessed a game between the Orioles and the Chicago White Sox, which was preceded by a ceremony honoring the Lutheran ball players of both clubs. In photo at left Ordell Braase, defensive end of the Baltimore Colts and administrative assistant of Lutheran Social Services of Maryland, is shown presenting inscribed copies of Ralph Colman's painting of Christ to Jack Brandt and Bob Johnson of the Orioles, and John Buzhardt of the White Sox.



MISS AMERICA of 1963, Jacquelyn Jeanne Mayer, was named winner of the Religious Heritage Youth Award for exemplifying high standards of conduct and religious ideals in daily life. Miss Mayer, who is studying for a career in religious drama, developed her acting ability in church school plays. (RNS Photo)

THE ARMY'S Chief of Chaplains is shown (right) at Ft. Carson, Colo., as he addressed 10,000 soldiers on Moral and Religious Training Day. Maj. Gen. (Chaplain) Charles E. Brown told the troops that motives of armies through history often have been dubious, but the men of Ft. Carson "can be proud of the motivation of defending this heritage of ours." Maj. Gen. John A. Heintges, Fifth Infantry Division commander told the men that the day should help them take spiritual inventory and find answers to the "big questions we all have."

AN ADVANCE LOOK at the new Lutheran School of Theology which will be built at the University of Chicago is provided by an artist's sketch of the proposed library and classroom building. The school is a merger of four midwestern Lutheran seminaries. It will have facilities for 250 students, with later expansion to 500. Estimated cost of the new campus is $6,900,000. The Rev. Dr. Stewart W. Herman was recently named head of the Lutheran Church in America institution.

LUTHERAN YOUTH GROUPS aided the California Hospital Building Fund by selling tickets for the 19th Annual Kiwanis Rodeo held on June 22 in Los Angeles. The hospital, operated by the Lutheran Hospital Society of Southern California, is undergoing a $4 million building program, including construction of a new 119-bed wing, and refurbishing of the present building. Shown in photo at left are Jerry Quell (left) and Toby Salminen (right) of Mt. Calvary Church, La Puente, Calif., and Melinda Rasmussen (center) of El Sereno Church, Los Angeles, pledging their support in the ticket drive.

Second Glance

¶ Lutheran Churches in North America reported a total membership of 8,734,734 adults and children at the end of 1962. The total represents a gain of 123,666 members or 1.66% during the year.

¶ Rear Admiral (Chaplain) Joseph F. Dreith, a Lutheran pastor, was appointed Chief of Navy Chaplains, making him the first Lutheran ever elected to this post in any of the U.S. service branches. A Navy chaplain for 26 years, he served aboard aircraft carrier Bunker Hill and was under fire in nine naval battles.

¶ New president of Lutheran St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., is the Rev. Dr. Sidney A. Rand. He succeeds retiring president, the Rev. Dr. Clemens M. Granskou, who served the large liberal arts school for two decades.

¶ Lutheran conventions and leaders have spoken out strongly in behalf of efforts to end racial discrimination. The Executive Council of the Lutheran Church in America took action in July to declare "its conviction that any segregation or discrimination on the basis of race in the congregations, agencies and institutions of the Church is in violation of God's will" and to "urge members of the congregations to initiate and support efforts at reconciliation between the races in their communities and to support proper legislation designed to assure equal opportunity for all citizens in housing, education, employment, voting, and access to all facilities serving the public."

President Fredrik A. Schiotz of the American Lutheran Church, commenting on the long continued segregation practices, said, "Communism makes hay out of our iniquity. The proclamation of our foreign missionaries is robbed of much of its power." Hopefully he added, "Before us lies the possibility that our nation may be the first one wherein God has had an opportunity to demonstrate the blessings He can pour out upon a people that recognizes and acts on the truth that God is the Creator and Redeemer of all men."

¶ The "Radio Voice of the Gospel", Lutheran World Federation radio station located at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, has reported reception of its 100 kilowatt broadcasts in such countries as Sarawak, Ceylon, Japan, Ghana, Burma, and Saudi Arabia.

¶ Seven teachers in their 20's are on their way to New Guinea to spend two years in a special short term teaching program in Lutheran missions. The volunteers will teach in the English language in a variety of subjects. Each receives $150 initial equipment allowance, $200 a year for personal expenses, board and room on the field, all medical expenses, and cost of travel to, from, and while on the field.

Sunday and every day—

THE LORD HAS NEED OF YOU!

by Chaplain Russell E. Knutson, USA

EVERYBODY loves a parade. The toot of a horn by a car decorated with "Just Married" signs and followed by others in the procession doesn't pass without eyes being turned to see and enjoy. The more formal ticker tape parades attract a great deal of attention. And no Irishman worth his shamrock would avoid marching in or viewing a parade on St. Patrick's Day.

The purposes of parades and processions are several. But, in the main, they let us display our feelings publicly about an event or person. People find it hard to restrain enthusiasm whether they are spectators or marchers.

What a contrast it sometimes is when we are called upon to show enthusiasm for our Lord. The average Sunday, especially in the military setting, provides a less than enthusiastic picture of attendance at services. Here are some of the excuses I have heard:

1. "I was on duty." (Religious services are authorized reason to be relieved.)
2. "I needed the sleep." (At 11:00 a.m.?)
3. "No one else comes." (How do you know?)
4. "It's not the same as at home." (But it's the same God.)
5. "I had a pass." (Every Sunday?)

The list of lame excuses could go on and on . . . but more important things must be considered.

Since a parade is comprised of large numbers, we tend to forget that it is made up of individuals. Similarly, in our expressions of worship we must remember that the individuals are as significant as the group.

It is easy for us to get lost in a crowd of strangers, but it is not possible for our Lord to lose sight of us! To Him we are not merely numbers or parts of a crowd, but individuals whose very presence is known and coveted. And that is a most valuable fact to hold onto in this world. He who cares for the birds of the field will certainly remember you. What you do, what you say, how you remember to serve and honor Him—these are important. To paraphrase Christ's words before the Palm Sunday procession, "The Lord has need of you."

God has a means of propagating His message and you have a place in it. If we claim to belong to Him then He has at His disposal our bodies, faith, love and ability. If we wanted to be used by Him, full of enthusiasm, what the world would see would put parades and processions of the past to shame.

But, we have to begin as individuals. We have to begin by making sure our Christian faith has roots. Roots in th Word and Sacrament where we meet our Lord and Saviour . . . where we meet to have fellowship with Him who says to us, "I have need of you."

The world sees big parades frequently. But if you will join the one for our Lord—by worshipping every Sunday, praying for daily guidance, and serving as He directs—you will be taking part in the biggest procession of all. Remember, it starts with and must include you, an important person in God's eyes, His child.

Fortify your faith through DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He comands, obey. When He guides, follow.

¶ More mergers of Lutheran bodies overseas were reported this summer. In Tanganyika, East Africa, seven groups formed the 350,000 member Evangelical Lutheran Church in Tanganyika. In Japan, two bodies united to form the Japan Evangelical Lutheran Church with 13,000 members.

In America another merger was consummated with the incorporation of the 12,000 member National Evangelical Lutheran Church into the 2,500,000 member Missouri Synod.

¶ Meeting in Montreal, Quebec, the Fourth World Conference on Faith and Order was held July 12-26. It was attended by 270 delegates and 200 observers from 50 countries and all major Christian confessions. Participants explored basic theological questions involved in the effort toward Christian unity. Controversial matters discussed included church union negotiations, the inability of Christians of different Churches to celebrate Holy Communion together, the ordination of women and the role of Scripture.

Youth Activities in the Church of Finland

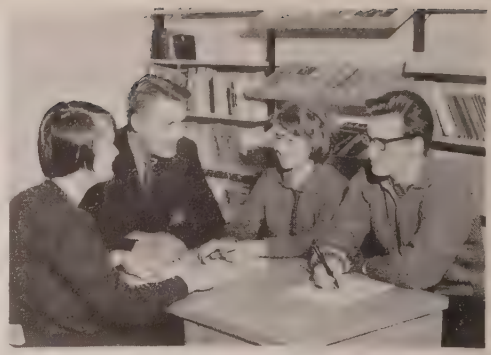
THE FOURTH ASSEMBLY of the Lutheran World Federation in Helsinki, Finland, July 30-August 11, gave thousands of Lutherans from other countries an opportunity to know the Church of Finland, which enrolls over 90% of the population of this strongly Lutheran country. Although Christianity has been established in Finland for over 800 years, and the Church preserves many old traditions, it is also very forward-looking in many respects.

Strikingly modern church buildings are being constructed in many parts of Finland, and within the buildings a new spirit of participation by and service to young people is found.

Pictures on this page depict examples of youth activity in the Lutheran Church of Finland today.

Serving the congregation of the ultra-modern Hyvinkää church, 40 miles north of Helsinki, as youth pastor is the Rev. Aimo Peltonen. One of four pastors of the parish, he works especially with young people, but also preaches and officiates at the altar as pictured above.

Typical teen-ager is 16-year-old high schooler Terttu Laine. A member of parish clubs since she was a small girl, after confirmation Terttu took her place in the youth activities which include evenings of discussion, dramatic presentations, youth choir and participation in services. On the lighter side are skits and comedies, picnics and field trips. Genuine joy of life is normal for these young people to whom their parish Church means friends and companions learning together to "observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." The Cross for these youth is not in the first place an ornament, but the sign of life.



Gymnastics and team sports are provided for young people in this modern parish center near Helsinki.

Some of the most effective and lasting work among young people is done in "summer confirmation schools" at church Bible camps. Finland is a land of thousands of lakes and the Finns use their beautiful out-of-doors to good advantage during the brief summer.

Holding a meeting to plan youth work in the Hyvinkää parish are (l. to r.) Terttu Laine, boy's leader Pertti Laine, Raili Salonen and Seppo Vesela—all with a satisfied expression on their faces after discovering a good idea for a special program.

In the parish center there is a photo laboratory where good friends Hannu and Esko spend a good bit of their free time. In addition, there are a hobby club and a radio club to satisfy the technical interests of others.

The Church has found an effective way to reach youth by visiting each school once a month. In these meetings young people have opportunity to discuss topics of the day. In addition there is regular daily reading of Scriptures and prayer in every Finnish school.

ANDRIENA LUNDGREN, of Orange, Mass., is our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for August.

In view of her diverse high school activities, it is understandable that the Rev. Ernest E. [illegible]en, who nominated her, refers to Andriena as "an all around girl." She was a member of the National Honor Society, Girl's State Representative, holder of the D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award, member of the Student Council, Student Exchange Representative, Captain of the Varsity Cheerleaders and Softball Team, and a member of the year book staff.

At Bethany Church, in Orange, Andriena has served as president of the Luther League, a vacation Bible school teacher, and is currently on the Sunday school staff.

Next month she will enter Bay Path Junior College in Longmeadow, Mass.

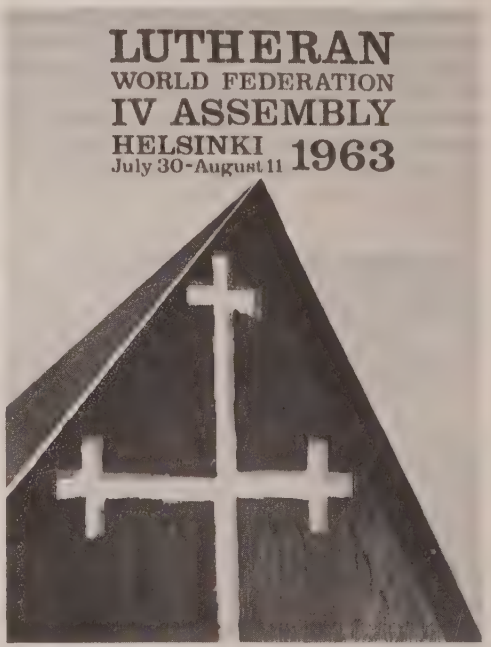
WORLD LUTHERAN ASSEMBLY MEETS IN HELSINKI, JULY 30 - AUGUST 11

MEETING in the capital city of Finland, the Fourth Assembly of the Lutheran World Federation began its deliberations on July 30. Sessions were to continue through August 11, including plenary meetings of delegates and official visitors, mass meetings, lectures, visitors' programs and services of worship.



About 50 million of the world's 70 million Lutherans are members of Churches which participate in the Lutheran World Federation —63 church bodies in 36 countries. Each of these Churches—ranging in size from young organizations of only a few thousand members in "mission" areas to the Church of Sweden with over 7 million souls—is represented by voting delegates, as well as official visitors. Several non-member Lutheran bodies are also represented by visitors, as well as other major Christian communions and organizations—including the Roman Catholic Church.

The LWF has three official languages—English, German and Scandinavian. Assembly sessions and services are conducted in these tongues, plus the language of the host Church —Finnish. As in the United Nations, simultaneous translation facilities are provided.

Thousands of "unofficial visitors" were expected in Helsinki for the Assembly. Some of these are Finns, but many are Lutherans from other countries who are combining assembly attendance with vacation travel. Over 2,000 Americans signed up for charter flights to the Finnish capital at assembly time.

News of the deliberations is being covered by over 100 accredited journalists, who will be able to follow the plenary sessions on closed-circuit television in any one of the four languages. Forty mass communications specialists from eight countries will staff the press, radio and television organization of the Assembly.

"Christ Today" is the assembly theme. A series of five main lectures based on the second chapter of Ephesians will be among the high points. Other important events include a music festival, including participation by choirs from OFFICIAL POSTER for the Assembly, which won a certificate of honor for its designer, was printed in eight different languages.

Gettysburg, Thiel and Suomi colleges in the U.S.; a youth rally, and the closing festival in the Helsinki Olympic Stadium.

Churchmen at Helsinki will discuss important questions of Christian unity, especially the place that the LWF itself should have in bringing Lutherans together and carrying on discussions with other Christians. Worldwide Lutheran efforts in interchurch aid, relief of suffering and preaching the Gospel will also be reviewed and future policies decided. All Lutherans have been asked to pray for the guidance of the Holy Spirit on the Assembly and its actions.

For additional news and pictures of the Helsinki meetings, see the back page of this issue.

A CRUSADERS' LOCK, dating back to the 12th century, is examined by an attractive visitor to a "traveling museum" at Wildwood-by-the-Sea, N.J. This lock was reportedly installed on the west gate of the Holy Sepulchre, the church in Jerusalem which marks the site of Christ's crucifixion and resurrection, by the Crusaders. Made of extremely hard and durable sycamore, the wooden lock was used constantly for over 600 years, and was an object of veneration for pilgrims visiting Jerusalem. The small Darius lock at lower left is believed to have been used in 336 B.C. in Persia. (RNS Photo)

MT. EVEREST CLIMBER, Dr. William F. Unsoeld of Corvallis, Ore., left a crucifix at the top of the world's highest peak. Dr. Unsoeld, a Methodist minister, was one of several climbers who reached the top of Everest on recent American expedition. The Christian symbol was placed on the peak at the request of a friend, a Roman Catholic priest from Washington, D.C. The 36-year-old minister is shown at right relaxing after his feat. He is on leave from his position as assistant professor of philosophy and religion at Oregon State University. (RNS Photo)

ASTRONAUT GORDON COOPER is shown in picture at left autographing Bibles for young Sunday school students, after attending services at First Christian Church, Cocoa Beach, Florida. A Methodist for 25 years, Major Cooper's membership has been transferred from Church [illegible] Church in his military travels. Because of [illegible] deeply rooted faith, he chose "Faith 7" as the name of the spacecraft in which he made his spectacular 22-orbit flight.

A recent article in the Honolulu, Hawaii, Star-Bulletin revealed that when Gordon Cooper married "Trudy" Olson in 1947, the officiating minister was a Lutheran chaplain, Col. Palmer P. Pierce, USAF. Stationed then at Hickam Field, Hawaii, Col. Pierce is now command chaplain at Ent A.F.B., Colorado. (RNS Photo)

A FATHER-SON TEAM, the first and only active-duty combination in the military chaplaincy, ended recently with the retirement of Chaplain (Colonel) James F. Patterson (left), shown here with his son, First Lieutenant James F. Patterson III. Col. Patterson entered the military chaplaincy in 1942 and his son followed 20 years later. The B-24 and Atlas missile models they hold symbolize their respective Air Force careers. Both are pastors of the Lutheran Church in America. (NLC News Photo)

TWO STUDENTS at a Lutheran college have leading roles in a new film, "This Is Our Heritage"—a historical interfaith documentary about houses of worship in Washington, D.C. Shown at right are Dianne M. Andersen and James L. Meyers, who act out a brother-sister visit to the federal city in the 22-minute color film, produced by Religious Heritage of America, an organization devoted to preserving America's religious traditions. They are pictured before the archway of Christ Church, Alexandria, Virginia, where George Washington was a vestryman. Both are students at Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa. (NLC News Photo)

Second Glance

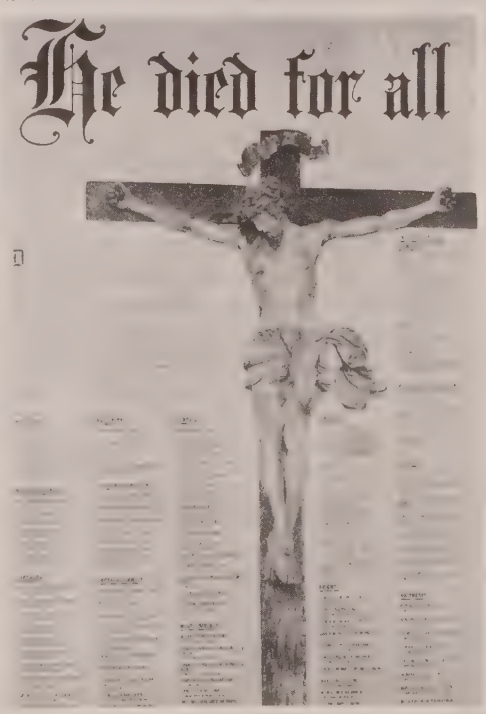
¶ California Lutheran College, the only college jointly owned by the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America, has named a new president. He is the Rev. Dr. Raymond M. Olson, who has been director of stewardship in the A.L.C. Dr. Olson also serves as president of the National Lutheran Council.

¶ The Church has spent too much time ringing door bells to attract new members and too little making Christians of those already on its rolls, according to the Rev. Dr. Karl Hertz, professor of sociology at Wittenberg University, Springfield, Ohio. Speaking to a school for pastors of urban congregations, the clergyman criticized the lack of discipline exerted by Protestant Churches. "We have tended, by and large . . . to ignore by indifference those decisions and pronouncements of the Church with which we disagree. That is why the Church has so little influence in our society," Dr. Hertz asserted.

¶ Two Lutheran bishops in Germany have spoken out against proposals to ordain women to the ministry. Bishop Hermann Dietzfelbinger of Bavaria said the principle of equality of men and women could not be applied automatically to the spiritual office. Bishop Karl Witte of Hamburg pointed out that the Church in its 1900-year history had not known a "pastoress" and that departure from this principle would liquidate a basic church tradition. Ordination of women would erect obstacles to Christian unity, it was also said.

¶ Four students from St. Olaf College lost a televised quiz contest a year ago, but their appearance on nationwide TV won $160,000 for the American Lutheran Church school at Northfield, Minn. A Santa Rosa, Calif., couple saw the "College Bowl" program on which the St. Olaf team lost, 250-220, to students from the University of Tennessee. "We liked their forthrightness," said Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Gedge, who then investigated the Lutheran college further and finally offered a gift of a portfolio of stocks.

¶ Lutheran leaders voiced profound sorrow at the death on June 3 of the Roman Catholic Church's Pope John XXIII. In Minneapolis, Minn., President Fredrik A. Schiotz of the ALC said, "Everywhere Christians will grieve in the death of Pope John XXIII. We thank God for his life and ministry." President Franklin Clark Fry of the LCA and of the LWF issued a statement in New York pointing out that "the hearts of Christians of every confession are united to a degree that is unique for many centuries at the death of the universally esteemed and beloved John XXIII. . . . Our prayer is that the warmth of his spirit will not be chilled and the height of his vision will not shrink."



In Keeping His Promise—

THE LORD IS NOT SLOW!

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

I REMEMBER how taken back I was when I first heard the expression, "He's as slow as the second coming of Christ!" This expression was not made by a follower of Christ, that's certain! Immediately I thought of that passage in Scripture which says, "The Lord is not slow about his promise as some count slowness, but is forbearing toward you, not wishing that any should perish but that all should reach repentance. But the day of the Lord will come like a thief, and then the heavens will pass away with a loud noise, and the elements will be dissolved with fire, and the earth and the works that are upon it will be burned up." (II Peter 3:9,10)

Not too long ago, there were people who would scoff at this passage about fire, heat and the earth being dissolved. The laughter has now ceased as men contemplate the prospects of a nuclear war. This is why the Scriptures are so timeless. They are so far ahead of man even in his present state of scientific advance.

CLEVELAND AREA CHURCHES published a full-page newspaper ad during Holy Week emphasizing their welcome for everyone who wishes to worship with them. One hundred and seventeen congregations co-sponsored the ad, which also made clear that many additional churches definitely approved it.

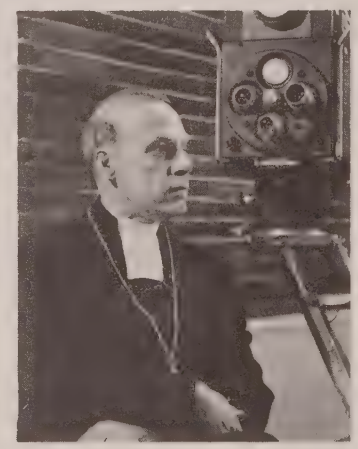
In the statement, the Churches reaffirmed their belief, "clearly stated by our national and state bodies, that Jesus Christ is Lord of all, and that it is a sin against God and man to exclude any person from worship or membership in the local congregation on the basis of race, color, class or national origin."

This is also the reason why it is dangerous to go out on a limb and present detailed time schedules as to what the Lord is going to do and in what exact order He will do it. There certainly is enough information given to us in the Bible to assure us that the Lord is coming back and that for the unprepared it will be too soon.

On certain occasions time can seem to be endless. Waiting for the countdown can be a long time for the astronaut. Floating helplessly about in a life raft looking for land can be a terribly long time. Leaves or furloughs often go past too quickly. We must not ignore this one fact, that "with the Lord one day is as a thousand years and a thousand years as one day." (II Peter 3:8)

Nobody is upsetting God's time schedule. Just as "in the fulness of time" God sent forth his Son, born of a woman, so will this same Jesus, whom the disciples saw go up into heaven, come again in like manner. But it will be in his good and planned time. God makes no mistakes. His timing is perfect. Paul writes that "In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of his grace which he lavished upon us. For he has made known to us in all wisdom and insight the mystery of his will, according to his purpose which he set forth in Christ as a plan for the fulness of time, to unite all things in Him, things in heaven and things on earth." (Ephesians 1:7-10)

Ever since the days of the early disciples, there have been those who have said, "Where is the promise of his coming? For ever since the fathers fell asleep, all things have continued as they were from the beginning of creation." (II Peter 3:4). We should remember the predictions of the holy prophets and the commandment of the Lord and Savior through the apostles. Christ is coming back, whether we think so or not. He will return and all men will see Him and honor Him.



Men may curse God. Men may take the name of the Lord in vain. But it still makes no difference. Those same men will have to bow before the Lord of Lords. The big difference is, however, if men will receive Christ as Savior and Lord now, they won't later have to bow before Him to be judged. Instead they will honor Him forever and receive eternal life promised to those who believe and live for Him. What a difference it will make!

The Lord is not slow about his coming. For some who read these lines, He will come very soon—through death. For all of us He may come at any time—through his second coming. How grateful we can be that we need not fear his coming. We can instead look forward to his appearing—for life eternal!

Fortify your faith through DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He comands, obey. When He guides, follow.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

EVELYN VOCKE, a senior at Wagner College in Staten Island, N.Y., is "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for July.

A member of Grace Church, Baltimore, Md., Lynn has been very active in her four years at Wagner, a college of the Lutheran Church in America. This year she was co-chairman of Faith and Life Week, secretary of the Board of Religious Activities, president of the Panhellenic Council, chairman of the Board of Social and Cultural Affairs and captain of the girls' varsity basketball team.

A history major, Lynn was nominated by her college chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Joseph B. Flotten, who describes her as "a girl you can always count on when there's a job that needs doing." Her only fault, says Chaplain Flotten, is that she roots for the wrong teams (the Orioles and Colts instead of the Mets and Giants).

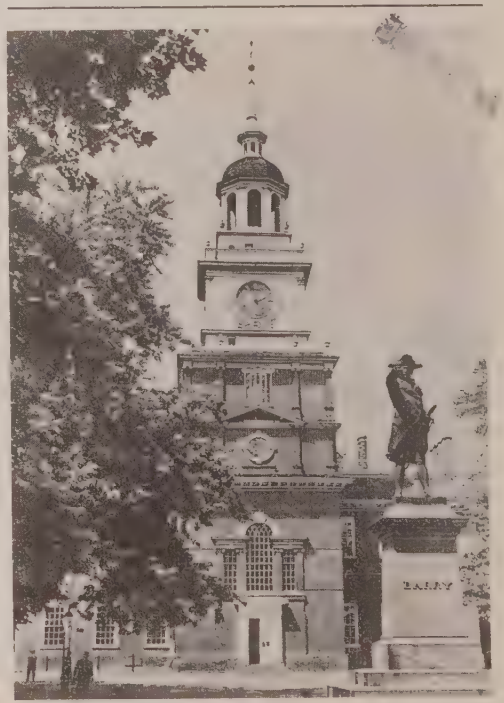
CALL FOR REVERENT, PATRIOTIC INDEPENDENCE DAY OBSERVANCE

TWO CONNECTICUT MEN, Eric Hatch of Litchfield and Eric Sloane of Warren, have sparked an idea which may well turn July 4, 1963, into one of the most inspiring celebrations in our nation's history.

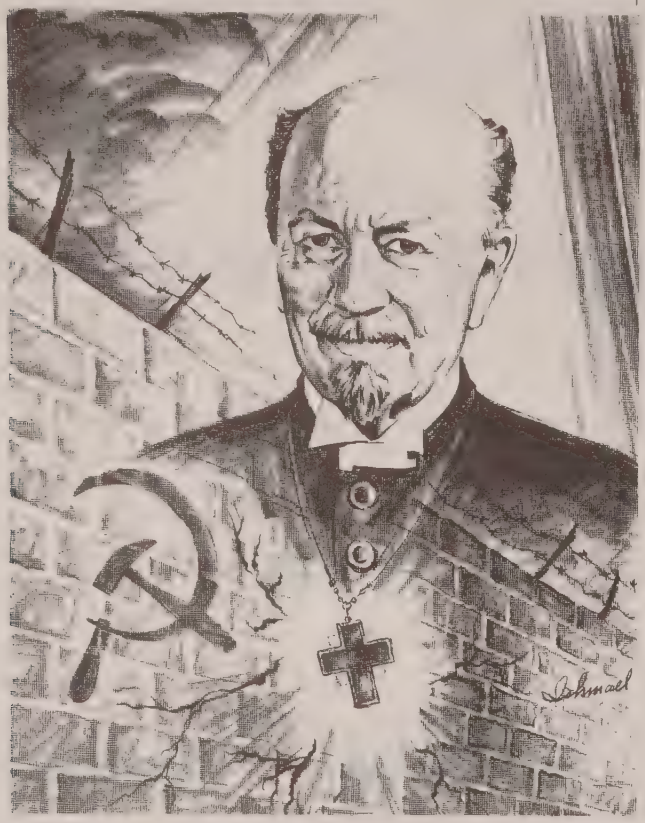


They propose that at 2 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, every bell in America be rung for four minutes to celebrate the birthday of our independence. Led by the ringing of the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, thousands of bells in churches, government buildings, colleges and universities will ring in all 50 states.

The Biblical quotation inscribed on the historic Liberty Bell ("Proclaim liberty throughout the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof"—Leviticus 25:10) is symbolic of the fact that American traditions of personal liberty are rooted in Biblical faith. The authors of the Declaration of Independence gave expression to this by the statement that all men are "endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights . . ." The patriots who approved the Declaration did so with "a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence."

After the Continental Congress vote adopting the Declaration, Delegate John Adams wrote to his wife in Massachusetts: "I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other. . . ."

This Week magazine suggests that "perhaps a little of the noble grandeur that John Adams felt has been dulled in our hearts by the passage of time." Noting that "the Fourth of July has evolved into more of a summer holiday than a patriotic festival," that "games" and "sports" have taken over "a little too much of the stage," and that "illuminations"—fireworks—have largely disappeared, it points out that the Sloan and Hatch proposal of bell ringing—also mentioned by John Adams—would become a uniting feature of the whole day—"much like the national observance of two minutes of silence at 11 a.m. on Veterans Day."



Considering the acknowledged divine basis of human rights and dignity, Adams' suggestion of "solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty" ought also to be observed by Christian Americans in gratitude for the blessings of liberty.

AT INDEPENDENCE HALL, Philadelphia, the Declaration of Independence was adopted. Actual vote on a resolution of independence was made on July 2, but the Declaration was not published until July 4, 1776. Signatures of 56 delegates were added later. (RNS Photo)

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

When Lutheran Bishop Otto Dibelius received an honorary degree from Southern Methodist University during a visit to America last year, the president of the Dallas institution called him "the symbol of the church's finest hour in our time."

Replied the doughty, 81-year-old bishop: "I am a simple, modest servant of the church."

Both descriptions are apt. In his simple but staunch way Bishop Dibelius, recently retired head of the Berlin diocese of Germany's Evangelical (Lutheran) Church, is one of the bitterest enemies the East German communist regime ever had.

Before the communists built their wall, Bishop Dibelius made monthly visits to preach to his flock in the eastern sector of Berlin. His sermons were studded with anti-communist barbs which would have landed a lesser figure in a red prison cell.

Such a test of faith would have been nothing new to Dibelius. A generation ago he was jailed by the Nazis for attacking them fiercely—reminding them, among other things, of the Jewish origin of Jesus.

Before his retirement, Bishop Dibelius made a heartfelt plea to his colleagues everywhere:

"I beg the church never to surrender to the powers of this world...I pray for all who hold office in the church that their courage may not fail..."

DESIGNED FOR MISSIONARY SERVICE, a compact twin-engined plane is taking shape at Hampshire, Ill. Spearheading development of the prototype, the first aircraft ever designed specifically for missionary use, is Carl A. Mortensen, 28, of Wheaton, Ill. He is a pilot-mechanic who conceived the idea while serving in the jungles of Peru with the Wycliffe Bible Translators.

A twin-engine plane is needed, Mortensen explained, because almost all missionary pilots use single-engine aircraft and chances of survival in remote areas are slim if the engine fails. The plane is designed to carry six to eight persons despite a wing span of only 36 feet; its designer said it can be readily converted to cargo service and can use small 600-foot airstrips. TWENTY-SIX NOBEL PRIZE WINNERS march in procession past a bust of Swedish King Gustavus Adolphus at Lutheran college named for him in St. Peter, Minn. The distinguished guests were at the college to attend dedication of the Alfred Nobel Hall of Science, named in honor of the Swedish inventor of dynamite who established the prizes for outstanding accomplishments in physics, chemistry, physiology, medicine, and the promotion of peace.

The college conferred honorary Doctor of Science degrees on 24 of the 26 Nobel winners. The two others present—Dr. Ralph Bunche, under-secretary of the United Nations, and Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission—had been similarly honored by Gustavus in 1950 and 1954, respectively.

Founded by immigrants from Sweden, Gustavus Adolphus College is named for Lutheran defender of the faith who lost his life in the religious wars of the seventeenth century. (RNS Photo)

Second Glance

¶ Attention of the world's Lutherans turns toward northern Europe this month as participants gather in five countries for meetings preparatory to the Helsinki Assembly of the Lutheran World Federation.

Fifty Lutheran youth leaders from different countries are spending almost the whole summer in an exchange program, including a preparatory camp in Hamburg, Germany, three weeks of caravaning in several European lands, and a conference in Finland just before the assembly.

A women's conference will be held in Neuminster, Germany, July 17-21, with 50 selected churchwomen in attendance. Nearly 200 mission leaders concerned with the spread of the Gospel in Asia and Africa will take part in the LWF Commission on World Mission meeting in Stavanger, Norway, July 17-25. Fifty specialists on Christian education are to have a five-day conference at Haslev, Denmark, opening July 23. Two days later, the Second Lutheran World Conference on Social Responsibility will bring together some 400 participants for five days of sessions in Stockholm, Sweden.

A student conference with 150 participants will be held July 24-30 in Järvenpää, Finland.

The world assembly itself opens in the Finnish capital on July 30. Delegates and official visitors are expected to number 800. In addition the assembly staff will include 300 persons, about 100 accredited journalists will be present, and several thousand unofficial visitors (including 2000 Americans) are expected.

¶ A "Spiritual Boot Camp" for young men, 17 and older, facing military service was held at Holden Village, Washington, June 17-27. The village is a retreat center of the Lutheran Church located in a wilderness area of the Northern Cascade Mountains. Included were discussions on critical military situations for the serviceman, the meaning of Christian vocation for the serviceman, and life in the military. The camp was described as an attempt to help pre-inductees discover "how they can affirm their Christian faith in a trying time."

¶ Male Lutherans who do not possess tenor voices and have found it difficult to sing some high-pitched hymns in the Service Book and Hymnal may take heart. Thirteen such hymns in future editions of the hymnbook will eventually appear in lower keys, according to action taken by the Commission on the Liturgy and Hymnal at its annual meeting. Over 2 million copies of the common book of worship are now in circulation.

¶ A new translation of Luther's Small Catechism in contemporary English is being published as a joint venture by the three largest Lutheran church bodies in America. Editorial changes include replacement of the familiar "Thou shalt" and "Thou shalt not" with "You shall" and "You shall not . . ." in the Ten Commandments.

In the explanation of the Sixth Commandment ("You shall not commit adultery"), the former admonition to "lead a chaste and pure life in word and deed" is changed to read "in matters of sex our words and conduct are to be pure and honorable."

What may be behind it—

WHEN A MAN DENIES GOD

By the Rev. Martin H. Obst
Servicemen's Contact Pastor, Beeville, Texas

"I DON'T BELIEVE there is a God." "How do you know there is a God?" These sound familiar, don't they? We call the first position atheistic—the second one agnostic.

Recently a young man told me he lost his faith because he could not reconcile science and religion. He denied God. He put up a strong defense for his position. That is, he did until I said, "Now let us ask ourselves: Why do people want to get rid of God?" He hesitated and then asked me, "Well, why?" During the next half-hour our conversation brought out the following thoughts.

When people sin they have a guilty conscience. At first they may treat their sins "matter-of-factly," as though they were "natural," "the accepted thing," "the usual thing." But guilt grows and soon this shrugging off of sin no longer works.

God stands as a judge who condemns sin through His law. If we can get rid of God, we can get rid of both law and judge. Where there is no law, there is no guilt. As a result a guilty conscience may try to find arguments why "there is no God." Sometimes a guilty person will argue that God's demands are unjust and unreasonable. Sometimes he will hold God responsible for sin itself, by saying, "Why did God make us so that we could sin?" When people deny God, we need not always take this denial at face value, remembering that often the guilty try to deny God.

The young man who said he had lost his faith came back to the pastor two weeks later and confessed sins of unchastity and adultery. He no longer tried to deny God, but rather said, "God be merciful to me, a sinner!" He was willing to confess his sins rather than try to avoid guilt by denial of God.

Not everyone comes right out and denies God when he is guilty. Why do some people stay away from church and chapel? Why do some sneer at religion? Why do some argue that church attendance and Communion are not necessary? Let us remember that the guilty also try to avoid God as much as possible. Though they feel guilty over past sin, they are too proud to admit it, so they don't care to confront God.

But God says, "Return to me and I will return to you." Scripture pleads: "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just and will forgive our sins and cleanse us from all unrighteousness. If we say we have not sinned, we make Him a liar, and his word is not in us."

We must learn to confess our sins, accept forgiveness in Christ, and let God make us clean in the blood of His Son. We must not let a guilty conscience lead us to try to avoid or deny God.

Your Lutheran pastor or chaplain will be glad to talk over your problems with you. He will help you find God's love and forgiveness in Christ. He will help you understand what Christianity really is and means, and in doing so he will help you understand yourself. Christ can make you "complete, equipped for every good work." But first you must confess your guilt and be forgiven. Take care of this matter today.

SUMMERTIME will bring millions of Americans to our national and state parks, forests and other recreation areas. Churches provide opportunities for worship in a natural setting at such beauty spots, especially through "A Christian Ministry in the National Parks," which assigns 187 seminary and college students to work and minister within the parks each summer.

Armies Overrun a Lutheran Seminary

THE CENTENNIAL celebration of the Battle of Gettysburg, which was fought July 1-3, 1863, is being observed this month. The famous encounter between the Confederate army under Lee and the Union forces under Meade in the small southern Pennsylvania town is often regarded as the turning point of the American Civil War.

Of unusual interest to Lutherans is the fact that the campus of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg played an important part in the battle. Located on "Seminary Ridge" west and south of the town, the grounds and buildings of the school were occupied by both Northern and Southern forces during the course of the engagement.

Early on the first day of the battle the Union Army's General Buford used the cupola of the main seminary building as a point from which to observe the Confederate troops advancing from the west. Gradually during the day the Northern forces were pushed back toward the town and in the late afternoon abandoned their positions on Seminary Ridge, to take up stronger fortifications on Cemetery Ridge to the east.

The seminary grounds were now in the hands of the South. The buildings were included in the Confederate line of defense and so were exposed to the fire of the Federal guns. The cupola was used as an observatory by Lee's aides, and was the chief signal station for the Confederate Army throughout the rest of the battle.

During the course of the fighting, the school's buildings were filled with the dead and wounded, their walls penetrated by cannon balls, windows shattered by bursting shells and floors mottled with indelible bloodstains.

In June, when Lee began his march northward, the governor of Pennsylvania had called for special enlistments to meet the emergency. Most of the students at the seminary responded. A group of them formed the nucleus of Company A, 26th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Militia, which was recruited from the town of Gettysburg itself. This regiment was involved in preliminary skirmishing with the Confederates, but during the battle itself was stationed in Harrisburg, to the northeast.

The professors and their families left the campus although the last did not leave until the Southern forces took possession of the grounds and issued orders for them to abandon their homes. The seminary president, Dr. S. S. Schmucker, had a reputation as a leading opponent of slavery, and the contents of his house were treated with a ruthlessness that was the exception rather than the rule in the Southern Army. The seminary archives, books, papers and letters were scattered and trampled. Most of the damage to seminary property was the result of military necessity, however.

Following the heroic but unsuccessful charge by Gen. Pickett's division, which originated on Seminary Ridge and attempted to dislodge the center of the Union line, the Confederates were forced to withdraw from Gettysburg and the battle ended. The main seminary building and tents erected nearby continued to be used as a hospital for several weeks, the majority of the patients being Confederates. Seminary personnel helped in caring for the wounded.

Today Gettysburg Seminary is a school of the Lutheran Church in America with over 200 students for the ministry and other church vocations enrolled.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He comands, obey. When He guides, follow.

PATTI POWELL, of Windom, Minnesota, is our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for June.

During high school Patti was president of her Church's Luther League and Senior Choir, a Vacation Bible school teacher, and attended the national Luther League conventions in Milwaukee and Miami Beach.

Now a sophomore at Winona State College in her home state, she majors in primary education, and has just been elected to her second year on the Council of the Lutheran Student Association. Her many activities include the chorus, band, school paper and yearbook staff. She was recently elected Campus Cover Girl.

Patti's hobbies are knitting, swimming, water skiing, and bowling.

The campus pastor who nominated her, the Rev. W. C. Friesth of Central Church, Winona, calls her "a very friendly person with a winning personality" who "gives a fine witness on our campus."

American Lutherans Support English Language Churches in Three European Capitals

MILITARY PERSONNEL and other Americans stationed in or visiting Norway, Denmark, or Sweden will find English-language Lutheran congregations holding services each Sunday in the three Scandinavian capitals: Oslo, Copenhagen, and Stockholm.

The American congregations have been established with the full cooperation and blessing of the national Churches of the three predominantly Lutheran lands. The Oslo and Copenhagen parishes are sponsored by the American Lutheran Church; the Stockholm congregation (and additional services in Gothenburg and Norköpping, Sweden) by the Lutheran Church in America.

There are now several thousand Americans living in each of the Scandinavian countries. They are representatives of American government or business, students, or retired persons. In Norway and Denmark there are also U.S. military personnel. In addition, tens of thousands of travellers from America visit the countries each year. While some of these people understand the national languages and can attend church services in those languages, there are large enough concentrations of Americans in the larger cities to make the work of American congregations needed.

The Oslo congregation was established in 1958, followed by the work in Copenhagen beginning in 1961 and Stockholm in 1962. The first group is presently completing its own church building; the second presently meets in the YMCA; the third holds services in a chapel of the Church of Sweden's City Mission. The pastor of each Church serves as a contact pastor for American armed services personnel stationed or visiting in his area.

Each Church has a full program, including such customary activities as Bible classes, youth groups, choirs, family nights and couples' clubs. Evangelism and charitable activities form an important part of the congregations' work as they do at home in America.

American pastors serving these Churches are: the Rev. Myrus Knutson at Oslo, Norway; the Rev. William Hanson at Copenhagen, Denmark; the Rev. Lael Westberg at Stockholm, Sweden. Their addresses are listed among the contact pastors in the center pages of this issue of A MIGHTY FORTRESS. You are invited to look them up and to attend services they conduct if you are visiting in any of the Scandinavian capitals.

CHRISTIAN GROUPS COUNTER 'COLLEGE FLING' AT RESORTS IN FLORIDA

THE EASTER VACATION season at Florida beach resort areas spawned more than "twisting" and a long wild weekend. Christian-motivated attractions were available this year for the thousands of collegians who annually flock south for the holiday. In other years rioting and conduct described as a "college fling" were reported.

A small but noticeable group among the masses was a 20-strong unit of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. Staging debates and arranging discussion sessions, the Fellowship members reported encouraging success in communicating with the vacationing students on an individual basis.

Also present was the Rev. Malcolm Boyd, Episcopal chaplain at Wayne State University, Detroit, Mich., who has become known as the "Espresso Priest" for his ministry to coffee-house habitues and varied unconventional means of expressing the Gospel.

Another group among the vacationers was the Fellowship's All-American Caravan of professional athletes and Dixieland musicians. Giving personal testimony of their faith were Ed Beck, former basketball All-American at Kentucky, who headed the group; Bill Wade, Chicago Bears quarterback; Vernon Law, Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher, and Tony Fontane, popular singer.

Members of the Christian-oriented groups present among the beach throngs generally felt their efforts were repaid by the extent of response.

LEAKY-ROOFED AIR FORCE CHAPEL WON'T POSTPONE JUNE WEDDINGS

JUNE BRIDES of graduating Air Force Academy cadets can rest assured they won't have a leaky roof over their heads as they go down the aisle, Major General Robert H. Warren, the academy's superintendent, said at Colorado Springs, Colo.

"There are 60 cadets who want to get married in the chapel after they graduate June 5, and we don't want to let them down," the Academy head said.

Leaks in the upper floor Protestant section of the chapel have delayed its opening for many months while a costly repair job took place. General Warren reported that repairs of the 17-spire roof were on schedule and would be completed by mid-April.

Furnishing of the chapel, he said, will be finished in time for the wedding bells of June week.

The needed repairs have been estimated at $240,000, he added. Original cost of the edifice was $3,000,000.

The smaller Roman Catholic and Jewish sections on the lower level of the chapel have not been bothered by the leaking roof and have been in use for some time.

PENTECOST—the festival of the Holy Ghost—is celebrated this year on June 2. Following Easter by 50 days (the word "Pentecost" means "50th day"), the celebration commemorates the event recorded in Acts 2: When the disciples were "all together in one place . . . suddenly there came from the sky a noise like that of a strong wind, which filled the whole house where they were sitting. And there appeared to them tongues, like flames of fire, dispersed among them and resting on each one. And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to talk in other tongues, as the Spirit gave them power of utterance."

Pentecost is also known as the birthday of the Church, since it marked the beginning of the public life and witness of the disciples to the resurrected Christ.

The picture at right shows the World Council of Churches' 1963 Pentecost poster. It depicts a group of pilgrims kneeling in prayer on the island of Iona, Scotland. In their annual Pentecost message, the presidents of the WCC urged Christians to put their confidence in the Holy Spirit and to "venture into new paths."

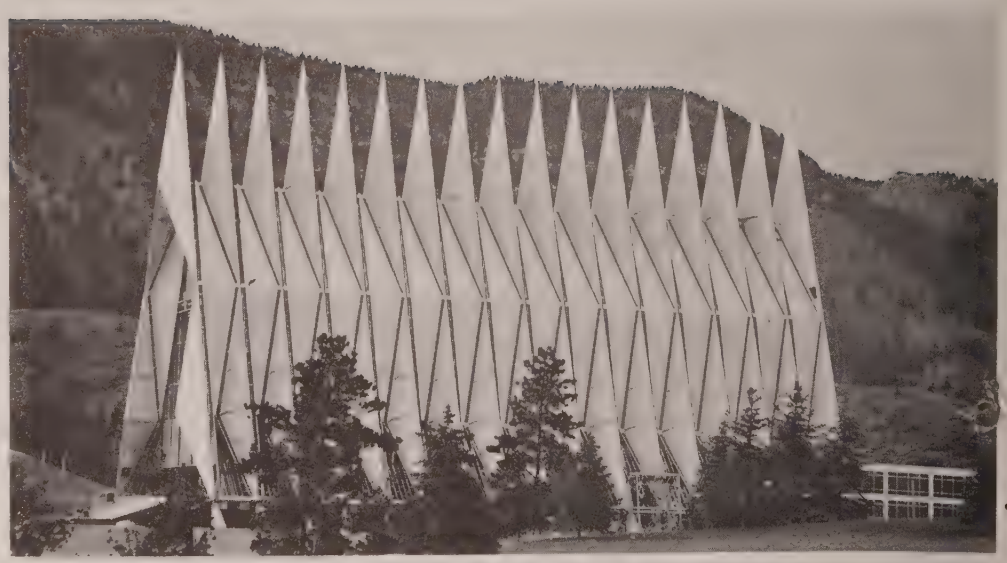
CHRISTIAN GROUPS COUNTER 'COLLEGE FLING' AT RESORTS IN FLORIDA

THE EASTER VACATION season at Florida beach resort areas spawned more than "twisting" and a long wild weekend. Christian-motivated attractions were available this year for the thousands of collegians who annually flock south for the holiday. In other years rioting and conduct described as a "college fling" were reported.

A small but noticeable group among the masses was a 20-strong unit of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. Staging debates and arranging discussion sessions, the Fellowship members reported encouraging success in communicating with the vacationing students on an individual basis.



Also present was the Rev. Malcolm Boyd, Episcopal chaplain at Wayne State University, Detroit, Mich., who has become known as the "Espresso Priest" for his ministry to coffee-house habitues and varied unconventional means of expressing the Gospel.

Another group among the vacationers was the Fellowship's All-American Caravan of professional athletes and Dixieland musicians. Giving personal testimony of their faith were Ed Beck, former basketball All-American at Kentucky, who headed the group; Bill Wade, Chicago Bears quarterback; Vernon Law, Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher, and Tony Fontane, popular singer.

Members of the Christian-oriented groups present among the beach throngs generally felt their efforts were repaid by the extent of response.

LEAKY-ROOFED AIR FORCE CHAPEL WON'T POSTPONE JUNE WEDDINGS

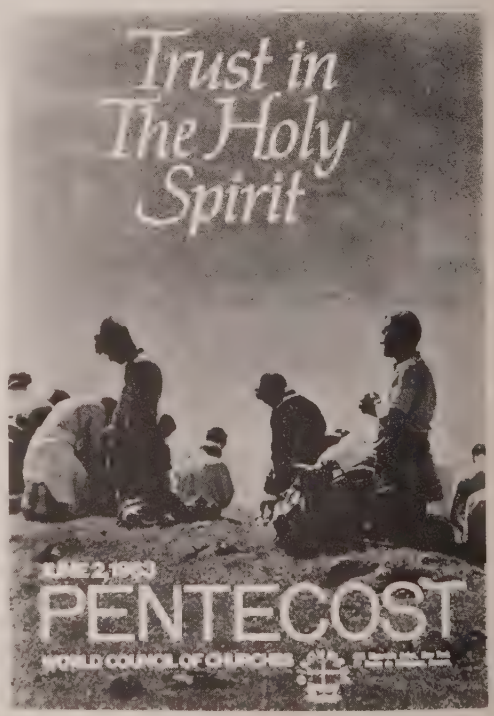
JUNE BRIDES of graduating Air Force Academy cadets can rest assured they won't have a leaky roof over their heads as they go down the aisle, Major General Robert H. Warren, the academy's superintendent, said at Colorado Springs, Colo.

"There are 60 cadets who want to get married in the chapel after they graduate June 5, and we don't want to let them down," the Academy head said.

Leaks in the upper floor Protestant section of the chapel have delayed its opening for many months while a costly repair job took place. General Warren reported that repairs of the 17-spire roof were on schedule and would be completed by mid-April.

Furnishing of the chapel, he said, will be finished in time for the wedding bells of June week.

The needed repairs have been estimated at $240,000, he added. Original cost of the edifice was $3,000,000.



The smaller Roman Catholic and Jewish sections on the lower level of the chapel have not been bothered by the leaking roof and have been in use for some time.

PENTECOST—the festival of the Holy Ghost—is celebrated this year on June 2. Following Easter by 50 days (the word "Pentecost" means "50th day"), the celebration commemorates the event recorded in Acts 2: When the disciples were "all together in one place . . . suddenly there came from the sky a noise like that of a strong wind, which filled the whole house where they were sitting. And there appeared to them tongues, like flames of fire, dispersed among them and resting on each one. And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to talk in other tongues, as the Spirit gave them power of utterance."

Pentecost is also known as the birthday of the Church, since it marked the beginning of the public life and witness of the disciples to the resurrected Christ.

The picture at right shows the World Council of Churches' 1963 Pentecost poster. It depicts a group of pilgrims kneeling in prayer on the island of Iona, Scotland. In their annual Pentecost message, the presidents of the WCC urged Christians to put their confidence in the Holy Spirit and to "venture into new paths."

Second Glance

¶ Citizens who don't know enough to participate intelligently in the democratic process and those who know enough but don't participate are two of the main problems facing any democracy, Lutheran students were told in Washington during Holy Week.

Dr. Robert E. Van Deusen, Washington secretary for the National Lutheran Council's public relations division told 103 students attending the 14th annual Washington Seminar for Lutheran Students that "for the Christian citizen, intelligent participation in the processes of government is not an optional matter."

¶ Father Hans Kueng, Roman Catholic theologian and consultant to the Second Vatican Council, said in Chicago recently that he believes the Roman Catholic Church should recognize mixed marriages in Protestant Churches as valid. He said he favors change of his Church's canon law requiring the Roman Catholic partner to work for conversion of the Protestant partner. Instead, he said, he supports the idea that "each partner has to respect the Christian faith of the other."

¶ The Rev. J. Sabin Swenson was elected chairman of the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel during its semi-annual meeting in April. He is the associate director of evangelism for the Lutheran Church in America. Elected secretary of the Bureau was the Rev. Ansgar E. Sovik, professor of religion at St. Olaf College.

¶ "Question 7," Lutheran-produced movie about the conflict of Christian vs. Communist ideologies behind the Berlin Wall in East Germany will soon be available in 16-mm prints for showing in churches. The film has already been shown commercially in 1250 theatres in the U.S. and Canada. A Spanish version of the film is also being prepared.

Lutheran Film Associates has appointed a committee to supervise development of a script for a movie based on the life of the Lutheran composer, Johann Sebastian Bach.

¶ Pope John XXIII has released an encyclical letter, Pacem in Terris, in which he states that the universal common good must be the goal of all temporal efforts. The letter is addressed to all men of good will, and addresses itself to the problem of world peace, and how it may be achieved. He calls for a public authority "in a position to operate in an effective manner on a world-wide basis." Much interest and comment was stirred by the document, whose title in English means "Peace on Earth."

¶ The three major Lutheran bodies in the U.S. need to raise a total of $80,275,000 for their church-wide budgets in 1963. This money is needed to finance missions, educational and charitable work in America and around the world.

What Do You Mean—

I'M NOT WORTHY?

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

"WHAT A LOW BLOW," mused Mac, as he threw himself down on his bunk. He had just met the chaplain at the ship's store. It was quite by accident that he had met him. Somehow they had struck up a conversation. He had asked Mac where he had been the last few Sundays. Mac had supposed that he was just making conversation until he realized that the chaplain was in dead earnest. He had given some lame excuse. He really didn't have any. And the chaplain soon sensed it. Next Sunday there would be Holy Communion and Mac was now officially invited, at least to attend the service and hear the Word of God.

When they had discussed Holy Communion, Mac had said something to the effect that he wasn't worthy of going to the Lord's Supper. And then the chaplain had agreed with him.

"That's right, Mac," he said, "you're not worthy to receive the Lord's Body and Blood."

That's what had been so devastating to Mac. The chaplain had agreed that he wasn't worthy to receive forgiveness of sin. He had always used it as an excuse for not attending many of the Communion Services at home and had hardly ever attended while he was on active duty. As he had made this excuse, first to himself and then to others, he had unconsciously given himself a merit badge for this half-hearted confession. To hear this word from the chaplain had really rocked him.

The chaplain had been right on two counts. First, it was absolutely true that Mac was not worthy. Second, he had not given Mac the whole story—yet. He had wanted Mac to think about it. He knew that he would be coming back with earnest and whole-hearted questions. There would be no sham. No lame excuses.

"What do you mean, I'm not worthy to go to Communion?" Mac asked the chaplain. They had met, again quite by accident, as they were walking from the grinder toward the gate.

As they walked along, the chaplain opened up the Scriptures. He showed Mac that no one was worthy—really; that he was making the same mistake that so many have made—equating "worthiness" with "coming in a worthy manner." No one is worthy to have fellowship with God. How many times haven't we read:

"All have sinned and fall short of the glory of God." (Romans 3:23)

"None is righteous, no, not one." (Romans 3:10)

In and of himself, man is lost. There is no sense in kidding ourselves: if we are left without the intervention of God through Jesus Christ, we are heading for real trouble. Paul wrote to the Romans, "For I know that nothing good dwells within me, that is, in my flesh. I can will what is right, but I cannot do it. For I do not do the good I want, but the evil I do not want is what I do." (Romans 7: 18-19)

But Paul knew the whole story. He didn't remain in despair. By God's grace he turned to Christ, the only one who could help. "Wretched man that I am! Who will deliver me from this body of death? Thanks be to God through Jesus Christ our Lord!" (Romans 7:24, 25)

Through the Word and Sacraments we meet Christ. In fact, he first comes to us; as John says, "In this is love, not that we loved God but that he loved us and sent his Son to be the expiation ("to make personal atonement"—Phillips) for our sins." (I John 4:10)

He longs to meet you in the Word of God as you listen with an open and receptive heart. He waits to meet you at the Lord's Table—to give you forgiveness, strength, salvation. In, with and under the bread and wine He meets you with his Body and Blood.

It is true, "Whoever eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner will be guilty of profaning the Body and Blood of the Lord. Let a man examine himself, and so eat of the bread and drink of the cup. For anyone who eats and drinks without discerning the Body eats and drinks judgment upon himself." (I Cor. 11:27-29)

But you don't have to come in an unworthy manner. You can come in a worthy manner: acknowledging . . . confessing . . . expecting . . . believing . . . trusting.

"How about it, Mac? See you next Sunday? Christ will be there!"

Lay Delegation Defends Faith Before Government Executive

by Giles C. Ekola

IF YOU WERE SUMMONED by a president of the United States to give an account of your Christian faith, what would you say? And how would you say it?

If a president had the power to bring military action against you and people who believe as you do, with what kind of a spirit would you proclaim your Christian faith?

The men who presented one of the most important statements of Christian faith during the Reformation, faced the invincible Emperor Charles V. He called them before him at Augsburg, Germany, in June, 1530.

What they declared to Emperor Charles V has become known as the Augsburg Confession. Written by Philip Melanchthon, Luther's co-worker, it is one of the prime statements of the Christian faith as held by Lutherans. The anniversary of its presentation is observed on June 25 each year.

PRESENTATION of the Augsburg Confession to Emperor Charles V on June 25, 1530. The reading took place in the hall of the Augsburg bishop, in the presence of the imperial estates assembled about the emperor. Signers of the Confession were all Christian laymen—territorial rulers and city council members—acting on behalf of the Churches and clergy of their territories.

Here are some excerpts from the Augsburg Confession:

". . . we offer . . . the Confession of our preachers and of ourselves, showing what manner of doctrine from the Holy Scriptures and the pure Word of God has been up to this time set forth in our hands . . ."

Chief Articles of Faith

ARTICLE I: Of God

"Our Churches, with common consent, do teach . . . there is one Divine Essence which is called and which is God . . . and yet there are three Persons of the same essence and power, who also are co-eternal, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost."

ARTICLE II: Of Original Sin

"Also they teach that since the fall of Adam, all men . . . are born with sin, that is, without fear of God, without trust in God . . ."

ARTICLE III: Of the Son of God

"Also they teach that the Word, that is, the Son of God . . . truly suffered, was crucified, dead and buried, that He might reconcile the Father unto us, and be a sacrifice, not only for original guilt, but also for all actual sins of men."

ARTICLE IV: Of Justification

"Also they teach that men cannot be justified before God by their own strength, merits, or works, but are freely justified for Christ's sake, through faith, when they believe that they are received into favor, and that their sins are forgiven for Christ's sake . . ."

ARTICLE V: Of the Ministry

"That we may obtain this faith, the Ministry of teaching the Gospel and administering the Sacraments was instituted."

ARTICLE VI: Of New Obedience

"Also they teach that this faith is bound to bring forth good works . . ."

There are 28 articles in all. The document is signed by its proclaimers, seven individuals and two groups—all laymen! What they said to the Emperor has been heard around the world. A reading and study of the Augsburg Confession will contribute to our understanding of our faith. Many editions of the Small Catechism have the Augsburg Confession recorded for your use.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He comands, obey. When He guides, follow.

KIRSTIE LEWIS, a freshman at Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minn., is "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for May.

The daughter of Pastor and Mrs. Floyd Lewis, Kirstie calls Seattle, Wash., her home now, although until recently she lived at Shawnee Mission, Kansas, where her father was stationed as a regional director of missions for the Augustana Lutheran Church.

A leader in her high school, she also found time to serve as parish Luther League president, District L. L. president, sing in the church choir, and play the organ for the church school. Last summer she was a Luther League caravanner.

Kirstie was nominated by the pastor of Resurrection Church, Shawnee Mission, the Rev. Y. E. Nelson, who writes that "she exemplifies leadership, interest and values becoming a Christian youth."

CHURCHMEN FROM SOVIET UNION VISIT U.S. CHURCH MEETING

THE PRESIDENT of the National Council of Churches and other top churchmen met a delegation of 16 Russian church leaders as they arrived in Denver late in February to begin a three-week visit of the U.S.

Made up of leaders of the Russian Orthodox Church, which is the largest Christian body in the Soviet Union, as well as representatives of the Georgian Orthodox Church, Armenian Church, Evangelical Lutheran Churches of Estonia and Latvia, and the Union of Evangelical-Christians (Baptists), the group attended a meeting of the National Council's policy-making General Board. They were returning a visit made to Russia under NCC auspices last year by a group of American churchmen.

Following several days in the Denver area, the Russians broke into smaller groups for visits in several parts of the country, finally reuniting in New York during the last week of their visit for discussions with American denominational leaders.

In a few places they visited, the Christian leaders from behind the Iron Curtains were picketed by organizations related to the "International Council of Christian Churches," a small agency which is opposed to most inter-Church movements and claims the Russian churchmen are Communist-dominated. Their sincerity and faithfulness was defended by most American churchmen, however. The Rev. Dean Goodwin, director of communications for the American Baptist Convention told reporters he had observed the Russian visitors closely and was "convinced they are deeply religious." Speaking of religious life in the Soviet Union, he said it has "a depth we don't know about."

Most prominent of the visiting churchmen, Russian Orthodox Archbishop Nicodim, president of the Moscow Patriarchate's Department of External Church Affairs, said, "We came to the United States to bear witness of Christian love for our Christian brothers in the United States." Noting that "we live in an ecumenical age," he said the Churches are "endeavoring to come close to each other to achieve the wish of the Lord that 'All may be one'."

The bearded 32-year-old Soviet prelate said one effect of the ecumenical (Christian unity) movement was that it could "facilitate relations among the peoples of our countries which can produce peace in the world."

The archbishop said that "the essential nature of the services of our Church and your Church are the same—preaching the Gospel, enlightenment of persons, calling the blessings of God on earth, and prayer to unite heaven and earth." The Russian Church, he claimed, "does not mix in politics."

BUFFALO BILL MUSEUM near Denver, Colo., was a fascinating spot for visiting Russian churchmen as they took a 200-mile automobile tour of favorite tourist points in the mountains near the Colorado capital. Their flowing beards and long clerical gowns attracted much attention, and they spent several minutes signing autographs for youngsters at the grave of William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody.

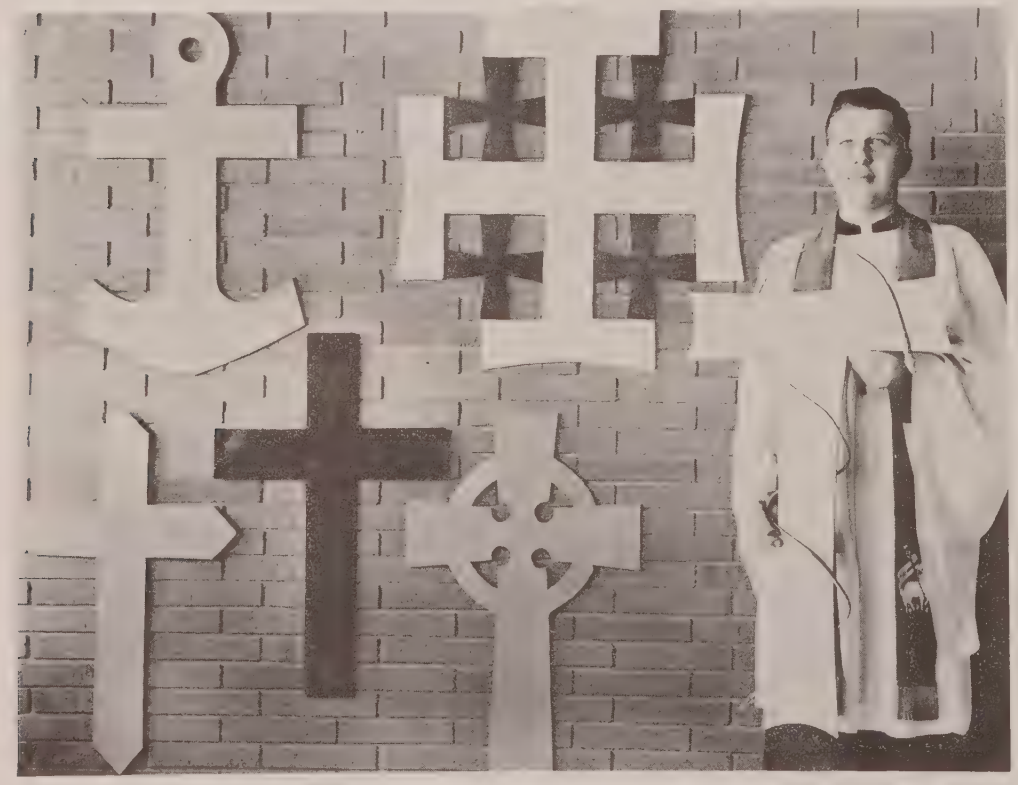
LUTHERAN SCOUT GIVES JFK HIKING AWARD FOR BROTHER

EAGLE SCOUT Van Warren Johnson of St. James, Minn., presented President Kennedy with a "50-miler (hiking) award" and asked him to give it to his brother, the Attorney General.

Scout Johnson, 17, a member of Troop 96 sponsored by the Augustana Lutheran Churchmen in St. James, acted as spokesman for a dozen scouts who called at the White House to give their annual report on scouting.

The award Johnson gave the President for Attorney General Robert Kennedy was in recognition of the cabinet officer's 50-mile hike through Maryland on Feb. 9. Scout Johnson had qualified for and received the 50-miler award previously.



Van, who has camped out 132 days in the past six years, is in his senior year at St. James High School. He is class president, editor of the school's newspaper and a sports writer. Active at Augustana Church in St. James, he has earned the Pro Deo et Patria Award—a church award for Scouts who do special study and service in the Church. He is an acolyte, church school teacher, member of the choir and vice president of the Luther League.

Congressman Ancher Nelsen (R., Minn.), also a Lutheran, has named young Johnson as his first choice for an appointment to the Air Force Academy on the basis of Johnson's civil service examination score and his physical fitness.

TWO PROMINENT LUTHERANS meet Eagle Scout Van Warren Johnson during his visit to the nation's capital for the annual Boy Scout report to the President.

VARIETIES OF CROSSES

The Rev. W. E. Lauterbach, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Albion, Mich., displays several different kinds of crosses which were used at midweek Lenten services in his church this year.

Pastor Lauterbach is holding the Tau Cross with the serpent, mentioned in John 3:14 ("And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so must the Son of Man be lifted up"). Other crosses used in the services are (top, from left) the Anchor Cross, used as a disguised symbol by early Christians, especially in seaport communities; the Jerusalem Cross, composed of four Tau Crosses joined at the center and four Greek crosses at the corners; (bottom, from left) the Passion Cross with pointed ends; the Latin Cross, most familiar form of cross; and the Celtic Cross with the circle of eternity in the center. Second Glance

¶ Lutheran and Reformed-Presbyterian church theologians met late in February for the second in a series of discussions. The purpose of these conversations was explained as an attempt "to discover to what extent differences which have divided these communions in the past still constitute obstacles to mutual understanding."

¶ More than 2000 radio stations and 600 television stations in the United States and around the world broadcast nationally-produced Lutheran programs each week. The National Lutheran Council's "Light Time" show for children alone appears on 140 TV stations. Lutheran broadcasting leaders are now meeting twice a year to discuss philosophy and share information on their work.

¶ A Spanish-language book of worship, under preparation by an inter-Lutheran committee, is slated to be published late in 1963. Titled Culto Cristiano, the book is expected to have an immediate sale of at least 30,000 copies among Spanish-speaking Christians of North, Central and South America—and eventually will be used by more than 250,000 persons in Latin American Lutheran congregations.

¶ Lutherans attending the Churchmen's Washington Seminar in February were told by Congressman Albert H. Quie of Minnesota that there is seldom a Christian position or attitude toward the various problems confronting legislators. "There are Christians in government who deal with problems," he pointed out, "but to state that one way is the Christian approach and another isn't just is not the case." The congressman, who is a Lutheran, said that in this respect Christians in politics have the same problems with their work as do Christians in other walks of life.

¶ During 1963, all benevolence offerings received by Canadian Armed Services Sunday Schools will be given to Canadian Lutheran World Action, for the support of its Hong Kong child feeding program. Like Christians everywhere, our Canadian brethren are deeply concerned about the vast numbers of hungry people in the world.

¶ Henry Frankhauser, bowling columnist and assistant sports editor for The Washington Daily News has started a campaign to collect old bowling shirts from Washington area keglers for shipment to Lutheran World Relief. LWR will send the shirts to Arab refugees in Jordan, and to other needy areas. By mid-March over 1000 shirts had been gathered in this unique clothing drive.

¶ The Supreme Court is expected to hand down a ruling in May or June on the question of Bible reading and the recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public schools. Pennsylvania and Maryland laws authorizing these devotions have been contested by groups who believe these practices are a violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution. The amendment reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof. . . ."

On the other hand, a group of New York parents has filed suit to force public school authorities to permit the resumption of voluntary prayers in a kindergarten. They charge that prohibition of prayers voluntarily offered "violates the prohibition of laws prohibiting the free exercise of religion, and the prohibition against laws abridging the freedom of speech. . . ."

The real question is not—

"NOW THE ELEVEN DISCIPLES went . . . to the mountain to which Jesus had directed them. . . . And Jesus came and said to them, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, to the close of the age!" (Matt. 28:16-20)

Our Lord's final meeting with his disciples after the Resurrection was on a mountain, where He spoke the words of the great commission recorded above. This event is commemorated on Ascension Day, 40 days after Easter, observed this year on May 23. This day marks the completion of Christ's exaltation "to the right hand of God"—his receiving of kingly power over all things. It concludes the Church's yearly re-living of the earthly life of Christ which began at Christmas.

HOW MANY TIMES have you heard people say, "What do I get out of the Church?" This question is asked particularly in connection with a great variety of complaints about the Church: the pastor, his preaching, other members of the Church, stewardship, committee meetings, etc., etc.

This is a natural question from a worldly standpoint in our times of materialism, especially when practically everything is measured by its monetary return.

The answer to the question is that you get out of the Church faith in Christ, a knowledge of His free forgiveness, a Christian understanding of the world and its people, and Christian fellowship with like-minded people.

Yet, essentially, this is a wrong question from a Christian standpoint. Why? The answer is that the essential nature of the Christian religion is not what you get, but what you give. Consider the many examples from the life of Jesus.

"The measure you give will be the measure you get" (Matthew 7:1).

The point of the parable of the Good Samaritan is that this man gave when, ordinarily, nothing would have been expected of him. Of him, Jesus said, "go and do likewise."

James Russell Lowell has Jesus say in "The Vision of Sir Launfal": "Not what we give, but what we share—For the gift without the giver is bare."

Perhaps the clincher is that in every circumstance of life you get out only as much as you are willing to put in.

One ought to go a full step further and say that the right question is, "What can I do for my Church?" and even beyond that the more important question, "What can I do for my Christ?" When you come to these questions, then you are coming to the very heart of the Christian religion.

Why should you say, "What can I do for my Christ?"

Because of what Christ has done for you in serving you, in helping you, in teaching you, and in saving you for time and eternity.

Because of Who and what God Himself is!

¶ Formation of a united Lutheran Church in New Guinea has been proposed by Lutheran mission groups working in the trust territory, presently under Australian rule. According to the plan, the Evangelical Lutheran Church of New Guinea, reputed to be the world's largest Protestant mission, and sponsored by Lutherans in Australia, Germany and the American Lutheran Church, would unite with two other bodies to form a Church of about 300,000 members.

KING SALMON—ISLAND OF HOPE

By A/2C Ronald Stocklin

FOR A YEAR I was assigned to the 705th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, at the remote location of King Salmon, Alaska, in the Aleutian Islands.

The only way into King Salmon was by air. When we landed, all we saw was a few Eskimos, people to whom the sight of an airplane was extraordinary. For a year, we were to see no automobiles. Our whole way of life was changed. For example, there was never a need to step outdoors; once you entered the site, long corridors connected you with each section: mess hall, mail room, radar towers, etc. There was no TV, and we were able to pick up only one radio station. The only entertainment was a small theatre, and I believe I saw about 363 shows.

Our mail service was good, which did help to keep up troop morale. But the greatest morale builder, I found, was a Lutheran pastor, the Rev. E. M. Ellingson, who with his wife made their home in an Eskimo village called Naknek.

Every Sunday evening, services were held in the village—about five miles from the base. The commander of our squadron had given us permission to drive one of our trucks to the village for the services. With all my heart I can say that the little church in that little settlement meant more to me than I could ever have dreamed.

The conditions of life on an isolated site are hard to convey. To look out of the window in the morning and see only volcanoes and tundra was not a happy sight. Some of the fellows were on the edge of "cracking." Pastor Ellingson put new hope into everyone's life.

After the Sunday services, Mrs. Ellingson would invite all of the AF personnel home for a get-together. Many times a very old Eskimo woman would join our group and tell tales of her life since childhood on the island. We also enjoyed the wonderful smoked salmon she prepared. We got a new understanding and outlook on the place where we had to serve for a year.

Although I am now back in a more inhabited part of the United States, I'll never forget the great work Pastor and Mrs. Ellingson have done in Alaska, and all the many benefits we derived from them. If it weren't for such fine people, much of our work in remote places would be far more difficult to perform.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He comands, obey. When He guides, follow.

ALICE M. KLANKOWSKI, Airman 1/C, USAF, from Caledonia, Minnesota, is our "Lutheran Girl" selection for May.

Upon graduating from Caledonia High School in 1959, Alice decided on a service career with the U.S. Air Force. In August, 1960, she was assigned to Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana, where she has served as a dental technician for 4½ years. She reenlisted in January, 1963.

As an active participant in the Lutheran chapel program at Barksdale AFB, she has served as a Sunday school teacher, vice-president of the Phi Chi Sigma, and performs other church-related duties.

Alice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Klankowski, Caledonia, Minnesota, and is a member of St. John's Church. She has been nominated for "Lutheran Girl of the Month" by Chaplain Voigt M. Sink, USAF, who believes she is "one of the finest young Lutheran girls . . . dedicated and diligent in her faith. Her personality is a manifestation of the spirit of Christ."

At Selma and Washington—

Churchmen March, Speak Out for Negro Voting Rights

With a contingent of some 500 white Christian and Jewish clergymen from many parts of the country, about 1,500 persons participated in an abortive one-mile march at Selma, Ala., for Negro voter registration rights on March 9.

Outside the city limits the march, headed by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was halted by state troopers without violence and without resistance on the part of the marchers. The peaceful confrontation between the troopers and the march leaders had been worked out in advance with representatives of the federal government as mediators.

The clergymen had hastened to Selma in response to a call by the National Council of Churches after an earlier march had been broken up by troopers and deputy sheriffs with nightsticks, whips and tear gas.

In a violent aftermath of the second march, the Rev. James Reeb, a Unitarian minister, and two companions were beaten by white segregationists after dining in a Negro restaurant in downtown Selma. Mr. Reeb died two days later in a Birmingham, Ala., hospital.

Lutheran Participation

More than 20 Lutherans were among the churchmen who converged on Selma to protest the denial of voting rights to Negroes and the brutality with which demonstrations for redress of grievances had been put down.

A Lutheran pastor was also prominent in the Selma situation as the leader of what was believed to be the first public demonstration by an all-white group of Southerners in support of the Negro civil rights cause.

On March 6, the Rev. Joseph Ellwanger led some 70 white Alabamans on a 12-block march to the county courthouse, where he read a statement calling for an end to police brutality and voter discrimination. As he spoke, his voice was almost drowned out by jeers and curses from a mob of hostile whites.

Pastor Ellwanger, of St. Paul's Church in Birmingham, was also confronted by another Lutheran pastor, the Rev. James Rongstad of St. John's, Selma, a white congregation, who told him: "We (in Selma) did not interfere in your problems (in Birmingham) and we do not need your interference in our problems."

Asserting that demonstrations in Selma "have been fruitful, peaceful and constructive," Pastor Rongstad added: "They have pointed out the failure and weaknesses of men. Selma is now gradually coming to repentance. Measures are being taken to correct the faults."

Pastor Ellwanger replied that the group was not there "to point the finger at Selma" but "to point the finger at the state and at the nation."

Churchmen Rally in Washington

Next step in the voting rights drive in which churchmen were deeply involved was a massive rally held in Washington, D.C., March 12, at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation on Capitol Hill. About 3000 clergymen and laymen attended the "interfaith witness" called by the Commission on Religion and Race of the NCC. All three major Lutheran bodies were officially represented.

Inside the packed church there was testimony from Selma marchers, folk singing, a Roman Catholic priest's memorial prayer for Mr. Reeb and other civil rights martyrs, a Methodist bishop's call to action, disagreement about President Johnson's role in the Selma crisis and a Jewish rabbi's benediction.

A delegation of 17 churchmen from the meeting went to the White House "to convey to the President, Vice President and the Attorney General the deepfelt feeling and conviction that it is not clear in this nation yet that the executive branch is strongly and fully taking all the action that it can in this matter."

But on March 15, the President addressed a joint session of Congress and demanded immediate action to remove every barrier of discrimination against citizens trying to register and vote. His bill was expected to receive overwhelming bipartisan support.

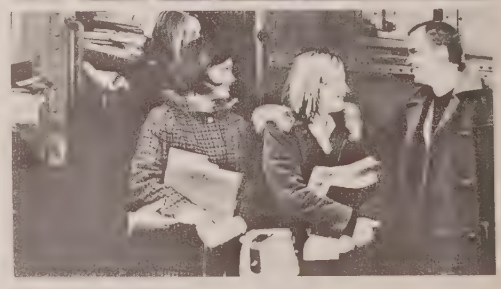
WHICH IS THE REAL NURSE BENSON? The one in white is in Chicago while the dark-uniformed nurse is in Washington, D.C. But the girl is the same—2nd Lt. Ann Louise Benson, formerly of Gettysburg, Pa., and now in the Army Nurse Corps.

Miss Benson, a member of Gettysburg's Christ Lutheran Church, was the model for the life-sized Army Nurse Corps figurine currently on display in "The Privilege of Service" exhibit at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago. Nurse Benson is assigned to Walter Reed Army Medical Center in the nation's capital. In Washington, she attends Grace Church.



AFTERMATH of protests described in article on page 1 was the completion of the historic Selma to Montgomery, Ala., march by civil rights advocates during the fourth week in March. Original attempt to stage the march early in the month had led to violent attempts to break it up by state troopers. Leading marchers in picture at right are the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King (center) and other religious leaders including an Episcopalian deaconess and a Jewish rabbi. (RNS Photo)

TWO LUTHERANS were among the top dozen Boy Scouts chosen to participate in Scouting's annual Report to the Nation in February. Shown above are Donald Ratcliffe (2nd from left), a member of Trinity Church, Staten Island, N.Y. and Vidar Jorgensen, of Ascension Church, Shelby, N.C. They are being greeted by Federal Judge Luther Youngdahl of Washington, D.C. and Pastor Clair Hoifjeld of the Lutheran Church in America Commission on Youth Activities.

ASH WEDNESDAY was observed aboard a commuter train of the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad, as New York bound passengers sat with bared heads while a 20-minute service was conducted by the Rev. Craig Biddle of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Morristown, N.J. In photo at right above, Fr. Biddle pronounces the benediction as Train 606 pulls into the Hoboken, N.J., terminal. In lower photo he greets schoolgirls who participated in the mobile worship experience.

The special service, he told the congregation of commuters which assembled in the last car of the train, was not an attempt to "play Church or perform an experiment—this service is basically taking the ritual of the commuter and adding it to the liturgy of the Church."

NEW LUTHERAN DISPLAY AT N.Y. WORLD'S FAIR FOCUSES ON CHRIST

PAINTINGS of Christ, reproduced on color transparencies and augmented by recorded narration, are featured in the Lutheran exhibit at the New York World's Fair, now in its second season.

The new display replaces a presentation last year which combined music and narration with a variety of colored lights in many shapes and sizes. Based on the theme, "Jesus Christ, the Light of the World," last year's exhibit attracted nearly 325,000 visitors representing 50 states and 77 foreign countries.

The exhibit, located in the $1,500,000 Protestant and Orthodox Center near the fair's main entrance, is a cooperative project of the eastern units of the three major Lutheran church bodies in this country.

The new audio-visual display presents in succession ten works of art. As each picture is lighted, recorded narration describes it and points out a facet of Christ's person that it conveys. The presentation runs about six minutes.

In addition the Lutheran exhibit includes an information center, literature rack and photographic display on church life.

Another item of Lutheran interest at the Protestant-Orthodox Center is a large stained glass window, created by Roger Darricarrere, which occupies a prominent position near the building's main entrance. It portrays God's dealings with man from Genesis to Revelation. Following the fair's close next fall, this window will be installed in St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, Granada Hills, Calif.

What it means to say

"HE ASCENDED INTO HEAVEN"

By Edgar M. Carlson

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH affirms its faith in the Ascension as a fact—as something that really happened.

There is not too much about it in the Biblical record. Luke gives the most complete account, both in the Gospel of Luke and in the Book of Acts. He identifies the place, and tells us that two angels appeared to the disciples as they beheld him ascending and said, "Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking into heaven? This Jesus who was taken up from you into heaven, will come in the same manner as you saw him go into heaven."

There can be no doubt that it was part of the primitive Christian faith that he whom they had come to know as the Messiah, who was among them as a brother, and who had appeared to them after the Resurrection, had returned to heaven at a fixed point in time. There had come a day when they no longer expected him to appear among them because they had witnessed his Ascension to God's right hand.

But the Apostles' Creed is a confession of faith, rather than just an assertion of facts. We need to ask ourselves what it meant to that early Church, and what it means to us today, that Jesus ascended into heaven.

Reinstated in Glory

It means, first of all, that in whatever way Jesus had left heaven in order to come to earth, he had now left earth in order to return to heaven. He who was rich and for our sakes became poor had now returned to the riches that were properly his. He who had existed in the form of God and had emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, had now been reinstated in all the glory and power which were his before the world began. He had not been finally impoverished by his entrance into our human history, or by having been the victim of man's evil deed. He had lost nothing by the fact that men had taken from him everything!

It meant, too, that he was beyond the reach of the evil that men might want to do to him. For man's sake he had placed himself at the mercy of men, but he was at their mercy no longer. The battle that he had fought and won on Golgotha was a final and decisive battle. There can be no more Gethsemanes for him, no more crucifixion, no more dying—for Christ has ascended into heaven. What had happened was final and forever. To be sure, there is a sense in which men can "crucify the Son of God on their own account and hold him up to contempt," but this is by virtue of what one does to the Lord who was once crucified. The issue of the battle can never be in doubt again, as it was then.

He Will Never Forget

But the Christ who ascended did not shed his human history, or leave it behind him. He is and always will be the Christ who was born of the Virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead and buried. God knows now, in a way he did not know before, what it is like to be a man. He knows what it means to be tempted as we are. He has had the experience of growing from infancy to youth into manhood; he knows what it is like to be hungry and tired, loved and scorned, lonely and forsaken. He knows what it is like to be a good man in an evil world.

The Ascension means that Christ will never forget these things. His manhood has been taken up into the being of God. It can never be said of the God who was made man for our salvation, that he doesn't know what you and I are up against. Therefore, he is able to help us in all our temptations, and comfort us in all our affliction.

He Is Still With Us

The mystery which is involved in the Incarnation is this: How could God come to earth and be made man without surrendering his divinity? The mystery of the Ascension is this: How could he who had been man return to God without surrendering his humanity? The two mysteries are exactly equal, and both are confidently affirmed by the Christian Church.

One other observation should be made. When Jesus ascended into heaven, he did not leave the earth in the sense that he is no longer here. On the contrary his Ascension brought him closer to us than he could ever have been to his own contemporaries. He left in order that he might be nearer to us all. "It is to your advantage that I go away," he said. Otherwise the "Comforter" could not come. He was taken away from among men in order that he might come to dwell within men. And He who has come to rule in our hearts and lives is the ascended Lord, the triumphant and conquering Christ. It is this that we here confidently affirm.

Big League pitchers find a

Baseball Fan at Church Offices

TWO MAJOR LEAGUE baseball pitchers stopped in at the New York offices of the Lutheran Church in America to talk with several key persons as to what they might do to help their Church.

They were en route to spring training, but told the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the LCA, they were offering their services when the new season is over.

Dr. Fry had several thoughts, which he willingly shared with Robin Roberts, right-hander with the Baltimore Orioles, and Curt Simmons, southpaw with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

He discussed the problems of world missions, since he had just excused himself from a meeting of that board. And he told them theological training and church finances were at the top of the list of his concerns at the moment.

Roberts, an insurance man in the winter months, showed keen interest in the matters of pensions and insurance for ministers and employees of the Church.

When baseball was mentioned, Dr. Fry said: "I saw only one world series game last fall, and rather a drab report. . . ."

"I enjoyed it myself," said Simmons (it was the fourth game which found St. Louis defeating the New York Yankees, 4 to 3, just a day after Simmons had started for the Cardinals in a game won by the Yankees).

One for Dr. Fry

"Back in 1950, I didn't get to see any series game but was in Des Moines listening to a broadcast when Joe DiMaggio stepped up in the 11th and hit a home . . ."

"Ouch," interrupted Roberts, "you would remember that one."

And now Roberts and Simmons knew they hand tangled with a dyed-in-the-wool New York Yankee fan.

The game Dr. Fry remembered so vividly (and one Roberts would rather forget) was the second that year in the series that brought together the Yankees and the Philadelphia Phillies. The Yanks won four straight.

Roberts had pitched a 1 to 1 tie up to that 11th inning, when DiMaggio tagged one of his offerings for the home run.

In 1950 both Roberts and Simmons were with the Phils.

Today they are both members of Gloria Dei Lutheran Church at Huntingdon Valley, Pa. They were accompanied to the LCA headquarters by their pastor, the Rev. Ernst G. Schmidt—who tried to stay neutral until talk got back to church matters.

FAST-BALL GRIPS are displayed for the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the Lutheran Church in America, by two Lutheran laymen—and major league pitchers—Robin Roberts (left) of the Baltimore Orioles, and Curt Simmons of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Roberta, a 20-year-old junior at Newberry College who is majoring in English, was recently named editor of the yearbook. She acquired previous editorial experience during high school, where she served as co-editor of the senior yearbook.

In addition to numerous college activities, Roberta is an officer in her synod's Luther League. As such, she attended last summer's national convention and recently conducted a work camp for leaguers at the Lutheran Home for the Aged, White Rock, S.C.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Cooper, she was nominated for "Lutheran Girl" by the Rev. Harry Weber, professor of Bible and Religious Education at Newberry College. Pastor Weber has been favorably impressed by her fine Christian character and her eagerness to render whatever services she can to the Church.

Lutheran Leaders Offer Church-State Guidelines

"DO YOU THINK of the federal government as 'they' or 'we'?" a Lutheran national affairs specialist asked a group of some 160 college and seminary students taking part in an annual visit to the nation's capital.

Stressing that all citizens "are the state and . . . responsible to God" for how they run it, the Rev. Dr. Robert E. Van Deusen, Washington secretary of the National Lutheran Council's public relations division, called attention to the danger of "intelligent non-participation" in government by the public.

"There is always the temptation," he said, "to those who have had the advantage of education to sit in an ivory tower and comment on trends in public life, without getting into the thick of things in a way that helps to affect those trends."

Taking part in the annual seminar. sponsored by the public relations divisions of the NLC and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, were students from six Lutheran seminaries, 27 denominational colleges and 12 state colleges and universities in 28 states.

During the four-day seminar, the students visited both Houses of Congress, the State Department and the Pentagon and many met with their Senators and Representatives.

In his remarks to the group, Dr. Van Deusen stressed that there is no surer way to doom democracy to mediocre futility than for those who have the intelligence and the training for leadership to fail to exert that leadership.

"For the Christian citizen," he said, "intelligent participation in the processes of government is not an optional matter. It is part of the imperative of being a Christian in the kind of world in which we live."

He added that the responsibility for effective citizenship flows out of the obligation of each Christian to put his faith into practice in whatever life relationship he finds himself.

"One cannot be a Christian part of the time and a citizen the rest of the time," Dr. Van Deusen said. "One must permeate the other."

In another major address, Dr. Carl F. Reuss of Minneapolis, Minn., gave guidelines for church and state relations.

A layman who leads the American Lutheran Church's Commission on Research and Social Action, he told the students that the Church loses influence when it descends into the arena of politics and becomes just another organization, lobbying for a cause even if its cause be just or good.

"The Church is not appointed to rule over the civil order," Dr. Reuss stated. "Its influence comes in shaping attitudes, changing hearts and minds, lives and actions of its members."

Although the Church expects its members to act as Christians in the structures of society or to "be Christ's light, leaven, salt in every circle they can influence," Dr. Reuss said, he warned that churchmen should avoid the temptation to be a pressure group or a wielder of power.

The Church has no special competence in preparing laws, he went on, but should leave that task to enlightened consciences of legislators, submitting its testimony or analysis of various issues to legislators without endorsing specific bills.

"Its competence lies in asking why and how," he said, "not in answering what or when."

FOUR MINISTERS soon to begin one of the most difficult phases of their training program, pause for prayer at the interdenominational Urban Training Center for Christian Mission, Chicago, Ill. ATHLETE Millard W. Harris, once a player with the Harlem Globetrotters, has accepted a post at the Park Avenue Christian Church in East Orange, N. J. Mr. Harris, at 6' 9", may well be the world's biggest staff aide in parish youth work and Christian education. A native of North Carolina, he starred in collegiate sports before joining the Harlem Globetrotters in 1958. He toured Europe and Asia in 1962-63 with the great Negro basketball team, famous for combining skill with a unique sense of comic timing. A graduate of Winston-Salem State Teachers College, Mr. Harris was a teacher in an East Orange elementary school before accepting the parish assignment. (RNS Photo)

AN UNDERGROUND CHURCH to be built nearly 20 feet below London Airport is depicted in this unusual drawing. The church, to be used by Anglicans, Free Churches and Roman Catholics, will seat between 150 and 200 visitors and travelers. Reinforced concrete walls and other special features will make the church soundproof against aircraft and other noise. Estimated cost is $300,000. (RNS Photo)

THE "CANAANITE" or "Arab" dog pictured here has been traced by Israelis back to the days of Abraham. Efforts are now being made in Tel Aviv, Israel, to prevent the extinction of this breed. A natural watchdog indigenous to Israel, little attention has been paid to the "Canaanite" until recently. The popularity of this "dog of the Bible" is expected to increase among dog fanciers around the world. (RNS Photo)

DEATH SENTENCES of five prisoners were commuted by Gov. Frank Clement, Nashville, Tenn., shown praying at right outside the state penitentiary's death row. The governor's action came immediately after the Tennessee Legislature refused, by a single vote, to approve a bill abolishing capital punishment in the state. As newsmen watched, the convicts heard their sentences commuted to 99-year terms and prayed with the governor. Three of them were scheduled to die the following dawn. (RNS Photo)

AGRICULTURE: PROBLEM CHILD OR TASK FORCE?

By Giles Ekola

NOT A FEW people in the military come from a farm, ranch or rural town. They know there's more to agriculture than meets the eye at first glance.

But newspapers and magazines carry all sorts of articles about "the decline of farming," "the dwindling rural population," or "farm surpluses."

General statements often create false impressions just because they are too general. Farming and ranching are the wellsprings of a giant industry, the largest in the United States. Agriculture is a growing industry, a creator of jobs, occupations and professions. And modern agriculture is steadily making food available on a scale and in quality beyond anything experienced before.

Businessmen, economists and educators point out that people in agriculture and occupations that serve agriculture or process and market its production make up 40 percent of the American employment rolls.

In most agricultural commodities a sufficient supply is produced each year to meet the needs and wants of the population. In some commodities a "surplus" occurs. It's the "surpluses," like the bank robber, that make the newspapers. Needed agricultural commodities that flow regularly to the American grocery stores and into millions of homes, like the millions of responsible citizens, just don't get into the headlines.

American agriculture is a powerful force for good on the world scene. It is not a problem child. In the case of any task force there are always adjustments to be made to keep it rolling. A lot of competent people are at work in agriculture to help it to develop, to accomplish its perennial mission, and to make necessary adjustments.

Interestingly enough, there are more opportunities for occupations in American agriculture than are being met. Youth, not only from rural areas but from urban centers as well, are recognizing these opportunities and preparing for them.

The Agricultural Institute, 224 North Broadway, St. Louis, Missouri, has a number of brochures that tell the story in more detail to interested persons. The Dean of Agriculture at one's state land-grant university can also supply helpful literature on request.

They say, "You'll never keep 'em down on the farm, after they've seen Berlin." But with the multitude of opportunities in "agribusiness" or "agindustry" the adventuresome person can be a part of the agricultural task force whether he chooses to live in a city, in a town, or on a farm or ranch.

Pentecost, 1965—

"YOU WILL RECEIVE POWER"

A Message from the Presidents of the World Council of Churches

When the apostles were all together, they asked Jesus: "Lord, is this the time when you are going to establish once again the sovereignty of Israel?" He answered: "It is not for you to know about dates or times which the Father has set within his own control. But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes upon you; and you will bear witness for me in Jerusalem, and all over Judea and Samaria, and away to the end of the earth." (Acts 1:6-8)

PENTECOST, the day marking the descent of the Holy Ghost on the first Christians, falls on June 6 this year. This poster issued by the World Council of Churches features the dove and flames, biblical symbols of the Holy Spirit.

THESE MEN have learned to know Jesus as Lord. They believe in his resurrection. They understand that his death was not defeat but victory over all that enslaves and destroys men. But they want to know what this is going to mean in practice. Does it mean the Kingdom of God now? Does it mean that we are on the winning side, and we shall forthwith see the enemies of God put to flight?

Jesus tells them plainly that God has not given us the timetable for his campaign. We simply do not know what are the limits of human life—for good and for ill. But God is going to give them something more important. He is going to give them his Spirit, who will empower them to be his witnesses to the ends of the earth. When this Spirit comes, they will become the evidences to the whole world that Jesus reigns, and that evil is doomed and on the way out.

That promise was fulfilled at Pentecost. In a mighty outpouring of divine power, these doubting disciples were transformed into living signs of the reign of Christ over the whole earth. Out from Jerusalem they went, reaching for the farthest corner of the world, a great movement of resistance against the established powers of evil, living torches to illuminate the night with certainty of a new day to come.

The Church today is losing much of the power that it had when it was an accepted and honored part of the established order. Very many Christians today live scattered in small groups, minorities without political power. In this, they are nearer to the Christians of the first century than to those of the 19th.

But God has never cancelled the promise or withdrawn the gift he gave at Pentecost. That power is always available to the Church which wants it enough to pay the price. The price is to be made utterly one with the Lord Jesus Christ—one with his humiliation in order to be one with his victory. The power is power to believe and to help others, power to hope without wavering to the end, power to love to the limit, power to make peace, to work for justice and reconciliation between men. It is the power of the coming Kingdom, given to us now. It is the pledge of glory. And it is offered to all who ask.

We ask you, then, to join with us at this season of Pentecost, in praying the Lord to fill the whole Church afresh with the power of His Spirit, so that it may be His witness to the ends of the earth.

¶ Despite the fact that the Bible enjoys the reputation as the all-time best seller, a recent worldwide survey discloses that there are no Bibles in half of all Christian homes, and only one Christian in eight possesss a New Testament.

The survey, released by the American Bible Society estimates that there are 150 million Scriptures currently in circulation in the world. The Society plans to celebrate its 150th anniversary next year by increasing Scripture distribution from 40 million to 75 million.

¶ About 150 of the jazz world's greats came together in New York City's Advent Lutheran Church in mid-March to pay their last respects to a much honored and loved colleague, Tadd Dameron, who had died of bone cancer. The service was conducted by the Rev. John Gensel, Lutheran "missionary to the jazz community" in New York.

Several of Dameron's own jazz compositions were played at the service, which also included scriptural readings and prayers from the Lutheran Order for the Burial of the Dead.

¶ Fifteen Negro leaders and a white Lutheran pastor bearing a petition of civil rights grievances met with Gov. George Wallace of Alabama at the state capitol in Montgomery on March 30. The clergyman was the Rev. Joseph Ellwanger, who had led the first march of Alabama white persons in support of a Negro voter registration drive earlier in the month.

The delegation asked Gov. Wallace for a removal of Alabama's poll tax, an end to "police brutality," opening of registration books at times convenient to working people, placing Negroes in state policy-making positions, and employment of more Negroes in state agencies, including the Highway Patrol.

Clergy Dispute Clergy—

Churchmen Hit for Criticism Of U.S. Role in Vietnam

CHURCHMEN who advise the U.S. Government on political and military tactics in the Vietnam situation have been criticized by other churchmen in recent speeches.

Msgr. George G. Higgins, director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference's Social Action Department, and the Rev. Dr. Albert T. Mollegen, professor at the Virginia Episcopal Seminary, addressing a group of Protestant and Roman Catholic clergy in Washington, D.C., maintained that it is a serious mistake for churches to try to do in every area what they did in the field of civil rights.

Speaking specifically of a petition signed by 105 Washington area clergymen condemning American participation in the war in South Vietnam and for tactics employed and permitted by American advisers, Msgr. Higgins and Dr. Mollegen were critical of clergymen who seek to advise the government on things out of the realm of their knowlegde.

Said Msgr. Higgins: "I was a little shattered when I saw a statement by a group of clergymen advising the State Department on Vietnam. I know of no clergyman whose judgment on Vietnam is worth a boot. I doubt if any such statements arriving on the desk of Dean Rusk would add to his equanimity, certainly not to his knowledge."

Dr. Mollegen said he was "appalled at the political naivete of clerical statements on very harrassing and complex problems which accomplish nothing and only bring disrespect to the Church." He told his listeners such statements should be made only in times of great crisis, and then only to make known what the churches think.

Called Matter for Government

A Lutheran spokesman has also frowned on churchmen who advise the U.S. government either to get out of Vietnam or to have a showdown. The Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Division of Service to Military Personnel gave short shrift to religious critics who ask government acceptance of their solutions to the Vietnamese problem.

Pastor Midboe, who spent six weeks last summer in the Far East and Southeast Asia, in addressing the National Lutheran Council's annual meeting in February said he could not agree with the "ranks of churchmen who either condemn American participation in South Vietnam or those who call for a showdown in Southeast Asia."

He said that planning the strategy of the free world in this or any other area of the world is a matter which belongs to the government. "When churchmen pontificate on such matters in which they are not experts," he asserted, "they run the danger of confusing the Law and the Gospel . . ."

Of the several hundred Americans killed in Vietnam, Pastor Midboe said that one chaplain is numbered among them. In no other place, except perhaps Korea, are the chaplains as welcome and their ministry as much appreciated as in South Vietnam, he reported.

VICE PRESIDENT WILL ADDRESS LUTHERAN YOUTH

VICE PRESIDENT Hubert Humphrey will speak at the Lutheran Church in America Youth Conference in Miami Beach, Fla., in August.

Speaking on the topic, "The Christian and Citizenship," the government official will be part of a program on the theme "Called—To Serve."

At least 10,000 youths are expected to attend the six-day conference, which is open to LCA young people age 16 or above. Special programs have also been arranged for those in the post-high school, young adult category.

Religious sidelights on recent news events and other items of interest

CHURCH AID played a part in aiding victims of the savage earthquake that hit Santiago, Chile, leaving thousands homeless and destitute. Pictured above are supplies from Church World Service being unloaded for distribution to the quake victims. Clothing, food and other assistance was also furnished by Lutheran World Relief. Both agencies cooperated with the Ayuda Cristiana Evangelica, service arm of the Evangelical Protestant Council of Chile so that victims would have the benefit of organized relief efforts. (RNS Photo)

SIGNAL FLAGS on the wall of the Lutheran Service Center, San Francisco, Calif., receive attention from servicemen and hostesses in photo at right. The message transmitted is a reassuring one: "Lo, I am with you always." Flags were originally intended to give the center a "Navy touch." Later, sailors and junior hostesses decided to use additional ones to signal Christ's final words to his disciples. (NLC News Photo)

DISMANTLING of the Church of St. Mary Aldermanbury, London, England, is underway prior to having the 17th century structure moved to its new home in Missouri. The church (below), gutted by Nazi bombs in 1941, will be shipped to the U.S. and reconstructed on the campus of Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., where it will serve as the Winston Churchill Memorial and Library. It was at Westminster that the late Sir Winston gave his famous "Iron Curtain" speech. Restoration will follow blueprints of the original design dating back to 1677. (RNS Photo)

A RETREAT joining twenty-eight Lutheran and Roman Catholic laymen was the first of its kind held in the Seattle-Tacoma, Wash., area. The group is shown (left) reciting the Nicene Creed during a Mass which was a highlight of their meeting. The Lutherans were invited to join in the retreat by Father Francis Coony, C.SS.R., director of the Palisades Retreat House. There were informal discussions as well as prayer and meditation, but the two denominations did not receive Communion together.

Religious Remarkables

Second Glance

¶ Russian Orthodox Easter rites in Moscow were marred when hundreds of Communist youths jeered and whistled as worshippers thronged to Yelokhovsky Cathedral. "God is a fraud! Go back to the dark ages!" one teenager shouted. Chanted another: "We are atheists and proud of it."

Apparently anticipating disturbances, more than 100 policemen had been stationed around the cathedral long before the Easter service began. And volunteer militiamen were stationed outside at least one of the 40 other churches in the capital. "We are here to protect the believers against hooligans," a militiaman remarked.

¶ Miss Jean A. Harter, a former administration and personnel specialist in the Women's Army Corps, has been named to the Hong Kong staff of the Lutheran World Federation, where she has been assigned supervisory duties in the distribution of food, clothing and other relief supplies. Miss Harter served for 20 years in the WAC, after which she earned a sociology degree at the University of Maryland.

¶ Creation of a Protestant action committee in West Germany aimed at combatting growing immorality has met with enthusiastic approval by the general public and church and secular organizations. Calling itself "Concern for Germany," the campaign was initiated by the Evangelical Sisterhood of Mary, a group of German Lutheran nuns with headquarters in Darmstadt.

The organization has mailed out 250,000 leaflets, which warn: "a flood of demonic forces inundates our people. Films, television programs, magazines and literary products—often camoflaged as 'art' but motivated by nothing but greed of profit and catering to the lowest instincts of men, demonstrate horrifying instructions of brutality, murder, sexual perversions and contempt of growing life, thus exerting a corruptive influence upon the minds and behavior of millions of people."

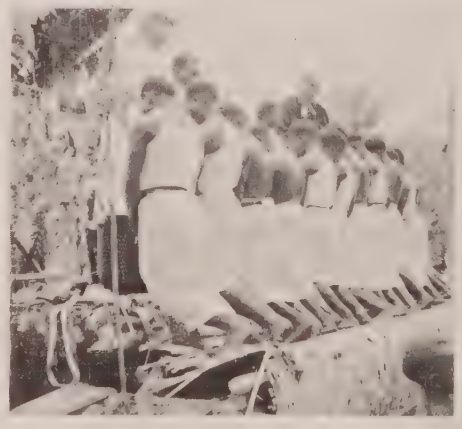
Growth of New Guinea Church Seen in Christian Legislators

"WHERE are you from?"

The question was directed by the Rev. Dr. A. C. Frerichs, a missionary of the American Lutheran Church, to Ugi Biritu, one of the Lutheran members of the House of Assembly, New Guinea's new legislature.

They were conversing in Dr. Frerichs' home in Port Moresby during a reception for the 11 Lutherans among the 64 legislators that make up New Guinea's first national representative governing body.



"I am from Kiseweroka in the Eastern Highlands," Mr. Biritu replied.

"Do you know," Dr. Frerichs asked, "that I was the first missionary in your village and that the morning I arrived there, your people had just finished eating a girl?"

The lawmaker's eyes dropped. He didn't say a word.

Actually, the incident that the missionary recalled had occurred more than 16 years ago, when Ugi Biritu was only a boy.

It was a damp foggy morning early in May, 1948, when Missionary Frerichs went into the village of Kiseweroka. The pit fire was still smoldering in the village square. After a little while the students with the missionary sized up the situation.

BAPTISM of new Christians is administered in New Guinea by missionary Pastor William Bergmann (right) and Bishop John Kuder (left). The New Guinea Lutheran Mission represents the world's largest Lutheran mission endeavor, with over 250,000 members.

The villagers had eaten a girl the night before. The people seemed friendly enough and the missionary didn't see any reason to become alarmed. Two weeks were spent in the area, but not one cemetery was found.

The people said: "Our stomachs are our cemeteries. If you bury the dead, worms eat their bodies. But if you eat them, they are not lost. We stop crying after we have eaten our dead. Furthermore, human flesh is good, even better than pork."

Natives Witness to Natives

A few months later, the missionary returned with Evangelists Sera and Gomal and stationed them in Kiseweroka. They built a house and began to learn the language of the people.

When the big chieftain died, his last will was: "Take my body into the deep jungle and eat me because my word was law in this village. I told you when to plant and when to fight. I had everything to say. By eating me, you will be able to carry on as you will receive strength from me."

Finally the evangelists gained the confidence of the people and began to tell them about a just and holy God. One night, like Nicodemus of old, a leader of the village came to Evangelist Sera with two sticks.

"Do you see these sticks?" he asked. "The notches on the one stick stand for all the affairs I've had with different women. The notches on the other represent all the people I've helped kill and eat. I know that this was wrong. What am I to do?"

Evangelist Sera pointed this cannibal to Christ, and he was converted that night. Later he was baptized together with many other villagers. A church was built and a congregation established.

Out of this changed community came Ugi Biritu to represent his people in the House of Assembly. As they came together to begin deliberations, he and 12 other legislators were seen at a Sunday morning service in Port Moresby's Good Shepherd Lutheran Church.

Seven of them were baptized members of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of New Guinea, one of the Wabag Lutheran Church.

That evening, all Protestant members of the House of Assembly were invited to a special service in the same church to ask God's blessing on the new legislature, scheduled to convene for the first time the next day.

It was after this service that the conversation took place which dramatized New Guinea's rapid rise from cannibalism to representative national government.

THE PRICE THEY PAID: JULY 4TH SIGNERS LOST HEAVILY IN REVOLUTION

HAVE you ever wondered what happened to those men who signed the Declaration of Independence?

Five signers were captured by the British as traitors, and tortured before they died. Twelve had their homes ransacked and burned. Two lost their sons in the Revolutionary Army, another had two sons captured. Nine of the 56 fought and died from wounds or the hardships of the Revolutionary War.

What kind of men were they? Twenty-four were lawyers and jurists. Eleven were merchants, nine were farmers and large plantation owners, men of means, well educated. But they signed the Declaration of Independence knowing full well that the penalty would be death if they were captured.

They signed and they pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor. Carter Braxton of Virginia, a wealthy planter and trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British navy. He sold his home and properties to pay his debts, and died in rags.

Thomas McKeam was so hounded by the British that he was forced to move his family almost constantly. He served in the Congress without pay, and his family was kept in hiding. His possessions were taken from him, and poverty was his reward.

Vandals or soldiers, or both, looted the properties of Ellery, Clymer, Hall, Walton, Gwinnet, Heyward, Rutledge and Middleton.

Sees Home Destroyed

At the battle of Yorktown, Thomas Nelson, Jr., noted that the British General Cornwallis had taken over the Nelson home for his headquarters. The owner quietly urged General George Washington to open fire, which was done. The home was destroyed, and Nelson died bankrupt.

Francis Lewis had his home and properties destroyed. The enemy jailed his wife and she died within a few months.

John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she was dying. Their 13 children fled for their lives. His fields and grist mill were laid waste. For more than a year he lived in forests and caves, returning home after the war to find his wife dead, his children vanished. A few weeks later he died from exhaustion and a broken heart.

Norris and Livingston suffered similar fates.

Such were the stories and sacrifices of the American Revolution. These were not wild-eyed, rabble-rousing ruffians. They had security, but they valued liberty more. Standing tall, straight and unwavering, they pledged: "For the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of the Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor." GIRL OF THE MONTH

CHRISTINE HECKMAN, from Kane, Pennsylvania, is August's "Lutheran Girl of the Month."

A student at Edinboro State College, Pa., Christine finds time for many church-related activities in addition to studies.

As a member of Tabor Church, Kane, she has served as Sunday school teacher, choir member and Luther Leaguer. On Youth Sunday, last January 31, she was cited for her exceptional activity and outstanding contributions to the youth program of her parish.

Her ambition is to become a missionary teacher. She was invited by the World Mission Prayer League to fly to Cuenca, Ecuador, in June where she is now working with missionaries in the field until her college studies resume in the fall.

She has been nominated "Lutheran Girl of the Month" by her pastor, the Rev. Mallard L. Nelson, who is understandably impressed by her dedication and purpose.

Christianity in 1965—

Ecumenical Problems, Mission Influence, Social Challenges Cited by Dr. Fry

WHILE churches of the world have moved closer together in the last half-century, differences remain in the concept of ecumenism, the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, head of North America's largest Lutheran body, told a synod convention recently.

Outlining the situation in which Christianity finds itself in 1965, Dr. Fry divided his talk into three areas, covering (1) the ecumenical movement, (2) the waning influence of church missions in Asia and Africa, and (3) the challenge to all Christians in the application of faith in a constantly-changing and fear-fraught society.

Admitting that differences still exist between churches, the head of the 3,250,000-member Lutheran Church in America pointed out that first ecumenism involves a double insight into true theology, encompassing not only the idea that the Church is one but also that it is made up of individual parts.

"We cannot blend everything and still achieve true ecumenism."

Secondly, he said, ecumenism is needed for mutual enrichment. "Each religion offers something worthwhile for the others, and while God's Word is our true heritage we must contribute initiative."

Dr. Fry identified the three "absolutes of ecumenism" as "unity, truth and love," and said they must complement each other and none can stand alone.

"The first two are possible only through the third and the ecumenical movement of the Church of Jesus Christ is vindicated only if these three absolutes exist."

Asks New Mission Strategy

In discussing the weakening influence of missions, the 64-year-old church president, frequently referred to as one of the most influential Christian leaders in the world today, contrasted conditions 50 years ago when mission work was flourishing with today's situation in which he said the impetus of the mission movement has slackened, and dreams of a half-century ago have faded.

"Today," he said, "the Christian Church is a tiny minority in most of the nations of Asia and Africa and yet the mood of the Church is one of 'settling in and snuggling down' as a minority community."

Changing values in the changing world and the decline of colonialism were cited as being partly to blame for the fact "that much of what the Church is all about is becoming diluted and lost."

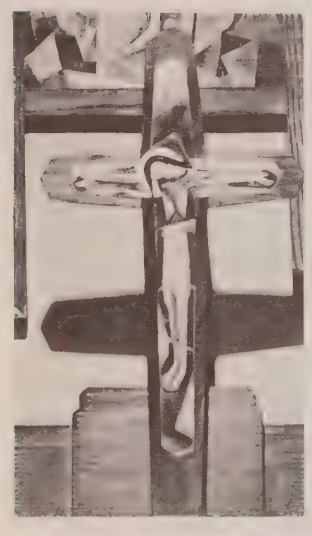
He called for new strategy and offered as one example of fresh approaches to the problem the Radio Voice of the Gospel, an Addis Ababa shortwave station of which he is board chairman. He said the Ethiopian radio station each week broadcasts the Gospel in 15 languages to some 30 Afro-Asian countries and an undetermined number in the Middle East. It is owned and operated by the Lutheran World Federation. (See page 7 of this issue.)

Dr. Fry said this sort of communication offers the type of influence the Church must exert.

Application of Christianity Needed

Looking to the future, Dr. Fry said:

"We must kindle the flame of Christian faith so brightly that all of our people going abroad will be transparently and convincingly Christian . . . through their facial expressions, in their courtesy of demeanor and in obvious faith to the Gospel."



Dr. Fry said he hoped that out of Protestant and Roman Catholic conferences would come an ultimate statement of what a Christian "ought to be, do and say in relation to the new issues of mankind."

He said applications of Christianity to the problems of race, poverty and peace will continue to be studied by both Protestants and Roman Catholics since these issues all are concerns of religion.

"Christ means us to be brethren in unity, which cherishes truth . . . and our faith is not only a treasure but a seed from which to grow a harvest for the benefit of all mankind."

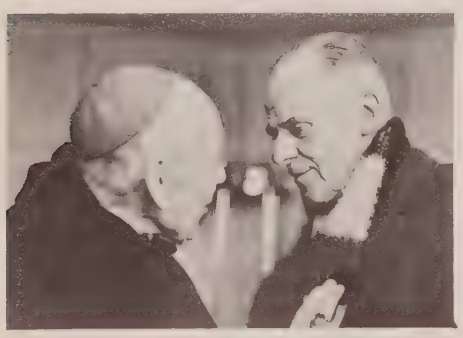
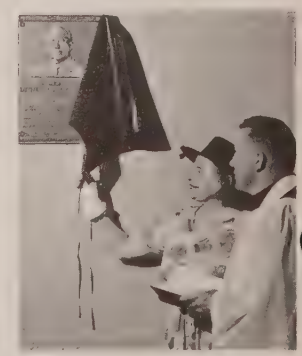
Religious sidelights on recent news events and other items of interest



A CRUCIFIX created by a Roman Catholic nun, stands in the prayer chapel of a Lutheran seminary, Concordia of St. Louis, Mo. The artist, Sister Mary Leo, was commissioned to make the art piece, according to the Rev. Dr. Alfred O. Fuerbringer, seminary president, because she is a local artist and also because she is a member of another denomination. Even though "formidable barriers to . . . church fellowship remain," the Lutheran educator said religious art is "an area where we can gratefully appreciate the personal gifts that God has given to all parts of His Church for the benefit of the whole Church."



TWO LUTHERAN church buildings were among the eight 1965 Church Architectural Award winners, chosen by the 26th National Conference on Church Architecture at Chicago. Above is a view of the new Shepherd of the Lakes church, Grayslake, Illinois. At right the recently completed Hope church, Miami, Fla. The buildings were cited for economy in design and for theological expression. (RNS Photos)

ECUMENICAL LEADERS pause for informal dialogue at Geneva, Switzerland. At left is Augustin Cardinal Bea, head of the Roman Catholic Secretariat for Christian Unity; at right, the Rev. W .A. Visser 't Hooft, general secretary of the World Council of Churches. The two bodies have agreed to hold joint talks on possible collaboration in various fields.

UNVEILING a memorial plaque to the late Chaplain Luther W. Evans was held in May in the Liturgical Chapel of the U.S. Army Chaplain School, Fort Hamilton, N.Y. A former commandant of the school, Chaplain Evans was a Lutheran pastor. His wife is shown removing the veil as Chaplain Bertram Gilbert, also a Lutheran, looks on.

PICKETING by churchmen over controversial matters continues to be a major issue. At left, clergy and lay persons carry signs outside the Petagon building in the nation's capital to protest U.S. policies in Vietnam. The marchers urged immediate negotiations to settle the conflict, but opposed appeasing the Communists. The demonstration included a 30-minute meeting with Defense Secretary Robert McNamara in which nine clergymen participated. Picture at right shows a Lutheran pastor, the Rev. Vernon E. Carter of All Saints' Church, Boston, Mass., leading pickets at Boston School Committee offices. He vowed to continue demonstrations until education officials act to end racial imbalance. The sign held by the woman is directed at Mrs. Louise Day Hicks, head of the school committee, who has refused to acknowledge "de facto segregation" in the school system. (RNS Photos)

YOUNG PEOPLE of many church groups are spending summer vacations in "work camps" at home and overseas, helping sister churches materially and spiritually. Below, the fence at a New York inner city church gets a new coat of paint from a group of teen-age volunteers.

CHIEF OF STAFF ASKS CURB ON FOUL LANGUAGE

THE ARMY'S top general has called for a curb on "offensive language and off-color stories" in military training.

General Harold K. Johnson, U.S. Army Chief of Staff, expressed his views opposing foul language in a memorandum dealing with the Army's image. He asked all military commanders to prohibit such language in service schools and as a part of training.

The military leader said that the use of off-color or suggestive stories had been justified to him as essential for kindling interest in a presentation.

"I would only comment that any individual who must resort to such practices should review his ability as a public speaker or instructor," General Johnson said.

He emphasized that the impressions of the Army carried away by individuals who serve only a single enlistment contribute materially, for better or worse, to the image of the Army among the general public.

General Johnson urged all in uniform to be conscious of the impressions created on younger people who take pride in their service and would like to stand up for the Army when they return to their homes.

True-to-Life Adventure:

A TRIP INTO THE BIBLE

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

FOR MANY PEOPLE the Bible is a closed book because it just isn't opened. It's as simple as that. We'd like to invite you to take a journey of adventure, pleasure, mystery and surprise. We shall attempt to share some way by which (1) the Bible can become an interesting book to you; (2) the Bible can be of value to you in everyday life; (3) the Holy Spirit can unlock the chest of spiritual treasures which are ready for those who will dig and search.

If you will come along with us, you'll discover (1) persons with whom you have much in common; (2) true-to-life situations you didn't realize were in the Bible; (3) yourself as you perhaps have never known before; (4) our Saviour—who will become more meaningful to you.

We're going to study a New Testament letter which has much to say to us today. It's the First Letter of Peter. It is short and simple; it is also deep and devotional. It is theoretical and theological, but it's also personal and practical.

Let's face it—there are problems connected with Bible study. For instance: (1) We may read books about the Bible but we may never get around to studying it firsthand. (Solution: Resolve that you will accept this challenge and follow our plan.)

(2) We may talk about studying the Scriptures but we never actually seem to get around to doing it. (Solution: Decide now that you will start by taking 20 minutes a day for the next 30 days.)

(3) We may desire to study the Bible but we don't know how to go about it. (Solution: Actually follow through on the procedure outlined here.)

The Steps to Follow

• Get a copy of the New Testament if you don't have one. Your chaplain will be glad to supply you with one. Copies are available free at the base chapel. Or write your home pastor for one.

• Read through the whole First Letter of Peter, just five chapters. Do it quickly. Don't stop to ponder the meanings of each word. This time just try to get the gist (heart) of what is written.

• With pen or pencil and notebook, jot down answers to the questions below. There are enough to keep you going 20 minutes a day for a month, until the next issue of the Fortress comes with the second Bible study. (When we use the figures "1:5-7," for example, it means "chapter one, verses five through seven.")

1. What impressions did you get from reading this letter through in one sitting? (For example, short or long? personal or impersonal? etc.)

2. What is the tone of the letter? (Optimistic or pessimistic? Carefree or cautious? Serious or casual? etc.)

3. To what kinds of people was Peter writing? (For example in 1:1-2)

4. What is Peter concerned about? (For example: doctrine, faith, relationships)

5. To whom does Peter point in 1:3-10?

Now you will want to go back and read the letter more slowly, looking for answers to the following questions:

6. List those situations discussed in the letter that could apply to (a) national and world conditions—for example: 2:13-17, 5:9; (b) your military environment—for example: 2:18-25, 4:1-6; (c) your own personal life—for example: 3:1-6, 3:7, 3:8-12, 5:6-9.

7. List those needs that come to mind as a result of studying the letter: (a) your relationship to members of your family; (b) your relationship to those in authority; (c) your relationship to those over whom you have authority; (d) your relationship to those about you who are not followers of Christ.

How to Get Started

• Discipline yourself to study the letter every day if possible for 20 minutes. Take 10 in the morning and 10 in the evening. If you can, go off by yourself or study in your bunk, like you do when writing a letter. If you'll just take the time, even 10 to 15 minutes at a clip, you'll find that the periods will get longer as your interest increases. But get started.

• Try reading the letter through in one sitting once a week. This will help you to familiarize yourself with the letter and give you an overall view of the book.

• Pray that the Holy Spirit may be your teacher. Pray God to give you the desire to go on this adventure with us. Pray for the strength to discipline yourself to follow through on this trip.

• Remember, even though you may feel alone in this study, you and God are a majority. Seventy thousand other readers of A Mighty Fortress have also been invited to join in.

• Look for the next issue of the Fortress for the second lesson.

SHORT WAVE FANS: TRY RADIO VOICE OF THE GOSPEL

PERSONS having access to shortwave receivers may want to try listening for English language broadcasts by Radio Voice of the Gospel, Station ETLF, Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

The current broadcast schedule lists the following English programs from the two RVOG transmitters. Each listing includes the time of broadcast (Greenwich Mean Time), the target area, meter band and main and alternate frequencies. All frequencies are given in kilocycles; main frequency is used unless bad interference develops.

Twenty Years Later—

Chaplain to Atomic Bomb Crew Sees Hiroshima Raid Justifiable

AROUND midnight Aug. 5, 1945, Chaplain William B. Downey led men of the 509th Composite Bomb Group before they embarked on their historic mission over Japan in a prayer to God that "armed with Thy might may they bring this war to a rapid end."

Nearly 20 years later the same clergyman, now pastor of a 1,900-member Milwaukee suburban congregation, Fox Point Lutheran Church, still remembers that prayer and says he is utterly convinced that the United States was on morally justifiable grounds in dropping the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima.

In an interview he cited these justifications:

1. The U.S. was in a war which it had to win, for the good of the world.

2. All war is evil, but faced with the situation, President Truman and the nation's military commanders had only a choice between evils. It was less wrong to use the bomb and kill 70,000 Japanese soldiers and civilians, including women and children, than to prolong the war, necessitating an invasion of Japan and causing hundreds of thousands more casualties, both Japanese and American.

3. The atomic bomb was the same as any other weapon qualitatively. The only difference was quantitative. Critics have called its use a sin, but sin is not quantitative.

Pastor Downey disclosed that the prayer he uttered before the Hiroshima raid was the first of two he composed. The second was said prior to the atomic bomb raid on Nagasaki.

Asked God's Protection

Pastor Downey recalled the text of the first prayer, as follows:

"Almighty Father, Who wilt hear the prayer of them that love Thee, we pray Thee to be with those who brave the heights of Thy heaven and who carry the battle to our enemies. Guard and protect them, we pray Thee, as they fly their appointed rounds.

"May they, as well as we, know Thy strength and power, and armed with Thy might may they bring this war to a rapid end.

"We pray Thee that the end of the war may come soon, and that once more we may know peace on earth.

"May the men who fly this night be kept safe in Thy care, and may they be returned safely to us. We shall go forward trusting in Thee, knowing that we are in Thy care now and forever. In the name of Jesus Christ. Amen."

The Lutheran pastor said there was no question that everyone connected with the strike wanted it to be successful.

"Now to be successful is necessarily to result in killing a lot of people," he continued. "In this latter day people seem to regard you as a monster when you say this. But that is what war is all about—killing people and destroying property. Of course we wanted to kill people—not because we were bloodthirsty, but because this was the one way to end the war and restore peace to the world."

Calls All War Sinful

Pastor Downey added that he had heard less criticism of the fire bomb raids on Germany, which generated fires with heat so intense that the oxygen was consumed and people were driven into the open and killed by suffocation and fire.

"It seems to me that the nature of war, the characteristic of war, is sin," he observed, adding:

"Rebellion against God and the deification of one's own self or a system or a class or a people—this is the nature of war. And I am persuaded that the same factor is involved whether you kill a single Japanese soldier with a rifle bullet in the jungles of Burma, or whether you destroy a whole city such as Hiroshima."

AIRMAN 2/C Richard C. Spangenberg, stationed at Little Rock AFB, Arkansas, deserves a special salute as an outstanding example of Christian dedication.

Commuting 28 miles from the base to attend Faith Church in Little Rock, he learned that the congregation lacked the necessary funds for building a first unit. With the assistance of the pastor, the Rev. Chesmond S. Bade, he found part-time work on week-ends in order to contribute to the building project.

He was hired at Sandy's Drive-In (see photo) with military approval, quickly becoming a popular crew member. He divides the job income 50-50 between the building fund of Faith Church and a savings account for his anticipated college expenses. Richard serves the Church in other ways too. He has been a camp counselor, youth advisor, usher, and Sunday school teacher.

Airman Spangenberg, 20-years-old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Spangenberg, Peshtigo, Wisconsin. Currently serving with the HQ Squadron of the 825th Combat Support Group, he intends to complete college after his enlistment and possibly enter the ministry.

ONE of the most popular graduates from the Fairview, Montana, high school this year was FREDRICKA CHASE, who has been chosen as September's "Lutheran Girl."

A member of Zion Church, Fairview, 18-year-old Fredricka was active in school affairs and received many honors during her high school career. She served as a cheer leader, pom pom girl, in the Press Club, annual staff and school paper, but was especially active in musical affairs as pianist, organist and chorister. She was chosen secretary of the student council and homecoming queen during her senior year.

Her parish and its Luther League also mean a lot to Fredricka; her record of participation here rivals her active school life. A high point for her was attendance at her Church's national Luther League convention in Detroit last year.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Chase of Fairview, Fredricka was nominated by a former pastor, the Rev. Erling H. Peterson, now of Tucson, Ariz. His evaluation of her is short and convincing: "Beautiful Christian character."

Lutheran–Roman Catholic Scholars Begin Talks on Nicene Creed

LUTHERAN and Roman Catholic churchmen met for two days in Baltimore during July in the first official theological consultations ever undertaken by the two communions in America.

At the historic meeting, 17 scholars and church officials examined Lutheran and Roman Catholic interpretations of the "Status of the Nicene Creed as Dogma of the Church." The creed, which developed from the decisions of the Ecumenical Council of Nicaea in 325 A.D., stresses the Holy Trinity and the deity of Jesus Christ. A common confession of faith, it is used in both Lutheran and Roman Catholic liturgies for the celebration of Holy Communion.

The sessions were the first in a series of private talks between the two groups which are expected to cover a wide range of theological questions of mutual interest.

The conversations are being sponsored by the National Lutheran Council and the U.S. Catholic Bishops Commission for Ecumenical Affairs. Representatives of both groups hailed the meetings as "a major ecumenical encounter," but emphasized that they are "strictly at the level of scholars talking together." The conferees noted that they cannot obligate their respective churches to any understanding or agreement arrived at in the consultations.

The discussions led to the formulation of a two-page joint statement summarizing the main points of the conversations between the eight Lutheran and nine Roman Catholic participants.

It said in part: "We confess in common the Nicene faith, and therefore hold that the Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, who was made man, suffered, died, and rose again for our salvation, is true God; that He is from God the Father as Son, and therefore other than the Father; that the Godhead is one and undivided; and that the Holy Spirit, together with the Father and the Son, is to be worshipped and glorified."

The Rev. John Courtney Murray, S.J., famed Roman Catholic theologian, said afterward that the participants agreed there is a relationship between the faith proclaimed in the Nicene Creed and the faith proclaimed in the Gospel.

But he added, "We have no common understanding of how the movement was made from the Gospel of Scripture to this creedal formulation. . . ." He explained that this still remains a problem, "not only between our communions, but also, I think, within our communions."

The Rev. Dr. Paul C. Empie, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, who spearheaded the effort to bring the two groups together in theological talks, commented on the significance of the meetings.

While "there are deep differences which divide us and while our emphasis at this time was given chiefly to understand each other," Dr. Empie said, "we spent more time on the areas of agreement and found them to be very substantial."

Religious sidelights on recent news events and other items of interest

DANISH "BEATNIKS" are greeted by Evangelist Billy Graham in photo at right, during his Copenhagen crusade in May. Marred in its beginning with heckling and stench bombs, the eight-day evangelistic meetings drew capacity crowds to the Danish capital's Forum. Due to the disturbances Copenhagen police had denied admittance to these young men because they "looked suspicious," but Graham went to the auditorium entrance to invite them inside. Later three of the youths made "decisions for Christ." (RNS Photo)

DURING A VISIT to Hong Kong in April, officers and men of the USS Washtenaw County (LST 1166) presented Lutheran World Service in the British Crown Colony with four boxes of clothing and a check for $50, to be given to the Kwun Tong Vocational Training Centre operated by the Lutheran agency. The picture below shows Vance M. Cole, EM3, making the gift to Missionary Rodger M. Singer. Looking on are (l. to r.) Jeffry L. Otto, SK3, Charles L. Gore, FTG3 and Chaplain Ted E. Edwards. RELIGIOUS REMARKABLES — By Scheel

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Second Glance

¶ The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, second largest Lutheran body in the U. S., voted at its triennial convention in Detroit to join with three other groups in a new cooperative agency that will unite most of the nation's 8,700,000 Lutherans in a massive program of theological study and Christian service. Delegates also approved efforts toward an all-Lutheran hymnal and service book by 1980.

¶ A Lutheran chaplain has been commended for his ministry to injured servicemen in South Vietnam following bomb explosions at the Bien Hoa air base. The May 16 incident destroyed or damaged 40 aircraft and took more American lives than any Vietcong attack up to that time. Chaplain James E. Hanson, who was flying over the air base when the explosions began, "realized the severity of the emergency," the Bien Hoa air base commander noted, "and was present and administering vital ministrations within minutes after the initial explosions . . . . helping care for the dead and wounded."

¶ A New York World's Fair visit by a newly-wed Lutheran couple has blossomed into an unexpected honeymoon in Germany. Jutta and Douglas Stange won the overseas trip in a drawing sponsored by the Berlin Pavilion at the fair. Married early this year, the pair had little hope for an immediate visit to Berlin, even though that is Mrs. Stange's home town. Now their plane fare and expenses for five days will be paid by the Berlin pavilion. Mr. Stange is a graduate of the Lutheran Seminary at Gettysburg, Pa., currently doing graduate study for an advanced degree.

A Trip Into the Bible—Part II

A Letter to Christians "Away from Home"

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

WHEN PETER WROTE his First Letter, he addressed a group of Christians. According to I Peter 1: 1, they were called "exiles of the dispersion." They were located in territories called "Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia."

These "exiles of the dispersion" were Christians who had to leave their homelands and were now scattered to different parts of the world. (1) In what ways would you say that Christian military personnel today are similarly "exiles of the dispersion"? (Write down your answer to this question—then check immediately with a suggested answer found on the next page.) (2) In what state or foreign country are you now located? Write down the names of countries or states where five of your Christian friends are now located.

Finding the Meaning

A very helpful way to study the Bible is to ask yourself three basic questions:

(a) What does it say? Observe.

(b) What does it mean? Interpret.

(c) What does it mean to me? Apply.

Only after you read a passage carefully and try to interpret what the author meant at the time it was written, can you adequately apply the passage to your own life. So let's try to find out now what Peter actually meant when he wrote the first few verses of this letter.

Writers make use of "logical connectives" to hook up facts, ideas, thoughts and concepts. Let's look first at the logical connective of a "series of facts." These include such words as "and," "or," "first of all" and "finally." Draw a circle around such a logical connective whenever it appears in I Peter 1, 1,2. (Do it right now before proceeding with this lesson.)

In the first paragraph of I Peter, chapter 1, certain characteristics are given of the Christians to whom Peter is writing. (3) He says they are ..... and ..... and ..... (Look up these words in the Bible. Fill them in. Now check your answers immediately with those found on the next page.)

"Logical connectives" are like connecting links which hook box cars, one to another, in a long freight train. Another such hook is the "logical connective of reason." When the writer uses words like "for," "because," or "since," he is trying to show the reason for an action or statement. An illustration of this might be as follows: "Bill is saving a part of his paycheck each payday for his next trip home." The word "for" is a logical connective of reason. It indicates the reason why he is saving his money.

Draw a triangle around those logical connectives of reason that you find in I Peter 1: 1,2. (Do it right now. Then move on to the next paragraph of this lesson.)

The two reasons Peter gives for being "chosen" and "destined" by God the Father and "sanctified" (being made holy) by the Holy Spirit is for "..... to Jesus Christ and for .... blood." (Write down the words from the Bible now. Then proceed to the next paragraph of this lesson.)

We are all acquainted with the importance of "obedience"—our whole military structure is built on it. One task of the Holy Spirit is to help you be obedient to your Lord Jesus Christ. This is one of the reasons why you are being sanctified, so that you might be a true and loyal soldier of the captain of your soul.

The second reason for being "chosen," "destined" and "sanctified" is for "sprinkling with his blood." Can you think of a New Testament passage which indicates what the blood of Jesus Christ can do for a person. Look up the following: I John 1:7; I John 1:9; Hebrews 9:14.

All those in fellowship with God through Jesus Christ are among the chosen ones. They are a people of destiny. They have a future as you will see in verses 3-9. We who believe in Christ have been "born anew to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead." We have also been born anew to "an inheritance which is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you." (I Peter 1: 3,4)

This is not just "pie in the sky." The "exiles of the dispersion," to whom Peter was writing, were going through some rather terrible trials and sufferings, which he tells about later in his letter. What was the purpose of all this suffering for the sake of their faith in Christ if there were no future? But they had a future! And no one could take it away from them.

Looking Ahead

For the coming month, decide right now to spend 30 minutes a day studying I Peter. (Perhaps 15 minutes in the morning, 15 in the evening will work out best for you.) At any rate, don't let anything stand in the way. Start each session with silent prayer; ask the Holy Spirit to be your guide and teacher. Follow these steps:

- Read I Peter through in one sitting once each week.
- Make an outline of I Peter. Give a name to each paragraph and chapter.
- What are you to do, according to I Peter 1:6 if you have to suffer various trials?
- Make a list of those things mentioned in the first chapter which you are not to do.
- List those things mentioned in chapter 1 which you are to do.
- Answer the following questions: (a) What difference will it make in your own personal life if you follow the advice given in the two lists you have made? (b) What effect will this have upon your buddies? Upon your superiors? Upon those who may be under you? Upon your future?

CLERGY PEACE MISSION ASKS END TO MILITARY ACTION IN VIETNAM

AN URGENT CALL for an end to military action in Vietnam was issued in New York in mid-July by members of an interreligious peace mission to the war-torn country. Spokesmen for the 14-member Clergymen's Emergency Committee for Vietnam, sponsored by the Fellowship of Reconciliation, a Christian pacifist group, stressed on their return that "both sides" in the conflict are "trapped by their own interpretations" of the situation.

A report issued by the churchmen declared: "We have found a deeply complicated situation in which we could not judge either side to be wholly right or wholly wrong. We have received differing sets of data relative to each side, and these seem to be irreconcilable in the midst of war."

During the 10-day visit to Vietnam the group conferred with U.S. and Vietnamese government officials, Buddhist and Roman Catholic leaders, soldiers and Vietnamese of widely varying political viewpoints.

The report called for a cessation of bombing in North Vietnam "as a demonstration of good faith in calling for a cease-fire," and urged a UN-sponsored conference "in which those nations and all other parties to the conflict will be included."

In commenting on the report, one member of the peace mission, the Rev. Dr. Edwin Dahlberg of Crozer Theological Seminary, a Baptist, cited the existence of an "uneasy fear" that if communism should win in Vietnam "all Southeast Asia would go." The question, he said, involved "the best method of resisting communism. The military method obviously is not successful."

While members of the mission were neither military nor political experts, Dr. Dahlberg explained, "we are men of God and we believe that when we put ourselves at the disposal of God, something new can happen." He said the peace mission "had set an example that others may follow."

GIRL OF THE MONTH

LAURANN KLING, from Slifer, Iowa, is our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for October.

She was nominated for this honor by the Rev. Robert L. Nelson, pastor of Immanuel Church, Burnside, Iowa, who commends her for being "a joy to her pastor and to her community . . . always willing to serve her Church."

Certainly a list of her activities bears this out. Laurann has been president of the local Luther League, Sunday school teacher, vacation Bible school teacher, Girl Scout councilor, and cheer leader. She has received the 4-H God, Home and Country Award and was awarded a trip to Chicago for her 4-H leadership work.

Laurann is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kling. A graduate of Fort Dodge Community College, she is currently enrolled at State College, Cedar Falls, Iowa, and plans to enter the teaching profession.

Reaching the Uncommitted—

Coffee House Ministry Expands

A LUTHERAN university specialist has asserted that "a new openness" is being brought to spiritual ministries on college campuses by dimly lit coffee houses sponsored by churches and by college residences stressing religious living.

"They are signs of the times in the academic world," said the Rev. Dr. A. Henry Hetland, "as viewed from the perspective of people professionally attending to spiritual needs." Dr. Hetland is executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Division of College and University Work.

Asking what dimly lit bistros have to do with the Church's real job, Dr. Hetland said that "the coffee house movement symbolizes a new sensitivity to persons as they are." It is, he added, "a new understanding of the nature of religious faith and how it operates."

At least 36 coffee houses have started on campuses in the last two years, according to reports he received.

Dr. Hetland emphasized that the coffee houses operate as places where persons of all faiths or none can openly discuss whatever they wish. He stressed that religious commitment is not presupposed or sought.

"It is an opportunity for faith and unbelief," he continued, "for commitment and uncertainty, to meet on neutral grounds—an honest meeting of persons for its own sake."

Church Sponsors Residences

The Lutheran churchman said that at almost the opposite pole is another kind of campus experiment: the disciplined lay community now being tried by student groups in widely scattered states. As a case in point, he cited Christus House in Iowa City, Iowa.

There, he said, 30 men and women live in two adjacent houses and have all their meals together. Besides carrying full academic loads at the state university, they participate in courses in Biblical theology, current religious thought, and ethics. Additional programs of community service and social action are also undertaken.

Although strong emphasis is given to corporate and private worship in such a setting, Dr. Hetland said that such a religious community is not a closed society.

"It regularly attracts many non-residents to its programmed events. Membership is open to all faiths or to no faith. Residents are selected on the basis of willingness to go along as full participants in the community's discipline."

The coffee house ministry has also been successfully established apart from university campuses. In several metropolitan centers they offer folk music, jazz, poetry, drama and unfettered discussion.

Opened last year in St. Louis, Missouri's Gaslight Square was "The Exit." Operated by a non-profit corporation of Christian clergymen and laymen, it has attracted two kinds of people, according to its sponsors: "On the one hand . . . students, beatniks, artists, drifters, the cautious and the curious, who are largely uncommitted to the Church. On the other hand are church people who have glimpsed some of the joy of life under God's love . . . and want to communicate the Gospel in meaningful new symbols."

AT the "Unmuzzled Ox," church-sponsored coffee house near Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., students gather for talk and refreshment, in dialogue between Church and world.

LUTHERAN high school students who held a "work camp" in New York's Harlem, teaching children in classes at churches in the area, joined religious, civic and business leaders who gathered at the Lutheran Church of the Transfiguration in Harlem to discuss church and community efforts to erase tension in the area. Carolyn Orso (left) of Washington, D.C., and Lona Nimeth of Brainard, Minn., chat here with the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the Lutheran Church in America; Jackie Robinson, former baseball star and active layman; and Msgr. Gregory Mooney of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York. LUTHERAN WORLD FEDERATION president, the Rev. Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz (second from left in photo at left), held a historic meeting with Roman Catholic Juan Cardinal Landazuri Ricketts, archbishop of Lima, Peru (third from left), upon the occasion of the Fourth Latin American Lutheran Conference, held in Lima in July. The two exchanged pledges of prayer during their half-hour visit. Other Lutheran leaders being escorted by the Cardinal through his palace were the Rev. Guido Tornquist (left), and Mr. Federico Moll.

THE BODY of United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, who died of a heart attack in London in July, lies in Bethlehem Chapel in the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. (above). The family of the late statesman, who was both a Presbyterian and Unitarian church member, accepted the Episcopal cathedral's offer to hold funeral services there. The flag-draped casket containing the remains of Ambassador Stevenson was under military honor guard at all times. (RNS Photo)

SHIPYARD workers at Port Glasgow, Scotland, are joined during their lunch break by the Rev. J. C. Wallace (seated, third from left), a Church of Scotland chaplain taking part in a new outreach program. According to University of Glasgow theologian Dr. Murdo Macdonald, the placement of chaplains in factories and shipyards is proving exceptionally successful in building interest in the Church among "people who have never had much interest in us." Similar industrial mission experiments are being tried in other countries.

PANEL TO STUDY CHRISTIAN ATTITUDE ON VIETNAM POLICY

A SPECIAL study panel on Vietnam has been appointed by the National Council of Churches to seek some agreement among American Christians on Vietnam policy.

The panel, comprising clergy and lay men and women, will also be asked to study and recommend ways to expand the churches' cooperative relief and rehabilitation program for Vietnamese war victims, according to Bishop Reuben H. Mueller, president of the National Council.

Pointing out that there is no real consensus among Christians in America on how to bring peace with justice in Vietnam, Bishop Mueller called on the panel to follow a "discipline of hard thinking."

He stressed that the panel's role is strictly advisory and will have no power to act or formulate policy for the NCC.

"Out of the belief that the churches of America which share a common witness in the National Council must examine every resource they possess that might be helpful in bringing about peace, I have called this panel into being to advise the officers of the Council as to future action," the bishop stated.

A Trip into the Bible—Part III

Christ: Shepherd and Guardian

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

ON THIS "trip into the Bible" we are sampling the kind of serious Bible study that can be done to see what has been written (observation), to get at the original meaning intended by the author (interpretation), and what the passage has to say to us today (application). It will be up to you to apply these principles and techniques to other portions of scripture. In this lesson we want to investigate the "logical connective of contrast."

All about us are evidences of contrast. For example, we speak or read about men and women, day and night, tall and short, black and white. Whenever a writer uses the words "but" or "yet" he is probably trying to indicate a contrast. In order to find the contrast, all you have to do is to look at either side of the logical connective.

A Look at Chapter Two

Read through the second chapter of the First Letter of Peter and draw a box □ around the word "but" or "yet" each time you come to it. The logical connective of contrast is found in verses (1) ....., (2) ....., (3) ....., (4) ....., (5) ....., (6) ....., (7) ....., (8) ....., (9) ....., (10) ....., (11) .....

(Right now, before you go any further in this lesson, read the second chapter, box in the words "but" or "yet" each time they occur, and fill in the spaces provided above, identifying those verses in which the logical connective of contrast may be found. At the bottom of this page are the correct answers; check your answers immediately. Follow this procedure each time you are askd to fill in answers.)

In the second chapter of First Peter there is a discussion of what a Christian is, what his attitude should be, what he is to believe and what he is to do. In verses 13-17 Peter states what a Christian's attitude would be towards government and those in authority.

According to verse 17, what are we asked to do? (12)....., (13) ....., (14) ....., (15) .....

In verses 18-25 we are told how we are to act toward those who are over us. According to verse 18 we are to be submissive to our masters with all respect. Then follows a contrast on either side of the logical connective "but". "Not only to the (16) ..... and (17) ..... but also to the (18) ....."

Peter goes on to ask in verse 20 that if we suffer for wrongdoing and take it patiently, what credit is that? After all we deserve such punishment. Then comes the logical connective of contrast, "but", which is followed by a striking statement "But if when you do (19) ..... and suffer for it you take it (20) ....., you have God's approval."

Peter then points us to Jesus Christ who is the supreme example of patience in times of suffering and persecution. Again he uses a logical connective of contrast in verses 22 and 23; "He committed no (21) ....., no (22) ..... was found on his (23) ..... When he was (24) ....., he did not (25) ..... in return; when he (26) ..... he did not (27) .....; but he (28) ..... to him who judges justly."

Of this Saviour verse 21 says that he suffered for us, leaving us an (29) ..... that we should (30) ..... Realizing that his readers were far from perfect, in fact that they were prone to stray from their Saviour, Peter gives a reason why Christ is able to heal them with his wounds. He uses the word, "for" which here is a logical connective of of reason. (Review Lesson II from last month's issue of A Mighty Fortress.) "For you were (31) ..... like sheep."

The final logical connective of contrast in this second chapter now appears. With what does Peter contrast our drifting away from Christ in verse 25? (32) .....

How reassuring it is to know that when we fall, when we fail our Saviour, when we sin against God or our fellowmen, we can look up to Christ who truly is the Shepherd and Guardian of our souls. This is the "good news." This is the Gospel which men around us need to hear. You who know Him: go quickly and tell. Tell your buddies, your family, your acquaintances what a great Saviour every man may have.

Assignment for the Month

- Take time each day to study I Peter.
- Pray for the Holy Spirit's guidance.
- Read through the whole letter in one sitting once a week.
- Go through chapters 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 and put a symbol around each logical connective that you find.

(a) Put a circle O around each logical connective of series of fact (and, or, first of all, finally).

(b) Put a triangle Δ around each l. c. of reason (usually for, because).

(c) Put a box □ around each l. c. of contrast (but, yet).

- From chapters one and two write down in one column in what verses the l. c. of reason is to be found. In a second column write down what truth Peter is trying to bring forth preceding each l. c. of reason. In a third column tell what reason is given by Peter after each l. c. of reason.
- From chapters three, four and five of I Peter write down in one column the verses where the l. c. of contrast is to be found. In a second and third column write down those truths which are contrasted and are located on either side of a l. c. of contrast.
- Jot down what new concepts or ideas you have learned as a result of this month's study.
- Jot down what practical everyday spiritual help has come to you since you began studying I Peter with us.

Second Glance

¶ A Lutheran chaplain serving in South Vietnam has been awarded the Purple Heart for shrapnel wounds of the leg suffered from a mortar burst. He is Chaplain Hugh F. Lecky, Jr., USN, who has been serving in the area for 10 months.

¶ Membership in Lutheran churches in the United States and Canada exceeded nine million by the end of 1964, the annual statistical summary issued by the National Lutheran Council shows. Year-end reports by ten Lutheran bodies indicated a total of 8,707,273 baptized members in the U.S. and 295,696 members in Canada.

¶ October 31 will see the publication of the most complete work on Lutheranism available in the English language—a three volume Encyclopedia of the Lutheran Church. Edited by the Rev. Dr. Julius H. Bodensieck in a ten-year project, the encyclopedia has approximately 2,600 pages with some two million words. Over 700 authors from all parts of the world have contributed to it.

¶ A gift of $10,340 has been presented to Lutheran churches from the Air Force Chaplains Fund as the denomination's designated portion of a 1965 Easter offering taken in USAF chapels. The world-wide offering for the support of the domestic and overseas programs of the churches amounted to $131,227 and was divided among church bodies which have chaplain representation on extended active duty.

KATHERINE JANNETTE HOGGARD, confirmed in the Lutheran Church last year after instruction by Chaplain Daniel H. Frederick at Turner AFB, Georgia, is "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for November.

A June graduate with high honors from Dougherty High School, Albany, Georgia, Katherine was a leader in many school and community activities, and served as president of the Senior Protestant Youth at the base chapel.

The daughter of CMSgt and Mrs. Floyd Hoggard, who were recently transferred to Abilene, Texas, Katherine is now attending North Texas State University in Benton, where she is studying social science in secondary education.

Chaplain Frederick, who nominated Katherine for this honor, points out that she has been "instrumental in bringing many of her friends to the Lutheran service on base and will be a definite asset to the Lutheran congregation" in her new place of residence. "Her pleasing personality and her readiness to assist wherever needed, plus her deep spiritual devotion have been a silent witness to many of our young people."

At Miami Beach—

Lutheran Youth Challenged, Inspired at National Conference

SOME 8000 young Lutherans spent the final week of August at Miami Beach, Florida, in a giant youth conference sponsored by the Lutheran Church in America's Commission on Youth Activities. They had come from all over the U.S., Canada and the Caribbean area.

As they headed home they pondered the words of the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, LCA President, who preached the sermon at the closing service:

"After you have been looking at the glittering montage of life through an entire—lengthy and perhaps wearying—week, it is high time we do something to get our bearings and gain a sense of perspective. There's only one vantage point from which it can be attained, that is from above. We must see God."

Comedian Offers Prayer

Events had come pell mell from the moment comedian Jackie Gleason stepped before the youth at the opening ceremony and said: "I had some qualms about being here today. I understand I am a reprobate. Perhaps I am. Be that as it may, I want to welcome you."

Appearing in a television rehearsal at an adjoining auditorium, he had accepted an invitation to make an unscheduled appearance "to say hello." Before he finished, he had surprised many in the audience with a serious message that concluded with the quoting of "The Actor's Prayer" that ends "in all junctures . . . God of my soul, help me to play the man."

They heard the Rev. Malcolm Boyd, Episcopal priest and playwright, sharply criticize churches which, he said, have "neither been vocal nor led in the freedom movement."

They showed keen interest in a one hour, 22 minute address by Vice President Hubert Humphrey. He told them: "The best time the Lord gives me is now. Maybe we can make tomorrow better, but the time for us to live is the present. It is the most exciting time ever."

They laughed with comedian Dick Gregory, who then turned serious and said, "Los Angeles was not a riot, it was a protest. You can stop a riot with five efficient cops, but even Hitler's armies couldn't stop a protest."

God Changed An Alcoholic

Popular with the audience, many of whom later sought to buy a tape of her message, was Gert Behanna. She told of spending most of her 71 years as an alcoholic but how finding the reality of God had totally changed her outlook on life, so that now with much of her inherited fortune given away she devotes 11 months a year to telling about her conversion.

They had to ponder the advice of the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Marshall of Chicago, president of the Lutheran Church in America's Illinois Synod: "Retain individuality in a society that demands you conform . . . but do not allow your religion to make you withdraw or develop a disdain for people or the world or the Church."

Dr. Ernst Stuhlinger, director of research projects laboratory at the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., predicted a moon landing in 1969 and cited the challenge to "spiritual power and enlightenment."

Beauty Finalist Testifies

Then there was the Miss America finalist, Suzanne Johnson, Miss Illinois of 1959, who said, "I prayed to God to help me win and at the same time to prepare me in case I did not." Now, she admitted, she feels she benefitted by losing.

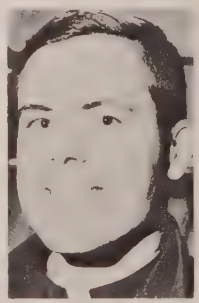
And some when next they see a Bible will probably remember the Rev. Dr. Hagen Staack of Allentown, Pa., Muhlenberg University professor who said he hoped they "would start reading in the 'old book' instead of the junk you have been reading."

One conferee commented as the conference ended: "It certainly was a lot of program for $56." That covered program, hotel and meals. Each had to provide his own transportation.

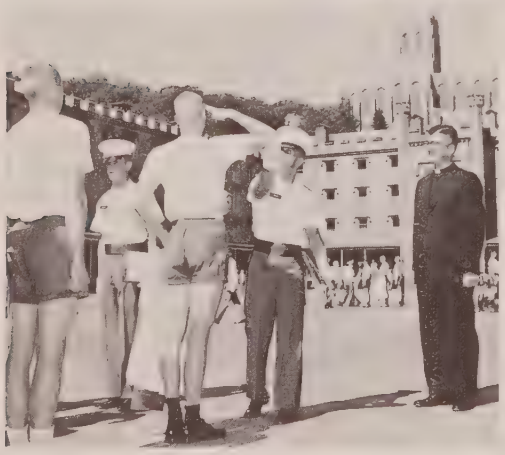
Personalities in Pictures

Religious sidelights on recent news events and other items of interest

DR. ALBERT SCHWEITZER died in early September at the age of 90 at his famed Lambarene hospital in Gabon, West Africa. Hailed as one of the world's outstanding humanitarians, scholars, musicians, doctors and missionaries, he received the Nobel Peace Prize for 1952. He is pictured at left in a typical view as he travelled by river to bring medical help to a sick native. Born in France, he achieved fame as a theological scholar and interpreter of the music of Bach before the age of 30. Later he studied medicine and went to Africa to apply his understanding of Christianity in a needy area. His philosophy of "reverence for life" led him to compassion for animals and plants, as well as human beings.



HOLDING the banner that was used in connection with their appearances at military installations in the European command this fall are three students of Wittenberg (Lutheran) University, Springfield, Ohio. They are members of the "Sounds of Wittenberg," a student group which presented variety shows for U.S. servicemen in West Germany under the sponsorship of the U.S.O. and the National Music Council. A total of 14 choir members made the eight-week tour, accompanied by Dr. L. David Miller, director of the Wittenberg School of Music. Pictured above are (l. to r.): Charles Voit of Jeffersontown, Kentucky; Barbara Bowman of Wooster, Ohio, and George Meese of Lyndhurst, Ohio.



COMEDIAN Jackie Gleason made a brief appearance before the Miami Beach youth conference of the Lutheran Church in America late in August. Responding to a thunderous ovation with which he was welcomed by the 8000 young people, Gleason (pictured at right) called himself "a guy who has had a great deal of success" but who has learned that material possessions are not as important in life as being a "friend of God." (See story on page 1 for more news of the youth conference.)

VIOLENCE by opponents of the civil rights movement was directed against two churchmen who had been released from jail at Haynesville, Ala., where they were held after demonstrating for equal employment opportunity. Jonathan Daniels, 26, student at the Episcopal Seminary, Cambridge, Mass. (left), was fatally shot as he and a racially-mixed group tried to buy food at a small store. Wounded in the same attack was the Rev. Richard Morrisroe, 26, of Chicago, Ill., a Roman Catholic priest (right). Being held for murder was Tom Coleman, 52, described as a part-time deputy sheriff. (RNS Photos)

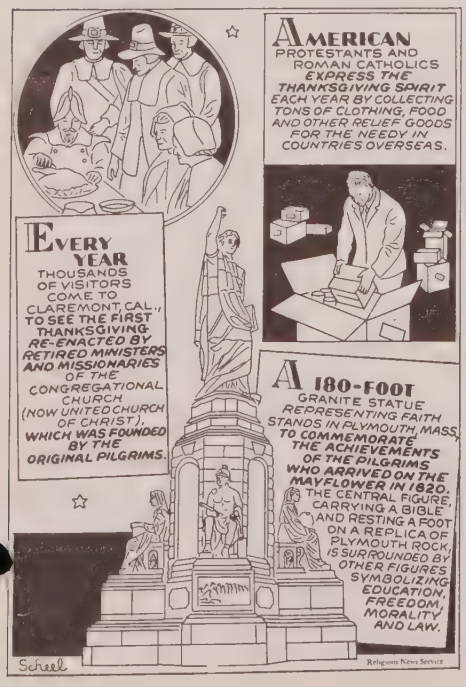
NEW GUINEA LUTHERAN ENLISTS IN U.S. NAVY

SANGLEY POINT U.S. Naval Station in the Philippines chalked up a "first" in its enlistment program for U.S. citizens when the Commanding Officer, Capt. James M. Johnson, USN, swore in a young American who had flown all the way from New Guinea to Sangley Point to join the Navy (see photo above).

Dave Hartung, 19, was studying pre-med at Texas Lutheran College when his love of flying became stronger than his medical ambition.



He rejoined his parents, Lutheran missionaries at Madang, New Guinea, from where he applied for enlistment in the U.S. Navy to become an aviator.

At Sangley Point, Lutheran Chaplain Edward W. Pipho arranged all the details in connection with Dave's enlistment, resulting in his taking the oath of allegiance early in July.

The Lutheran mission in New Guinea where Dave's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward Hartung, serve, is one of the largest Lutheran mission fields in the world.

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE: AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN A MAN AND HIS COUNTRY

By Chaplain R. G. Eisemann, USAF

IN OVER four years of commissioned service as a Lutheran chaplain I had never been asked to swear anyone in—until recently. An airman embarking on his third tour with the USAF requested that I "perform the honors" early one Saturday morning here on Okinawa.

At the appointed hour we brought the U.S. flag from the chapel into my office; I signed several copies of paperwork and then we positioned ourselves for the brief ceremony. The airman stood facing me in front of the flag as we began the oath of enlistment.

"I do solemnly swear that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic, that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same and that I will obey the orders of the President of the United States," it read. At the very end it added a final four-word punch—"So help me God."

As we lowered our right hands to our sides I commented on the brevity of the ceremony and then we both agreed that "its impact far outweighed its size." In those few words was an agreement between his country and the serviceman that was compressed into compact size, but one that could be expanded in a thousand different directions, as the need arose. On the panel door to my closet, immediately behind where we stood, is a map of southeast Asia that caught our eye, just before his departure. We both stood and looked at it studiously, as he remarked, "You just never know what that oath will require of you, do you?"

The Code of Conduct

After saying good-bye, my mind toyed with the symbolism of that parting observation. It led me to think of a small wallet-size folder that the Division of Service to Military Personnel makes available to me in quantities for distribution to military personnel. It is entitled, "The Code of Conduct" and has the words of Philippians 4:13 ("I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me") and the "praying hands" superimposed over a light blue cross on the front page. One by one I reviewed the six "challenges" it contains . . . "I am an American fighting man" . . . "I will never surrender of my own free will," and so forth.

The folder closes with a poem by Frederick J. Gillman that seemed a fitting afterthought for the event of a few minutes earlier. The final verse reads, "God, send us men with hearts ablaze, All truth to love, all wrong to hate; These are the patriots nations need, These are the bulwarks of the State."

It would do each of us good to review frequently our general "oath of allegiance", along with the salient points expressed within "The Code of Conduct For Members of the Armed Forces." All of us may one day find ourselves combat-confronted with the necessity to make application of one or more of them. Learn them. Be prepared to apply them. . . . "So help me God."

Thanks for Gift or Giver?

IF THANKFULNESS is based on the number and the value of gifts we received, then we Americans should be very thankful people this Thanksgiving Day. We have a feeling though that many of us have little sincere thankfulness for the simple reason that in our frenzy to get the gifts we've lost the Giver.

Perhaps we can illustrate. Let's imagine that a girl received a beautiful diamond ring from her fiance at the time they announce their engagement. Suppose, too, that she then begins to fall in love with the ring so completely that she begins slowly to lose interest in her fiance.

It sounds, you say, preposterous and unbelievable. Yet this is about what we do in our relationship to God.

We find it far easier to imagine that the right kind of girl would be willing to do without a ring and to give up other gifts from her fiance, if necessary, in order to keep her lover. The question is whether we would be as willing to give up some of the gifts we have in order to keep God.

The important thing for us to have, we should remember on this Thanksgiving Day, is the Giver, not the gifts.

Gifts can be treacherous things, for they can be bribes or pretty wrapping for hypocrisy. The price tags on the gifts do not tell the measure of God's great love for that man.

When you can be sure of the giver, you need not worry about the gifts. At this specific point we Christians have the unique advantage.

All of the gifts we have this Thanksgiving Day mean so much to us, finally, because we have the Gift, because in Christ, God gave Himself to us. We have both the Giver and the Gift.

—(The St. Louis Lutheran)

Second Glance

¶ The entire tribe of about 100 Auca Indians in Ecuador who killed five American missionaries in 1956 has been converted to Christianity. Dr. William C. Townsend, founder-director of the Wycliffe Bible Translators, whose organization has worked for years among wild Amazon tribes, said that many of the Aucans also are now active in preaching to other Indians.

In July two of the children of murdered missionary Nathaniel Saint were baptized at the site of their father's death. The Aucan preacher who performed the ceremony was one of the eight persons responsible for the massacre.

¶ Pope Paul VI became the first Roman Catholic pontiff to visit the United States as he made a brief trip to the United Nations in New York to plead for world peace on October 4. The spiritual leader was greeted by huge crowds in the one-day visit that included a motorcade, a visit to St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Ave., and an outdoor Mass at Yankee Stadium, as well as the U.N. speech.

When America entered the Vietnam conflict, he pointed out, it entered into a situation which implied a covenant, carrying with it a moral obligation to see it through. The moral obligation, he said, is "human responsibility consecrated by the passionate divine intention that every man shall know the taste of freedom."

¶ The fourth and final session of the Roman Catholic Church's Second Vatican Council opened in Rome on Sept. 14. Among the almost 100 delegates of other Christian groups who are observing the council's 2500 bishops in action, are eight from the Lutheran World Federation.

A heavy load of work faced the council including proposed statements on religious liberty, the Church in the modern world and the sources of revelation. In earlier sessions a "liberal" majority was able to endorse some "updating" resolutions, but a "conservative" hard core of bishops blocked effective action on others. Pope Paul seemed determined to steer a middle course, putting the brakes on rapid changes in his Church.

DIANE ROHDE, from Pettibone, North Dakota, is our "Lutheran Girl" selection for December.

She was nominated for this honor by her pastor, The Rev. Marvin L. Holje, who cites her as a "wholesome Christian girl" devoting much of her time and energy to "the service of her Lord."

Diane's many extra-curricular high school activities included editorship of the paper, cheerleader, dramatics, 4-H leadership responsibilities, and the choir. She was named "Homemaker of Tomorrow" for her outstanding 4-H work.

Active in church-related work too, she was both secretary and president of her local Luther League, church pianist, and has been teaching Sunday school and Vacation Bible School for the past few years. She spent last summer as a volunteer worker at a camp for handicapped children.

Diane, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz Rohde, is now a freshman at North Dakota State University, Fargo, where she is studying home economics.

To Meet the Needs—

Ask "Several Hundred" More Chaplains for Armed Forces

MAJOR GENERAL Charles E. Brown, Jr., the Army chief of chaplains, has issued an appeal to churches and their agencies for "several hundred" additional chaplains to meet the needs of the increasing number of servicemen called up by the war in South Vietnam.

The Pentagon said the call for chaplains is not as great as the call-up of doctors and other professionals to meet the needs of the expanding services, but the ratio of increase is approximately the same.

Unlike the requisition of doctors and others, the addition of chaplains is on a strictly voluntary basis. No clergyman is ever taken into the chaplaincy unless he volunteers for service. Those serving in the reserves, however, are subject to call, but this is on the prior understanding which their reserve status implies.

Chaplain Brown said the increase is due to "our continuing desire to provide adequate spiritual help" for the servicemen.

Standards Are High

The Pentagon announced that unlike World War II, there is no lowering of the standards required in the chaplaincy in order to meet the expanded quota. Each clergyman entering the chaplaincy must be ordained by a recognized church body and have its official endorsement, or the endorsement of the agency representing the religious group.

He must be the graduate of a recognized college or university, having a minimum of 120 hours of undergraduate study. He also must have at least 90 hours of recognized seminary credits or a like amount in the social field.

In addition, he must pass the physical requirements of the services, a National Security Agency test, and must be under 33 when he enters the chaplaincy.

A Pentagon spokesman emphasized that the anticipated addition of several hundred chaplains is not a response to an emergency situation. "It is not a general mobilization," he said.

The services attempt to maintain a "denominational balance" in the chaplaincy. Quotas for the churches are arrived at by determining what percentage of the American nonmilitary population adheres to each religious group. The total number of chaplains needed from each denomination is pro-rated on these percentages.

The Pentagon said this does not guarantee there always will be a chaplain who represents a particular denomination at each installation, but the armed services do make an attempt to provide the kind of spiritual atmosphere needed by service personnel.

MARY, JOSEPH AND THE CHILD, by Luca della Robbia (Italian)

From east to west, from shore to shore,
Let every heart awake and sing
The holy Child whom Mary bore,
The Christ, the everlasting King.

Behold, the world's Creator wears
The form and fashion of a slave;
Our very flesh our Maker shares,
His fallen creature, man, to save.

For this how wondrously he wrought!
A maiden, in her lowly place,
Became, in ways beyond all thought,
The chosen vessel of his grace.

And while the angels in the sky
Sang praise above the silent field,
To shepherds poor the Lord most high,
The one great Shepherd, was revealed.

All glory for this blessed morn
To God the Father ever be;
All praise to thee, O Virgin-born,
All praise, O Holy Ghost, to thee.

The Word for Christmas

INTROIT

UNTO us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder. And his Name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God: The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace. O sing unto the Lord a new song: for he hath done marvellous things. Glory be to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Ghost: as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end.

PRAYER

GRANT, we beseech thee, Almighty God, that the new birth of thine only-begotten Son according to the flesh may set us free who are held in the old bondage under the yoke of sin; through the same Jesus Christ, Thy Son, our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end.

GOSPEL

WHEN all things began, the Word already was. The Word dwelt with God, and what God was, the Word was. The Word, then, was with God at the beginning, and through him all things came to be; no single thing was created without him. All that came to be was alive with his life, and that life was the light of men. The light shines on in the dark, and the darkness has never quenched it.

There appeared a man named John, sent from God; he came as a witness to testify to the light, that all might become believers through him. He was not himself the light; he came to bear witness to the light. The real light which enlightens every man was even then coming into the world.

He was in the world; but the world, though it owed its being to him, did not recognize him. He entered his own realm, and his own would not receive him. But to all who did receive him, to those who have yielded him their allegiance, he gave the right to become children of God, not born of any human stock, or by the fleshly desire of a human father, but the offspring of God himself. So the Word became flesh; he came to dwell among us, and we saw his glory, such glory as befits the Father's only Son, full of grace and truth. (John 1:1-14—New English Bible —New Testament)

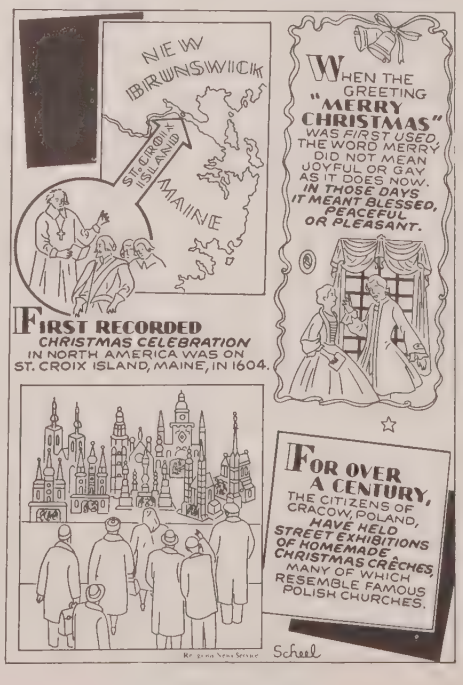
The Truth About Christmas—

WHEN WAS JESUS CHRIST BORN?

WE RECOGNIZE the birth of Christ as the beginning of the Christian era. This, for example, is A.D., the year of our Lord, 1965. We date all events before or after Christ.

However, it seems quite certain that this dating is not strictly accurate. As a matter of fact, we can't say with absolute certainty exactly what year Jesus was born. Scholars are almost unanimously agreed that the dating of our Christian era is several years late.

The basis for this conclusion rests on the accepted date for the death of Herod the Great. We know from the biblical record that he died not long after the birth of Christ. Therefore, when we know the year in which Herod died, we can determine fairly accurately the year in which Jesus was born.



It was Dionysius Exiguus, a Roman abbot, who lived at the turn of the fifth century, who originated our Christian calendar. He first selected the year of our Lord's incarnation as that before and after which all dates should be reckoned.

However, he erred in settling upon the year in which Christ was born. It is now generally agreed that Herod died in the year of Rome 750.

Allowing for this error in fixing the date of Jesus' birth and for the space of time that elapsed between his birth and Herod's death, we conclude that Jesus was born approximately five years before the date set as the beginning of our Christian era, i.e., he was born about 5 B.C.

Why December 25?

As to the month and the day in which he was born, we have no information. It is significant that in the early Church no fixed time was set aside for the celebration of Christmas. Easter was the major festival.

Many authorities consider it very doubtful that December was the month of his nativity and we have no grounds whatever for assuming that the event took place on the 25th of the month.

Apparently, until about the fourth century, the birth of Christ was not widely acknowledged as a great festival of the church year, nor was it observed everywhere on the same day. In the fourth century December 25th first appears as Christmas Day for the Western Church. Other dates are still observed by some Eastern churches.

Why did the Church choose December 25th? The old Roman festival of the winter solstice was celebrated on this date. It marked a turning-point in the year. The days began to grow longer as the sun moved north. Characteristically, the Church adopted a pagan custom and gave it a Christian content.

What We Do Know

Though we can fix the year of Jesus' birth only approximately, within the period of 5-7 B.C., though we do not know the month nor the day, we do know that he was conceived by the Holy Ghost, and born of the Virgin Mary in the little town of Bethlehem in the days of Herod the King. The Gospels do supply the historical setting. The fact of his birth is not questioned by any informed person. No figure in all history has made such a profound impression upon the life of mankind.

What difference does it make to us whether he was born in the year 1 A.D. or the year 5 B.C. What does it matter if our traditional Christmas Day does not coincide with the day of His birth!

The essential thing is that Christ was born, the Word made flesh, that He lived the perfect life, died the atoning death, won the victory over hell and the grave, ascended into heaven and lives and reigns to all eternity.

The core of Christmas is not a fixed day on the calendar; it is the great and mighty wonder of an event of God's redeeming love, that "when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons."

The essence of Christmas is not the exact date or the precise spot where Christ was born; it is the eternal truth that in Him we have pardon for our sins and peace for our troubled hearts, undying joy and unending life. The chief concern of Christmas is not when Jesus Christ was born in Bethlehem but that He be born in us.

Space Engineer's View:

Scientific Facts Seen to Harmonize with the Bible

ARE THE DISCOVERIES of modern science really at odds with the Bible?

Not at all, according to a space engineer from General Electric's Space Technology Center, Valley Forge, Pa. In fact, he said, some of the newer scientific discoveries tend to verify truths which the Scriptures have proclaimed.

J. W. Reid cites the recent furor over the "Big Bang" theory of the origin of the universe. The first chapter of Genesis begins: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. The earth was without form and void, and darkness was upon the face of the deep . . ."

The reknowned "Big Bang" theory, according to Mr. Reid "was originated by a Belgian priest, Abbe Georges Le Maitre, and it states that all the matter of the universe was once gathered together into a huge ball. The attraction of gravity increased as time went on, and finally the pressure and temperature of the huge mass became so high that it went off like an atomic bomb. Thus our universe began its first day with a "Big Bang."

"According to science," the space engineer continued, "the energy released from this first atomic explosion was beyond measure. Most of it was light energy (all of the electromagnetic spectrum). Certainly all that could be see for millions of years was light. In fact scientists have calculated that the first energy released in the form of light outweighed matter. (This is based on another part of Einstein's theory which has been proven, that energy is equivalent to matter.)"

Genesis 1:4 continues: "And God saw that the light was good; and God separated the light from the darkness."

Or in Mr. Reid's scientific terms: "Light probably outweighed matter for millions of years. Then, due to its expansion, matter finally cooled down enough to let the basic building block of the universe (nuclei and electrons) come together. At this point, dark patches (or darkness) would appear."

This, he concludes, "is another case where today's science moves in harmony with the Bible."

Without Form and Void

Mr. Reid finds a remarkable coincidence in the Biblical description of the earth—"without form and void"—and current scientific views of the atom, which, he says, is "mostly space. On the sub-atomic scale, electrons are almost as far away from their nuclei as the planets are from the sun. It is their rapid motion that makes matter appear solid. If this motion stopped suddenly, and all your body's atoms fell into one heap, they wouldn't cover one side of a 50-cent piece."

The scientist pointed out that the popular portrayal of the atom "with electrons spinning around the nucleus, in only a theoretical model. No one has ever seen an atom, or inside one." But, he continued, scientists agree that "the atom's shape is really unknown and mostly space. Or putting it another way, 'without form and void'."

On the question of whether there is life on other planets, Mr. Reid compared scientific estimates with several Bible passages and found a considerable area of agreement. Science, he said, has concluded that there are "one hundred million planets capable of supporting life," and added: "Many now agree to the possibility of some form of life in the universe, even if man finds that he alone rules this planetary system."

Many verses in the Bible emphasize that "God is the God of space," Mr. Reid said. "Finding life in space will not outdate the Bible. It will help confirm it. It will be another example of the assurance that can be expected as science moves on towards truth."

But science ultimately will neither prove nor disprove the Bible, declared Mr. Reid. "The Bible is, and will remain, a book of faith. The evidence here simply shows that as science uncovers the true facts of the universe, they are in harmony with the Bible. Thus, Christians actually have much to gain by the advance of true science."

PACIFIC LUTHERAN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY LIBRARY

MARTHA JEAN HOLTAN, who hails from Lanesboro, Minnesota, is our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for January.

As a member of Bethlehem Church, Lanesboro, she taught Vacation Church School and participated actively in the local Luther League and choir.

Extra-curricular high school interests extended to the band, chorus, class plays, and staff membership on both the paper and the yearbook.

A recent graduate of Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, where she majored in elementary education, Martha is now a public school teacher at Osseo, Minnesota.

Adept at sewing, she makes much of her own clothing. Her favorite recreational pursuits are swimming and bowling.

Martha was nominated for "Lutheran Girl" by her father, the Rev. Leon O. Holtan, who describes his daughter as having "a positive attitude toward life and a warm, pleasant personality."

In Spite of Protests—

"Conscientious Objector" Rate Shows No Substantial Increase

THE NUMBER of men representing themselves as conscientious objectors is regarded by religious agencies as being "pretty well in line" with the increase in the draft ordered by President Johnson. There has been no substantial increase.

This was set against a backdrop of increasing protests to the Vietnam war, where a number of protesters say they refuse to obey the draft call because they are in disagreement over U.S. policy.

Dr. J. Harold Sherk, executive secretary of the National Service Board for Religious Conscientious Objectors, said that while there has been an increase in recent months in those seeking information or other assistance on the grounds they are conscientious objectors, he does not have any indication the Vietnam crisis is a motivating factor.

The Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive secretary of the Division of Service to Military Personnel of the National Lutheran Council, said he was aware of no increase in requests.

Pastor Midboe, asked how many have applied for assistance in the average year, replied: "Sometimes we go a year or more without receiving a request." He explained that it is not too likely that a Lutheran would ask for exemption because the Augsburg Confession (a basic statement of Lutheran beliefs) holds that a believing soldier may participate in a "just war."

"Of course," he added, "there might be some question in the minds of individuals whether the Vietnam war is a 'just war' but that is left up to the individual."

He said the National Lutheran Council maintains the counseling service because "conscientious objection is a matter for the individual. As a church, we want to minister to all our members the saving truths of Jesus Christ."

Must Give Alternative Service

Unless the conscientious objector is otherwise deferred from meeting requirements of the Draft Act, he must serve in some kind of civilian capacity. This is where the National Service Board fills one of its main functions.

For the required period of 24 consecutive months, the objector may serve as a helper in a hospital, under the aegis of nonprofit private agencies. More than half of the conscientious objectors serve in some 1,800 hospitals.

Many may serve in the battle theater. For instance, there are several conscientious objectors, who while they cannot in good conscience bear arms, serve in humanitarian efforts through such agencies as the International Volunteer Service and the Mennonites, two of the most active agencies in South Vietnam.

The National Service Board works in cooperation with such agencies, who must underwrite their activity. No federal funds are permitted in seeing that a conscientious objector discharges his duties.

The difference between a true conscientious objector, who acts out of religious motivation and the person who is openly defying his country was graphically drawn by Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick (D.-N.Y.) not long before Congress adjourned:

"I sympathize," he said, "with legitimate conscientious objectors, who, out of deep moral and religious conviction, believe that all war is wrong and that they cannot bring themselves to bear arms against another. Politics does not enter into their decision, and we are willing to listen and respect their view. That is democracy.

"But on the other hand, I have no sympathy with those who are deliberately flaunting the law by destroying their draft cards and by devising ways of avoiding the draft, on the basis that they do not approve of our nation's military efforts in Vietnam. This is sheer anarchy and it cannot be permitted to continue."

BOMBED CHURCH INSPECTED — Governor Ujjal Singh of Punjab (in white suit and turban) and other officials visit the ruins of St. Paul's Cathedral in Ambala, India, which was destroyed in a Pakistani bombing raid. The cathedral belongs to the Diocese of Amritsar of the Church of India, Pakistan, Burma and Ceylon. Bishop K. D. W. Anand of Amritsar declared that the church "was not destroyed in the negative sense of the word, but crucified for a mighty resurrection both in the building of a new cathedral and in the purifying and regeneration of the Christian community within the diocese of Amritsar and in the country as a whole." BIBLES FOR GHANA—S. A. Sykes (left) of New York, chief of information and Ghana consul general, accepts the first six of 500,000 Bibles being sent to his country by the American Bible Society, in photo at right. Making the presentation is Paul A. Hopkins, ABS secretary for overseas distribution. The Ghana order is the largest ever received by the Bible Society. The Bibles, to be used by the Ghana government to teach school children to read, will be in six languages. Two-thirds of the $514,470 cost will be underwritten by Ghana and the remainder by churches and individuals. (RNS Photo)

PRO AND CON THE DRAFT—At left, a kneeling demonstrator is among those protesting the draft outside the Federal Court in New York City's Foley Square. The pickets supported David Miller, 22-year-old pacifist, who had recently burned his draft card in protest against the U.S. policy in Vietnam. He faces up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine under recent law making the willful destruction of a draft card a federal offense.—At right, support for U.S. Vietnam policy is shown by students at St. John's University, Jamaica, N.Y. who wear their draft cards in special holders, to counteract anti-Vietnam demonstrations by students in other areas. Second Glance

¶ The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity will be observed Jan. 18-25 in churches of many denominations around the world. The observance is sponsored each year by the World Council of Churches Commission on Faith and Order and the Roman Catholic Association for Christian Unity. This year for the first time a common prayer booklet will be used in the U.S. for the observance by both Catholic and Protestant groups.

¶ A recommendation urging admission of Communist China to the United Nations headed a series of actions aimed at bolstering efforts toward world peace taken at the Sixth World Order Study Conference of the National Council of Churches in St. Louis, Mo., late in October. Passed by the 500 delegates, the Conference resolution asked that the U.S. cease its opposition to Red China's U.N. membership "without prejudice to its own policy of diplomatic recognition and under conditions that take into account the welfare, security and future political status of Taiwan (Nationalist China)." The Conference stand does not officially commit the NCC to a similar position.

¶ The Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the Lutheran Church in America, visited U.S. military personnel in the Far East in November. He spoke to Air Force men and women and met with chaplains in Japan, Okinawa, Taiwan and the Philippines.

¶ When the New York World's Fair closed for good on October 17, nearly 650,000 visitors had stopped at the Lutheran exhibit in the Fair's Protestant and Orthodox Center to view its audio-visual display or to chat with the staff at its information-reception center. The visitors represented not only all major communions and faiths, but all 50 states and some 80 foreign lands.

¶ The Second Vatican Council concluded its final session on Dec. 8 after a very productive meeting of nearly three months. Among the decrees adopted by the more than 2000 bishops and promulgated by Pope Paul VI were those concerning the duties of bishops, divine revelation, the Church and non-Christian religions, the Church in the modern world, and religious liberty.

Lutheran observers saw the religious liberty document as ecumenically important, with its call for freedom of conscience, even though it continued to assert Roman Catholic claims to be the one true faith.

¶ Communists in the Far East are flooding South Korea with propaganda and anti-American literature disguised as Scriptures, according to the Rev. James Roe, Asia secretary for the British Bible Society. He said a faked version of St. Luke's Gospel "consists entirely of anti-American cartoons bound in a standard cover of the Gospel of St. Luke." The forgeries have "well drawn" caricatures, he reported, "though the written content is quite puerile."

¶ Four members of the Minnesota Twins, American League champions, have been credited with inspiring sports-minded Christians around the world. They are Jim Kaat, Al Worthington, Jerry Kindall and Bernie Allen. According to Mel Larson, editor of the Evangelical Beacon, all four "profess Christ as Saviour" and have spoken of their faith in churches of the Minneapolis area.

"As a teen-age boy, I chose athletics as my god," Kindall wrote recently. "Near the end of my junior year in high school, I removed baseball from the throne of my life and replaced it with the only Person who is worthy of our worship and trust, Jesus Christ, the Son of God and Saviour of the world."

Military Ministry Is A Privilege

By A. L. Abrahamson
Pastor, Central Church, Anchorage

IT'S AN INTERESTING and unique privilege to be a pastor in a community which includes large military establishments. The greater Anchorage area, where I serve Central Church, includes Elmendorf Air Force Base and Fort Richardson. They are strategic and significant training and supply headquarters for an intricate and scattered defense program. Their personnel guard the vast Alaskan frontier which reaches to a few miles from the Soviet Union. Theirs is a task of enormous responsibility.

From the point of view of the religious aspects of military life and service, two things have impressed me.

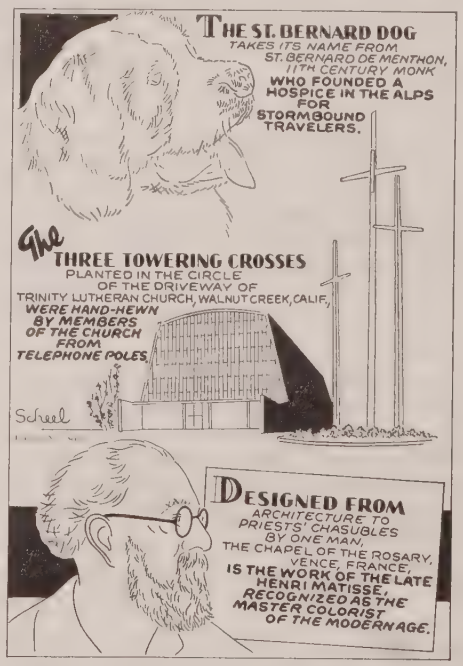
The first of these is the concern of the military for the spiritual welfare of its personnel. Able and dedicated chaplains serve the men and their dependents on the bases. A well-rounded program is centered in the chapels, structured like that of any civilian parish. Opportunities are provided for worship, religious training, fellowship, counselling and personal pastoral care. Church school, Bible camps, fellowship groups are well organized and active. In spite of a constantly rotating population the chaplains are able to develop strong programs with excellent participation by the military personnel.

Other chaplains visit the men stationed in remote sites. They go with their men on winter maneuvers. They march with these men across dangerous glaciers. They scale mountain peaks to reach them. They preach to them on arctic ice floes.

The spirit of dedication among these chaplains is an inspiration to us who minister in the more stable civilian parishes.

Participation Is Good

The other aspect of military life which has inspired me is the attitude of the military personnel who seek their spiritual expression and fellowship in the churches of the community. Although their stay in the area is limited to two to four years, they enter into the life of the local Church with all the zeal and enthusiasm of permanent residents. Regardless of rank they face opportunities and responsibilities of the congregation. Colonels and privates study, discuss and pray about the evangelism, educational and stewardship program of the Church.



Talents, time and treasure are regarded as sacred trusts to be dedicated to God. Military and civilian personnel serve together as officers or members of church council, organizations or committees. Except for those rare occasions when they come from duty, wearing their uniforms, there is no way of making a distinction between the military and civilians.

At Church they are Jim and Joe, Bill and Bob, humble men of God, asking with Paul, "Lord, what do you want me to do?"

As the pastor looks over the Lord's flock on any Sunday morning, he may make mental note of the men who on Monday will wear their country's uniform, and mixed emotions force moisture to his eyes. He thanks God for his country which acknowledges that men need God. He feels a quickening of the pulse in pride for the men charged with the responsibility of safeguarding dearly-bought freedoms. He is humbled at the thought that he is privileged to be their pastor. He silently echoes a popular patriotic prayer: "God bless America."

He is caught up in the realization that God has indeed blessed America. And he prays again, "O God, keep America such that you can continue to bless her!"

VIETNAM REFUGEES URGENT PROBLEM FOR CHURCH RELIEF AID

THE MOUNTING NUMBER of refugees in South Vietnam has been described by the head of Lutheran World Relief as the most pressing problem of relief operations in the wartorn Asian republic.

Bernard A. Confer, executive secretary of the overseas material aid agency, said he found the refugee situation "one of growing severity" during an inspection tour in late October with five other voluntary agency leaders.

Some 1,000,000 refugees are anticipated by the end of the year, he reported, or more than triple the number which existed in May.

After noting that the United States and South Vietnamese governments "are in the process of reorganizing their refugee services to meet the growing need," Mr. Confer pointed to the role of voluntary agencies. He defined it principally as one of supplemental service, "particularly to those pockets of people who are missed by governmental programs which, by necessity, have a mass approach."

While visiting refugee settlements in Vietnam, Mr. Confer observed relief supplies from such agencies as Catholic Relief Services and the Mennonite Central Committee and consulted with field personnel from these and other agencies.

He said that Lutheran World Relief staff plan to present specific recommendations at the next meeting of the agency's directors and added that the board "has gone on record to assist in this emergency."

"It seems clear that, in addition to material aid, there will be definite need for personnel to serve in Vietnam," he explained.

THREE U.S. SERVICEMEN pass out school supplies and candy to Vietnamese children as part of their non-military mission to help a distressed people. Voluntary agencies are also playing a role in meeting the pressing problems of relief operations in the war-torn Asian republic.

Mr. Confer pointed out that Lutheran World Relief's basic policy calls for service to the most needy regardless of race, creed, or politics.

"We know that Christians throughout America," he said, "are eager to demonstrate their concern for the victims of the unfortunate disaster that is a product of the military clash in the small country of Vietnam."

According to a report released by the American Council of Voluntary Agencies for Foreign Service, there are currently 22 voluntary agencies, mission groups and foundations from this country in Vietnam.

Programs embrace material aid distribution, medical services, and technical assistance in agriculture, youth work, and other fields.

Vol. XV | New York, N.Y., February, 1966 | No. 10

JUDY SCHOLL of Dayton, Ohio, has been named "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for February.

A high school senior, she shows aptitude for both studies and sports. A member of the National Honor Society and president of the school chorus, Judy also excels in volleyball and tennis, having won three tournament trophies for her participation in the latter.

Musically inclined, she is an organist at both school and church functions, sings in the youth choir and has won district and state musical contests. She plans to attend Capital University, Columbus, Ohio, where she will major in church music.

Not the least of her accomplishments was representing the state of Ohio at the annual Y Teens World Fellowship Convention, Washington, D.C., in November, 1965.

Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Scholl, the oldest of five children. We agree with Pastor Fred Klopfer of St. Timothy Church, Dayton, that she is "an outstanding girl and a thorough Christian."

"To be a healing force"—

National Council of Churches Board Issues Statement on Vietnam War

POLICY MAKERS for the National Council of Churches have approved a pronouncement on the war in Vietnam asking the United States to consider a halt in the bombing of North Vietnam long enough to create more favorable circumstances for peace negotiations.

The statement was adopted after nearly four hours of debate by the Council's General Board at its fall business meeting. The vote was 93 to 10, with six members abstaining.

The Board also issued a separate message to the churches "because of our deep concern that Christians in the United States are failing thus far to make their specific contribution to the maintenance of peace in the world, having been almost silent while our nation's involvement in Vietnam increases step by step."

Proposed by the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church, the message to the churches bids Christians in the United States to support efforts of the NCC "in an approach to the World Council of Churches and Pope Paul VI in a common attempt to mobilize the worldwide Christian community in support of a just alternative to war."

In adopting the pronouncement and the message, the General Board directed the NCC staff to pursue this objective "in cooperation with the Roman Catholic Church."

Six Steps Proposed

Among the steps recommended by the Board were:

1. That the United Nations be requested to convene, as soon as possible, a peace conference with representation by all interested parties, including the National Liberation Front (Vietcong).

2. That the United States should "continue to reaffirm and manifest its readiness for unconditional discussion and negotiation in such a manner as will remove any uncertainty about official policy relating to the termination of military action."

3. That the United States should "adhere strictly to the policy of avoiding bombing of centers of population of North Vietnam."

4. That it should "seek to alleviate the desperate plight of the noncombatants in South Vietnam by increased efforts to prevent their becoming the victims of the hostilities."

5. That it should declare itself in favor of the phased withdrawal of all its troops and bases from Vietnamese territory, if and when they can be replaced by adequate international peace keeping forces.

6. That Congress, in fulfillment of the President's proposal, should appropriate immediate reconstruction assistance and long range economic development funds for southeast Asia, including the several associated states of Indochina.

South Vietnam Independence Stressed

The Board said that the United States should "make clear that a primary objective of a settlement in the Vietnam conflict is the independence of South Vietnam from outside interference with complete liberty to determine the character of its future government by the result of a peaceful, free and verified choice of its people."

"In a world of revolution, rapid change and sharp conflict of ideologies, Christians have an opportunity and duty to be a reconciling and healing force between nations and peoples and races wherever possible," the statement said.

It pointed out that Christians have a special responsibility "to maintain our spiritual and ethical sensitivity and keep before us our awareness of the imperatives of the Christian Gospel. In wartime this is often the first casualty."

Representatives of the Lutheran Church in America, the only Lutheran body belonging to the NCC, abstained from the voting on this pronouncement, it was reported.

The service, on a day proclaimed by the President as a time for "dedication and prayer" for all who are "risking their lives to bring about a just peace in South Vietnam", was used by Dr. Graham as an occasion to speak sharply about the peace marchers in the nation's capital the day before. "Even a little handful can make a great noise and get national attention if they are protesting and demonstrating," he said.

LUTHERAN COMMENTS ON VATICAN COUNCIL

"IF THE LEAVEN of renewal is allowed to continue its work, it is difficult to see how Pope Paul VI can avoid convoking another Council in a decade from now."

This observation was included in a statement issued by the Rev. Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, president of the Lutheran World Federation, following the close of the Second Vatican Council of the Roman Catholic Church in December.

Asserting that "Pope John responded to an impulse of the Holy Spirit in convoking the Council," Dr. Schiotz pointed out that "we are still too close to the Council to speak with certainty about its work." However he singled out the Constitutions on the Liturgy, Divine Revelation and Religious Liberty as "significant actions."

He predicted that a new "freedom of belief" will open the door to questioning of the Church's dogma, and wider study of the Scriptures.

Dr. Schiotz called upon Lutherans "to search the Scriptures and the Confessions of our Church, and with openness of mind . . . to share the riches He has given us."

THIS ISSUE of A Mighty Fortress does not have an accompanying roster of chaplains, contact pastors and service centers. For the latest information, consult the January issue, which included a joint Lutheran roster covering the American Lutheran Church, Lutheran Church in America, and Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod active duty chaplains, contact pastors and service centers.

Toward a higher level —

THE MEANING OF LENT

By M. A. Egge

FOR SOME it means just one word . . . don't. Don't do this; don't do that.

For others it means a period of forty days . . . the forty days preceding Easter, not counting the Sundays.

In the early days of the Church, some mortified their bodies and practiced total abstinence from food. In later times this has become a law at least in some sections of the Church.

But really . . . Lent is none of these. Oh, they have something to do with Lent, but they aren't really Lent.

Have you ever watched a ship go through a canal, for instance, through the Panama Canal? You know that the ship comes into the canal at one level. Then a set of locks or gates close behind the ship and water is let in from the higher level. Gradually that section of the canal is filled, and at the same time the ship is lifted to a higher level. When the ship is at the same level as the water in the next segment of the canal, the gates in front of the ship are opened and the ship sails on at the higher level.

Lent is like that.

We come to Lent at a certain spiritual level, and then at the end of those wonderful forty days we go on, but at a higher level. We have been at the Cross . . . we have followed our Savior, Jesus Christ, in His suffering and death for our sins, and we have been lifted higher, much higher; but not to sink back to the old level.

We need times like that. This is a hurried world, and time seems to go by with greater rapidity every year. It is still true as Wordsworth once wrote:

"The world is too much with us;
Late and soon, getting and spending,
We lay waste our powers."

Lent, for the Christian, is a time to withdraw from the tensions of life to prepare for the Gethsemanes that may lie ahead.

Let Our Souls Catch Up

Perhaps you have read it before, but it's an excellent story. A gentleman was on an expedition into the upper Amazon regions. He was in a hurry (aren't we always?) and had to go on, day after day, in forced marches. One morning the native carriers didn't appear at the usual time. When he asked the leader about it, he was told, "They are waiting. They cannot move farther until their souls have caught up with their bodies."

We boast of progress, material progress, but won't we have to stop pretty soon to let our souls catch up with our bodies? And don't we, each of us, have to do just that once in a while?

But times of withdrawal from the "business" of life are of little value to anyone unless they lead to something. Going into drydock doesn't lift the ship to a higher level. And so it is in Lent.

Of all the seasons of the year, Lent is perhaps the most challenging. "What do you think of Christ?" . . . "Follow Me!" . . . "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily. . . . "Far be it from me to glory, except in the cross . . ."

These are some of the challenges hurled at us from God's Word during Lent. They are real challenges. They test men.

"Jesus calls us o'er the tumult
Of our life's wild,
restless sea.
Day by day His sweet voice soundeth, Saying, 'Christian,
follow me.' "

It takes men and women who are worthy of the name, to claim this life.

All of this means that Lent is a time for feeding our souls on that "bread of life," even the Word of God. Lent means little unless the times of withdrawal from daily activities give time for Bible reading, for private devotions, and for a concentrated study of the truths of God's Word. Luther once said, when hearing of a king who had proclaimed days of fasting, "I can appreciate that. I wish fasting in its entirety would again be inaugurated. Fasting is the outward part of devaluating of self and of humility, and if the inner humility is present too, then all is well."

It is by reading, hearing and responding to God's Word, that we really come to know Him who "humbled himself and became obedient unto death, even death on a cross." Knowing Him better and loving Him more, we find ourselves on a higher level of Christian devotion and service. This is the meaning of a true Lent!

THE SEASON OF LENT begins on February 23 this year. This article, reprinted by permission of the Tract Mission of the American Lutheran Church, 421 S. 4th St., Minneapolis, Minn. 55415, is designed to help you prepare to observe the season meaningfully.

CHURCH PRESIDENT VISITS FAR EAST MILITARY BASES

RETURNING from a 19-day tour of U. S. military bases in the Far East, the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry said he had new understanding and sympathy for the problems of servicemen and chaplains alike.

Traveling an estimated 23,500 miles, the president of the Lutheran Church in America visited installations in Japan, Okinawa, Taiwan and the Philippine Islands. He would admit to no weariness except for "those long hauls over the Pacific."

Dr. Fry said that while he had indicated a readiness to visit Vietnam, his U. S. Air Force hosts did not include that on his itinerary.

"But I saw ever so many casualty cases from Vietnam at both Clark Air Force base (near Manila) and Okinawa hospitals. Their morale was high but compassion isn't strong enough for the feelings I had for those men who had lost arms and legs and were otherwise maimed in battle.

"What impressed me at the bases was that religious life centered around the families resident there. Very few unaccompanied servicemen attended services or engaged in the Protestant meetings that were arranged since I was there."

Dr. Fry said that most of the chaplains were eager to share their problems with him. Some told him their Sunday services were attracting as few as four or ten of the younger servicemen.

"They admitted there are many pressures on these young men who suddenly find themselves in a strange land where there is little to compare with what they knew as life back home. There is little in the way of social life or entertainment or places to visit in those more remote islands."

Dr. Fry said inter-marriages were cited by many chaplains as a foremost problem.

"One," he recalled, "put it very soundly by pointing out these young men have never before experienced women who have as their whole attitude toward life that they are to wait on man. They find them so vastly different from the competitive American girls."

Dr. Fry said he visited the Japan Lutheran Seminary at Tokyo and addressed a large group of Lutheran chaplains and missionaries in the Sanno Hotel in Tokyo.

He said he found many persons eager to have reports on ecumenicity and many military personnel anxious to hear how "home churches regard and support our chaplains."

BARBARA MAGNUSON of Grygla, Minn., is our "Lutheran Girl" selection for April.

She was nominated for this honor by her former parish pastor, the Rev. Julian L. Erickson, who admires the way she combines scholastic achievement with varied uses of her talent.

An accomplished pianist, organist and vocalist, Barbara was twice a winner of the State Music Contest and the all-school Talent Night, and a finalist in the Minnesota "Junior Miss" pageant. She also toured four states with her church dramatic group and was soloist at various churches and on TV.

In addition to maintaining a straight "A" record at Oak Grove Lutheran High School, Fargo, N. D., she was art editor of the paper, held several class offices, was cheerleader, choir soloist, and a member of the National Honor Society.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Magnuson, she plans to attend Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn., next year.

Says Pastor Erickson: "She is a living testimony to her Saviour. As she said at the Junior Miss pageant, she wants her life to communicate something of God to mankind and thereby glorify Him."

Vietnam Christian Service—

Lutherans To Help Vietnam Needy

AN AGREEMENT to undertake a joint program of assistance among refugees and other needy in war-torn Vietnam has been reached by the Mennonite Central Committee, Church World Service, and Lutheran World Relief.

Designated as "Vietnam Christian Service," the program will be supported by funds, relief supplies, and personnel from each of the three overseas aid agencies.

Directors of Lutheran World Relief, in authorizing its participation in late January, also appropriated up to $50,000 to underwrite the employment of personnel it will seek for the joint program this year.

Late last year, the board allocated a like amount for relief efforts in the Southeast Asian country. Half the sum has been earmarked for the Vietnam Christian Service program and the other half for the purchase of supplemental supplies.

Such relief supplies, it was noted, would be in addition to shipments of used clothing, kits composed of school supplies and toilet articles for children, and other gifts in kind.

Bernard A. Confer, executive secretary of LWR, noted at the time that distribution would be directed by the Mennonite committee, an agency which has been active in relief efforts in Vietnam since 1954.

The committee currently provides food for some 157,000 persons as well as clothing and other relief supplies. In addition, it cooperates in the operation of a hospital at Nhatrang which served more than 36,000 patients last year.

Its channels of distribution, it was reported, include the parishes of the Evangelical Church of Vietnam and orphanages and other institutions, many of which are operated by Buddhists and government.

Call for Volunteers

Eleven workers are currently serving under the joint program in three areas of the country. Plans call for the total placement of more than 50 specialized personnel by September.

Personnel needs, Mr. Confer said, include doctors, nurses, social welfare personnel, nutritionists, home economists, public health nurses, agriculturists, community development leaders, and material aid specialists.

The executive said LWR would welcome inquiries from Lutherans "who are interested in volunteering for service at this critical time when there are nearly 1,000,000 refugees and when hospitals and other institutions are overburdened."

After stressing that "LWR has no political objectives," he added:

"We are interested in helping people in dire need, and we know Christians across the country are eager to demonstrate their concern for the Vietnamese people."

SOUTH VIETNAMESE villagers, casualties after an attack by Vietcong, await transport at Hiep Duc. Upon convalescence they will be refugees, homeless and perhaps separated from families. Lutheran World Relief participates in Vietnam Christian Service, ministering to some of the estimated million Viet refugees. (RNS Photo)

GREEK ORTHODOX church leaders watch as a crucifix is retrieved from the water during the annual Orthodox "Blessing of the Seas" ceremony in Kent, England. The cross had been thrown into the sea by Archbishop Athenagoras, head of the Greek Church in Great Britain (third from right). It was recovered by a 14-year-old student, one of several youths who dived for it. The Orthodox tradition of the cross in the waters commemorates the Baptism of Christ, and is observed in many parts of the world by Greek Christians on Epiphany Day in January. (RNS Photo)

LIKE A SCENE from Noah's ark, animals and circus folk gather around a makeshift altar under a circus tent as an Anglican vicar in Balham Hill, England, baptizes a four-month old baby (below). The child was the great-granddaughter of the circus impresario Billy Smart. She had a clown for a God-parent, was cuddled by an acrobat, nuzzled by an elephant and kissed by showgirls. An elephant, two white horses, two camels, two donkeys and a guanaco were among the animals at the scene. (RNS Photo)

RECONSTRUCTION of a burned Lutheran Church in Minneapolis was aided by neighboring Roman Catholics with funds raised through a benefit luncheon and a special collection. In photo at left, the Rev. Victor C. Swain (right), pastor of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, which was destroyed by fire last September, receives a check for $1,140 from the Rev. Owen J. Rowan, pastor of nearby St. Helena's Roman Catholic Church. (RNS Photo)

PROPOSAL TO FIX COMMON EASTER DATE FINDS WIDE SUPPORT

EASTER may be observed on a common date throughout the world, and on the same Sunday each year, if a proposal that is gaining wide support achieves its goal.

Since the first Council of Nicaea in 325 A.D. Easter has been celebrated on the first Sunday after the first full moon after the spring equinox. In practice this meant that Easter Sunday fell between March 22 and April 25, on a different date each year. Calendar differences between Eastern and Western branches of Christianity have resulted in different dates for Easter even in a given year.

The World Council of Churches has asked its members to state their positions on a proposal to fix Easter on the Sunday following the second Saturday in April, according to the Gregorian calendar. This or similar proposals have already received the endorsement of the Second Vatican Council, the executive council of the Lutheran Church in America, the World Presbyterian Alliance and the Assembly of the Church of England.

The proposed fixed Easter Sunday would come close to the date of the original Easter which took place during the Jewish Passover week in 30 A.D., the probable year of Christ's crucifixion and resurrection.

PFC THOMAS COLE of Richmond, Va., is a striking example of the heroic medical corpsman on the front line of battle. Wearing a bloody bandage after being hit in the face by enemy fire, a medic gives first aid to a First Cavalry Division soldier in a trench just captured from the Vietcong in bitter fighting near Anthai, South Vietnam. Easter makes it clear—

GOD IS NOT DEAD!

By Gerhard E. Frost

HE LIVES! God is not dead! And because He lives, we celebrate. We celebrate Jesus.

Jesus, no martyred saint or fallen hero, no frail and gentle memory, no fading echo and dimming afterglow, but living Love, victorious, strong, enduring still. We celebrate Him as Lord of all.

Death, bend your stiff neck. Bow your proud head, for we celebrate Jesus. It is presumptuous to think that you can hold Him fast. Your reign is broken. He lives. He has won, and in His victory your crown is struck from your head.

God is not dead. "He stirs up the people," they said. They said it about Jesus when God walked the streets of time and space for those brief years. It was true, but not only then. It is true today, for He lives.

I cannot escape Him, this Living One. When I celebrate Him He gets me into trouble. I want to be just a face in the crowd. I want to hide but He keeps drawing me out and I am afraid. I want to run!

Why are you such a high voltage presence, Lord Jesus? Why must my choice be between you and my pleasant stagnation? Why can I not celebrate "in peace," in comfortable aloofness from the festering facts in our human situation? Why must you, the Prince of Peace, come as the Messenger of strife?

Because you live.

"He stirs up the people . . . teaching . . ." What a frightening definition of teaching. And yet, I find it to be true. To celebrate Jesus in reflection is always to be prodded into action. To be taught by Him is to be stretched and I fight that. It hurts to be stretched. Can it be that all learning is change and change is pain?

When I listen to Jesus I can't stop with formal mastery of facts. Fierce street fights break out along the avenues and back alleys of my mind. New thoughts engage old prejudices and big burley lies challenge Truth's right to the road. I am anxious and again I want to run. But we celebrate Jesus, and in faith's fellowship you and I may learn to stand.

What the Word Says

He lives! Words shatter under their burden as they try to say it. But the Word finds words for his purpose, inadequate though they may be. Though they cannot say it all, they are enough for you and me.

"Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! By his great mercy we have been born anew to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, and to an inheritance which is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, who by God's power are guarded through faith for a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time."

No, God is not dead. And to you who have said this, we who celebrate Jesus quietly affirm that it is not so. If you mean that our God is hidden, that He is the God who hides in the testing circumstances of our dangerous time as He once hid in diapers and on the Cross, we agree. He is not only the God who is revealed in Jesus Christ. He is the "hidden God" as well. But He is not dead.

If your intent is only to raise some questions which we may not ignore, then raise them, but not with words which mislead and even blaspheme! If your purpose is to say that we are dead to His loving approaches, say this, but do not presume to fashion a death bed for God. Death is death, and if God were dead no tongue could tell it. No man could proclaim it, for it is by the creating and sustaining hand of the Everliving One that we live.

Today the Lord of the Church "stirs up the people." He arrests us and addresses us. He calls and sends. He asks His Church to leave her sheltering walls and walk the streets with Him. He uncovers long-forgotten issues. He exposes frontiers more vast than any we have ever known before. I am a member of this Church but my temptation is to "send him to Herod." I have been well schooled in this art of sending Him to "someone else." I still like "truth in the sky" better than Truth in the flesh, wearing work clothes. I prefer to think of Love rather than acts of love and Justice rather than acts of justice.

In a world that is glutted on trivia and sick unto death of itself, a world starving for the daily doxology of loving service, the holy liturgy of selfgiving and fellowship, we affirm: No, God is not dead. He lives. And "no one who believes in Him will be put to shame."

LUTHERAN "HELI PADRE" NAMED "CHAPLAIN OF THE YEAR 1966"

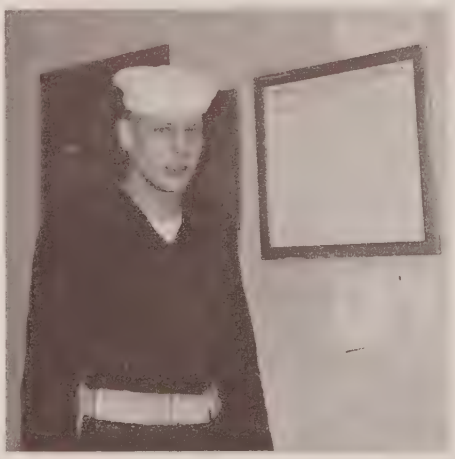
"HELI PADRE" Hugh F. Lecky, Jr., a minister of the Lutheran Church in America, has been named "Chaplain of the Year 1966" by the Reserve Officers Association of the United States.

A U.S. Navy chaplain currently on duty with the Marine Corps, Lieutenant Commander Hugh Franklin Lecky, Jr., was the first Navy chaplain to receive the Purple Heart for wounds received in action in Viet Nam.

Known as the "Heli Padre" because of his many helicopter missions, the Lutheran chaplain was given the Reserve Officers Association annual award on Feb. 25 in the nation's capital.

Chaplain Lecky, 34, has accompanied combat troops on more than 150 helicopter-lifted assault strikes and medical evacuation missions in South Vietnam, the association noted in announcing his selection.

Qualified to minister to servicemen spiritually and medically, the chaplain's experience includes duty as a U.S. Naval Reserve Medical Corpsman before entering the ministry.



After receiving leg wounds last July from mortar shrapnel at Ba Gia, South Vietnam, during a medical evacuation mission, Chaplain Lecky refused to be hospitalized while he said "others were still working" and he continued to aid wounded Vietnamese soldiers and civilians after bandaging his own leg.

Chaplain Lecky arrived in the Da Nang area of Vietnam in February, 1965, and carried on his ministry there until August when he was assigned to Japan.

At the time he received the 1966 Chaplain of the Year award here he was en route to his next assignment for the Navy in Bremerhaven, Germany.

Lutherans in the Armed Forces

LT. PAUL F. KRAMER, USAF, is serving in Vietnam with the 619th Tactical Control Squadron, 2nd Air Division. A member of Good Shepherd Church, Brooklyn, N.Y., he's been in the Air Force since July, 1963, following his graduation from Brooklyn College.

LUTHERAN SERVICE CENTER OPENS ON GUAM

A NEW Lutheran Service Center opened on Guam on Feb. 1 and was scheduled to be dedicated on Easter, April 10. It is the sixth overseas facility operated by the Lutheran Service Commission, which also runs 10 centers in the continental U.S.

Governor Manuel Guerrero of the U.S. island possession suggested the site for the center, it was reported by the LSC executive secretary, the Rev. Raymond Hohenstein.

Located on the island's north side fronting on the Pacific Ocean, the facility is in the central part of the 30-mile-long isle on one of the main thoroughfares—Route 1, Marine Drive. It is one mile west of downtown Agana, capital city of Guam, and a short distance from headquarters of the Commander Naval Forces Mariana Islands and the U.S. Naval Hospital.

The new center, like others in the U.S. and overseas, has several areas for servicemen's use in their off-duty hours. Included are a reading room, lounge, snack-bar, kitchen, game room and hobby room. Future plans call for a 200-seat chapel to be built nearby.

Provisions for outdoor activity include the Pacific Ocean beach adjoining the LSC property and a recreation area on the center lot.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

BARBARA EKLUND, our Lutheran Girl for the Month of April, is a member of Bethany Lutheran Church, Norway, Michigan.

Barbara has been active in her church as a Sunday School teacher and Sunday School pianist. She has also served as Vacation Church School teacher. She sings in the Chancel (Senior) Choir; is the president of the Luther League, and has been secretary and treasurer in past years. In 1959 she was treasurer for the Iron Mountain District Luther League.

A senior at the Norway High School, Barbara will graduate in June, and is planning to attend the Northern Michigan College at Marquette, hoping to become a teacher. Her major will be biology.

Barbara is the business manager of the school yearbook, and vice-president of the Girls' Athletic Association. She plays in the school band, and also in the pep band. She is a member of the F.T.A. (Future Teachers of America), and also a member of 4-H.

Her hobbies include reading and good music, and such sports as bowling, skiing, skating, swimming, and basketball.

The Rev. Kenneth A. Nelson, her pastor, nominated Barbara for a Lutheran Girl of the Month.

LUTHERAN GENERAL ON CHAPLAIN'S JOB

AT THE PENTAGON, top-ranking Army chaplains met for a week-long session. From all over the world these leaders of chaplains came to hear experts and discuss common problems. A special treat was provided for them when they heard their highest uniformed chief give the opening address.

General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, the Army's chief of staff, called the role of the chaplain absolutely vital. He stressed that the Army, more than any other of the Armed Forces, except the Marine Corps, relies on men rather than machines. Thus the total strength of the land-geared force is no greater than the total of their strength.

"At root, the strength of soldiers is a matter of will and determination—in brief, it is dedication to values of the spirit," the number one Army general stated.

A Lutheran, General Lemnitzer asserted that the fundamental responsibility of the chaplain is his role as guide and mentor. The Army looks to him to make the greatest contribution, by precept and example, to the development and reinforcement of the moral strength of the members of the Army, the 60-year-old chief of staff said.

After all, he concluded, it is this moral strength which not only provides the determination to uphold the great principles to which we as a people are dedicated, but which, in fact, is the source of these principles themselves.

THE INNER CONFLICT OF A CHAPLAIN

MILITARY CHAPLAINS often suffer "painful, inner conflict" because of the dual role they must play while on active duty, the annual meeting of the National Lutheran Council was told by the Rev. Engebret O. Midboe, executive secretary of the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel.

Speaking of the duties of the 739 Lutheran chaplains, he pointed out that at the same time they must be pastors representing their Church, and also commissioned officers in one of the services.

"Not only do the cross and the sword touch," said Chaplain Midboe. "They must also find a modus operandi in the person of the Armed Forces chaplain."

He described Lutheran chaplains as being in the "Apostolate to the Armed Forces of the country." In addition to serving Lutherans in the military, the chaplains minister to members of every denomination and to many with no religious convictions.

It is at this point, Chaplain Midboe stressed, that pastors in this special ministry become "keenly aware of the broken relationships within the body of Christ on earth."

Second Glance

Plans were approved by the recent annual meeting of the National Lutheran Council to expand the ministry to students on non-Lutheran college campuses throughout the U. S. As of 1962, the budget for such work will be increased by $100,000 or 26 per cent to enlarge field services and expand Lutheran campus work.

The latest Russian "scientific" discovery is that Sodom and Gomorrah may have been destroyed in a nuclear explosion set off by visitors from outer space. Citing the so-called Dead Sea scrolls found in 1947, a Russian writing in the Moscow literary gazette pointed out that "the description they gave of the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah cannot help but attract the attention of modern men who are familiar with nuclear physics."

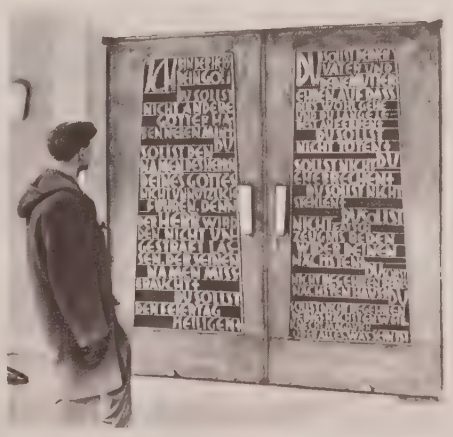
Mixed marriages between members of the United Lutheran Church in America and Roman Catholics numbered 3,434 in 1958, or 4.9 per cent lower than in 1952, according to a survey report issued by Dr. F. Eppling Reinartz, ULCA's secretary. Two-thirds of these marriages were performed by Lutheran pastors. Also, the 1959 survey supported previous statistics that four times as many Roman Catholics join the ULCA as ULCA members join the Catholic Church.

Special "Sunday Schools of atheistic knowledge" are being opened in various parts of the USSR. According to Moscow Radio, courses on religion and atheism will be conducted by leading scientists from the Society for the Dissemination of Political Knowledge.

More than $2,965,000 was raised last year for church building programs by the Lutheran Laymen's Movement for Stewardship of the ULCA. The total raised since 1953, when the movement was launched, reached $13,500,000.

A $2,500,000, 13-story hotel planned in the Waikiki resort section of Honolulu, Hawaii, may house a new home mission congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Sixty North American Lutheran youth will this summer return a visit which European young people paid to their churches three years ago in connection with the Minneapolis Assembly of the Lutheran World Federation. Accompanying them on the 47-day tour arranged under sponsorship of the federation, will be Lutheran students and youth leaders from Asia, Africa and Latin America.



All district offices of East Germany's Red "people's police" have been ordered to set up special "clergymen's indexes," according to press reports. The records are to include the daily activities of the clergymen, their political stands, the trends of their sermons, and even their private utterances. The order is the latest in a series of measures aimed at bringing the clergy of East Germany under strict Communist surveillance.

"ENTERING THE ARK" is one of a set of six rare 16th century Flemish Renaissance tapestries depicting "The Story of Noah" which were presented to Wagner Lutheran College, New York, by the Hearst Foundation. Woven in Brussels in 1575, the tapestries were exhibited for many years in the Metropolitan Museum, New York. Averaging 13 feet high and from 11 feet, 9 inches to 17 feet wide, subjects include: "Noah Walked with God," "Noah Building the Ark," "Entering the Ark," "Leaving the Ark," "The Sons of Noah," and "The Confusion of Tongues." Scripture tells us that

CHRIST IS COMING AGAIN

Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

YOU HAVE PERHAPS heard the comment, "There are no atheists in foxholes."

It is certainly a human thing that a person would be scared when facing death, and that he would look to God for help.

However, it does point out the fact that many times people who are arrogant and proud become very, very small when they have to face eternity.

I remember once during the Korean conflict that one of our minesweepers had been sighted by the Communists on the shore. They let go with a volley. Shots were falling all around and even hitting the ship.

On the way over, there had been a group of six men, who had met together for Bible study and prayer. The rest of the crew were disinterested.

During this close call, practically all the men were crying to God for help, and during the next two evenings, the majority of the crew showed up for the special Bible study and prayer meeting.

But, as our minesweeper returned to the safer regions, the spiritual group dwindled down to the same handful of six.

Hardly anyone likes to think of having to face death. And yet we know that sooner or later we are going to leave this world.

Scripture tells us very plainly that, even as Christ had been promised to come the first time, and even as this promise was fulfilled, so also has there been a promise for His second coming.

Naturally, there were those who ridiculed the promise of His first coming, and didn't believe when He came that He was the Messiah. "He was in the world, and the world was made through him, yet the world knew him not. He came to his own home, and his own people received him not" (John 1:10, 11).

The following is a quotation which could well appear on the front page of our twentieth century newspapers. From a human point of view, this first century description of "the day of the Lord" could well have been described as pure Biblical imagery. In 1960, however, the scoffers aren't likely to laugh as loudly. Now men realize, even from a human point of view, it is reasonable to see how the end could come about in such a catastrophic way. Our concern, however, is that mankind itself may not destroy a good share of the civilized world by loud blasts and dissolving fire which will melt the elements.

"This is now the second letter that I have written to you, beloved, and in both of them I have aroused your sincere mind by way of reminder; that you should remember the predictions of the holy prophets and the commandment of the Lord and Savior through your apostles. First of all, you must understand this, that scoffers will come in the last days with scoffing, following their own passions and saying, 'Where is the promise of his coming? For ever since the fathers fell asleep, all things have continued as they were from the beginning of creation. They deliberately ignore this fact, that by the word of God heavens existed long ago, and an earth formed out of water and by means of water, through which the world that then existed was deluged with water and perished. But by the same word, the heavens and earth that now exist have been stored up for fire, being kept until the day of judgment and destruction of ungodly men.

"But do not ignore this one fact, beloved, that with the Lord one day is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day. The Lord is not slow about his promise as some count slowness, but is forbearing toward you, not wishing that any should perish, but that all should reach repentance. But the day of the Lord will come like a thief, and then the heavens will pass away with a loud noise, and the elements, will be dissolved with fire, and the earth and the works that are upon it will be burned up.

"Since all these things are thus to be dissolved, what sort of persons ought you to be in lives of holiness and godliness, waiting for and hastening the coming of the day of God, because of which the heavens will be kindled and dissolved, and the elements will melt with fire! But according to his promise, we wait for new heavens and a new earth in which righteousness dwells.

"Therefore, beloved, since you wait for these, be zealous to be found by him without spot or blemish, and at peace. And count the forbearance of our Lord as salvation. So also our beloved brother Paul wrote to you according to the wisdom given him, speaking of this as he does in all his letters. There are some things in them hard to understand, which the ignorant and unstable twist to their own destruction, as they do the other scriptures. You therefore, beloved, knowing this beforehand, beware lest you be carried away with the error of lawless men and lose your own stability. But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. To him be the glory both now and to the day of eternity. Amen (II Peter 3)."

Peter raises a very pertinent question, "Since all these things are thus to be dissolved, what sort of persons ought you to be in lives of holiness and godliness?"

Among other things he mentions three which we should seriously consider in this day and age. We should: 1. Be waiting for and hastening the day of the coming of God. 2. Be zealous to be found by Him without spot or blemish and at peace. 3. Be growing in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

GOVERNOR NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER (right) of New York, was very interested in what the Rev. Lambert Brose, editor of the Missouri Synod's Armed Services Commission publications told him about Lutheran Service Centers. The 39 centers, sponsored jointly by the National Lutheran Council and the Missouri Synod, are operated by the Lutheran Service Commission.

The governor, a Baptist, recently participated in the "Rockefeller Brothers Fund" report on the nation's defenses, and said he was much interested in the opportunities for religious worship afforded men and women in the Armed Forces.

He added that he had become better acquainted with the Lutheran Church when his son, Steven, married Anne Marie Rasmussen, a Lutheran girl of Norway, last summer.

Sharing Your Experience

THE GOOD "OLE" U.S.A.

By Okey C. Sears

WHENEVER ONE LEAVES the United States of America, one tends to encounter a very hollow feeling inside. As one departs out of New York Harbor and sees the glorious Statue of Liberty becoming smaller and smaller, it makes one feel a little sad. This happened to me as it must have happened to countless other servicemen.

I have since beheld the very picturesque beauty of Norway, Hawaii, and Iceland.

When in Norway, one seems to picture the gorgeous scenic mountainsides that make tourists go back again and again to Virginia, Tennessee, and West Virginia. Being in Hawaii makes one think back to all of the wonderful sunny afternoons spent at the Corpus Christi beach in Texas.

When in Iceland, one thinks of all the cold snow that the Panhandle encounters each winter.

I have been to a few cities in the United States, also. Memphis, Tennessee, is one city that holds the admiration of all servicemen, I suppose. Norfolk, Virginia, makes a person long to stay there for a year or two. Corpus Christi, Texas, though, outshines all other cities combined. No city can compare with Corpus Christi's friendly atmosphere.

I have noticed the friendliness of Corpus especially in the different Lutheran churches. Savior Lutheran was the friendliest church of all. Since I was a visitor, I naturally would notice this.

On my return trip from abroad, I envisioned the wonderful image that the Statue of Liberty holds. As our ship entered the New York Harbor, I couldn't take my eyes off the beautiful lady as she stood so majestically with her torch held high. I thought of how I had missed the good "ole" U. S. A. as I got off our ship. Before I left the dock, I thanked the Lord that I was once again at home in this mighty land of ours.

Okey Sears will be the recipient of the April $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

SURGEON-MINISTER TO SERVE THREE YEARS IN INDIA

DR. KRISTOFER HAGEN, a Minneapolis physician and surgeon, left his practice for three years to operate a mission hospital in a remote section of northeast India.

When interviewed by newsmen, the 50-year-old Lutheran doctor admitted he will have only about one tenth of his present income, but added that "you can't measure everything in terms of dollars and cents."

The Mohulpahari Christian Hospital, supported by Santal mission boards of Danish, Norwegian, and American Lutherans, is located 150 miles north of Calcutta and 10 miles from the nearest railroad.

Dr. Hagen was in charge of it from 1946 to 1952. He went back as superintendent to permit Dr. William Scott of Brooklyn, N. Y., to undertake further studies at the University of Minnesota.

The additional training will make it possible for Dr. Scott to instruct young doctors in India.

Dr. Hagen, who is also an ordained Lutheran Free Church minister, told newsmen that he looks upon the mission hospital as a kind of Christian witness among non-Christians. Fewer than ten per cent of the Mohulpahari patients are Christians; about 55 per cent are Hindus, 20 per cent are Santals or animists, some 15 per cent are Moslems.

Lutheran
GIRL OF THE MONTH

DARLENE MAY RITTER, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for March, is a member of St. John's Lutheran Church, at Howerton, Pennsylvania.

According to her pastor, the Rev. Henry E. [illegible]enhart, she is "a consecrated member, devoted worker, and loyal leader in this rural church—a dependable, sincere, considerate, and popular girl."

She is president of the Young People's Society and teacher in Church School, as well as secretary of the Northampton Protestant Youth Cabinet.

A senior honor student in high school, Darlene also serves as president of the Tri-Hi-Y Club, and is active in the 4-H Club.

After graduation she hopes to be employed as a secretary or receptionist.

Her main hobbies are collecting dolls and unusual salt and pepper shakers. Also a hobby: Writing to relatives and friends serving in the Armed Forces.

RECORD RESPONSE MADE TO LUTHERAN CLOTHING APPEAL

LUTHERANS THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES contributed a record 3,206,602 pounds of clothing during the annual Thanksgiving Appeal of Lutheran World Relief last year.

The Rev. Ove R. Nielsen, LWR assistant executive secretary, in announcing the results, said the total was 406,798 pounds more than the amount received in 1958.

The drive was conducted in local congregations by the eight Lutheran bodies affiliated with the National Lutheran Council and the Missouri Synod.

Commenting on the success, Pastor Nielsen said, "Lutherans of America have again demonstrated that they are just too concerned about the welfare of their fellow men to stand aloof from the misery rampant in other lands. Thousands of additional destitute people will be able to receive clothing because the response to the clothing appeal was so generous."

SPIRITUAL UNCERTAINTY YOUTH'S PROBLEM

A TWO-YEAR STUDY conducted by Lutheran Youth Research revealed that the majority of our youth "are not certain of God's forgiveness or conscious of the fact that they are saved by faith."

The Rev. Merton P. Strommen of Minneapolis, who directed the project, added, however, that young people are "conscious of spiritual inadequacies and want help."

Participating in the study were 2,000 Lutheran youths between the ages of 15 and 18 and 2,000 adults from 192 churches throughout the United States.

"We who see ourselves as a Church of the Word have not succeeded in getting our youth into the Word," concluded Mr. Strommen, youth leader of the Lutheran Free Church. "An uncomfortably large number of young people refer to their Scriptures only occasionally," he said. "The same can be said for their families."

One finding, which Mr. Strommen described as "highly significant," was the disclosure that the values which Lutheran youth cherish most indicate failure to put "first things first." Social acceptance and physical well-being ranked highest for both boys and girls, with religious values third.

As an "encouraging note," Mr. Strommen said young people want help in understanding and interpreting the Bible, in personal Bible study, and in the practice of prayer because "they feel guilty over their neglect and are troubled by the fact that they do not understand the Bible."

He noted that a high percentage of youth confessed that their mind wanders during the Sunday morning service, and that they find the sermons hard to follow. "We who place so much emphasis on the efficacy of the preached Word may need to examine the degree to which our words become meaningful to the listeners,"

Yukon Territory got its first Lutheran church in February when a sanctuary was organized in Witherhorse, capital of the area which has a population of 13,000. It is located half-way between Edmonton, Alta., Canada, and Juneau, Alaska.

Total attendance at services in U. S. Air Force chapels exceeded an average of 1,000,000 per month during the past fiscal year, according to Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Terence P Finnegan, Chief of Air Force Chaplains. Air Force Chaplains performed 6,127 marriages, 2,450 funerals and 18,862 baptisms.

The newest among the U. S. Senators is Norman Brunsdale of North Dakota, an active Lutheran who once served on the Council of the Evangelical Lutheran Church. A governor of North Dakota from 1951 to 1957, he was named to take the place vacated by the death of Senator William Langer.

Lutherans have been urged to write to President Eisenhower asking him to use the $10 million which Congress placed in his contingency fund for World Refugee Year projects. Vernon E. Bergstrom, director of Lutheran Refugee Service, said the president has only allocated $4 million for such projects. Congress, he added, has so far passed no refugee legislation, despite the U. S. commitment to the World Refugee Year.

A Dutch father has given his newborn son the names of all twelve of Christ's Apostles, the Dutch Radio reported. It said a registry office clerk argued with the father, saying the boy would have lots of trouble filling forms when he grew up, but the man insisted on all 12 names.

Membership of the United Lutheran Church in America has almost doubled since 1918, when the church body was established. It is the largest Lutheran body in America. Since 1918, it gained 1,347,000 members, to reach a total today of over 2,439,000.

E. Jane Mall, the wife of Navy chaplain Carlton H. Mall, has written a novel about Katharine Luther, the nun who married Martin Luther. Entitled, "Kitty, My Rib," the book has been published by Concordia Publishing House.

A speed-up plan to start 42 new congregations of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in the first half of 1960, was announced by its Home Missions Board. A "strong thrust" will be made into Utah as one of the areas of new development.

A Roman Catholic priest in the village of Osieciny, Poland, was sentenced by the district court to 18 months' imprisonment for building a church steeple without official permission. The court was told that the steeple collapsed shortly after it was completed, destroying the church.

SPIRITUAL UNCERTAINTY

he suggested. "There is a fog of natural opini that is, apparently, harder to pierce than we dreamed."

The survey showed that the kind of help young people want relates less to dating behavior and more toward marriage and a Christian view of sex. Adult responses in this area, Mr. Strommen pointed out, indicates that adults overestimate youth's interest in dating problems and underestimate the concern they have over the right selection of a life partner.

It also was found that "adults tend to feel that youth are more critical and rebellious of their elders than is true of youth." Mr. Strommen said that "this distorted conception of youth's reactions to adults" may suggest a partial reason why it is difficult to find sponsors for young people's organizations in local congregations.

"The adults are afraid of the youth," he said. "In reacting to what they think is criticism they reduce their effectiveness as leaders. It would seem that a stress should be made on the other aspect of youth's ambivalence—their desire for adult companionship and acceptance. The youth in the study seem less concerned over adult authority and more concerned over the social distance between them and the adults."

The research project was initiated in the fall of 1957 by the youth boards of the Evangelical, American, United Evangelical, and Lutheran Free Churches, in which bodies the survey was conducted. The youth department of the Augustana Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod were co-sponsors.

Looking Into the Future:

BEGINNING OR END?

TWO CONTRASTING VIEWS of the next 50 years were presented at the recent National Lutheran Educational Conference.

According to Dr. Conrad Bergendoff, president of Augustana College in Rock Island, Ill., "Christianity may be only a tolerated minority by the year 2010."

This, he said, was because neither European nor American Christianity has succeeded in winning the world. The next decades, he said, would be remarkably like the first 300 years of Christian history with religions from Africa and Asia vying with those from European countries to satisfy the hunger of new societies.

"The confused stirrings in the relations of the churches to each other," he continued, "may betoken a new alignment in the Christian household" as it becomes more clear where these "provincial and self-sufficient bodies must take a stand against a non-Christian world."

A far more optimistic view was taken by Dr. O. P. Kretzmann, president of Valparaiso (Ind.) University.

The year 1960, he said, may near the end of a twentieth century dark age, which he described as "dark as that of the 8th and 9th centuries despite the triumphs of science."

Predicting the "slow, whimpering end" of secular materialism, he said that the beatniks are "closer to understanding the modern age than many others."

There is hope for the future, he declared, "because more of us know that we are sick and need help."

Calling upon the educators who were present "to intensify study of the Christian heritage," and "establish its relevance to all of life," Dr. Kretzmann predicted that in the near future there would be more and larger Lutheran colleges and universities as the Church would keep pace with the exploding college population.

ARE THE BEATNIKS AIDING RELIGION?

THE BEATNIKS are performing a religious service as "premeditated screwballs" calling attention to the problem of conformity in America, it was declared at the fifth annual Laymen's Leadership Institute held at Miami, Florida.

"What we conform to becomes our God," declared 32-year-old millionaire chain grocer Howard E. Butt, Jr., of Corpus Christi, Texas, who is one of the founders of the interdenominational lay institute.

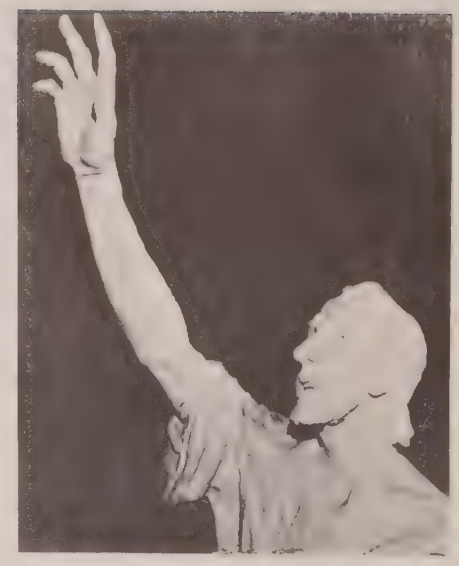
Even sitting in church can be idolatry "if your motive for being there is to please your wife, or family, or other people," Mr. Butt warned in the keynote address.

"Society," he said, "is made up of conformists, non-conformists and Christian individualists."

"Be like gyroscopes and resist the pressures of the crowd," he urged, citing Jesus as "the greatest outsider, opposed by the leaders of religious, business and government organizations of His day."

Reminding his fellow laymen that the Bible exhorts, "Be not conformed to this world," the Texas Baptist admonished: "You hit home runs for God only when you really swing at the ball."

More than 600 delegates from the U. S., Canada, Jamaica and Great Britain attended the four-day institute.



SAYS HALF OF SOVIET ZONE YOUNG REFUGEES "HEATHENS"

FIFTY PER CENT OF THE YOUTHFUL REFUGEES from Germany's Soviet Zone have grown up "practically as heathens," according to a clergyman who for several years directed pastoral care of young people in a West Berlin reception camp.

Half of the youngsters when asked about Jesus Christ, the meaning of Christian holidays, the Ten Commandments, or The Lord's Prayer "had not a clue," said Dr. D. Wulf of Bethel.

"Whatever they knew about history, nature, society, and culture was coined spectacularly by the ideological influence of the East German state," he observed.

Writing in the German Pastors' Gazette, Pastor Wulf noted, however, that a suprisingly large percentage of the youth named a clergyman or another Church-related person when asked who they thought had been especially kind to them in their home village or community.

THIS BUST OF CHRIST as a blazing prophet by the late Gutzon Borglum (of Mount Rushmore National Memorial fame) has been suggested by the sponsoring committee as the inspiration for a proposed huge statue on Spearfish Mountain in the Black Hills National Forest, South Dakota. To be known as "Christ on the Mountain," the statue is expected to cost anywhere from $100,000 to $1,000,000. The private, non-sectarian project has been spearheaded by Sen. Francis Case R.-S. D.), a Methodist, who conceived the idea of a statue in America similar to the famous figure of "Christ, the Redeemer," on a mountain overlooking Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. RNS Photo

CHAPLAIN RECEIVES LEGION OF MERIT AWARD

WHEN LUTHERAN CHAPLAIN (Captain) James R. Hayes recently received the Legion of Merit medal and citation, he was described as the only Army chaplain who received it for current activities (in 1959). Also, it was pointed out at the Army Chief of Chaplains office in the Pentagon that it is most unusual for a junior officer to receive this high ranking award which is usually given to those in ranks of Major and above.

Chaplain Hayes (right in our picture) received the award from Colonel Homer K. Curtis, senior Army adviser of the Kansas Army National Guard. The ceremony took place at Topeka, Kansas, where the chaplain is in resident training in the marriage counselling program at the Menninger Foundation during the current academic year.

A minister of the United Lutheran Church in America, Chaplain Hayes received the Legion of Merit for services given in various positions which he held from February, 1957, to May, 1959. He was especially cited for his compilation of a 269-page book on the training of chaplain assistants, many of whom are college graduates. He was also recognized for developing a procedure for procuring the most promising trainees for the chaplain assistant program and for establishing a training curriculum for Reserve and National Guard chaplains within the 6th Army areas. Most of this work was completed when Chaplain Hayes was stationed at Fort Ord, California.

Chaplain Hayes, who served as a member of the Counter Intelligence Corps in the Pacific during World War II, entered Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, Pa., after the war, then returned to active service as a chaplain.

Sharing Your Experience

RIDING WITH A CHAPLAIN

By Hugh Zachary

TWELVE YEARS HAVE PASSED since that night when three of us hitched a ride from Ft. Bragg into Fayetteville, North Carolina, and I can still see the officer's face, kind and tired after a day in camp.

When we got into the car, we passed the usual comments about the weather, carefully dropping the Sir! on the end of each sentence. We showed the proper respect for the officer's rank, but I'm sorry to say we forgot to show respect for him as a man.

When he indicated by silence that he didn't care to join into our talk, we entered into an animated conversation of our own. Our talk became more intimate, bordering on the obscene. We talked as young men sometimes do when they feel themselves removed from the authority of home, the guidance of a church.

The officer said nothing during the twelve-mile ride into town. It was only when he pulled the car over to the side of the street at our request that he turned to us. He spoke only a few words then, his voice kind and full of understanding.

"I want to see you in Chapel Sunday," he said. "I want to try to teach you to respect the feelings of a Man of God."

As an officer, he could have "chewed us out." He could have reported us. But he didn't blame us for not noticing his Chaplain's insignia. He wasn't hurt because we talked vulgarity in front of him, the Chaplain. He was sad because we had so ignored the feelings of a fellow man. He said only: "I want to see you in Chapel."

You know something? We were there.

Hugh Zachary will be the recipient of the March $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

ESCAPE RELIGION WILL NOT HELP

THE 18TH INTERNATIONAL Luther League conference at San Antonio, Texas, was warned that "a religion that talks only of Heaven and forgets this earth does not frighten Communists."

"It is because Christianity threatens to upset a godless order of things in this world that the Churches in Eastern Europe and China are put under restraint by the Reds," said Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America and of the Lutheran World Federation.

"True Christianity is never meant to be an escape into a dream world. Even if Americans do not understand that fact, it is impressive that Communist nations do," he charged.

A MIGHTY FORTRESS

VOL. IX | New York, N. Y., February, 1960 | No. 10

GIRL OF THE MONTH

MARGUERITE AGENA, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for February, is an active member of First Lutheran Church, Dows, Iowa.

Marguerite is a faithful choir member. She has served as vice president and program chairman of the Luther League and is currently its president.

She has also taught vacation Bible school and is one of the Junior League Advisors.

A member of the senior class of Dows High School this year, Marguerite sings in the school choir, had a leading part in the school play last year and has for the two past years received her letter as a forward on the girl's basketball team.

She was nominated as a Lutheran Girl of the Month by her pastor, the Rev. John O. Langehaugh.

CHRISTIAN YOUTH CHALLENGED TO BE DARING PIONEERS

CHRISTIAN YOUNG PEOPLE were challenged by the outgoing executive of the Luther League of America, Dr. F. Leslie Conrad, Jr., to become "daring, devoted, dedicated, pioneering pilgrims."

"If adult church members," Dr. Conrad declared, "really took their religion seriously, if they really believed that God made of one blood all who dwell on the face of the earth, if they really accepted the fact that they have been appointed by Jesus Christ to be their brother's keeper—then there could be no 'Little Rocks'—there could be no misdirected, misguided Ku-Klux-Klanners—there could be no bitterly contested, terribly wasteful steel strike."

He asked youth leaders to get on the "highway of daring" by personally adopting as their own, the Luther League's programs of Christian vocation, evangelism, missions, social action and Christian recreation.

LUTHERANISM A GROWING FORCE

DR. PAUL C. EMPIE, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, said recently that Lutherans, as the third largest group in the country, are a growing force in American life and are being "taken more seriously" than ever before by other denominations.

He attributed Lutherans' rising influence to their "Americanization" in language and culture and to their march toward unity, particularly since World War I.

Addressing the 10th annual Overseas Lutheran Theological Students' Conference, sponsored by the NLC, he noted that there were more than 60 Lutheran bodies in the U. S. 100 years ago, compared to 16 at present.

The number will be reduced to 11 in the near future when two current mergers are completed. One union will create The American Lutheran Church, which will hold its constituting convention in April, 1960. It will unite the American, Evangelical and United Evangelical Lutheran Churches. The other union comprises the American Evangelical, Augustana, Finnish Evangelical (Suomi Synod), and the United Lutheran Churches.

Some 47 students from 13 countries attended the conference. The students are enrolled at 31 American seminaries, seven of them Lutheran. Nations represented were Germany, Norway, India, China (Hong Kong), Ethiopia, Denmark, Tanganyika, Japan, Austria, Finland, Sweden, Korea, and Switzerland.

BISHOP OTTO DIBELIUS, head of the Church of Berlin-Brandenburg, recently received a membership card to the Protestant Men of the Chapel, an Army Christian men's group. Presenting it was Lt. Col. C. I. Olsen, a Staten Island, N. Y., Methodist who is president of the Berlin Command PMOC. The presentation followed an address by Dibelius at the Berlin Community Chapel attended by more than 1,000 Germans and Americans. Shortly before that, the Communists had forbidden the bishop to enter East Germany. He disregarded the ban and went to preach at St. Mary's church in East Berlin.

Second Glance

A name has been chosen for the new 3,000,000-member Lutheran Church that is to come out of the four-way merger of the United Lutheran Church, Augustana, Suomi Synod, and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church. It will be known as the Lutheran Evangelical Church in America. A tentative timetable calls for adoption of merger plans in their final form by August 1961, and a merger convention in the summer of 1962.

The Ethiopian government has granted the Lutheran World Federation a franchise to set up a short-wave Lutheran radio station for Africa in that country. According to officials of the federation, the short-wave transmitter may "play a pioneer role in Christian broadcasting in Africa at a time when revolutionary changes are taking place in that continent's life and thought."

A permanent Lutheran Immigration Service was inaugurated earlier this year as a joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. Its services, in addition to the former activities of Lutheran Refugee Service, will include receiving incoming immigrants at ports and referring them to congregations in the U. S. for spiritual ministry.

Communists in Poland are now suggesting to set up a Red counterpart to the Roman Catholic confessional. They suggest that "confessionals" should be established in public libraries and Communist cultural centers to give children and youth "a chance to discuss their most intimate personal problems in confidence" with Red psychiatrists.

Grants totaling $141,600 for 1960 were approved by the ULCA's Board of Higher Education for 19 colleges and seminaries in North America. The ULCA will spend $4,315,000 in 1960 for its program of American Missions. The appropriation will help support 700 mission congregations.

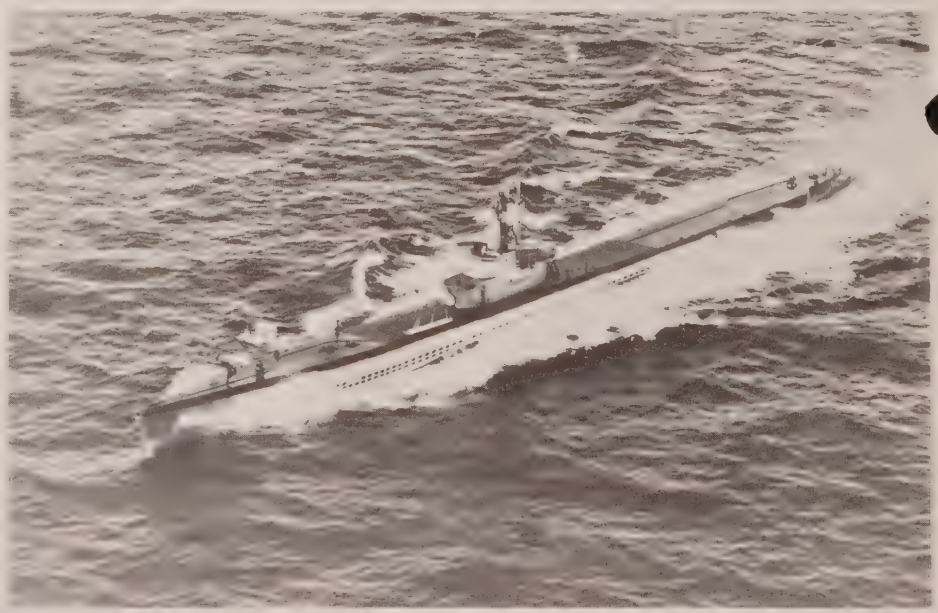
Money lenders with their exorbitant interest rates are now finding it a little harder to get their clutches on refugees and other needy people in Hong Kong. The Lutheran World Federation has established a new Loan and Savings Association in order to help refugees and other needy people become self-supporting through small loans.

The Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, praised the Colorado Springs Air Force Academy for its approach to civilian churches of the surrounding community. He said it was an example of good cooperative relationships that cadets of upper classes are allowed to attend civilian churches of their choice instead of chapel on the campus.

Bibles in Russia Available
BUT TO 'SPECIALISTS' ONLY

RUSSIAN LIBRARIES HAVE BIBLES, but they are not accessible to the ordinary Soviet citizen, the American Bible Society's Advisory Council was told at its 41st annual meeting.

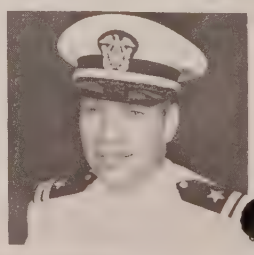
All religious books in Soviet libraries are classified as research material available to "specialists" only, meaning that only a priest of the Russian Orthodox Church can get such a volume for reading, said Miss Barbara Wolfe, who served as a Russian-speaking guide at the U. S. Moscow Fair last summer.



Miss Wolfe, who was formerly connected with the Free Europe Exile Relations in Paris, and now works for the State Department, added that, nevertheless, the Bible has not been forgotten in Russia and is "desparately wanted."

As proof she cited her own experience with the "disappearing Bible" at the Moscow Fair. Miss Wolfe served with the special book display which contained a limited collection of Russian and English Bibles among some 8,000 other books published in the U. S.

She recalled that, in a week or so, all the Bibles were gone, including those in English and other languages. Then a rumor was started in Moscow that "the Americans are giving away free Bibles," she said, "and there was a constant demand for Bibles which were no longer available."



"The American Bible Society came to our rescue with a shipment of some 50 Russian Bibles and a new collection of English editions," Miss Wolfe said.

She also said that the question of religion was frequently brought up in her often prolonged discussions with young students at the fair.

OPERATION PETTICOAT, a new film comedy, features a pink submarine, whose "real life" skipper and exec are Lutheran. The USS Balao (above), went from Navy grey to pink and back to grey during the shooting of the movie which features Cary Grant and Tony Curtis. Lt. Com. Frank D. Harmer, Jr., claims that patches of delicate pink still show through when his battle-worn craft rubs against its pier. Other members of the crew concede that pink is an unusual color for a submarine which wears nine battle stars earned during World War II. Executive Officer Harmer (left) is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Glenside, Pa. The Skipper, Lt. James E. Henry (right), and crew member Albert T. Smith, FT 1, are both members of Grace Lutheran in Key West, Fla.

What does it mean

TO BE A FREE MAN

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

WHO IS A FREE MAN?

Not the one who is a slave to the passions of his flesh that wage war against his soul.

Not the one who has kicked the traces and is sowing his wild oats while away from home.

Certainly not the one who rebels at authority, is ornery and uncooperative with his superiors or takes it out on those put under his charge.

Jesus gives the answer: "If you continue in my word, you are truly my disciples, and you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free . . . So if the Son makes you free, you will be free indeed. (John 8:31,32,36.)

Peter gives us further insight when he says, "Live as free men, yet without using your freedom as a pretext for evil; but live as servants of God. Honor all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honor the emperor." (I Peter, 2:16-17.)

A Christian might be tempted to feel he is a soldier of Christ alone and should take orders only from his Commander-in-Chief, the Lord. But God in His providential goodness has given us some pretty good advice in I Peter 2:13-16: "Be subject, for the Lord's sake, to every human institution . . . For it is God's will that by doing right you should put to silence the ignorance of foolish men."

God is a God of order—just look at the orderliness of the stars, the seasons, yes, even the way your own body functions.

Perhaps you have seen some pretty impossible situations where people don't know how to use authority. We say, "It's gone to his head." And this isn't always confined to fictitious characters as Captain Queeg in the "Caine Mutiny."

Yet, Peter says, "Servants, be submissive to your masters with all respect, not only to the kind and gentle but also to the overbearing. For one is approved if, mindful of God, he endures pain while suffering unjustly. For what credit is it, if when you do wrong and are beaten for it, to take it patiently? But if, when you do right and suffer for it, you take it patiently, you have God's approval." (I Peter 2:18-20.)

You may say, "This is pretty rough advice."

And it is. But Peter gives us a cue in this matter when he points us specifically to Jesus Christ, His example, His power, His encouragement. "For this you have been called because Christ also suffered for you, leaving you an example that you should follow in His steps. He committed no sin; no guile was found on His lips. When He was reviled, He did not revile in return; when He suffered, He did not threaten; but He trusted to Him who judges justly. He himself bore our sins in His body on the tree, that we might die to sin and live to righteousness. By his wounds you have been healed. For you were straying like sheep, but now have returned to the Shepherd and Guardian of your souls." (I Peter 2:21-25.)

There are situations when you are asked or coerced to do things which would be a denial of your Lord, or against your conscience. But here again, scripture is very explicit.

In the Book of Acts (fourth chapter) Peter and John were told in no uncertain terms better to "knock off" speaking or teaching in the name of Jesus. They answered, "Whether it is right in the sight of God to listen to you rather than to God, you must judge; for we cannot but speak of what we have seen and heard."

What—in the light of this—about us today? What about us who bear the name of "Christian?" Can it be said of you and me as it was of the disciples, "they recognized that they had been with Jesus?"

You may now ask, "Is this freedom?"

And the answer is a sure, "Yes!"

As Martin Luther so aptly summarized it, "The Christian is the most free man of all. The Christian is likewise the most dutiful servant of all."

This is divine freedom on earth. Are you free—to be like this?

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

IN KOREA a church representative helps a refugee boy try on a sweater donated by Lutherans in the United States. Of the more than four million pounds of used clothing shipped by Lutheran World Relief to the world's needy during 1959, 600,000 pounds were sent to Korea for distribution to the most needy people through Korean Church World Service, an indigenous agency supported by LWR, the American Church World Service, and the World Council of Churches.

RUSSIANS COMMUNIZE WEDDING CEREMONY

NINE SOLEMN MARRIAGE CEREMONIES were held in true Communist, rather than religious, fashion as Leningrad's "wedding palace" opened for business on the banks of the Neva River.

The couples were joined in matrimony to the strains of Tchaikovsky selections over a loudspeaker system before a deputy mayor sitting at a desk under a bust of Lenin. The city official presented the wedding certificates and gave rings to the newlyweds. Many of the brides wore long white wedding dresses.

Opening of the "palace" marked the culmination of a well-organized effort to make civil marriages in Russia "more beautiful" and to replace all "religious and bourgeois habits."

The "palace" was transformed from a former Russian nobleman's home to mark the 42nd anniversary of the October revolution.

Sharing Your Experience

HELP YOURSELF — HELPING OTHERS

By James E. Hansen, SoGSN, U.S. Navy

WHILE ATTENDING FLEET SONAR SCHOOL last year, I had an experience that I, and I know at least one other, will never forget. From it, my future life will be much more fulfilling.

It all started after seeing a science fiction movie at the navy base theater. After the movie, a group of us gathered in our barracks and began to discuss the movie and to discuss the probability of space travel.

As the discussion gained strength, so did our group. One thing led to another and we came to religion.

We didn't get technical on the subject, but instead, we had a broad, overall discussion of the many religions that have existed or do exist today. We had a fairly large representation of various denominations within our group, with numerous guides and Bibles for reference.

We discussed the religious beliefs and ways of worship each of us had. True, whenever you have a mixed group talking about and discussing either politics or religion, you will have some arguments and disagreements; but we weren't trying to sell our religion to each other, or trying to prove which one is the best and most correct. Instead, we tried to find out how others worship.

However, one of the fellows who was sitting in on the discussion had no religion at all. He had grown up in a family that had no religion or religious beliefs. In fact, he had never been inside a church excepting for weddings and funerals. He didn't know, and had never wondered how we came on this wonderful earth of ours.

The following day he confided in me that he had had a hard time sleeping, for our discussion had awakened something in him. He had thought about what had been spoken of during our discussion.

I asked if he would like to go to church with me the coming Sunday. He readily accepted.

I introduced him to the minister, and he received a small pocket version Bible and other literature.

After that, I saw him in church every Sunday, and when not there during the week, busily reading the Bible and lesson guides, working to be confirmed, for he had been baptized shortly after his first visit to the church.

After that first discussion, a group of us decided to hold one regularly once a week, which we did—usually every Wednesday.

My new Lutheran friend hardly missed a discussion, for he was bubbling over with many new questions. The answers we gave him and looked up for him, not only helped him understand his new adventure, but also gave us "old salts" a good review of things that we had let slip our minds and taken for granted.

All in all, we found it very profitable to discuss that one touchy subject—religion. It also made me realize that you don't have to go to Africa or some far-off shore to find people who do not believe in God.

We live, work, and play with them—and what are we supposed Christians doing about it—we who live where religion is so free and easily accessible?

I just pray that I may help more find themselves by finding God.

James E. Hansen will be the recipient of the February $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

MARION OARE, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for January, is President of the Lutheran League of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Long Lake, Minnesota.

Marion has taught Sunday School and served as a councilor at the U.L.C.A. Central Conference Bible Camp.

Despite the fact that her mother passed on some two years ago, making it necessary for Marion to take care of the home, she was Business Manager of her high school paper during her junior year, Co-Chairman of the Prom Committee, Vice President of the Student Council and active in many other organizations.

Presently a senior in high school, she participates in the choir, the debating team, and is active in the Ushers' Club, Editor of the school yearbook, and President of the Student Council.

Marion was nominated as the Lutheran Girl of the Month by her pastor, The Rev. D. W. Vriesman.

NOMINATIONS for the Lutheran Girl of the Month cannot be acknowledged or returned unless accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

CHURCH AS CONSCIENCE OF STATE

CAN THE CHURCH ACT as the conscience of the State? It should try, but the role is a difficult one.

This was the conclusion reached by participants in two forums at the annual meeting of the Lutheran Welfare Conference.

Christians should concern themselves with economic injustices if they are to remain true to the Scriptures, according to Dr. A. D. Mattson, professor at Augustana Theological Seminary, Rock Island, Ill.

Jesus, said Dr. Mattson, was more interested in man's use of wealth than He was in religious ceremonials.

Dr. Harold Haas, social missions executive for the United Lutheran Church in America, said the problem is how the Church should express its concern in an age of technological revolution.

He pointed out, for example, that it is beyond the Church's technical competence to give specific answers to the steel strike or to the problem of automation. Yet, he said, there is a perspective which comes to the Church as a community of faith which should be given.

Dr. Robert E. Van Deusen, Washington secretary of the National Lutheran Council, cited the responsibility of the Church to apply moral and spiritual yardsticks to international problems.

Dr. Edgar M. Carlson, president of Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, Minn., said there are elements in Christian theology that provide grounds for a confident outlook upon the world despite the evidences of gloom and doom.

This world, he said, is being continuously created by God, who acts consistently and according to Law, not capriciously or impulsively.

'ACTIVISM' THE DISEASE OF AMERICANS

CHRISTIANITY IN AMERICA SUFFERS from a disease known as "activism," delegates to the 22nd biennial convention of United Lutheran Church Men were told by the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Addressing more than 400 delegates and visitors, Dr. Fry warned that Americans are afraid to fall into thought and do everything in their power to avoid serious thinking because they are afraid they'll meet God.

"That's why," he said, "Americans have radios in their bathrooms; so before they are fully awake there's something to occupy their thoughts."

REFORMATION MEMORIAL CHURCH REDEDICATED. Newly reconstructed, Reformation Memorial Church was rededicated in Worms, West Germany. Known also as Holy Trinity, the church was destroyed in World War II. Contributions for its restoration were made by Protestant individuals and groups in many parts of the world. It was in this city that Martin Luther declared his Protestant faith before the famous Diet of Worms to which he had been summoned by Emperor Charles V in 1521. RNS Photo

Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Frank Tobey has found that the position of Chief of Army Chaplains is a traveling man's job. In his first year as Chief of Chaplains, he made 22 trips, an average of one almost every two weeks, and covered 51,000 miles, more than twice the distance around the Earth at the equator.

According to Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, president of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, the recent TV quiz show scandals were in part the fault of the Church. "We haven't given enough attention to interpreting the Ten Commandments so that they are relative to our day," he said.

The Missouri Synod has accepted an invitation from the National Lutheran Council to participate in discussions of present and future cooperative activities in American Lutheranism. Eight church bodies with a total membership of over 5 million cooperate in the Council. The Missouri Synod has over 2 million members.

Soviet Zone authorities refused entry permits to 33 West German theologians and laymen who were scheduled to attend the annual five-day all-German Evangelical Rural Church Congress in Weimar, East Germany. Only two West German participants received permits. The Congress is held alternately in West and East Germany to discuss the Church's specific tasks and problems in rural areas.

Elmer D. Sandagar, director of the Navy's Bluejacket Choir and the only full-time civilian choir director in the Navy, is a Lutheran. Officer in charge of the Bluejacket Choir, which travels with 38 voices, is Lutheran Chaplain Oscar Weber.

A series of children's television programs produced by the National Lutheran Council will be ready for screening by mid-April. The series, consisting of 26 programs of 15 minutes each, is aimed at children between eight and twelve "to heighten the child's awareness of God, in the hope that he may thus become involved in a greater response."

Martin Luther, the 16th Century German reformer who was born 476 years ago last November 10, now has 1,834 descendants, according to a new genealogical book issued by a German publisher.

U. S. Air Force helicopters flew a church to an 8,000-foot high mountain top in the foothills of the Italian Alps to provide a place of worship for the 1200 residents of the little village of Pasturo. Glass for the windows was the last item transported.

The Rev. Lloyd Swantz, youth director of the Lutheran Council of Great Britain since 1952, will be succeeded in February by the Rev. Jerry E. Moe of Valders, Wisconsin. The director's main responsibility is to oversee the operation of Hothorpe Hall, a center for Lutheran youth activities, conferences and language instruction at Teddingworth in England's North Midlands countryside.

CAROLE K. BANBURY, the 1958-59 Miss Broadmoor of Colorado Springs, Col., and present Miss St. Louis Park of Minnesota, is an active Lutheran.

She is also a highly accomplished figure skater. Last spring in Colorado Springs, she won the coveted Gold Medal, highest honor that can be achieved by an amateur skater.

At home in St. Louis Park, Minn., Miss Banbury has been active in Salem English Lutheran Church of Minneapolis. She is a past president of the Luther League, was honor student of her confirmation class, and a member of the junior choir.

As a freshman in Colorado College, she was participating last year in establishing the Lutheran Student Foundation on the campus. Now a sophomore, she participates in Sunday School work of First Lutheran Church in Colorado Springs.

HOW IS YOUR HQ?

WE HEAR A GREAT DEAL of talk today about the I.Q., or Intelligence Quotient, which is supposedly the figure arrived at by testing human memory and reasoning ability. This figure seems to present a fairly true picture in some cases; yet, in other cases, presents a distorted, untrue, and very often completely misleading picture of one's brain power, because of the many factors which are involved both mentally and physically. The whole testing program is inspired by the uncertain measurements produced by human speculation.

We have another quotient which we can measure more correctly according to God's Word; namely, H.Q., or Humility Quotient. The importance of this quotient runs like a red thread throughout the Bible in statements such as: "Love thy neighbor as thyself", "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth."

When the Disciples asked Christ which of them would be the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven, He answered: "Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven."

There is very little regard today for humility. The general idea is that one achieves success and happiness by projecting oneself on the screen for the world to see by an act of pushing and shoving and by trampling one's fellow men.

Christ gave the world the best example of true humility. He humbled Himself first in coming to earth to save mankind, then took jeers, insults and vile spit of those who could not stand His goodness, and finally died in Humility on a wooden cross between a robber and a murderer. Yet we humans have the gall to crow like cocks and brag like asses. Who are we to expect a life completely untouched by the venom of the world yea, even those who call themselves Christians? Are we better than Him? God can make use of all grades of Intelligence in His vast work. I. Q. isn't so very important, but He cannot make use of anyone in His service who does not have the H. Q. or "Heart and Humility Quotient."

The time has come to look into our own hearts and judge ourselves according to His life and word. Until we rid ouselves of pompous pride and accept His humble way of life, we shall not be worthy of, nor comfortable in, His presence throughout Eternity.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

HOW MUCH DO YOU GIVE FOR YOUR CHURCH?

THE AVERAGE MEMBER of a protestant church in the United States gave $64.57 to his church in 1958. Of this amount, $49.82 was used for congregational expenses, $12.43 for benevolence, and $2.32 for foreign missions.

Eight of the eleven Lutheran bodies included in the survey exceeded the national average for total contributions. However, they were pretty far behind some of the record givers.

Members of the Free Methodist Church averaged $243.93 per member in all-purpose giving. Seventh Day Adventists gave $169.72 for benevolence. Members of Pilgrim Holiness Church gave $167.74 for congregational expenses. Evangelical Mennonites contributed an average of $37.77 for foreign missions.

Among Lutherans, members of the Missouri Synod were hightest in giving for all purposes, averaging $89.74, and $18.20 for benevolence. Members of the Lutheran Free Church gave most among the Lutherans for foreign missions, averaging $3.28 per member.

The all purpose giving per member in other Lutheran bodies was $77.38 in the UELC; $73.17 in the Augustana; $72.98 in the AELC; $70.89 in the ALC; $66.45 in the ULCA; $66.31 in the Lutheran Free Church.

"FLOATING" CHAPEL RISING FOR WINTER OLYMPICS. This "floating" chapel — a free-standing reinforced concrete shell supported at only two points—is being built to accommodate up to 150 Protestant worshippers at the Eighth Olympic Winter Games in Squaw Valley, Calif., February 18-28, 1960. The $140,000 building will be known as the United Church of Squaw Valley. The Games are the first Winter Olympics in the U. S. since 1932, when they were at Lake Placid, N. Y. RNS Photo

REMEMBERING CHRISTMAS IN LUXEMBOURG

By A/3c Daniel A. Derfler

MY TOUR IN EUROPE started in October. Christmas soon began drawing near, and I was expecting a time of lonesomeness and homesickness. It turned out to be the most memorable Christmas I've ever had.

The town of Ettelbruck, Luxembourg, invited G.I.'s from the surrounding area to be their guests for Christmas. Included were six airmen from my home base. They greeted us and took us into their homes. We were accepted as adopted members of their families.

Their warmth and hospitality is something I'm sure all of us who were fortunate enough to enjoy will always remember. The spirit of Christmas that prevailed there is typical of the friendship and generosity that the entire world enjoys at this season; the feeling of accepting and giving unselfishly to perhaps make the life of someone else a little bit brighter.

This experience not only gave the people of Ettelbruck a chance to know Americans better, but it also worked in reverse. The feeling of "welcome-our-home-is-yours" made each of us, I'm sure, develop a genuine fondness for the citizens of the wonderful town.

The surprising thing is, this attitude of welcoming Americans prevails all year round, not only at Christmas. We are welcome, and are invited to come back any time.

For the outstanding good will relations enjoyed by the citizens of Ettelbruck and U. S. military personnel, Ettelbruck was recently awarded the USAFE Community Relations plaque which has been presented only four times previously.

Daniel A. Derfler will be the recipent of the January $10 check for a contribution contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

THIS IS THE OFFICIAL POSTER for Youth Week, January 31-February 7, 1960, sponsored by the United Christian Youth Movement, an agency of the National Council of Churches. Theme for observance in special worship services and projects in churches of many denominations is "Thy Kingdom on Earth." The phrase, taken from the Lord's Prayer, highlights the 1959-60 interdenominational emphasis on "Christian Responsibility on a Changing Planet." RNS Photo

LUTHERAN LAYMAN ON TOUR VIEWS RUSSIA

AMONG THOSE ACCOMPANYING Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson on his Russian tour was a Lutheran. Bert M. Tollefson, Jr., who is program liaison officer in the Agriculture Department, was Mr. Benson's personal aide on the visit to the Soviet Union.

Reporting on his personal observation, Mr. Tollefson said that the increasing emphasis which the Communists are placing on atheistic indoctrination of the populace made a deep impression on him. Living in Christian America, he said, "We, too, must place more emphasis on putting God in our everyday lives."

Commenting on the physical aspects of the tour, he pointed out that there are no private homes in the city of Moscow. Top-echelon families have private homes in the country, he added, but only apartments are seen within the Russian capital.

GOD VISITED OUR PLANET

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

DURING THE PAST MONTH and several years since World War II and particularly since the Korean conflict, we have heard a great deal about space travel, "hitting the moon," and the possibilities of our going from one planet to another. There has been much speculation as to the possibilities of the control of the earth from space ships or satellites. I can remember as a boy listening on the radio to the exciting adventures of "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century." At the rate we are going Buck Rogers will look like Christopher Columbus by the time the 25th century rolls around.

It must have been a fantastic experience for the shepherds out there in the fields, hearing and seeing the angels who came to bring them the message of the birth of the Saviour. Skeptics of recent vintage would ridicule the idea that God could come down; and yet seeing what man can do today we should be able to see that this experience of the shepherds would be child's play for God who has not only created this universe but also galaxies of universes.

It is an amazing thing to realize that in this great assemblage of planets, stars, and universes God is interested in you and me as an individual. He has all knowledge and it is no problem to Him to do this. There does swell up, therefore, in our hearts a sense of gratitude and thankfulness for what God did for us in sending the Babe in a manger to be our Savior and Lord. Living on this earth for approximately thirty-three years He demonstrated to men everywhere that God is interested in each one of us and loves us with a divine love.

In a day when we are materialistically minded and it seems that we are confronted on every hand with the idea that the most significant are the things with which we have to deal, things that we can see and touch, faith in Christ can become very clouded and obscure.

This is also true during the Christmas season. Even in the exchange of presents it is possible for us to forget the fact that the main reason for this is that it symbolizes God's giving us His great gift, the gift of His Son. Each time as you give a present to a loved one this Christmas be reminded of God's gift to you. Perhaps much

THE Christmas STORY

AND IT CAME TO PASS in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David.

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone around about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord,

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying;

Glory to God in the highest, and peace on earth to men of good will.

Second Glance

The Lutheran Service Commission will establish a new service center for military personnel in Seoul, Korea. Plans call for construction of a building with a chapel, rooms for games and relaxation and limited sleeping accommodations. A service pastor will be assigned to supervise construction of the center and to direct its activities when building is completed. It is estimated that some 1500 Lutherans are now stationed in the Seoul area.

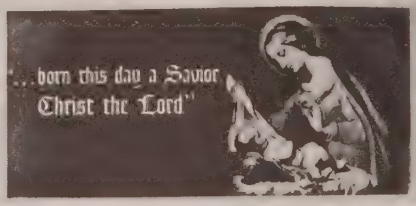
Communist authorities of East Germany have again rejected a plea to release the Rev. Siegfried Schmuntzler, chaplain to Protestant students at Leipzig University, who was imprisoned in 1957 for alleged counter-revolutionary activities and condemned to five years imprisonment.

Dr. C. Richard Evenson, executive secretary for parish education of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, has been named Lutheran consultant on armed forces religious school materials for the Department of Defense. He is one of five denominational consultants to the committee which develops and approves religious materials to be recommended to military chaplains for use during the following year.

Three days after Lutheran World Relief in New York received an urgent request to help victims of Typhoon Vera in Japan, 24,500 pounds of clothing and bedding arrived in the stricken area. LWR's speedy reply to the disaster call was made possible when a shipment of relief goods bound for Korea was diverted to Japan.

Provision has been made for only one theological seminary in The American Lutheran Church—the new body that will be established next year through a merger of the ELC, ALC and UELC. However, the theological school will consist of four separate units on as many campuses.

The state of Ohio has a new motto and it comes right from the New Testament. "With God All Things Are Possible," is the new motto, the first in Ohio since "Imperium and Imperio" was repealed in 1867 because it smacked too much of empires and royalty. The new motto comes from Matthew 19:26: "But Jesus beheld them and said unto them, With men this is impossible; but with God all things are possible."



Intensification of the struggle against "the reactionary elements who hide in the churches" has been proclaimed by the new director of the Hungarian State Office for Church Affairs, veteran Communist leader Karoly Olt.

A commemorative postage stamp bearing the quotation from Francis Scott Key, "And this be our motto, in God is our trust," is one of six "American credo" stamps that will be issued in 1960 to remind Americans and other people of the world of the ideals upon which our nation was founded.

POSTERS URGE 'KEEP CHRIST IN CHRISTMAS. These four posters are typical of the 12 by 25 foot billboard messages and scenes displayed across the U. S. this year under sponsorship of local church and lay group to emphaize the true meaning of Chritmas. Display arrangements are usually made by individual churches or civic, fraternal or business groups in cooperation with outdoor advertising firms. Sponsors generally select the design and purchase the posters, while the outdoor ad plant operators contribute panel space and posting costs. The posters have been a Christmas project in many communities for years since the Outdoor Advertising Association of America in 1913 commissioned famed artist Edward Volkert to paint the Nativity Scene specifically for this purpose. His painting has been reproduced annually and has inspired millions of viewers. RNS Photo

NEW LUTHERAN CHURCH EXPECTED IN 1962 OR 1963

BASIC DOCUMENTS for a new 3,000,000-member Lutheran church body to result from current four-way merger negotiations received all but their finishing touches at a recent meeting of the Joint Commission on Lutheran Unity.

The JCLU represents the United Lutheran Church in America, the Augustana Lutheran Church, the American Evangelical Lutheran Church and the Suomi Synod.

No name has yet been chosen for the new body, nor its headquarters location, although a JCLU site committee has narrowed this choice to either Chicago or New York. The committee found that 50 per cent of the new group's total membership will be east of Ohio and northeast of Georgia, with 40 per cent in the northeastern states.

Documents nearing commission approval include a constitution and by-laws for the new denomination, a constitution for its 30 newly fixed geographical synods, and a constitution for the approximately 6,500 member congregations.

Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the ULCA, who is chairman of the Joint Commission's six-man committee on constitutions, said the four documents would be completed for submission to the uniting Churches at their conventions next year. He added that all four would probably receive final JCLU approval next February, to be forwarded to the merging groups for action at their convention next year.

Dr. Malvin H. Lundeen of LaGrange, Ill., JCLU chairman and president of the Augustana Lutheran Church, estimated that if the four merging bodies approve the constitutions within two years, it will be possible for the new Church to hold its constituting convention late in 1962 or early in 1963.

A WEDDING THAT WAS 'ONE IN A THOUSAND'

WHEN THE REV. R. O. EVANS performed the 1,000th wedding of his 36-year pastorate at International Falls, Minn., he made it a "one in a thousand" occasion.

In recognition of the milestone, Mr. Evans, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, provided the couple, Ronald Caple and Valrae Beckstrand, with everything for the ceremony and reception that followed.

He even presented the newlyweds, both 21, with an allowance for their weekend honeymoon trip.

Pastor Evans said he spent $500 on the marriage and added with a smile: "Every dollar of it makes me happy."

He arranged for invitations, flowers and church decorations, a tiered cake and lunch, and a turkey dinner for the wedding party.

The clergyman selected from his antique glass collection a 10-inch cake plate, a miniature blue flower vase and a decorated mug as his wedding gifts.

He gave the bride a white Bible with a 1,000-pearl cover.

of our Christmas gift exchange is not with that in mind, but if it is this it will make Christmas more meaningful to each one of us.

God visited our planet earth, or as Paul says in Galatians "But when the time had fully come, God sent forth His Son, born of woman, born under the law" Gal. 4:4.

John also was living in a materialistic age and in his first letter tells us that he personally did see Christ. He touched Him, he heard Him, and was with Him. He wants to bolster our faith in believing that God did visit this planet. Can we this Christmas open our hearts anew, afresh to the Savior born in a manger?

It is indeed amazing that God at one time visited our planet and that He sent His Son to be born of a virgin to live on this earth, suffer and die on the cross, and rise again for our justification. However, it is still even more amazing to realize that I can experience Jesus Christ in my heart today.

He is a living reality in the hearts and lives of all those who will receive Him. John writes about it in his gospel when he says, "He came to his own home, and his own people received him not. But to all who received him, who believed in his name, he gave power to become children of God; who were born, not of blood nor of the will of the flesh nor of the will of man, but of God" John 1:11-13.

It is very important that we receive this Christ. During this Christmas season as we think of the fact that there was no room for Him in the inn, it would indeed be a tragedy if it were said of you or of me that we allowed no room for Christ in our hearts today.

With gratitude to God for the great gift of His Son, for visiting our planet earth, for calling us to a renewed fellowship with Him through the gospel, let us then open the doors of our hearts wide and say, "Let us pray the prayer which Phillips Brooks included in his wonderful Christmas hymn:

'O Holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in,
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Immanuel!' "

A blessed Christmas to each one of you wherever you may be throughout the world!

"For as the rain and the snow come down from heaven . . . but water the earth."
(Isaiah 55:10 RSV)

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

FROM SERGEANT TO CHAPLAIN

LIKE MEN IN OTHER PROFESSIONS, chaplains enjoy getting together occasionally. One of the unusual reunions occurred recently at the Washington, D. C., Lutheran Chaplain Convocation.

The get-together brought back memories of World War II, when Army Chaplain William R. Thierfelder would set up his field altar close behind the advancing allied lines. Attendance at these Christian field services would vary, but Chaplain Thierfelder said he could always count on Sergeant Francis E. Jeffery, a member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, to be present.

Today Sergeant Jeffery is a chaplain in the U. S. Air Force bringing a Lutheran ministry to men stationed at Chanute AF Base in Illinois. Former Chaplain Thierfelder is now serving as full-time hospital pastor in New York City for the Armed Services Commission of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

Chaplain Jeffery made his decision to enter the ministry prior to enlisting in the Minnesota National Guard in 1941; but he related that his Army experiences and contact with chaplains strengthened his desire to minister to men of the Armed Forces. As he describes it, he now is a "pastor away from home" for military personnel.

FEATHERED FORMOSAN: Wearing an Ojibway Indian headdress, the Rev. Stephen How of Formosa demonstrates his affinity for the Northern Ontario tribe he served as a Presbyterian Church of Canada missionary for 15 months. The Indians, baffled on his arrival, told him: "We thought you were from another tribe." Newly-appointed pastor of Park Royal Presbyterian Church, Clarkson, Ont., the 32-year-old former architect-engineer plans to return to Formosa in a few years.

A STRANGER CAME ON CHRISTMAS EVE

By Sp4 Clifford N. Gerenz

IT WAS CHRISTMAS EVE, cold and frosty, and I was thousands of miles from the warmth that comes from being with one's family at this time of the year.

There isn't much that a G.I. can do in the line of celebrating the holiday season when he is alone and far from home. About all he can do is think. And that's where the trouble begins. For when he starts thinking, he soon stumbles into the deepest depths of loneliness and that makes things worse than they were to begin with.

So it was with me this past Christmas Eve.

In an effort to combat this seasonal homesickness by turning to other things, I went to the chapel to practice the selections I would play at services the following morning.

As I was playing, a silent figure entered the chapel and seated itself in the semidarkness at the rear.

Having finished, I was about to shut the organ off, when the shadow came forward and I recognized it to be an elderly German woman who occasionally attended the Sunday morning services.

"Merry Christmas," I greeted her.

"And a Merry Christmas to you," was her reply.

"I wondered," she hesitatingly continued in her broken English, "if you would like to join my family in celebrating the Holy Eve tonight."

Surprised as I was, I managed to accept her invitation, and she then placed a slip of paper into my hand and left as quietly as she had come. The note contained her address and directions showing how I could get there.

Overwhelmed by her kindness, I tried to catch hold of myself, but soon I felt my eyes becoming misty and cloudy and within a few minutes I was bawling like a baby. Her thoughtfulness had so touched me in my loneliness that I have never forgotten her invitation nor the wonderful time I had that night.

Have you ever thought of how much Christ desires to be invited into our hearts and lives?

Especially at this Holy Season when we celebrate His coming on Earth, let us think about His coming into our bodies and dwelling there.

Extend your invitation to Christ for He always accepts and in coming makes your life a much more glorious thing than it has ever been.

Let us pray as the words of one of my favorite Christmas hymns state.

O Holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in,
Be born in us to-day.

Sp4 Clifford N. Gerenz will be the recipient of the December $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

KATHY RICHARDS, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for December, is a member of Salem Lutheran Church in Wooster, Ohio. She will graduate from high school next June.

Besides serving as editor of her school year book, Kathy has been president of the local Luther League, president of the Latin Club, social chairman of her senior class, and feature editor of the school paper.

Her intelligent sincerity, combined with her excellent speaking ability, won for her the "Stewardship Speech Award" of the New Washington Luther League Federation, and in 1958 she placed third in the state of Ohio in original oratory.

Kathy is a devout Christian, a straight A student, and a member of the church choir, according to her pastor, the Rev. Eugene Swanger.

She plans for a career in nursing and may enter the Capital University School of Nursing.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

BARBARA HAUGEN, Lutheran Girl of the Month for November, is a member of Zion Lutheran Church, Rake, Iowa. She has held local and circuit offices in the Luther League, taught Bible class, been a Sunday School pianist and a member of the senior choir, as well as the girls' sextette.

Barbara graduated last spring from Rake High School as a valedictorian. She was the recipient of a Betty Crocker "Home Maker of Tomorrow Award," and also a citizenship award granted by the Iowa Bar Association.

In the past, Barbara has been queen of the high school band to represent it at the North Iowa Band Festival. She has also been president of the Student Council and co-editor of the annual. According to her pastor, the Rev. Hilmar Mostul, Barbara plans to major in Home Economics at Iowa State College, loves to work in the church and considers it a privilege to serve.

She enjoys sports, especially basketball, bowling, skating and swimming. Her hobbies also include reading, sewing and cooking.

LWF VOTES $1,500,000 WORLD SERVICE BUDGET

A $1,500,000 BUDGET for aid to underdeveloped countries was adopted by the Lutheran World Federation's Department of World Service at a meeting at Bievres, France.

The appropriations will be used to provide food and medical supplies for needy people in countries as well as assisting minority churches in three lands, said Dr. Paul Empie of New York, executive director of the National Lutheran Council who chaired the LWF unit's four-day sessions here.

Members of the commission, interrupting budget discussion, heard an Arab refugee describe the work of the Lutheran hospital in Jerusalem and of the mobile clinic which crosses the Jordan-Israel frontier. He also gave a vivid picture of life and needs of refugees in the Middle East.

DON'T JOIN THE "CAREFUL GENERATION"

AMERICAN YOUTH is "obsessed by four idols—popularity, money, cars and clothes," a Lutheran youth leader claimed at the 64th anniversary convention of the Luther League of America.

"Oddly enough, these same four idols are also the primary worries that confront the nation's young people today," said Dr. Wilton E. Bergstrand of Minneapolis, youth director of the Augustana Lutheran Church.

Warning members of the League, official youth auxiliary of the United Lutheran Church in America, not to let the world run them through "the damp laundry of conformity," he emphasized that Christian youth "should not be conformed to this world but transformed to the likeness of Jesus Christ."

He urged all young Lutherans to "be among that magnificent minority of young people that is not of the 'Careful Generation' but of the generation that cares."

The "Careful Generation," Dr. Bergstrand explained, is the one now emerging from the "Beat Generation." Standing on the threshold of the 1960's, he said, it wants only security, comfort and pleasure.

Comprising some 60,000 members, the Luther League of America has units in 2,350 ULCA congregations in the United States, Canada and the Caribbean. Its parent denomination and the Augustana Lutheran Church are two of four bodies negotiating a merger expected to result in a new, but as yet unnamed, Church by early 1963. The other groups are the American Evangelical Lutheran and Finnish Evangelical Lutheran (Suomi Synod) Churches.

CHURCH CALL BENEATH THE SEA. A quick transformation in the Mess of the nuclear-powered submarine Skate produces this scene. A white altar cloth is spread over a table; a movie screen is used for a backdrop; a simple brass crucifix, two candle sticks and a Bible provide religious atmosphere, and Protestant Chaplain (Lt.) Guy Leonard is ready to conduct services—hundreds of feet beneath the sea.

Second Glance

The 1959 Lutheran World Relief Thanksgiving Clothing Appeal will be conducted during the week of November 22-29. Last year, American Lutheran contributions enabled LWR to send 4,687,000 pounds of used clothing for distribution through church channels to the neediest in South Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Jordan, Syria, Yugoslavia, Austria, Germany, Chile and Madagascar.

Twenty-five cooks, photographers and bookkeepers recently received certificates for successful completion of Lutheran World Service vocational training courses in Hong Kong. The program is an attempt to rehabilitate some of Hong Kong's thousands of refugees by providing them with vocational skills. Lutherans in America contribute to this program through their gifts to Lutheran World Action.

Some 350 Lutheran students attended the 1959 Ashram of the Lutheran Student Association of America to explore the meaning of "The Life and Mission of the Church." Dr. John Deschner, professor at Perkins School of Theology in Dallas, Texas, stressed that "there is a strong question mark hanging over every segregated congregation of believers in this country as to whether it is a true congregation of believers as defined in the Augsburg Confession—a place where the word is rightly preached and the sacraments rightly administered."

When the island of Taiwan (Formosa) was recently hit by the worst floods in this century and 248,000 people were left in dire need, Lutheran World Relief rushed aid to thousands. In the emergency, 118,000 pounds of flour, 124,000 pounds of corn meal, 63,000 pounds of powdered milk and 9,000 pounds of clothing were distributed.

Chaplain (Maj.) Karl F. Schofer, a Lutheran, is currently stationed in Saudi Arabia and will therefore be available to serve all Lutheran people in the area, including civilians working with the Arabian American Oil Company at Dhahran and Jedda.

America's newest state, Hawaii, has sent three active churchmen as its representatives in Congress. Senator Oren E. Long (D.) almost became a minister for the Disciples of Christ in his youth. Senator Hiram L. Forg (R.) is an active layman in the United Church of Christ and a trustee of the First Chinese Christian Church of Honolulu. Representative Daniel K. Inouye (D.) is an active Methodist layman. The newly elected governor of Hawaii, William Quinn, is a prominent active Roman Catholic.

Communist youth periodicals of Poland are increasingly advocating what they call "temporary marriages." They suggest such arrangements as "one way couples could find out if they were suited for permanent marriage." Also they argue that the short-term privilege would cut the countries very high divorce rate.

A PRAYER FOR THANKSGIVING

ALMIGHTY GOD, our heavenly Father, whose mercies are new unto us every morning, and who, though we have in no wise deserved thy goodness, dost abundantly provide for all our wants of body and soul: Give us, we pray thee, thy Holy Spirit, that we may heartily acknowledge thy merciful goodness toward us, give thanks for all thy benefits, and serve thee in willing obedience; through Jesus Christ, thy Son, Our Lord. Amen.

16-FOOT CHRIST STATUE TO OVERLOOK CAPITAL. Architectural carver Vincent Tonelli of Washington, D. C., adjusts the hand of an 8-foot plaster model of Jesus Christ for a 16-foot replica he is executing from a 40-ton block of limestone which will overlook the nation's capital from the campus of newly-built Wesley Theological Seminary (Methodist). The plaster model was sculpted by Leo Friedlander of New York.

MORE THAN 600 high school and college athletes met with a number of American sports stars at the 1959 conference of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, in Estes Park, Colo., to decide that "you don't have to be a sissy to be a Christian." In our picture, Bob Feller, all-time pitching great of the Cleveland Indians (right), goes over baseball pointers with Stan Johnson (left) of Minneapolis, Minn., and Jack Gillespie of Hanover (Ind.) College.

In today's world we need:

"SURVIVAL EQUIPMENT"

By Chaplain I. Torkelson

NEVER IN THE HISTORY of the world has man been more concerned about survival than today.

It could happen at any minute; tomorrow, next year, as some correspondents reported from Berlin, in 1961. The world could end with a bang.

We are confronted with powerful, shrewd, ambitious enemies. These enemies are found not only in China or Russia. They are found within our own nation. As a nation we are preparing every day for superior equipment in order to survive.

We prepare great shelters in the cities, first-aid equipment to care for fractures, wounds, radiation exposures, food and water for at least two weeks, portable radios to maintain contact with headquarters for instructions.

In Psalm 23:5 we hear of even a greater survival equipment. "Thou hast prepared a table before me in the presence of my enemy." Ie has prepared a table before us in the presence of the enemies in our life here on earth. On this table is everything we need to survive anything that may face us in this world.

He provides us with TRUE shelter. Be it from fear, a sense of moral failure, loneliness, sickness yea, even death.

God is our refuge in anything which may face us here on earth. Here we find first-aid for fractured confidence and a broken heart, food and water, not for a mere two weeks, but for every day.

Jesus says: "I am the bread of life and the water of life." These sayings baffled the people of old. Do these sayings have any meaning in your life?

Have you learned to listen to these sayings about the real survival we have in Christ?

Then will He say to you and all that will listen: "Ask and I will answer."

"Seek and ye shall find,"

"Knock and I will open the door."

Have you found the real survival equipment?

If so, you have nothing to fear. With God we can face anything in this world.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

LUTHERAN STUDENTS TO PARTICIPATE IN FEDERATION

THE LUTHERAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION of America voted recently to participate in the newly formed interdenominational National Student Christian Federation.

By its action the LSAA reversed the position taken last year when it opposed becoming part of the federation on the grounds that it was not "a true student movement." Since then the LSAA has been assured that the federation's policies will be the responsibility of students.

Merging into the federation, formed at Oberlin, O., were the United Student Christian Council, Student Volunteer Movement and Inter-seminary Movement. The federation is related administratively to the National Council of Churches' Division of Christian Education.

In another action the LSAA adopted a 1960-61 budget of $31,000 for Lutheran student action. The funds will be used for student aid in a number of overseas countries, administration of the LSAA program, publication of the association's monthly magazine, "frontiers," and participation in interdenominational student projects.

Sharing Your Experience

SONG OF NORWAY

By Frans Edward Nelson

WHENEVER I REMINISCE of Norway I think longingly of Hallingdal, the valley northwest of Oslo that my grandparents left years ago. I have never seen anything to compare to the majestic grandeur of snow-peaked Hallingskarvet, towering over the practically vertical fall of pine, granite and grass to the narrow finger of water below.

The mountains rise from the river on three sides and Hallingskarvet rears itself out of those forms that join the parallel flanks. From the site of the vacant old farm where Grandmother grew up, one can look down into the valley below to the village of Hovet, with its pretty little blue roofed church.

In Grandmother's childhood there was no church there and while she was "reading for the pastor" in preparation for confirmation, she had to set out before sunrise on the long ski-trek down the river to old Hol Church.

Frans Edward Nelson will be the recipient of the November $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

We stopped to visit old Hol Church as we drove back to my great-aunt's farm west of Oslo. In this beautiful building of mellow brown wood, somewhat in the "stavkirke" style, both my grandparents were baptized. I was amazed to see the pulpit was built over the altar. They told us that this was a recent change (though made over a hundred years ago) and that it was the result of the rationalistic teaching which held that the preached Word is above the Sacramental Word.

From the apple and plum country in which my great-aunt lives I continued on to Oslo. The royal palace stands in the heart of town, atop Slottsbakken, a hill which is landscaped into a public park. As King Olav's red standard flutters in the seabreeze, his royal guards in green and black uniforms keep watch. A giant statue of the last Swedish King of Norway, Karl Johan, has been erected on the gravelled palacial yard. Late one night, my cousin and I stood beneath this statue, entranced by the splendid view of Oslo. Flickering neon lights traced Karl Johan's Street past the University, past the fountains and parks of the Storting (parliament) and across the city.

Far out on the edge of town stands Akershus, the ancient fortress-castle. Beneath its chapel lie the caskets of King Haakon and Queen Maud in a crypt open to the public. Upstairs there are galleries lined with painting of the Kings of the Danish-Norwegian Union.

Across town there is the Folk Museum. The two hundred year old log house in which my grandmother was born is located there. An attendant in the traditional Halling dress sympathetically waited on us when she learned of the house's significance for us. Grooves in the floor had told the time as the shadows of the window progressed through the day. There is also a nine hundred year old stavkirke on the museum grounds.

THE STAVE CHURCH of the City of Lam is considered the oldest church in Norway. It was built in the 11th century.

Those days were a living "Song of Norway" —a Lutheran choral, for Norway is another stronghold of Lutheranism. Sunday morning we joined in the celebration of "Hoimesse" in the Oslo Cathedral. The painted ceiling beautifully depicts the history of mankind. How I love the liturgy of the Church of Norway! There at the altar, as we waited to receive the gracious Saviour's Body and Blood, I prayed that I might soon return to Norway.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

LINDA MARIE HUNEKE, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for October, is an active member of Amity Lutheran Church, Lena, Illinois. Last spring, she won an unusual honor: at commencement exercises of the Lena-Winslow High School, she was awarded all three of the honor awards given annually to graduating seniors of the school.

As salutatorian of her class, Linda won the senior class honor award in scholarship. As the recipient of the Daughters of the American Revolution Award, selected by her classmates and faculty members, she was winner of the senior class honor award in citizenship. As the girl compiling the highest total number of points for all school activities, she was presented with the senior class honor award. In addition, she played in an organ-piano duet at the exercises.

Her church life has played an important part in Linda's activities. She served as president of her local league one year and president of the Northern District of the Luther League of Illinois for two terms.

Linda also served as chairman for the 1959 Illinois Luther League convention.

Linda was awarded the Lutheran Brotherhood Youth Leadership Scholarship this year, but she had to return it, since she enrolled in a non-Lutheran school—Manchester College, North Manchester, Indiana.

She was nominated by her pastor, the Rev. Armin G. Weng.

U. S. CHURCH MEMBERSHIP AT ALL-TIME HIGH

A RECORD-BREAKING INCREASE of 5,368,063 in 1958 has brought church membership in the United States to an all-time high of 109,557,741.

This represents 63 per cent of the country's estimated population — the highest ratio of church membership to the number of people in American history.

The 1958 gain was a rise of five per cent as compared to the population increase of 1.7 per cent.

Of the 1958 grand total of church members, 61,504,669 are Protestants, 39,509,508 Roman Catholics, 5,500,000 Jews, and 2,545,318 Eastern Orthodox.

The total number of Protestants represents 35.5 per cent of this country's population and that of the Catholics 22.8 per cent.

In major Protestant "family" groups, Baptists lead with 20,493,381 among 27 different church bodies. Next are Methodists with 12,213,097 in 21 bodies, Lutherans with 8,090,043 in 18 bodies, and Presbyterians with 4,126,583 in 10 bodies.

The statistics are from the 1960 Yearbook of American Churches, published by the National Council of Churches.

EISENHOWER SETS OCT. 7 FOR DAY OF PRAYER

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has proclaimed Oct. 7 as a National Day of Prayer, calling on Americans to "give thanks for the bounty of Providence which has made possible the growth and promise of our land."

He also urged his countrymen to "remember that our God is the God of all men, that only as all men are free can liberty be secure for any, and that only as all prosper can any be content in their good fortune."

The President requested "vigorous concern for those who now endure suffering of body, mind or spirit," and efforts "to relieve their distress and to assist them in their way toward health, well-being and enlightenment."

Americans were reminded in a preamble to the document that "this continent was chosen by men and women of profound religious conviction, seeking a free land where they and their children might worship God and follow His commandments as they understood them."

LUTHERANS TOP 8 MILLION MEMBERS IN AMERICA

MEMBERSHIP IN THE LUTHERAN churches of North America reached 8,090,043 in 1958, passing the eight-million mark for the first time, according to the National Lutheran Council's annual statistical summary.

The new total represents a gain of 223,723 members, or 2.84 per cent, over 1957, but somewhat less than the average increase of about 3.3 per cent over the past decade.

Of the total Lutherans, 7,839,894 are in the U. S., and 250,149 in Canada. The latter are affiliated with parent bodies in this country.

Lutherans had an average increase last year of 12.6 new members for each of the 17,714 local congregations. They are the third largest Protestant grouping in the U. S., exceeded only by the Baptists and Methodists.

The NLC's eight participating denominations have 5,362,008 members, the Lutheran Synodical Conference 2,703,275, and four independent bodies, 24,760.

For the 14th consecutive year, the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod reported the highest numerical increase. Last year it gained 86,974 baptized members for a total of 2,315,107.

The United Lutheran Church in America, largest Lutheran group in this country, reported an increase of 44,181 for a total of 2,439,792. The third-place Evangelical Lutheran Church gained 36,312 members and now has 1,119,121.

Second Glance

In the past decade Lutheran missionaries have opened 17 new fields, including eight in Latin America, six in Asia and three in Africa. The number of Lutherans serving as "overseas staff" in all mission fields has risen from about 2,500 in 1950 to about 3,800 in 1958.

An Air Force pilot, a naval yeoman, and a civilian engineer have organized the first unit in Hawaii of the United Lutheran Church Men, official men's auxiliary of the United Lutheran Church in America. The initial group was composed of 24 men, mostly officers and enlisted men of the Armed Forces and U. S. civil service employees. The United Lutheran Church Men have 1,200 units with 20,000 members throughout the U. S. and Canada.

The Son of God, a film depicting Christ's entire life, will be the most expensive motion picture ever made. According to Parliament Pictures Corp., the production of the four-hour film will cost $30 million. There will be a cast of 50,000 with 150 principal parts.

Lutheran World Relief received 1,252,000 pounds of used clothing in its Spring Clothing Appeal for 1959. The clothes, donated by Lutherans throughout the country, were shipped to Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, Syria, Jordan, Madagascar, Hong Kong, Taiwan and Korea.

Neue Zeit, an East German Communist newspaper, called efforts of Christian Churches to help the world's needy "just another attempt to secure the influence in the missionary areas and gain back the ground already lost." Especially it denounced the "Bread for the World" appeal which will be conducted during the coming Advent season by the Evangelical Churches of Germany.

This is the Life, weekly Lutheran television series, was cited by the National Safety Council for "exceptional service to safety." The citation stressed that "in driving safety particularly we can all profit by applying the Golden Rule."

The Lutheran Service Commission purchased a building in San Diego, Cal., for use as a servicemen's center. While the commission owns several such buildings overseas, this is the first time a property has been purchased in the United States for a Lutheran Service Center. Total cost of the building and renovation is estimated at about $90,000. The new Service Center, when finished, will be located at 1144 First Ave., San Diego. Forty-two homes-away-from-home are currently operated throughout the world by the Lutheran Service Commission.

Invitation for Tomorrow, the National Lutheran Council's series of one-minute television spots, is now being carried by 237 TV stations across the United States. Broadcast on Saturdays, the series invites viewers to attend church the next day.

LARGE LUTHERAN ATTENDANCE AT ARMY CHAPLAIN SCHOOL

THIRTY-FIVE LUTHERAN CLERGYMEN and seminarians attended the U. S. Army Chaplain School, Ft. Slocum, N. Y., last summer. This is believed to be the largest Lutheran group ever to attend refresher and indoctrination sessions of the school at one time.

The Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, reminded the group that there are many men and women in the Armed Forces who have never been inside a church.

"Because you are surrounded by these who need the redeeming grace the church offers," he declared, "you have a home mission opportunity of no mean proportion."

The Lutheran executive, who supervises the activities of some 800 active duty and reserve chaplains for the eight participating Lutheran bodies of the NLC, emphasized the importance of friendly relationships between the chaplain and the men he serves.

"No one is going to be avoided as much as a chaplain who comes to the hospital room or into the guardhouse as a 'Gloomy Gus'," he warned.

Instead, the chaplain must radiate joy and optimism on calls, in the pulpit, during lectures, while teaching, and in counseling, he said.

Lutheran churches represented in the large chaplain group at the school were the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, 15 ministers and seminarians; Evangelical Lutheran Church, 12; American Lutheran Church, four; and two each from the Augustana Lutheran Church and the United Lutheran Church in America.

Two Lutherans are members of the Army Chaplain School faculty. They are Colonel David E. Kinsler and Captain Marvin S. Eyler. Both are members of the ULCA.

NEW HEAD APPOINTED FOR PHILIPPINE CENTER

A LUTHERAN MINISTER who has served the Chinatown community in New York City for the past 23 years has been appointed to head up the Lutheran Service Center in the Philippines.

The Rev. Louis T. Buchheimer took over his duties as service pastor at the Center in Olongapo, P. I., in early September. He replaced the Rev. Robert P. Canis, who is returning to the United States.

Mr. Buchheimer, a pastor of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, said that he "started from scratch" in establishing True Light Lutheran Church in Manhattan's Chinatown. True Light now has some 1,000 families.

Mrs. Buchheimer will serve as secretary-hostess of the Olongapo Center which is one mile from the main gate of the Subic Bay Naval Base.

Even when you feel lonesome:

WITH CHRIST YOU ARE A MAJORITY

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

EVERYONE ON ACTIVE DUTY, especially overseas, knows that "loneliness" is one of the abnormal conditions a person faces. Herein lies the root of many a problem which officers and men alike have to put up with. It seems that there is an innate desire within most of us to conform; to think the way others think; to want what others want; to do what others do.

This is thrust upon us very soon after entering the Armed Forces. We are thrown into what is really an abnormal situation. The refinements of home and family are missing. What prevails all too often is that the vulgar individuals broadcast their wares with loud fanfare and soon try to create the impression this is the way a fellow has to act in the service if he is to get along.

So, in many instances, statements are punctuated by "damn" and "hell." Women are referred to as so much merchandise. Alcohol becomes a means to having a "good time."

Every single Christian in the service has to face this or similar or modified situations. We are not "of the world." But we have to live "in the world."

You've got to face this every day. You are not only working with men of low standards but you are also living with them. They are in your dining room (mess hall or wardroom). They are in your bedroom (compartment or tent). You can't run away from it. You can't "wish" the situation away. A Christian needs to be a man among men. But he also needs to be a "Christian" man among ungodly men!

When Christ was on earth he prayed His High-priestly prayer. He still continues to pray for us at the right hand of the throne of God. (Hebrews 7:23-25) His prayer is just as apropos today in 1959 as it was 2,000 years ago. He prays,

"I have given them Thy word; and the world has hated them because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world. I do not pray that Thou shouldst take them out of the world, but that Thou shouldst keep them from the evil one. They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world. Sanctify them in the truth; Thy word is truth. As Thou didst send me into the world, so I have sent them into the world. And for their sake I consecrate myself, that they also may be consecrated in truth." (John 17:14-19)

To live as a Christian can be extremely difficult both for officer and enlisted man alike. Pressures come from without and from within to compromise and lower the Christian standards which need to be held sky high. Every ship flies the colors of the nation under whose command she sails. So also with the Christian. We just can't afford to hide our light under a "bucket." We need to let our light so shine before men, that they may see our good works and give glory to our Father who is in heaven. (Matthew 5:14-16)

This, of course, places a responsibility upon the Christian to do his work well, to pitch in where needed, to go the second mile, and at all times to exemplify Christ no matter with whom he associates.

There may be times when the Christian feels he is standing alone. He may have to face ridicule and scorn. Paul was well acquainted with this situation. He said,

"Men curse us, but we return a blessing; they make our lives miserable but we take it patiently. They ruin our reputations but we go on trying to win them for God. We are the world's rubbish, the scum of the earth, yes, up to this very day." (I CORINTHIANS *4:12, 13-*PHILLIPS' translation)

We just have to get it out of our heads that we have to conform and be like the world. Even if we have to stand "alone," humanly speaking, because of our Christian convictions, we must persist in following Paul's advice to the Romans when he says,

"With eyes wide open to the mercies of God, I beg you, my brothers, as an act of intelligent worship, to give Him your bodies, as a living sacrifice, consecrated to Him and acceptable by Him. Don't let the world around you squeeze you into its own mould, but let God re-mould your minds from within, so that you may prove in practice that the Plan of God for you is good, meets all His demands and moves towards the goal of true maturity." (ROMANS 12:1, 2) (PHILLIPS)

"It's no fun to be alone," you say. "It's not easy to be in the minority."

Listen, friend, if you're a Christian, then you're not alone. You are not in the minority. With Christ you are a majority!

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF GERMAN PROTESTANTS gathered in Munich from all parts of West Germany for the ninth German Evangelical Church Day Congress. It had been hoped that 30,000 Soviet Zone Protestants also would attend the meeting, but only 1,000 were granted travel permits. During the five-day congress, dedicated to the theme "Ye Shall Be My People," the delegates explored church, political, family, community, vocational and social problems in the light of the Evangelical faith.

Sharing Your Experience

LEAVE IN ISRAEL

By Richard Kenneth Baker, CT2, USN

BEER-SHEBA, SODOM AND THE DEAD SEA; Nazareth, Galilee, Cana and Capernaum; the River Jordan and Jerusalem; all the famous towns and sites of the Holy Land. At last our long awaited vacation was beginning. All the places my wife and I had studied about in Sunday School would soon become more than just places on a map—they would be real!

We made Tel Aviv our home for the short time we would be there and took the different trips out into the country. Our first visit was to the South.

In Beer-sheba we visited the Bedouin Market. The market place, where for years, the different Bedouin tribes would bring into town, on caravan, all the wares they had to sell. They had many, as we saw, including camels, sheep and goats.

On to the lowest spot on earth (1,230 feet below sea level)—Sodom and the Dead Sea. The water of the Dead Sea is very slippery and hot. When you touch it and try to dry off your hand it is still sort of wet. A few miles out of Sodom, along the route Lot and his people took, is a pillar on the top of a small hill which looks like the hips and skirt of a woman. Today this pillar is known as Lot's Wife.

Mt. Carmel, Haifa and north to Nazareth. Nazareth is now a typical Arab village. We only had a short time here before continuing to Galilee but we did visit the site of Joseph's carpenter shop, the house where Joseph and Mary lived after they came back to Nazareth from Bethlehem where Jesus was born, the actual well where Mary had to draw water, and the site of the synagogue where Jesus prayed as a boy. On all these sites, except Mary's Well, are built churches. They are being cared for and preserved now by only a few monks who live there.

A NATIVE-BORN ISRAELI leads a herd of cattle along the shores of the Sea of Galilee in true American cowboy fashion, creating an incongruous picture in the Holy Land. In the background is the Mount of Beatitude and the Church of the Multiplication of the Loaves and Fish. Israeli cowboys are learning to swing their lassos over stampeding cattle by attending a "cowboy" school set up by the U. S. Operation Mission in Israel and the Israeli Department of Agriculture. Richard Baker will be the recipient of the September $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

From Nazareth to Galilee we passed through Cana where Jesus turned the water into wine. We drove right by the foot of the mount where Jesus gave the Sermon on the Mount and fed the people with loaves and fishes.

Upon arriving at the Sea of Galilee my first impression was one of peacefulness. I think that the Sea of Galilee is the most beautiful and peaceful spot on earth.

At one of the restaurants, right on the seashore, I had a fish dinner of the fish called "St. Peter's Fish." The same kind of fish Peter and so many of Jesus' disciples fished for there.

During our visit to Jerusalem we made a pilgrimage to Mt. Zion and saw King David's Tomb. (David and the Coat of Many Colors.) In the section of Jerusalem that we were allowed to visit there weren't many religious sites as all of the Old City is in Jordan. We stood on top of a high building, right on the edge of No Man's Land, and looked over Jordan to see Bethlehem, Mt. of Olives, and the Garden of Gethsemane.

The last two days of leave we spent swimming the Mediterranean and shopping in Tel Aviv in the evenings. Too soon the ten day leave had drawn to a close.

GIRLS OF THE MONTH

Yes, this time we have two Lutheran girls of the month. We can't separate them, they are twins.

Darlene (above) and Dianne (bottom of next column) Nelson are members of St. John's Lutheran Church in Marion, Indiana. Both graduated from Marion High School last June.

As the pictures show, they are not identical twins. However, both are equally excellent students and good singers, according to their pastor, the Rev. Merlin H. Knauff.

Singing together as a duo, alto and soprano, they have been all over town and beyond. Both girls were members of the National Honor Society, Girl's Glee Club, Advanced Chorus, Science Club, Booster Club, Senior Committee, Y-Teens and the school's musicals (South Pacific, Oklahoma, etc.)

Dianne this year served as floor director for the church Senior Choir for over five years, singing with their father; and members of the Luther League since their confirmation. Both are planning for teaching careers, hoping to attend Western Michigan University.

In addition, Darlene won the General Mills' Indiana State Homemaker of Tomorrow title (a $5,000 scholarship), has been president of St. John's Luther League the past two years, and serves as choral union promoter of this Luther League Federation.

Dianne, this year served as floor director for the Marion Easter Pageant, a well known dramatic production involving over two-thousand actors. She has served two terms as secretary of St. John's Luther League, and has been choral union promoter of the Northeastern Luther League Federation of Indiana.

Finally, both girls are witty and cheerful and quite popular, said Pastor Knauff.

YOUR CHURCH HELPS THE REFUGEES

THE NATIONS are currently observing the World Refugee Year, which is designated to focus attention on the tragic plight of homeless people.

In the United States, President Eisenhower has asked for public support, and a number of bills have been introduced in Congress calling for increased U. S. participation in grants for aid to refugees and immigration.

There are no exact statistics on how many refugees exist throughout the world, but there are many millions still in need of assistance.

Some of the largest areas of need include Hong Kong with its more than a million refugees from Chinese communism, the Middle East with nearly one million Arab refugees, and Europe where some 275,000 refugees still remain unsettled. In India several million people lack the basic necessities of life.

The Lutheran churches of North America have been very active during past years in helping refugees resettle in various countries, as well as in aiding them in overseas camps.

A major part of the current Lutheran World Action goal of $3,900,000 will be used for financing various projects in support of refugees. Nearly $1,000,000 of Lutheran World Action funds will be channeled through the Lutheran World Federation for projects in the Middle East, Hong Kong, Europe and other areas.

Lutheran World Relief, the material aid agency of the National Lutheran Council, now also supported by the Missouri Synod, recently passed the $100,000,000 mark in the value of food, clothing and medicines shipped overseas. Most of these relief goods, distributed in 29 countries, have been used to support refugees.

Now the Lutheran World Federation has

SPACE EXPLORATIONS NO THREAT TO CHRISTIANITY

EXPLORATIONS OF SCIENCE into outer space offer no threat to the survival of Christianity and its teachings, it was declared by the Augustana Lutheran Church.

A resolution adopted unanimously by delegates to the denomination's 100th annual synod emphasized that "God is infinitely greater than the universe He has created" and that Christians "gratefully welcome every new opportunity to share in His inexhaustible wisdom."

"The Bible is replete with affirmations of the infinite nature of God," the resolution pointed out. It declared that "the opening sentence of the oldest creed of Christendom (the Apostles' Creed) still stands." This reads: "I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth." The resolution also cited a number of Scripture passages to support its position that space exploration does not impede Christianity.

The synod asserted that the current space explorations, particularly those related to satellites placed in orbit around the earth, "promise a vast accreation of new knowledge which may greatly affect life on this planet."

Second Glance

Member Churches of the Lutheran World Federation have exceeded expectations in their moves to provide financial support for the proposed LWF radio station in Africa. The required $400,000 for building the station and the $70,000 a year for operation seem assured, according to LWF officials.

Lutheran World Relief is now also shipping food for Tibetan refugees in India. The first shipment: 79,920 pounds of winter wheat was shipped from New York for distribution among some 13,000 Tibetan refugees.

Christians who tolerate segregation, poor housing and other social evils in their community are afraid "to stick out their necks," some 3,000 youths were told at the 67th annual convention of the International Walther League, youth organization of the Missouri Synod. The Rev. Richard Z Meyer of San Diego, Cal., also charged that Christians are responsible for many sins of greed and lust today. Spiritually and morally, he said, man is about where he was when the prophet Amos denounced Jerusalem for these sins in 700-800 B.C.

Mr. Solomon Nyka Eliufoo, an African Lutheran who studied for two years at Bethany College in Lindsborg, Kan., has been appointed Tanganyika's first unofficial Minister of Health.

Large numbers of Polish atheists are being sent to the Soviet Union for training prior to launching all-out campaigns against religion in their homeland, according to Polish emigre circles in London. The informants linked the move to the Soviet National Congress of Atheists which wound up sessions in Moscow after mapping plans for intensified atheistic propaganda in Russia and other Communist-controlled countries.

The problems of faith healing will be studied during the next two years by both the United Lutheran Church and the Augustana Lutheran Church. Special subcommittees were appointed by the ULCA to investigate such specific aspects as cures reported from Lourdes, France; faith healing in the United States; and definition of illness from a Christian medical point of view.

Lutheran churches in Latin America have gained more than 100,000 members during the past two years, according to the newest statistics available. Combined baptized Lutheran membership in the southern continent now stands at 856,000.

A United States Army engineer unit stationed in Wuerzburg, Germany, has been cited by German Evangelical Church authorities for its assistance in building a playground for a Protestant children's home at Kitzingen. The unit volunteered manpower and equipment for leveling the playground site, which saved the church at least $5,000.

ARAB REFUGEE CHILDREN in the Holy Land are receiving brand new clothes provided by Lutheran World Relief's "Dorcas" clothing project. This special project named for the Christian woman in Joppa (Acts 9:39) who made coats and garments for the poor was inaugurated by LWR last fall. LWR provides pre-cut cloth and instruction for sewing children's dresses in "fashions" that appeal to Arab refugees. The response to this program has been so good that congregations in America already have requested nearly 3,500 sewing kits each with enough material for 12 girls' dresses and 12 outfits for boys. Some 2,500 units have been completed and sent to the Holy Land for distribution.

announced a special $1,000,000 program for the World Refugee Year. Under this program it wants to develop additional services in four major areas of the world: Western Europe, the Near East, Hong Kong and India.

In Europe, the LWF wants to spend $150,000 to help Baltic, Polish, Hungarian and other refugees still living in camps.

In the Holy Land, an investment of up to $250,000 has been foreseen to further vocational training and self-help projects among the Arab refugees. A similar amount for the same purposes is proposed for help in Hong Kong.

In India, the LWF wants to spend $200,000 for material relief, vocational training and self-help projects among some 4,000,000 displaced Hindus who have fled from Pakistan since that Moslem state was formed.

The fulfillment of these projects will be possible only if additional grants and contributions will be forthcoming from the 61 member Churches of the Federation. In the United States leaders of Lutheran World Action have already expressed hope that the churches will exceed the Lutheran World Action goals to make additional services to refugees possible.

The 23rd Psalm:

GOD AND MAN

By Chaplain I. Torkelson

WHEN ABRAHAM LINCOLN, at Gettysburg, delivered a speech consisting of about two hundred words to Edward Everett's two-hour oration, he did not realize that in these few sentences he was leaving to the world an unforgettable code for freedom for all men.

We of today listen to words through radio, television; words upon words, but soon they are forgotten. But there are words like those of Lincoln which will remain and linger never to be forgotten by man. They are like words carved artistically into marble where they will remain forever.

Yet they were the words of a man. The words of God in the Twenty-third Psalm are more outstanding and even more lasting.

As we read this psalm the most colorful pictures are visualized. Outstanding of them all is the figure of the shepherd, watching over his sheep day and night, in storms and rain as well as in days of sunshine.

Here are the green pastures with tender green grasses, plenty for each and for all. Here are also the clear still waters, to quench our thirst, a living fountain, it springs up fresh and cool.

"He maketh me to lie down. In Him we find peace and rest.

"He leadeth me. He directs me through life.

"He restoreth my soul. He gives me courage according to each of my days.

"He is with me. No matter where I go, He guides me on.

"He maketh my cup to run over. He blesses my life far beyond what I deserve.

"I shall not want. Just as the shepherd cares for the physical needs of his sheep so God will do, caring for all our needs.

"I will fear no evil. There will be times when storms will break, yet let us always remember this Shepherd walking with us.

"I am comforted. I know there will come a time when I must walk in the valley of the shadow of death. In this life we often despair, there will be discouragement, sorrow, yea suffering."

Then it is comforting to remember that He the Shepherd is by our side telling us we shall be with Him forever in the house of the Lord.

EAST GERMAN REDS WOULD ALTER ST. PAUL'S THEOLOGY

COMMUNIST AUTHORITIES in East Germany have been demanding that papers on the theology of St. Paul submitted by candidates for the Lutheran ministry be changed to make the Apostle's teaching "harmonize" with current Soviet Zone policies.

This was disclosed here at a conference of the East German Lutheran bishops.

Speakers at the conference cited this as one of the latest examples of the East German regime's "increasing and systematic interference with Church literature."

They said that censorship and other obstructive measures have been directed at bringing religious literature in line with government policy. One of the Communists' particular targets, it was noted, were youth mission publications.

Sharing Your Experience

LUTHERANS ARE THE SAME ALL OVER

By Pfc. David C. Johnson

I WAS INVOLVED IN A CAR ACCIDENT when on New Year's leave, and have been hospitalized since.

My home is in South St. Paul, Minnesota, and I always attended an Augustana church. While stationed down here at Ft. McClellan, Alabama, I started to go to Trinity Lutheran Church in Anniston, which is a ULCA church. I also sang in the choir there before the accident.

Now, while I have been in the hospital, Pastor Ernest T. Burns from Trinity has visited me numerous times. I've also received cards from people in this church. One Sunday they even brought me the flowers from the altar.

When my mother first flew here from Minnesota, it was again the pastor who picked her up at the airport and even made reservations for her at a very nice motel run by one of the church members.

I introduced my mother to our choir director who is also a sergeant here at the fort, and he made my mother feel at home even more. He had my mother over at his own house for dinner and gave her several rides to the hospital while she was here.

Also, the hospital chaplain, who is a minister of the American Lutheran Church, has been here to see me so many times that by now I feel he is more like a father-away-from-home than a chaplain.

As I said, my church belongs to the Augustana Synod, but I see now that it doesn't matter. Lutherans are the same all over.

Pfc. David C. Johnson will be the recipient of the September $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

MATERIALISM, NOT COMMUNISM, CHRISTIANITY'S GREATEST FOE

MATERIALISM, NOT COMMUNISM, is the "fundamental enemy" of Christianity, Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Frank A. Tobey, chief of Army chaplains, declared at the annual meeting of the American Baptist Convention.

"Whether we like it or not, war has become the preoccupation of our time," he said. "Communism, as we see it today, is materialism in its most active, violent and ruthless form."

"But were Communism suddenly to disappear and materialism remain strong, then materialism, this greatest enemy of Jesus Christ, would still be facing us and war would not cease to be the preoccupation of our time," the American Baptist minister said.

He condemned a "materialistic interpretation of man's destiny that banishes the very thought of God from education, business, social planning and politics."

U. S. MARINES lay aside weapons of war for Sunday worship in the small rough-hewn chapel at Camp Vieques, P.R. Though small and plain, it serves the same purpose as an attractive church or large cathedral. Traditional hymns, prayers, Bible readings and spiritual guidance by a Navy chaplain help strengthen the faith of these Leathernecks away from home. RNS Photo

If Communism triumphs, Chaplain Tobey warned, "then the principles, values and freedoms that the Christian Church embodies will vanish."

"Communist leaders cry today," he continued, " 'there is no God; there is no immortality; there is no sanctity of the Sabbath; there is no permanency in the home; marriage is not sacred; adultery is not a sin; Jesus was a blasphemer—He was worthy of death.' "

To meet the Red threat, he said "we must depend not only on nuclear weapons, awe-inspiring rockets and our own mental acumen, but upon the purposes and plans of Almighty God."

Lutheran

GIRL OF THE MONTH

GLENNYS KAREN OLEEN, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for August, is taking an active interest in Emanuel Lutheran Church, Bock, Minnesota, along with her school activities.

She has been an officer of the local Luther League and was one who attended the Augustana International Youth Conference in Chicago in 1957. She has also been serving during this past year as vice-president of the district Luther League.

Karen has given her time in teaching in the Sunday School and Vacation Bible School and serving as choir director of the church choir. She has given of her musical talent by serving as pianist at special programs and as a vocal soloist.

While a senior in the Milaca High School last fall, Karen was a candidate for Homecoming Queen. In school she has been a member of the school chorus and in the dramatic department.

Karen was nominated by her pastor, the Rev. Larry Brynell.

Red Germany Scene of New Lutheran Film

THE LUTHERAN CHURCHES that produced the movie "Martin Luther" have commissioned a motion picture on the current struggle of Christians under Communism in East Germany. It will be filmed in Europe this year.

Robert E. A. Lee, executive secretary of Lutheran Film Associates, reported that the same writer-producer team that developed the Luther film has been engaged for the new project. Allan E. Sloane, film and radio-TV writer, has prepared a screen play based on documented reports of the church-state conflict in Eastern Europe. Lothar Wolff, of Louis de Rochemont Associates, who was producer and co-author of "Martin Luther," is again collaborating with Mr. Sloane on the script and will produce the new film abroad through the de Rochemont organization. No final title selection has been made for the picture.

"We feel that our script interprets this vital subject for the screen with perception, skill, and accuracy," Mr. Lee said, asserting that "careful research has insured that virtually every incident can be substantiated from reliable personal sources or documents. We are confident that it will be effectively produced so that both the subject and its treatment on film will command public interest."

Reasons for Lutherans producing a film on this subject were given in a statement by LFA President, Dr. Paul C. Empie, executive director of the National Lutheran Council.

"The past twelve years have witnessed an intense struggle for the loyalties of the East German people during which evangelical Christianity there—largely Lutheran and reflecting the mixture of strength and weakness common to Christians everywhere — has reacted unevenly but by and large in heroic fashion," he said.

"The outcome is of tremendous significance for the Lutheran Church and indeed for all of Christendom. We believe that this is not generally known to Americans; that it should be told; that it should be related in such a way that its spiritual elements stand out above those merely political; and that, therefore, it should be told by an organization like Lutheran Film Associates."

American Lutherans Support 1,624 Missionaries Abroad

LUTHERAN CHURCHES IN NORTH AMERICA support 1,624 missionaries on 35 foreign fields, it was reported by Dr. Andrew S. Burgess, professor of missions at Luther Theological Seminary.

Dr. Burgess said the figures include the mission activities of 12 Lutheran church bodies and two church-related agencies. Of the total, he noted, 172 new missionaries went to the field during 1958 while 166 returned after furloughs. Total number of missionaries sent out was 338, headed for 31 countries.

Since 1956, Dr. Burgess pointed out, the United Lutheran Church in America has turned over $3,000,000 worth of mission property in India to the Andhra Evangelical Lutheran Church in India, granting the national church full control.

In addition, he said, the American Lutheran Church turned over more than $1,000,000 worth of mission property to the South Andhra Lutheran Church in India.

During the past year, he said, the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod opened new fields in El Salvador and Korea, and the Evangelical Lutheran Church began work in Brazil. He added that the largest number of Lutheran missionaries from this continent are sponsored by the Missouri Synod Church, which has 352 people in the field. The Evangelical Lutheran Church is next with 330, while ULCA supports 264, the ALC 248, and the Augustana 184.

JAMES PARKS, 17, served this summer in Africa as the first "junior missionary" from Westwood Lutheran Church, St. Louis Park, Minn. Before going to Tanganyika and the Zululand he discussed plans with his pastor, Victor Quello, who originated the idea. James is active in his church's youth group, motet choir, and Sunday School and is an Explorer Scout. RNS Photo

Lutheran World Relief passed the $100,000,000 mark in total value of shipments this summer. LWR goods, including food, clothing and medicines for refugees and other needy, have been sent to 26 countries. The total shipped in 13 years since 1946 when LWR was created exceeded 550,000,000 pounds.

The Joint Commission on Lutheran Unity preparing the four-way merger between the United Lutheran Church, the Augustana, the American Evangelical Lutheran Church and the Suomi Synod has agreed on a common "Confession of Faith" for a new 3,000,000-member Lutheran church body. Still sought is a name for the new Church, but the choice has narrowed down to only two possible names: the Lutheran Church—United Synods or the United Lutheran Church in America.

More than 120,000 patients were aided during the past year by seven Lutheran World Federation clinics, including one mobile unit, in Jordan. Nearly 73 per cent of those treated were Moslems.

St. Mary's Lutheran Cathedral in Riga, Latvia, built in the 16th century, has been taken over by the Soviet government, according to reliable reports received at Lutheran World Federation headquarters. The reports said the state made the church a "historical monument" in order to gain control of its mammoth organ—one of the largest in the world. The authorities were said to have argued that its music should be available to the "many" Riga lovers of organ concerts who would not conscientiously attend a church service or even enter a building still being used for religious purposes.

An International Luther League, comprising 11 local youth groups all within Great Britain, was launched by 60 delegates at a meeting in Theddingworth, England. Set up as the youth agency of the Lutheran Council of Great Britain, the ILL includes not only English boys and girls but also young people of German, Estonian, Latvian, Polish and other nationalities who are living in the country.

For the first time in the history of the United Lutheran Church in America—and perhaps in the history of American Lutheranism—an all-Negro congregation played host to a meeting of a Lutheran synodical convention. This occurred when the United Lutheran Synod of New York and New England held Holy Communion and ordination services in All Saints Lutheran Church in Boston, Mass., formerly an independent Negro congregation.

Dr. Malvin H. Lundeen, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, LaGrange, Ill., was elected president of the Augustana Lutheran Church at its 100th annual convention in Hartford, Conn. Chosen on the first ballot, he succeeded Dr. Oscar A. Benson of Minneapolis, Minn., who headed the denomination for eight years.

LUTHERAN GIRL WINS HONORS FOR BOTH BEAUTY AND BRAINS

WINNING TOP LAURELS with both her beauty and brains is the accomplishment of 20-year-old Suzanne Johnson, member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Chicago.

Miss Johnson was crowned "Miss Illinois" in statewide competition. Also, she was graduated summa cum laude from Augustana College at Rock Island, Ill.

The stately brown-eyed brunette will represent Illinois in the Miss America Pageant next September in Atlantic City. There she will stake her chances on the poise, charm and talent which won her the state prize.

She was also named Miss Talent in the state contest. She sang the ballad, "Hello, Young Lovers" from "The King and I." A $150 scholarship went with that honor.

The new Miss Illinois received a $1,000 scholarship from a soft drink firm; a $250 wardrobe from the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce; 40 modeling lessons; five dresses and a modeling contract; an 8-place sterling setting; an 8-place china setting and other prizes.

Some tangible attributes responsible for the selection of Illinois' new queen are a flashing smile, lovely contralto voice and regal bearing.

The intangibles, more difficult to pin-point, are maturity beyond her years, radiance, poise, charm and intelligence..

Suzanne has been active in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Chicago, where she was confirmed. She has been a member of the junior choir, soloist for the youth choir and is now soloist there. She also served as secretary of Luther League and was parish secretary for two summers.

At Augustana she distinguished herself scholastically through her entire four years. She first came to college after winning a High School Music Day scholarship for her freshman year. She won Augustana Prize and Theodore Presser Music scholarships for her sophomore year and a full tuition Augustana Prize scholarship for her junior year. This past year she had a studio scholarship in voice and a half-tuition Augustana Prize scholarship. She defrayed part of her college expenses by working in the girls' dining hall.

Suzanne will reign as Miss Illinois, and possibly Miss America, during Augustana College's Centennial year, which begins in September.

While a college student, she met her fiance, Dick Peterson, also of Chicago. A 1958 graduate of Augustana with a B.A. degree, he graduated from Denver University with a Bachelor of Science degree last June. Originally the couple had planned to be married August 23, but they have delayed their wedding as the Miss America Pageant begins Labor Day.

LUTHERAN CONTACT PASTORS AND SERVICE CENTERS

WE SUGGEST that you tear this sheet off to keep for reference and to make for easier reading of the other pages of the FORTRESS. A revised listing will appear with each issue.

National Lutheran Council—Bureau of Service to Military Personnel

Military personnel are invited to visit these agencies. Home church pastors are encouraged to send the names and addresses of their service people to these agencies and/or to chaplains on active duty. APO and FPO addresses, where no chaplain is listed, should be referred to the Lutheran Service Commission, 2633-16th St., N.W., Washington 9, D. C.

Will Told the Chaplain:

"I BELIEVE . . . HELP MY UNBELIEF!"

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

WILL JONES, looking across the desk into the eyes of his chaplain said, "But how can I believe?"

His dad had been one of those who had been brought up in an unchurched background and figured that it would be best not to give his children any religious education. So Will was really starting from scratch except for the past three Sundays when he had been attending church and had become very interested.

One of Will's problems was that it was difficult for him to understand that God would become a man, that Jesus Christ was divine, that His death on the cross was to pay the penalty of all men, and that it was possible for Jesus to perform miracles and even rise again from the dead.

There was a freshness about his inquiry which put the chaplain on his toes. There was also a sincerity and an earnestness which the chaplain felt augured well for the future. The chaplain knew that what this young man faced was not an easy problem. Philosophical reasonings, even though they might help to shed some light on the problem, would not bring about the answer.

There was a prayer in the chaplain's heart as he spoke to this fellow that God would perform a miracle. Faith taking place in the heart of a man is indeed a miracle.

Then the chaplain opened his New Testament to the third chapter of John and began to read with the sailor the account of another seeker who came to Christ at night, Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews, who had been impressed with the teachings of Jesus and the wonderful signs which He had performed.

Jesus quickly came to the point in question and said, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

Then followed a discussion on the part of Jesus and Nicodemus in regard to physical birth and spiritual birth. It is in this chapter that perhaps the best known verse in the Bible is to be found, verse sixteen, "For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life."

There are many things that we cannot understand in this life, even in the material things. We cannot completely understand or explain the ways of the sun, the planets, the atmosphere. Nor can we fully comprehend the miracle of physical birth, nor how marvelous our bodies are. Yet, we use all these things in wholesome and constructive ways.

There are those who do not come to Christ because they want to have all their questions answered first. They want God to solve all their problems for them before they are willing to accept the fact of the good news that "God so loved the world that he gave His only Son." It is sort of an idea that "God must meet me on my terms, otherwise I won't give Him a chance."

As you study the lives of the men in the New Testament you discover that they were men who were committed to a Person, namely, Jesus Christ. They believed in Him with all their hearts and they believed in that program for which He stood, the salvation of men's souls everywhere. They were determined by God's strength that they would give themselves to this task. It took a miracle to cause these men to forsake position and home to follow a lonely man of Galilee who went about doing good.

"Do you want to believe in this Jesus Christ?" the chaplain asked.

"Indeed I do," answered Will. "There is nothing that I would rather do . . . if only I could believe."

Moving over to the ninth chapter of the Gospel of Mark, the chaplain asked the young sailor to begin reading at the fourteenth verse, a running account of how a man had brought his son to Christ because of a dumb spirit which had seized the boy, dashing him down so that he would foam and grind his teeth and become rigid. As the father reviewed the case history of the boy he said, "But if you can do anything, have pity on us and help us."

Jesus said to him, "If you can! All things are possible to him who believes."

Immediately the father cried out and said, "I believe; help my unbelief."

That day the father's prayers were answered as the boy was healed. God rejects no one, if only we are willing to come to Him and confess our need—our lack of faith.

Jesus said, ". . . him who comes to me I will not cast out." (John 6:37)

Are you one of "little faith?" Come to Christ just as you are. He will meet you at your place of need.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

GENERAL LYMAN L. LEMNITZER, the new Army chief of staff, is shown with Pastor R. A. Beck before the altar at which he was confirmed in 1913, in St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church (ULCA) at Honesdale, Pa.

Behind Pastor Beck is a memorial window in memory of Ernest W. Lemnitzer, an uncle of the General, who at the time of his death in 1901 was president of the North East District of the old Pennsylvania State League of the Luther League of America. General Lemnitzer's father was president of St. John's church council for many years and was instrumental in erecting the present church building.

HELICOPTER RESCUES PASTORS AT SEA

A COAST GUARD helicopter lifted two Lutheran ministers from the Atlantic Ocean after they had spent more than an hour clinging to their capsized 14-foot fishing boat a mile south of Virginia Key, Florida.

After their rescue Pastor John Hauck of Baltimore, Md., commented that both had "prayed pretty hard."

Pastor Albert R. Schmidt of Miami Springs, Fla., said "I know the real meaning of prayer now."

Sharing Your Experience

THE WIND AND THE SIN

By 2nd Lt. Richard D. Ness

STUDENT NAVIGATORS, like myself, are quite impressed by this oft-repeated phrase of their various instructors, "If it weren't for the wind, we wouldn't need navigators."

Winds aloft blow the aircraft off its course, affect the ground speed, and thereby determine the time required to complete the mission. A strong shift in the wind, if not discovered by the navigator, can be disastrous; the aircraft will doubtless become lost.

It seems to me that sin might be aptly compared with these shifting winds that often plague the air navigator.

Without sin none of us would have any trouble reaching our spiritual destination. But we do have sin in the world, and, like the wind, it is an unpredictable, often violent, ever-present threat to the course we've plotted for our lives and our souls.

By studying navigational techniques and developing his skills through practice, the student navigator learns ways of determining the existing winds at his exact location and also how to compensate for them no matter how much they shift. How well it might be for everyone who is navigating his way through life to discover a sure way of compensating for sin.

Most of us, I am sure, are aware of the fact that we will be blown off course many times as we journey through life. Therefore, like the navigator, we need to be able to understand sin, to cope with it, and then to continue along on our desired course in spite of it. Only then will we arrive safely and surely at our final destination—the feet of Christ.

Lt. Ness asked that, in case his entry should be used, we send the $10 check to Tabor Lutheran Church, Salt Lake City, Utah. This is gladly done.—Ed.

Lt. Richard D. Ness will be the recipient of the August $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

CONFESSION OF SINS BEST SLEEPING AID

THE PRESIDENT of the American Lutheran Church has suggested a means whereby people troubled with insomnia could eliminate their dependence on tranquilizers.

Noting increasing use of sleeping aids by Americans, Dr. Henry F. Schuh of Columbus, Ohio, indicated that sleeplessness for many may be due to a spiritual problem.

The best way to get a good night's rest, he advised, is to confess one's sins to God in prayer and to accept His forgiveness. Then, he added, "you can roll over and go right to sleep."

GIRL OF THE MONTH

NOLA LaVOIRE, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for July, is a member of Ascension Evangelical Lutheran Church in Baldwin Park, California. She graduated from West Covina High School this summer.

She has been active in Luther League for the past four years and has served as Missions Secretary of the Southern Conference of the Pacific Southwest Synod Luther League. She also serves as a member of the Deputation Team Program for the synod.

Her pleasing personality, wit and charm made her a popular delegate at the Luther League Convention at Kansas University a year ago. She also sings in the church choir as do her mother and her father.

Active in sports, she has been president of the Girls Athletic Association at West Covina High School for the past two years. This year she is copy editor of the school's annual yearbook.

It was the Rev. Jerry Pedersen, her pastor, who nominated Nola.

LUTHERAN CHOSEN FOR 1st EFFORT BY U. S. TO SEND HUMAN INTO OUTER SPACE

By Charles De Vries

NLC News Bureau Staff Writer

ONE OF THE SEVEN MEN chosen for America's first attempt to send a human being into outer space is a member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church.

He is Captain Donald K. Slayton of Sparta, Wis., an Air Force test pilot for the past four years, who looks at space travel as "a natural expansion of flight" and considers his selection for the project as "an excellent opportunity to be in on something new."

Captain Slayton and the other astronaut volunteers arrived at Langley Air Force Base, Va., in mid-April to begin an intensive period of training which, according to officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will culminate with manned space flights in two years.

Sometime in 1961, Mercury Astronaut No. 1 will be blasted aloft by an Atlas ICBM in an attempt to orbit the earth 125 miles high at 18,000 mph. If all goes well, the spaceman finally selected for the pioneering venture will circle the globe two or three times before hurtling back to a landing in the Atlantic Ocean.

Asked if he had ever thought about flying into space before the announcement was made of Project Mercury—the name NASA assigned to the development of space exploration techniques for the U. S.—Captain Slayton said that he had.

Would give left arm to be first

Some months ago, before he had heard of the project, he was asked by a writer whether he would like to be the first man into space. "I would give my left arm to be the first man in space," he replied.

Since entering the Air Force as an aviation cadet in 1942, the 35-year-old astronaut has been in service continuously for all but five years. During that time he received a degree in aeronautical engineering from the University of Minnesota and worked for the Boeing Aircraft Co.

71,135,068 LUTHERANS IN WORLD

LUTHERANS IN THE WORLD total 71,135,068, about one-third of Protestantism, it was reported by the Lutheran World Federation. Of this number, 49,901,198 belong to the 61 Churches (in 32 countries) which belong to the federation.

Lutheran church bodies and congregations outside the LWF have, in the aggregate, 5,638,793 members. Of these, 2,351,805 belong to the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, the largest Lutheran body not affiliated with the federation.

A total of 37,252,486 Lutherans—more than in the entire rest of the world combined—are found in Germany.

Six other countries report more than a million Lutherans each, the United States holding second place with 7,627,738 (based on 1957 statistics), and Sweden third with 7,000,000. Denmark is fourth with 4,304,000, Finland fifth with 4,234,244, and Norway sixth with 3,173,523.

More than 80 per cent of the world's Lutherans live in Europe, where the continental total is 59,416,587. North America (with the Caribbean islands) comes second with 8,022,940, while Asia and Africa follow with 1,453,828 and 1,178,968, respectively.

South America has 779,877 Lutherans, and Australia, New Zealand and New Guinea together have 282,901.

Second Glance

Beginning January 1960, the National Lutheran Council's bi-monthly periodical THE NATIONAL LUTHERAN will be published monthly except July and August, to cover more adequately the many areas of work that the Lutheran Churches do together and to "build a stronger bridge between the new Lutheran church bodies emerging from current merger negotiations."

The National Lutheran Educational Conference awarded 35 scholarships totaling $43,550 for 1959-60. Known as the Martin Luther Fellowships, the scholarships are given to assist individuals in graduate studies toward higher degrees with the expressed intention of joining the teaching faculty of a Lutheran school. This year's scholarships were made possible by grants of $20,250 from the Lutheran Brotherhood life insurance society and $20,000 from the Lilly Endowment, Inc.

At least 80 of the 305 Lutheran churches in Metropolitan New York are interracial in membership, according to a study made by the Lutheran Welfare Council of New York. The inquiry which drew replies from 167 congregations, also revealed that 50 other churches are ready to welcome all comers, while 37 gave no indication of their attitude of the racial question.

A man confined to a wheel chair for nearly 20 years was ordained by the Evangelical Lutheran Church. He is Allen V. Lee of Hayfield, Minnesota. Stricken with polio in 1938 while a senior at Luther Seminary, St. Paul, Mr. Lee has for the past 14 years been an evangelist for the ELC, preaching from his wheel chair. He will continue in this staff position.

The three church bodies that will unite next year to form The American Lutheran Church reported a combined baptized membership of 2,191,327 in 1958, a total increase of 70,960 over the previous year.

A private screening of the motion picture "Martin Luther" was given as part of the memorial services for the famous architect Frank Lloyd Wright. At the request of the architect's widow the film was viewed by students, associates and close friends at Taliesin West, center of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation.

Twenty-one students from four Lutheran theological seminaries serve as resident Protestant chaplains at various boy scout camps this summer. They were placed in camps across the country by the National Lutheran Committee on Scouting.

Four Lutherans were elected to offices in the Military Chaplains Association. Chaplain (Col.) John Daniels and V. A. Chaplain E. J. Kroencke were elected vice-presidents-at-large. Four other Lutheran chaplains were elected area vice-presidents at the association's 34th annual meeting.

LATEST CHAPTER IN RED WAR ON RELIGION. With arms above their heads, Tibetans file out of the Potala palace in Llasa. They are surrendering to Chinese Communists who crushed the recent revolt in the country. The Potala palace was the residence of the Dalai Lama, currently in exile in India.

A Christian Home

THE VERY FOUNDATION OF A NATION

By Chaplain I. Torkelson

IT HAS BEEN SAID that a Christian home is the best line of defense for our nation. For where the home leads, our nation will follow. We can never have a healthy nation if our homes are ailing.

The old saying: "The hand which rocks the cradle rules the world," still holds true. Many of our great leaders came from very poor homes. Yet they were rich in God.

When we consider our nation as the melting pot of all nationalities with many differences and prejudices, even among church denominations, we wonder how the Gospel ever got to us. The fact is, the Gospel got to us only through the grace of God.

We must say that our homes have been doing a fairly decent job of transmitting the traditions of culture religiously and otherwise.

Our Christian homes of today are facing a tremendous challenge by secularism which is trying to invade our homes: shown in the present disrespect for Sunday, the wide use of liquor, the relations between the sexes and wrong attitudes toward our fellow men. Thus unless our Christian homes can overcome the deadly enemy of secularism, the ideals of a Christian home will grow steadily weaker and will finally join in with indifference and disbelief.

But the home in which Christ is the center becomes the very life of our nation.

Thanks be to God that we still do have thousands of such homes. In such homes we find love of God, love of family, love of our country and love of our fellow men.

This love is a deep and abiding order of life and costs nothing, for it is offered to all who are willing to follow Christ in word, thought and deed.

From the Guiding Light

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

PLANS APPROVED TO ASSIGN SERVICE PASTOR TO ALASKA

THE LUTHERAN SERVICE COMMISSION has authorized the assignment of a "field service pastor" to Alaska. He will minister to military personnel and their dependents in such areas of Alaska where a Lutheran ministry is not provided by the Armed Forces or by local Lutheran churches.

This is the first assignment of this nature to be made by the Commission. It was necessitated by the increase in small complements of men at missile sites and radar outposts in remote locations.

The Commission is a joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. NLC funds for the operation are provided by Lutheran World Action.

MAMIE EISENHOWER, America's First Lady, received a citation from the Military Chaplains Association of the U. S., commending her for "maintaining an exemplary Christian home." The award was presented at the group's 34th annual convention by Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the National Presbyterian Church, where the President and Mrs. Eisenhower are members. Dr. Elson, a colonel in the Army's chaplaincy reserve, is retiring president of the Military Chaplains Association. Hailing Mrs. Eisenhower as wife of a soldier-statesman and mother of a soldier, the citation praised her for being a "constant inspiration to all mothers and wives of military personnel."

When the seven pilots, chosen from an original list of 500, were asked if they were confident of coming back from outer space, Captain Slayton answered in the affirmative, as did the other six.

To the question of how important a role religion plays in providing a sustaining faith to take part in the new adventure, the Lutheran pilot had this comment:

"I don't feel that any particular extra faith is called for in this program over what we normally have."

He said he has been flying in the Air Force for seventeen years and while many people think flying is hazardous, he doesn't. In fact, he said he doesn't think that test flying is especially hazardous.

"To me," he added, "it is just a normal extension of flight."

Stating his primary motivation for accepting his role in Project Mercury he said, "I feel that this is the future of not only this country but the world. We have gone about as far as we can on this globe, and we will have to start looking around a bit."

A veteran pilot

A veteran pilot with 3,400 flying hours, of which 2,000 have been in jets, he holds the Air Medal with Cluster. His experience has included 56 combat missions in B-25's in Europe and seven combat missions over Japan.

Captain Slayton is married to the former Marjorie Lunney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lunney of Los Angeles, Calif. The Slaytons have one son, Kent, 2.

When asked about his wife's attitude toward his being an astronaut, Captain Slayton said his profession is pretty much his own business and the decisions he makes regarding it are generally acceptable to her.

"My wife isn't too concerned about what I do professionally," he said. "She is more concerned with whether I can find a baby sitter and whether there is a commissary nearby to buy groceries and that sort of thing. I could be running a filling station."

The most difficult test

The 160-pound, five feet, ten and one-half inches tall astronaut said the most difficult thing he had to do during the various tests to determine his desirability for Project Mercury, was to swallow a rubber tube into his stomach for gastric analysis.

Born in Sparta, Wis., on March 1, 1924, he was baptized that year and confirmed in 1938 in a small ELC church in the village of Leon, Wis. Since that time the Leon church has been discontinued.

Captain Slayton now has his membership in Trinity Lutheran Church (ELC) in Sparta.

Sharing Your Experience

COMMUNION IN THE FAR EAST

By John Nau

WHEN WE LEFT SAN FRANCISCO for our seven-month cruise in the Far East, I thought it would be a long seven months with no Lutheran church to attend.

How wrong I was. The first thing I noticed when I walked out the main gate at Yokosuka, Japan, was the Cross with Lutheran Service Center on it.

I went inside and there I met Pastor Wayne Daubenspeck and his wife. I talked with him and explained to him how much I was going to miss the Lutheran church while oveseas. He told me there was no need for that and then produced your wonderful paper, "A Mighty Fortress." I was surprised that there was a Service Center or a Lutheran pastor in almost every port we were going to visit.

Since then I have visited them all and shared the Holy Communion with them. I shall never forget this cruise, the wonderful service pastors and the help they gave me in touring their region.

Some of the experiences were Christmas in Okinawa with Pastor Harry Anderson, a beach party at Olongapo, Philippine Islands, with Pastor Robert Canis, a visit of all the Lutheran missions and missionary work in the Hong Kong area with Pastor Glenn Kranzow, and a Japanese dinner at the home of Pastor Daubenspeck.

Now that the cruise is almost over I look back and am thankful that Lutheranism is so helpful to us service personnel. Keep up the good work and I'm sure there will be a lot less lonely Lutheran service personnel.

John Nau will be the recipient of the July $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

15 STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN STUDY PROJECT ABROAD

FIFTEEN LUTHERAN STUDENTS have been chosen to take part in an international discussion of the life and mission of the Church as members of the 1959 European Study Project, sponsored by the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Student Association of America.

The young people, selected as representatives of American Lutheran students, come from 14 colleges and universities across the country and hold membership in six different Lutheran church bodies.

Their two-month trip will include visits to Norway, Sweden, Finland, and Germany. In each country a study conference will be held with discussion themes centered on contemporary problems facing the churches visited. Opportunity will be provided to meet and talk with church leaders as well as with other Lutheran students. They will return to the U. S. August 25.

LUTHERAN WOMAN HONORED AS HANDICAPPED AMERICAN OF THE YEAR. Vice President Richard M. Nixon presented the "Handicapped American of the Year" Award to Dr. Anne H. Carlsen, superintendent of the Crippled Children's School, Jamestown, N. D., an institution supported by the American Lutheran Church. Dr. Carlsen, who was born without hands or feet, holds a Ph.D. in education from the University of Minnesota and has been teaching crippled children since 1938. She received the award during the annual meeting of the President's Committee on the Employment of the Physically Handicapped. A native of Grantsburg, Wis., she has headed the Jamestown school, which serves nearly 100 children from 16 states, since 1952. RNS Photo

SHARON JOHNSON, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for June, is a member of Zion Lutheran Church, Oklee, Minnesota, and a senior in the local high school.

Since her father's death a few years ago she has helped her mother on the farm.

Sharon is president of the Luther League, director of the children's choir, assistant church organist, soloist, Sunday School teacher, member of the senior choir and Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation.

In 1957 she was a delegate to the International Luther League Convention in Missoula, Montana.

All of this, in addition to her fine scholastic record and extra-curricular activities at school, prompted her pastor, the Rev. Roland A. Saethre, to nominate Sharon as a Lutheran girl of the month.

NLC EXPANDS MINISTRY TO TRANSIENT MILITARY FAMILIES

THE DIVISION OF AMERICAN MISSIONS of the National Lutheran Council announced a new plan for the expansion of its ministry to transient military families.

Dr. H. Conrad Hoyer, executive secretary of the division, said that a study of 70 military installations in the U. S. showed that several were "apparently overwhelmed with vast military populations and need help immediately."

Demand for a special ministry to military families has increased in recent years as local churches do not have the staff or facilities to minister adequately to their needs, he said.

The study revealed, he added, a "real interest on the part of many pastors and a real desire for assistance to reach the military families more effectively."

Two trained parish workers have been assigned by the division to work at military installations. Miss Dorothy Olsson has been appointed to Newport, R. I., and Miss Mildred Christopherson to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. Both are sites of major naval bases.

LUTHERANS RESIST REDS IN GERMANY

EAST GERMAN LUTHERANS, including youths, are resisting Communist indoctrination to a remarkable degree, Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, chairman of the United Evangelical Lutheran Church in Germany, declared during a press-radio interview in Philadelphia, Pa.

"In East Germany, the young people have to carry out the appearance of accepting the Communist philosophy, but, the truth is, that inwardly they have a real spiritual vitality," said the former president of the Lutheran World Federation.

"As our people in both East and West Germany are seeing Communism for what it is, the result is a deep and healthy quickening of the spirit," the bishop continued. "The Church has finally come to the realization that its people in East Germany have to accept, at least in part, the political dictates of Communist leaders if they want to eat, work or receive an education.

"The Church understands this, and also that youths go to Communist meetings or drills on Sundays, instead of to church, out of compulsion and not by choice."

Bishop Lilje referred to West Germany's political and economic leaders as "men of Christian conviction, without any tinge of Naziism."

"Religious persecution under the Nazis, and the subsequent teamwork to rebuild demolished churches has produced a new sense of what the Church means to the person and his community," the visiting bishop said.

Commenting on current East-West tensions over his home country, the stocky, robust 60-year-old prelate, who came to the United States for an extended speaking tour, said:

"It is apparent the Germans have no say or choice. I hope that the country will re reunified within my own lifetime, but I'm less hopeful about it now than I've been for several years.

"Any yielding by the West to Russian demands would only weaken prospects for peace, he warned, adding that "sound political strategy is a better guarantee of peace than any military strength."

FOR THE FIRST TIME since it began donating Bibles to the Navy in 1817, the American Bible Society extended its distribution to the U.S. submarine fleet. At a ceremony aboard the U.S.S. Irex at New London, Conn., the sub's skipper, Lt. Commander Lloyd S. Smith, Jr., (left), receives a Bible and an Illustrated New Testament from Richard H. Ellingson, a secretary of the society and a Lutheran minister. Rear Admiral Frederick B. Warder, Commander of the Atlantic fleet sub force, looks on.

Second Glance

Representative James E. Van Zandt, a member of the American Lutheran Church from the twentieth Pennsylvania Congressional district, recently spent a week on non-paid active duty wearing the hat of a Naval Reserve Captain. He and two other Congressmen who are officers in the Naval Reserve, Senator Hugh D. Scott of Pennsylvania and Representative Albert Ullman of Oregon, were given an extensive service briefing of Air Force and Navy missile programs at Patrick Air Force Base, Florida, and toured bases in Cuba, Puerto Rico and Panama.

The United Lutheran Church in America needs at least 4,000 pastors to serve in its 32 synods. In 1959, 116 pastors are needed to establish new home missions, and ten more are necessary for foreign assignments. However, only 197 seniors will be graduated from the Church's seminaries this June. In addition to pastors, the ULCA currently needs 550 men and women to serve as parish workers, secretaries, musicians, teachers and directors of Christian education.

President Eisenhower has appointed a Lutheran, Dr. Carl W. Strom of Decorah, Iowa, as the United States Ambassador to Bolivia. A career diplomat, Dr. Strom has been in the Foreign Service since 1935.

The National Lutheran Council has called upon Congress to create provisions in the basic immigration law of the United States for a continuing admission of refugees. If this were not possible, said the Council's representative in Washington, "we would favor the enactment of special legislation authorizing the admission of 'hard core' refugees from European camps."

Hungary's leading Communist newspaper complained that "religious propaganda" is being conducted openly in the state schools "while atheistic enlightenment hardly exists." Nepszabadsag, organ of the Hungarian Socialist Workers (Communist) Party, said that although the Churches' influence has "decreased in the past years," children "still believe in God."

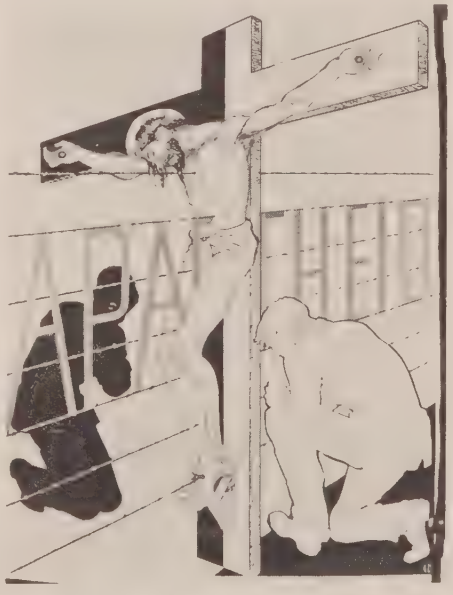
An electronics engineer, who after 20 years of experience in radio programming and engineering decided to become a pastor, has been appointed administrative director of the Lutheran World Federation's projected radio station in Africa. He is Allen G. Thompson, 41, who spent ten years with the Voice of America. The LWF will establish a 50,000-watt short wave transmitter for Africa and the Near East.

A gift of $7,000,000, believed to be the largest single charitable donation in the 112-year history of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, has been made by a Houston, Texas, couple, who wished to remain anonymous. The gift will provide funds for a 250-bed Lutheran hospital to be built on a five-acre site adjoining the new Texas Medical Center.

281,000 ATTEND LUTHERAN SERVICE CENTERS

AN INCREASE in attendance at Lutheran service centers throughout the world was recorded by the Lutheran Service Commission in 1958 despite military manpower cutbacks.

Total attendance figures compiled for the 1958 calendar year by the Commission show that 281,059 service personnel took part in the activities of thirty-two centers in the U. S. and at six locations overseas.



The associate secretaries of the Commission, Dr. Carl F. Yaeger and the Rev. Walter E. Kraemer, said that the total figure is better than 10 per cent of the total active duty manpower of the armed forces, which averaged around 2.6 million for the same period of time.

Attendance at Lutheran service centers has varied over the years which is evidence of the fluctuating size of the U. S. military forces and the continual shifting of units from one strategic locale to another.

The centers are opened where increased complements of military personnel indicate the need and likewise centers are closed where it appears that a lowering military population no longer necessitates the use of a full-scale operation.

In situations where a service center isn't warranted, the LSC is providing supervision and financial support to strategically located parishes so that service personnel in the area may have a Lutheran-sponsored program.

The Lutheran Service Commission is a joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

CHURCH ANTI-SEGREGATION SIGN CREATES UPROAR

This striking placard on the grounds of St. George's Anglican Cathedral at Capetown, So. Africa, created an uproar among those supporting South Africa's apartheid (racial segregation) policies. Leading the attack against the sign were Die Burger, a pro-government newspaper here, and the Dutch Reformed Synod in Capetown. Measuring three by two feet, the placard shows Christ on a cross which is half white and half black, with a Negro kneeling on one side and a white man on the other. The cross and the figure of Christ are transfixed by a barbed wire fence on which the word "apartheid" is written in large letters. RNS Photo

FIRST SPACEMEN STRESS RELIGIOUS FAITH

RELIGIOUS FAITH as well as faith in the technological achievements of science was expressed by the seven flyers who will be America's first spacemen.

All military test pilots, the seven were named by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to undergo training as the first astronauts.

One of the seven volunteers—three from the Navy, three from the Air Force and one from the Marines—will ride the first U. S. manned satellite into space.

The seven include — a Methodist, a Presbyterian, a Church of Christ, a Christian Scientist, two Episcopalians, and a Lutheran. He is Air Force Captain Donald Slayton of Sparta, Wis. According to Religious News Service, all have declared that they take their religion seriously.

LUTHERANS ASK HUMAN RIGHTS LAW FOR ALL

THERE IS A DEEPENING CONVICTION in Lutheran churches that Christian citizens should support the agencies of government in the enactment of legislation on race relations, a Lutheran official told a Congressional committee.

Dr. Robert E. Van Deusen, Washington secretary of the National Lutheran Council, said that "the human and civil rights of people of all races should be protected by law."

He told the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights, which is studying a number of bills on human rights, that there is "a growing spirit of self-criticism by which the practice of segregation in the churches is opposed as being contrary to Christian principles, and the practice of racial integration is strongly encouraged."

Don't be afraid to SPEAK UP FOR CHRIST!

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

TWO SAILORS were sitting on the fantail of the ship at the close of the day. It had been a rough one with drills of every kind taking place from dawn to dusk.

"You know, Jack, I've been doing a lot of thinking. All day long I've been hearing Christ's name blasphemed and taken in vain in just about every conceivable way. — Here we are Christians and yet openly we say less about Christ and use His name in a good way far, far less than do our shipmates who aren't Christians and out of their ignorance and sinful hearts simply drag Christ's name through the proverbial gutter."

Right then and there these two Christian sailors vowed that they would meet regularly every day for Bible study and prayer so that they might be built up in their faith.

One day the word was passed that a chaplain would be coming aboard for active duty. One of these two men stood before the chaplain no later than one hour after he had reported aboard and asked, "Are you interested in conducting Bible classes aboard ship? We now have a small group of men who have been meeting regularly and we've been praying that the chaplain coming aboard might be interested in helping us."

"Am I ever!" exclaimed the chaplain.

For the next fifteen months there followed a fascinating ministry of sharing and teaching the Word of God. Three times a week during the noon hour, when the ship was in port, and each evening, weather permitting, when the ship was at sea, a Bible class was held.

The group varied in size, ranging anywhere from four to thirty-four men, depending upon the work schedule of the men and which men were aboard for active duty at the time. Study guides were obtained from The Lutheran Bible Institute in Minneapolis.

It was a tremendous experience to see these men grow in their spiritual life over a period of weeks and months. After awhile they were able to discuss the various aspects of the Christian faith almost as handily as the daily big league baseball scores.

This was the Book of Acts all over again as these men, encouraged by their Christian fellowship and fortified by the Word of God, went forth to witness to their shipmates concerning the Saviour, Jesus Christ, who desires to be the Pilot of every man and woman in the Armed Forces.

The other day, as I was perusing leisurely through the Book of Acts, I read again with great fascination the exciting experiences of the Apostle Paul.

I came across a very interesting statement in the eighteenth chapter. The Apostle was having some tremendous experiences preaching and testifying that the Christ was Jesus. There was bitter opposition and he was threatened with his life. But then the Lord appeared to Paul in a vision and said, "Do not be afraid, but speak and do not be silent; for I am with you and no man shall attack you to harm you; for I have many people in this city. And he stayed a year and six months, teaching the Word of God among them" (vs. 10, 11).

You know, sometimes we think we are alone. Living in the rough environment of the world, we may be tempted to be scared to speak up for Christ. Here is where the Bible is invaluable. One of the reasons why God has made the Word of God available to us has been to encourage us in our Christian faith. The detailed circumstances may vary from place to place and from time to time but the Word of God is as applicable today as it ever was. This same Lord who spoke to Paul would encourage you and me today as well. Look at these words of Christ: "Do not be afraid . . . but speak . . . and do not be silent . . . for I am with you . . . I have many people . . ."

You recall that when Jesus had died on the cross there was a man named Joseph of Arimathea, a respected member of the council who was also looking for the kingdom of God, who asked Pilate if he could take the body of Jesus and lay it in a new tomb which had never been used. Each of the Gospel writers speak of him. John says that he was a disciple of Jesus, but secretly for fear of the Jews (John 19:38-42). Mark writes of him and says that he "took courage" and went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus (Mark 15:42-47). Let's take courage and not be afraid. Let's ask the Lord in prayer to give us the courage that we need "to speak and not be silent."

As we witness for him fearlessly yet humbly we will soon discover other Christians too who have been timid. We will then encourage each other as we meet together in Bible study and prayer. We need to identify ourselves. This we can do simply by witnessing in a humble yet open way why Jesus Christ came into the world and what he means to us personally.

Search the scriptures. Read the Book of Acts again and again.

Search out other Christians for fellowship, strength and mutual encouragement.

Search out the lost for Christ even as they did in Acts and aboard ship with astounding results.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

5 LUTHERAN CHURCHES SHARE CAPE CANAVERAL MINISTRY

FIVE LUTHERAN CHURCHES are cooperating to reach all segments of military and other personnel stationed in the Cape Canaveral area.

The joint ministry is aimed at some 20,000 Air Force, civil service and contractor personnel now working on missile projects, in an effort to relate them to the ongoing programs of the congregations.

The decision of the Canaveral congregations to work together on the project came after planning sessions were held with the Rev. William Marwede of Washington, D. C., eastern area director of the Lutheran Service Commission. The commission is a joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Mr. Marwede noted that the community itself has many aspects which provide a uniqueness not normally found in other areas of the nation. It resembles a military establishment in many respects, but is civilian in its social organization and business affairs.

The Air Force Missile Test Center with headquarters at Patrick AFB controls an extremely complex operation which includes in addition to Cape Canaveral some 12 subsidiary telemetry and camera sites in Florida plus 11 island stations of the Atlantic Missile Range.

The Lutheran congregations involved in the coordinated ministry include three of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and one each of the United Lutheran Church in America and the American Lutheran Church.

Sharing Your Experience

"WONDERFUL, WONDERFUL COPENHAGEN"

By A/2c Frans Edward Nelson

THE WINDOWS in the dining room were always open at breakfast time. The bright sun shone on the hedges and flower beds just outside and a persistent bee returned each day to settle on the jelly. It was very pleasant to sit there enjoying the Danish breakfasts (which included corn flakes). Erik, my Danish friend, always insisted on cereal after he had been to America.

Immediately after breakfast we would set out to tour Copenhagen—for me—the city of Lutheran Churches.

In the week that I stayed with them I grew to love this family; even though the Danish proved practically incomprehensible to me. One family picture showed an uncle to Erik with his classmates at the University—among them was Kaj Munk, the Danish Lutheran pastor, martyred by the Nazis. Probably more than anyone else Kaj Munk personifies the modern Dane of moral conviction.

Late one afternoon we visited Our Savior's Church. Richly ornate and fully in accord with the liturgical tradition this must be the most beautifully inspiring church in Denmark.

Its steeple dominates a skyline of steeples. A wrought iron stairway climbs up, like an ancient fire escape, to the steeple's top. The view is tremendous.

And on the day of my departure we stopped at the organ-shaped Gruntvig Church. Over a hundred years old, it seems today ultra-modern in style. And there is that in its form which retains the symbolism of conventional churches. Stark in their simplicity, nevertheless, the sand-colored columns lift one's eyes and heart to Heaven.

Then there is Trinity Church—famous for its round tower and observatory. The astronomer Canon Tycho Brahe's statue stands near the huge tower.

Of course, we cannot forget the Marble Church—located just off the courtyard of Amalienborg Palace. All around the domed building stand tarnished green figures of the Church of Denmark's famous sons. To the right of the narthex is the guardian St. Ansgar.

And far from these churches, near the old fish market, stands the figure of Bishop Absalon, atop his galloping horse. It was he that Christianized the Danes and built the "Merchant's harbor" city.

INTERIOR OF Vor Frue Kirke (Our Lady's Church) in Copenhagen. In the niche above the altar is Thorvaldsen's world-famous Christ. The Twelve Apostles line the walls.

Sunday morning I attended Our Lady's Cathedral. An obelisk, with scenes depicting the Lutheran Reformation in Denmark, stands in the square before the cathedral. Inside, the lofty ceiling and great windows create an atmosphere of luminousness, unusual in churches. Along both sides stand Thorvaldsen's statues of the Apostles and over the altar is his figure of our Lord with outstretched arms. The celebrants were fully vested. The chasubles and paraments were trinity green. The congregation of young and aged included a number of sisters in grey habits and filled most of the pews.

I shall never forget these and many more experiences in Lutheran Denmark.

A/2c Nelson will be the recipient of the June $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

LUTHERAN UNITY APPROACHES

A CONSTITUTION for the new 3,000,000-member denomination to be formed by a merger of four Lutheran bodies was given provisional approval by the Joint Commission on Lutheran Unity which represents the United Lutheran Church in America, the Augustana Lutheran Church, the Suomi Synod and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The commission also accepted an invitation from the Joint Union Committee of three other merging Lutheran denominations for a meeting to discuss matters of mutual concern and responsibilities between the two new merged Churches.

Involved in the three-way union for the new 2,000,000-member American Lutheran Church are the Evangelical Lutheran Church, the American Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The Joint Commission on Lutheran Unity hopes to have the final draft of the constitution for the unnamed Church ready by the middle of 1960. At that time it will be submitted for final approval to the conventions of the four merging bodies.

If approved by these conventions, the constitution must be ratified by at least 22 of the 32 ULCA synods, but no further action is needed by the other three communions. The constituting convention of the new Church may be held in the fall of 1961.

The constitution defines the doctrinal basis of the new Church, its structure and character, its basic powers and polity. It also deals with such items as membership eligibility, congregations, ministers, synods, conventions, officers, boards, commissions and agencies.

A name for the new Church will be selected at a later meeting. At previous meetings preference has been expressed for The United Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

CLAIM GARDEN OF EDEN SITE DISCOVERED

DANISH ARCHEOLOGISTS working in the British protectorate of Bahrein in the Middle East say they have found the site of the Biblical Garden of Eden.

A Copenhagen Radio broadcast said the explorers believe that Bahrein itself was the legendary city of Dilmun, which is mentioned in the Gilgamesh Epic as the abode of Adam and Eve.

According to the broadcast, the archeologists maintain that Dilmun was a desert spot made fertile by God. It quoted them as saying that their discoveries confirmed that Bahrein became fertile several thousands of years ago following a period of desert-like conditions.

Bahrein is an independent Arab state under British protection. The capital and commercial center is Manamah. The ruler is Shaikh Sulman bin Hamad al Khalifah.

General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, 59, will take over the top Army position on June 30, when he becomes the Army Chief of Staff. A Lutheran who grew up in Honesdale, Pa., he attended St. John's Lutheran Church (ULCA) there. As the new head of the Army he also is proud of his strictly Army family—his son is a Captain at West Point and his daughter recently married a Lieutenant who is stationed at Ft. Sill, Okla.

A communist youth magazine in Poland suggested that because of the "considerable shortage" of women in Poland, the government should permit polygamy. It argued that polygamy was "recognized as normal" in ancient times "until the Roman Catholic Church condemned it," adding that "now when the Catholic Church is no longer an official Church in Poland, there should be no obstacle to reviving polygamy."

An estimated 2,275,931 refugees overseas still need help in resettlement or integration, the director of the Lutheran Refugee Service said rcently. He reported that 1,010,000 of the "non-integrated" refugees are in the Far East, 1,048,000 in the Middle East and 217,931 in Europe.

A record 51,524 students are enrolled in Lutheran seminaries, colleges, and high schools in the U. S. and Canada, the National Lutheran Educational Conference reported. The current enrollment is more than 3,700 over last year's figure. Of the total 51,524 students, 11,162 are in 39 high schools, 2,598 in 16 junior colleges, 34,296 in 31 colleges and 3,468 in 21 seminaries.

Several shut-in members of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Washington, D. C., are being served through an intercommunication system linking their homes with the church. The shut-ins can "tune in" to services or speak with their pastor. In turn, the pastor can speak to all of them at once.

An official Soviet publication issued a stern warning in Moscow that membership in the Communist Party is incompatible with the practice of religion. Agitator, bi-weekly organ of the Central Committee of the Communist Party in the U.S.S.R., addressed its warning especially to "some party members in the Gorky region along the Volga River who continue to display religious icons in their homes." These people, it said, "even have church weddings and celebrate religious festivals."

Erection of a $7,000,000 two hundred and fifty bed teaching hospital in the Texas Medical Center at Houston, Tex., is planned by the Central Lutheran Activities Council of Harris County. It will be the eighth hospital in the center and the third sponsored by a church group.

THE LUTHERAN BIBLE INSTITUTE will build a new 30-acre campus in Golden Valley, Minnesota. By next fall ground will be broken for five of the modernistic structures shown above. They were designed by architects Hammel and Green, Inc.

According to the institute's president, the Rev. Bernt C. Opsal, who is a frequent contributor to the Mighty Fortress, the first three buildings to go up on the quadrangle campus will include an auditorium-gymnasium; a commons building with provisions for the library, bookstore, and lounge; and a classroom and office building. Two dormitories each with housing facilities for 66 students will be included in the first phase of the $1,750,000 building program. Within five years, a chapel will be constructed in the center of the quadrangle and the campus will be expanded to a capacity for 660 students.

The campus will include a glass-enclosed walk, pathways, small pavilions for rest and meditation, terraces, a lake, sculpture, and large murals done in various media.

The 40-year-old Lutheran Bible Institute, which is supported by gifts from friends, is at present located in downtown Minneapolis, with other schools in Teaneck, N. J., Seattle, Wash., and Los Angeles, Calif.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH IS YOUNG IN HAWAII

HAWAII, THE 50th STATE IN THE UNION, has a Christian history dating back only to 1820, when Congregationalists from New England first arrived in the lush, tropical islands.

With 113 churches and 18,000 members, the Congregationalists still comprise the largest group in a current Protestant population of between 50,000 and 60,000. This is slightly less than ten per cent of the 640,000 population.

The three next largest Protestant groups are the Mormons, whose first missionaries reached Hawaii in 1849; the Protestant Episcopalians, who came to the islands in 1861 and number at present 9,500 members; and the Methodists, who arrived in 1855 and now have over 4,000 members.

Despite their comparatively small numbers, the Protestant bodies are extremely active and influential. They include the Lutherans and Seventh-day Adventists, who came in the 1880's, the Disciples of Christ, who became established in 1894, and the Southern Baptists, who have shown an increasing growth in the last decade.

The five Hawaiian Lutheran congregations affiliated with the United Lutheran Church in America have over 1,200 members. The Missouri Synod has established five, the Evangelical Lutheran Church two congregations.

However, by and large, Hawaii is still a Buddhist stronghold and even claims the only woman Buddhist bishop in the world. Shintoism also flourishes among the large Japanese community, as revealed in the large number of Shinto shrines. In addition, many of the ancient pagan sects are still deeply rooted among the native people.

Formerly known as the Sandwich Islands, Hawaii — the name means "homeland"—was discovered by the legendary Captain James Cook in 1778. The people were then ruled by King Kamehameha I, who had fought off attempts by the Russians and Spanish pirates to seize the territory. In 1794, the king sent a request to England for Christian teachers. But it was not until 1820 that the first missionaries arrived. They were sent, not by England, but by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

Despite much opposition from foreign officials, the missionaries were able to print the first books in the Hawaiian language and to open the islands' first schools.

National Lutheran Council—Bureau of Service to Military Personnel

FREEDOM IS DYNAMIC

By Wilfred Bockelman

This essay won a second-prize $100 award and a George Washington Medal for Pastor Bockelman, who is associate editor of the Lutheran Standard. We are reprinting it here with the author's permission.

IT'S BECOMING POPULAR in some circles in this sophisticated age to speak critically, disparagingly, and even cynically of "the American way of life." The very fact that this is possible is in itself a vindication of that way. That is the very essence of the American way, that it allows for self-criticism. Those who would defend the American way do it no credit when they immediately label as un-American anyone who honestly questions American principles. True Americanism is based on the conviction that truth is so powerful that it need not fear being put to the test or being examined.

Some of the fundamentals of Americanism held dear today by conservatives and liberals alike—such as public education, for example—were once attacked as being un-American. Basic to the American way is the use of democratic methods to bring about changes in that way.

In one respect the American way is an elusive thing. If as soon as you have it, you cling to it in a desperate effort to maintain it as the status quo, you have already lost it; for it is its very nature constantly to be submitted to re-examination.

In essence the American way is freedom, and its worst enemies are those who believe that freedom is static instead of dynamic; who believe that once it has been achieved it becomes our possession and needs be defended only when someone tries to take it away. But freedom must always be worked at, even when it has already been achieved. It is to be compared more with a plant or an animal that must be fed and cared for than with an object that needs only to be guarded to keep it from being stolen. Freedom can be lost through death caused by lack of nurture as well as through attack from an outside enemy.

Freedom is a directional thing—if indeed it can be called a "thing" at all. It does not put its possessor into a free-wheeling shiftless neutral. Rather it frees him from something, but only if it also frees him for something. The very definition of the word right, used so often in the Bill of Rights, carries with it the exercise of that right.

It is impossible to speak of the right to worship and never to worship, to rejoice in the right of free speech and of the press and never to speak or to publish anything. The right to assemble is meaningless if you never assemble. More freedom is lost through atrophy because of lack of exercise than through overt conquest by an enemy.

I recall a simple episode in my high school days that impressed me with the fact that rights carry responsibilities. Every night when I came home from school, it was routine procedure for me to fix a jelly bread sandwich, spread the daily paper out on the floor, and then stretch out to read the comics before I did the farm chores.

There was one more thing that I read in addition to the comics. The paper carried a brief true and false column intended to test your knowledge as well as wisdom. This night one of the statements was: "Everyone has a right to his own opinion." Here was an answer of which I was sure. Of course, everyone has a right to his own opinion. Wasn't that the essence of Americanism? Wasn't that why the pilgrims came to our shores? Obviously the answer was "true," and I was sure the paper had made a mistake, when, upon turning the page to read the answer, I saw it was false. The next day I told my civics teacher about this, feeling quite smug that I had caught the paper in an error.

But my teacher agreed with the paper. And then he made a statement that has become a guiding principle for me both as a clergyman and as an editor: "You have no right to have an opinion unless you have sufficient information on which to base that opinion." He added, "You have no right to have an opinion whether a law is good or bad unless you have taken the time to get some information about the law and its purposes."

This basic truth applies to the rights granted in the Bill of Rights. Every right carries with it responsibilities. Rights are not for the lazy man to enjoy as a free gift. They do not of themselves assure the American way of life. Not the possession of those rights but the responsible exercise of them is the essence of the American way.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

T-SGT. GRED GEBERS AND S-SGT. (MRS.) GEBERS gave an unusual present to the Lutheran Church of Our Savior, Jacksonville, North Carolina. It is a "Reigning Christ" crucifix carved from walnut and imported from Italy, and believed to be the only crucifix of its kind in the South.

According to the Rev. T. C. Plexico, who received the gift on behalf of the congregation, "the symbolism of the crucifix is two-fold. First, there is the cross itself and the nail prints to remind us of the suffering Christ and the price that He paid for man's redemption. Secondly, the figure of Christ in His kingly vestments reminds us of His victory over death and of the fact that he reigns today over His creation as the King of Kings and Lord of Lords."

The Lutheran Church of Our Savior was organized in 1954 and 90 per cent of the congregation is comprised of sailors and marines stationed at nearby Camp Lejeune, N. C. The cross given by the donors is being used in a new church building completed recently and to serve as a religious symbol of faith to other worshipers once the donors have received military orders for elsewhere. The Gebers are both members of the church choir. He is a member of the church council and president of the United Lutheran Church Men.

HUNGARIAN COMMUNISTS HAVE NEW NAME-GIVING RITE

A NEW COMMUNIST name-giving rite intended to replace Christian baptism was inaugurated at Pecs in southern Hungary, according to Nepszabadsag, organ of the Hungarian Communist Party.

The ceremony was held in a factory. The local Party secretary, Mrs. Jenoe Babinek, acting as a "godparent," announced that the Party would follow the development of the child "with keen interest." The audience drank a toast and wound up by singing a "song of the working class."

"The baby is now known everywhere as a Party child," Nepszabadsag reported. "Since the child was baptized by a Party organization, it has already started participating in the working class movement."

Sharing Your Experience

A REMINDER FROM YOSHIKO

By Chaplain (Lt) A. L. Thompson, USNR

YOSHIKO is a friendly, middle-aged Okinawan maid who has worked for the past three years in our Officers' Quarters here on Okinawa. She is proud of her ability to converse in the English language, which she acquired through this association with Americans. When returning the laundry, she enjoys chatting with the men, always interested in their families back home. The latest snapshot of an officer's baby-san never fails to draw a compliment.

Having learned to speak our language, her current desire is to learn to read it as well. One day while demonstrating her reading progress to me, she read the title page of a National Lutheran Council Service Prayer Book lying on my desk. I suggested she take the book and use it to practice her newly learned skill. Extremely grateful, she made a gracious bow and left.

Several weeks passed before I saw her again. In her hand she gingerly carried the little book and very reverently handed it to me. "No, Yoshiko," I objected, "I gave it to you to keep."

She gave me a puzzled glance, shaking her head in disbelief. I repeated my offer, mistakenly thinking she didn't understand. "You give me this book, Chaplain?" As I nodded, she again shook her head.

Finally, it dawned on me. Yoshiko, in the process of reading the prayer book, had recognized it for what it was: selected passages of God's Holy Word, beautiful prayers addressed to God, together with hymns praising the Saviour. Something had touched her soul as she had labored over the unfamiliar phrases. That a Chaplain would give up such a treasure was unthinkable! It was to be shared, not given away.

After explaining how I was able to give her a prayer book for her own, she gracefully accepted it. Whether or not this heathen woman will ever embrace Christianity remains in the hands of God. But the impact made upon her by this simple prayer book, which we often take for granted, will forever remain in my mind as a dramatic illustration of the power of God's Word.

Chaplain Thompson will be the recipient of the May $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

WHEREVER YOU SEE A SIGN LIKE THIS you can be sure that you will be welcomed. The particular sign in our photo indicates the way to the Lutheran Service Center in San Diego, California.

A SHARED EXPERIENCE IS QUESTIONED

THE LITTLE STORY by "Sauce," which we ran in the Sharing Your Experience column in March, has been questioned. "Sauce" claimed that an instructor dozed off during a training flight, saw a red light and bailed out on the runway, breaking his collar bone.

Now Lt. Jg. M. L. Mickelson writes us that "this story has been going around this training base (U. S. Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla.) long before your author ever heard of the Navy." He explains that "a student never flies his 'safe-for-solo' flight with his own instructor, but always with a stranger for all 'check' flights."

"In closing," the lieutenant wrote, "I would like to say that while my nickname is 'Sleepy' in the squadron in which I am an instructor, because I have been known to doze off on the deck and in the plane, neither I nor anyone else in this business would ever think of sleeping while in the landing pattern with a student."

He added in a postscript, "My collar bone has never been broken."

All the editor can add is that we printed "Sauce's" report with tongue in cheek as we hope it was written.
